

A Journal of the Gesellschaft Deutscher Chemiker

Angewandte Chemie

GDCh

International Edition

www.angewandte.org

2014–53/9

Click-linked DNA ...

... encoding the fluorescent protein mCherry is shown to be functional in human cells by A. Tavassoli and co-workers in their Communication on page 2362 ff. Shown are human MCF-7 cells microinjected with the click-linked mCherry gene. They display the red fluorescence associated with mCherry expression, thus indicating correct transcription through the click-linked DNA.

WILEY-VCH