

A Journal of the Gesellschaft Deutscher Chemiker

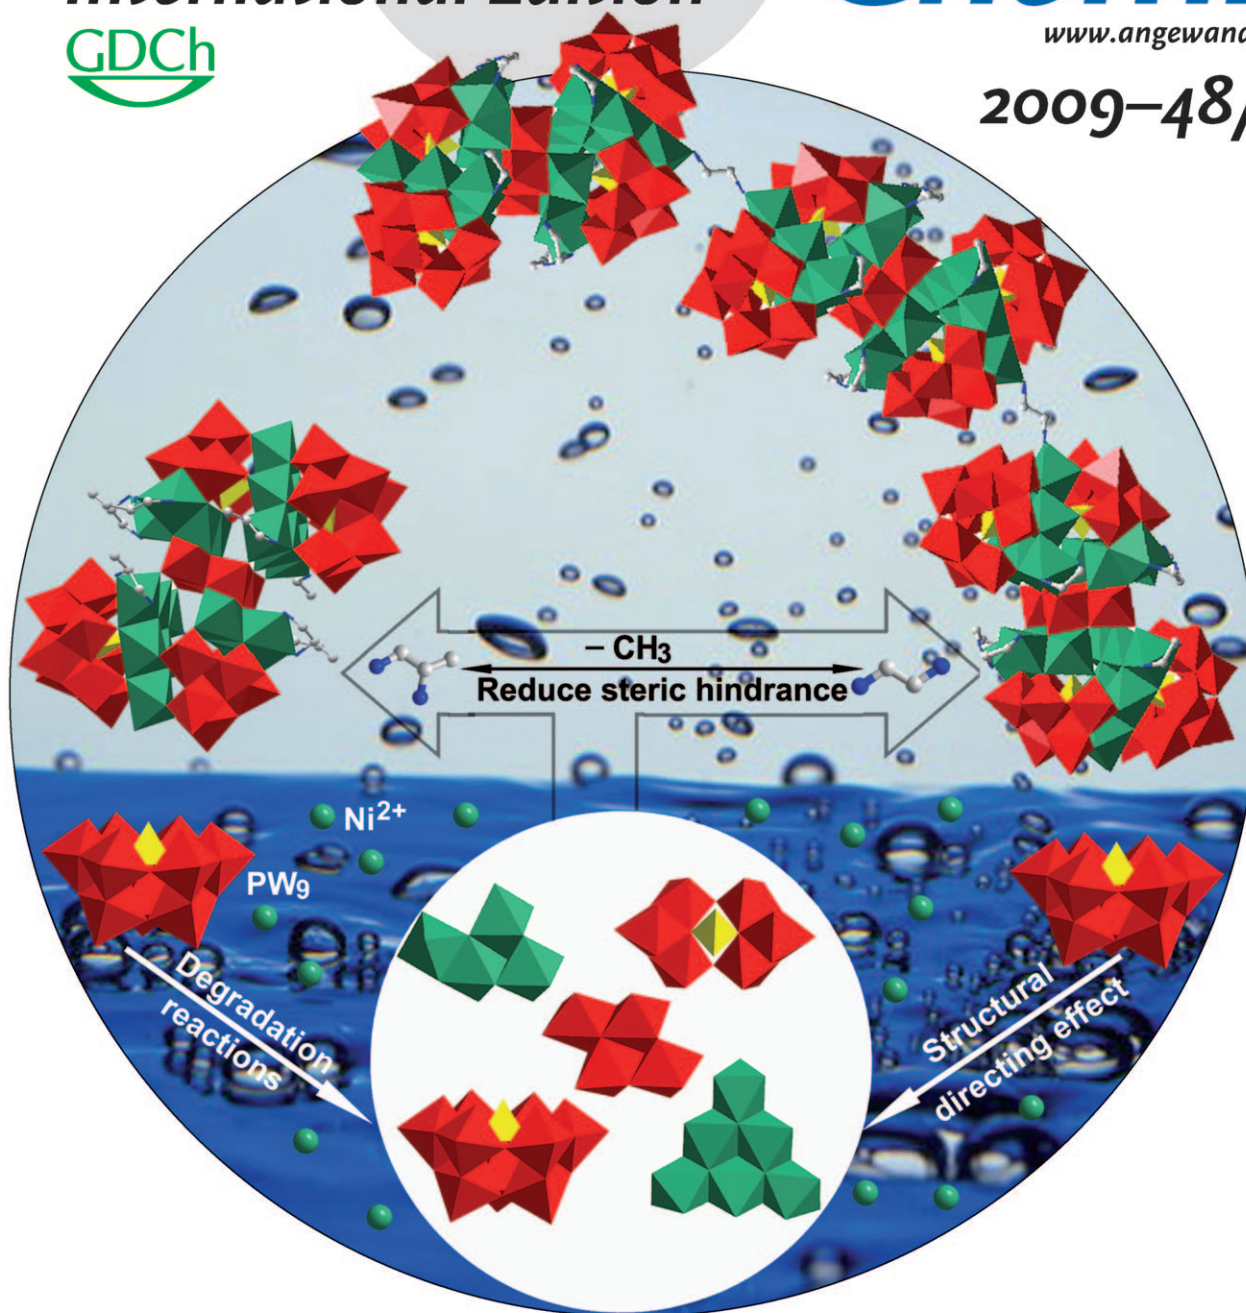

Angewandte Chemie

International Edition

GDCh

www.angewandte.org

2009–48/39

The greatest number ...

... of nickel ions incorporated into polyoxometalates to date are reported by G.-Y. Yang et al. in their Communication on page 7176 ff. The two largest nickel-substituted poly(polyoxotungstate)s are prepared by degradation reactions and structural directing effects of trilaunary Keggin $\{B-\alpha-PW_9O_{34}\}$ fragments under hydrothermal conditions in the presence of nickel ions.

 WILEY-VCH

Inside Cover

Shou-Tian Zheng, Jie Zhang, Juan Modesto Clemente-Juan,* Da-Qiang Yuan, and Guo-Yu Yang*

The greatest number of nickel ions incorporated into polyoxometalates to date are reported by G.-Y. Yang et al. in their Communication on page 7176 ff. The two largest nickel-substituted poly(polyoxotungstate)s are prepared by degradation reactions and structural directing effects of trilacunary Keggin $\{B-\alpha-PW_9O_{34}\}$ fragments under hydrothermal conditions in the presence of nickel ions.

