

A Journal of the Gesellschaft Deutscher Chemiker

Angewandte Chemie

GDCh

International Edition

www.angewandte.org

2015–54/14

Bioinspired therapeutic dendrimers ...

... are the first dendritic peptide drugs that can be used for efficient tumor therapy. In their Communication on page 4289 ff., X. Xu, Z. Gu, et al. describe the significant supramolecular interactions between the therapeutic dendrimers and nucleic acids via the tryptophan residues. Furthermore, it is shown that the therapeutic dendrimers are efficient antitumor agents both in vitro and in vivo.

WILEY-VCH