Dear Willie:

Four weeks ago this man paid $390.00 for the WOR time to talk to people with. He talked about a (ugh!) book on taxes.

What happened? Dear Willie! Why, 12 brief WOR announcements sold $1,000.00 worth of the book on taxes. And the orders are still coming in . . .

AMPLIFYING NOTE—the orders came from all over. From the majority of the 16 great, war-active cities, WOR covers; i.e., New Haven, Conn.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Trenton, N. J.; Newark, N. J.; Allentown, Pa.; Philadelphia, Pa.; New York, N. Y.; Jersey City, N. J.; Paterson, N. J.; Yonkers, N. Y.; Camden, N. J.; Elizabeth, N. J.; Reading, Pa.; Wilmington, Del.; Waterbury, Conn.; Hartford, Conn.

* * * WOR does not argue the point that each of the cities mentioned is served in a very special way by one or more local stations. Their job is an important and unique one. So, too, we feel is WOR's collective 16-city impact.

our address is—

A general mail order business offered a Christmas catalog. They used 54 WLS announcements, all daytime, in two and one-half weeks—and received 14,262 requests! . . . And talk about intensive coverage of Midwest America! Mail came from 99 of 102 counties in Illinois, 83 of 92 in Indiana, 57 of 71 in Wisconsin and 71 of 83 in Michigan—as well as from 28 other states and Canada! And Chicago: 34.5% of the mail came from Metropolitan Chicago—which contains only 25.8% of the radio homes in the WLS Coverage Area! . . . That's one result story.

We'll be telling others. If you want the others now . . . or any facts and figures on WLS
. . . ask your John Blair man.

WE HAVEN'T TIME TO REST ON

TWO YEARS AGO PA was organized for the purpose of producing a distinctive AP news report for radio. It began in one room with a wire "to nowhere". Then it added its first New York station. Soon an Atlanta Station joined and the wire "to nowhere" began to go places. Now it is trans-continental, serving more than 350 stations.

But we haven't time to rest on our laurels.

The year 1943 presents new opportunities, new obligations, new determination. During 1943 PA will further improve the high quality of its radio news report . . . will first test and then introduce new techniques in radio writing . . . will develop and inaugurate new profit-making Telescripts . . . will establish more regional radio bureaus for the exclusive purpose of providing more state and regional news.

PA's performance during its first two years is a promise to all affiliated stations of even bigger and better things in 1943.

Cox Calls for House Investigation of Fly

Charges 'Gestapo' Is Operated in Commission

RESURGENCE of Congressional sentiment for an investigation of the FCC, aimed largely at the stewardship of FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly, developed the first day of the new session last Wednesday, with the prediction by Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), a majority stalwart, that authorizing legislation will be enacted.

Reintroducing his resolution of last year for a select five-man committee inquiry, Rep. Cox loosed a short but vitriolic tirade against Mr. Fly and charged the FCC with maintenance of a "gestapo" and establishment of "terroristic control" of all media of communications. Senior majority member of the all-powerful House Rules Committee, to which the resolution (HRes-21) was referred, Rep. Cox appeared to have committee support for his resolution.

Last February, after Rep. Cox had introduced his original resolution, efforts were made by the FCC majority to thwart the inquiry. Linked with Chairman Fly in this effort was Commissioner C. J. Durr, newest member. It finally was blocked, presumably through Administration moves.

Change in Sentiment

A change in Congressional sentiment, however, widely heralded with the convening of the new Congress, was believed to have sufficient momentum to carry the resolution through. The House leadership, including Speaker Sam Rayburn, was said to have no opposition to inquiries into independent agencies, and particularly the FCC, which has been under fire repeatedly.

Reintroduction of the Cox resolution came a day after the FCC, in executive session, had given its law department the green light on a hearing to begin Monday (Jan. 11) involving renewal of the license of WALB, Albany, Ga., in which Rep. Cox allegedly is implicated, and which embraced a

Dept. of Justice investigation made at the instance of Chairman Fly last April.

At that time it was revealed the department had been asked to investigate the exchange of $2,500 checks between Rep. Cox and the Herald Broadcasting Co., licensee of WALB. The Commission, it is understood, authorized its legal staff to conduct the renewal proceedings in judicial fashion, after it had been advised by the Dept. of Justice that it would not be embarrassed if such procedure is followed.

Old Probe Dropped

Although not directly related to the Congressional eruption, it also was learned last week that the Attorney General had notified the FCC his department did not intend to pursue charges purportedly made by the FCC involving Sam Pickard, former member of the old Radio Commission and a former vice-president of CBS. Chairman Fly is said to have instigated this inquiry also, having been instrumental in retaining John D. Farnham, Midwest attorney, as special investigator to look into old charges of purported improprieties in FCC regulation.

It was learned authoritatively that the department had notified the Commission the statute of limitations made moot any questions involving Mr. Pickard's stewardship. He left the Commission in 1929. Nor was the Dept. of Justice disposed to pursue an investigation of inferred acceptance of gratuities by members of the former Commission from a station owner through his attorney, evidently concluding that the weight of testimony, adduced at a secret hearing in Chicago several months ago, did not warrant action. This implied allegation placed all members of the Commission under a cloud, it was thought in some quarters, but the department's reaction is believed to dispel this doubt.

The Pickard inquiry, along with these other allegations, were dealt with in Congressional debates last year during the heat of the Cox resolution consideration.

