

A Journal of the Gesellschaft Deutscher Chemiker

Angewandte Chemie

GDCh

International Edition

www.angewandte.org

2015–54/46

The calcium signaling activities ...

... at the early stage of GPCR stimulation were investigated by plasmonic-based electrochemical impedance microscopy (EIM) by J. Li and J. Lu in their Communication on page 13576 ff. Whereas surface plasmon resonance images report the single-cell calcium flux activities, the EIM images reveal the heterogeneity of the local distributions and the transient activities of the calcium-related ion channels.

WILEY-VCH