

Introducing KODAK Motion Picture Services

Kodak now offers a full range of high quality motion picture lab services. These services include: Training (in-person seminars and computer-based training), Product Services (Control tools and filters), Health Safety and Environmental consulting, Engineering Consultancy, Analytical Services, Chemical Analysis, and Service Agreements.

These new services help motion picture labs run more efficiently, with the high quality output motion picture labs stake their reputations on daily. Kodak is there to help, and Kodak understands imaging science all the way from negative to intermediate to print.

NOTE: For ordering information, contact your local Kodak representative.

KODAK Motion Picture Services will be included in the Other Products and Services category of the Kodak Motion Picture Price Catalog. Purchases of KODAK Motion Picture Services are subject to the following provisions:

Limitations of Liability on all other Products and Services – The sale, use and handling of all other Kodak Products and Services are subject to the applicable limitation of liability listed below:

Other Products and Services (excluding Sensitized Goods and Chemicals) – The other Kodak Products will be replaced if defective in manufacture, labeling or packaging, or if damaged or lost by us or any Kodak subsidiary company. Any Kodak Services not completed in a workmanlike and professional manner will be re-performed by Kodak. Except for such replacement or re-performance, the sale, use or other handling of these products and services is without warranty or liability, even if defect, damage or loss is caused by negligence or other fault.

Kodak is a trademark.