01) What does boudoir photography mean to you?

Boudoir photography is photography done in the privacy of a woman's room or powder room. For me it is a representation of intimacy, innocence, beauty, and female empowerment.

02) Why did you choose to pursue a career as a boudoir / fine art model?

What got you started in boudoir? It is a genre I started doing immediately for work when I started out. I must do it well as I kept getting hired for it for many years. I tried boudoir because it is classy, sexy and I get to keep my clothes on. It was a great balance for me, especially when I first started modeling.

03) What kind of creative process is there behind boudoir photography?

The sky's the limit. I think it is not so much the model when it comes to boudoir photography but more the photographer and how the photographer decides to use his/her artistic skill to capture the model. I love that in boudoir there can be some gorgeous up-close shots that show beauty and intensity yet leave so much to the imagination of what it is or wanting to see more.

04) How do you educate yourself to pose for better photos?

I am a posing coach. To me, the poses come easily. I think of it like a slow scene in a romance movie. Find the romance and feel it with everything from your hands to your facial expressions. Do not be afraid to become an actress or heck hire me to help you.

05) How would you describe your modelling style?

I am a chameleon in the aspect that I change my style depending on outfit, genres, mood, and request from the photographer.

06) Among your works, which one is your favorite? Why?

That is a hard question to answer as I have done a lot of cool stuff. Nothing stands out more than others, so I think it is time to make some magic happen!

07) What is the most difficult part of being a boudoir model for you?

Being seen as a sexual object and not necessarily a human. Obviously, it is not always the case but that is the worst part.

08) What is the most rewarding part of being a boudoir model for you?

I get to make beautiful art from my soul. It is passionate with meaning. It fills my heart and many others like me with happy emotions.

09) Just for fun, if you could shoot in any location, what would it be?

The jungle setting from the Movie Avatar

10) Do you have any other profession or anything you are passionate about?

YES!! I am a clothing designer @josiefoxcouture and believe it or not, I am a farmer @littlefoxorchard. This is my last year as a freelance model. Going forward I will be concentrating on both of those wonderful careers that help keep me happy with lots of new things to do daily. Make sure to give me a follow. I even have honeybees!!
