

A Journal of the Gesellschaft Deutscher Chemiker

Angewandte Chemie

International Edition

GDCh

www.angewandte.org

2012–51/19

A blood sample ...

... was broken up into nanoliter volumes, and subsequently each aliquot was ranked based on whether or not a rare cell was present in the ensemble of cells within the aliquot. This approach is called ensemble decision aliquot ranking (eDAR). In their Communication on page 4618 ff., D. T. Chiu et al. show that the eDAR technique is well-suited for the enrichment of rare cells, such as circulating tumor cells.

 WILEY-VCH