In two forthcoming issues of the Journal the issue will be dedicated to full papers on two selected themes.

1. The Journal will publish a series of papers on applied arsenic chemistry which have formed a background to work presented at the Japanese Arsenic Scientists Society's Fourth Symposium on Natural and Industrial Arsenic (Tokyo, November 1989).

2. The Journal will publish a special selection of papers describing work carried out in Australia and New Zealand during the Australian bicentennial year of 1988.
