Journal Editorial Board

Editors need inspiration, criticism, advice, and encouragement. The Journal Editorial Board has met these needs extraordinarily well.

To ensure vitality and maintain tradition, we have adopted a system which rotates members so that each will serve for three years. At the end of 1973, Claiborne Dival, Gordon Hughmark, William Isaacson, and Henry McGee will retire. We wish to express our sincere appreciation for their help.

New members to our Board are Andreas Acrivos, Charles A. Eckert, James R. Fair, George R. Gavalas, and Dan Luss. We welcome them and look forward to their active participation in the operation of the Journal.

Part II of the Journal Review, "Liquid Diffusion of Nonelectrolytes," by H. Ertl, R. K. Chai, and F. A. L. Dullien will appear in the January, 1974, issue of the Journal.