In a statement accompanying introduction of his resolution, Rep.

Cox expressed his confidence the measure will be adopted at an early date. "The story of the operations of the Commission under the chairmanship of Mr. Fly will prove shocking," he said. "It has almost completely established terroristic control of all media of communications. It maintains a Gestapo, the equal of which has never been seen in free government, and has developed the smear business into a fine art. Of all abuse of power by bureaucrats, nothing approaches the record of this Commission."

Rep. Cox said passage of the resolution would carry with it authority to retain an investigating staff and special counsel. The resolution provides for an investigation of the "organization, personnel and activities" of the FCC, with a view to determining whether or not the Commission in its organization, selection of personnel and conduct has been and is acting in accordance with the law and public interest. The committee would be required to report to the House during the present session, with recommendations for remedial action. The committee would be empowered to subpoena witnesses and books, papers and documents it deems necessary.

Economy Sentiment

With the current Congress economy-bent, it is expected the House Appropriations Subcommittee for independent offices will delve deeply into the FCC's justification for appropriations. Against a normal peacetime appropriation of approximately $2,000,000, the FCC now is seeking in excess of $8,000,000, most of it for war activities, including its war-born Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service and its Radio Intelligence Division.

Some question has been raised about the desirability of these operations in a non-war agency. The peacetime personnel of the FCC, before the formation of these services, totaled about 700, both in the field and in Washington. The last personnel figures show an aggregate of 2,262 employees as of Oct. 1, of whom all but 145 were permanent. Of the latter, 130

Instalment Plan Would Ease Peacetime Economy Return

TO SIPHON an estimated annual $18,000,000,000 in consumer purchasing power, which would provide a backlog to ease return to a peacetime economy, an Instalment Selling for Post-War Delivery plan developed by Rolf Nugent, special advisor of the Office of Price Administration, was revealed last week.

Treasury-Reserve Participation

The plan would utilize instalment machinery to sell currently unavailable goods such as autos, refrigerators, pianos, oil burners and automatic stokers. These would be delivered at the earliest possible date in the post-war period, based upon established orders of priority. Payment would be made by individuals over established periods of time and certificates would be sold only on an instalment basis to encourage payment out of current income.

As the plan stands, payment schedules are to be related to certificate values, ranging from 12 monthly payments for $100 certificates to 25 monthly payments for $2,000 certificates. Priority numbers would be fixed by the month in which an individual entered his instalment contract.

The plan depends upon participation of the Treasury Dept. and Federal Reserve Board. The Treasury is expected to pay a part of the purchase price of each certificate for the use of the purchaser's money. The Federal Reserve would manage the plan's operation.

As conceived, certificate sales would be made by such dealer organizations as automobile sales agencies, refrigerator and piano dealers and heating equipment manufacturers. The consumer would sign a post-war delivery contract and make a small down-payment, which would remain with the dealer as his first commission. The down payment would vary depend-

OWI Urges Spots Used in Newscasts

Suggestions for Government Announcements Sent Out

TO AID stations in the placement of Office of War Information spot announcements, William B. Lewis, chief of OWI's radio bureau, last week sent to broadcasters who have accepted the Station Announcement Plan a memorandum of suggestions.

Among the suggestions, stations are advised to place announcements at the beginning or end of news broadcasts whether sponsored or unsponsored. The OWI memo points out that evidence indicates high listener interest in newscasts. Shows from service camps and training centers and sponsored programs of any other type also are recommended.

National Plan Cancelled

The memo advises that advertisers have shown a marked willingness to include OWI announcements in their programs. Furthermore, stations are informed that effective with the start of the Station Announcement Plan, Jan. 18, OWI has cancelled the National Spot Plan. Instead, the OWI has written to the 76 national and regional advertisers who have been using spot programs, explaining that messages scheduled into their shows in the future will be done by War Program Managers instead of by Washington headquarters. In line with the new plan, baseball and football allocation plans also will be discontinued, and advertisers sponsoring this type of program have been advised to inform stations of their willingness to continue Government messages in their programs next season.

No Commercial Tie-up

In connection with the use of Government messages, the OWI memo warns that no beer or liquor programs may be used; the commercial message "must not be scheduled or written with respect to the OWI announcement in such a way that the listener is led to believe there is a connection between the two". Single OWI announcements may not be sponsored.

Instead of using the recorded message provided by OWI, a station may rewrite the message to suit the script of the advertiser's program, but it must contain all the essential points covered in at least a minute's time.

Ruppert Adds WINS

JACOB RUPPERT Brewery, New York, has signed a 52-week contract for six quarter-hour news broadcasts by Waverly Root, and four one-minute spot announcements weekly on WINS, New York. Beer firm uses a thrice-weekly quarter-hour news program on WOR, New York, and spot announcements in selected markets. Agency is Ruthrauff & Ryan, New York.

RADIO'S FIRST DSC HERO

BY DIRECTION of President Roosevelt, First Lt. Thomas E. Knode, former Washington news editor of NBC, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action, the War Dept. announced last Friday.

Now recovering in a military hospital in Australia from wounds received Dec. 5 [BROADCASTING, Dec. 21] Lt. Knode, on recommendation of Gen. MacArthur, has been given the second highest honor this country bestows on its soldiers. It is topped only by the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Radio's First Hero

Thus Lt. Knode, who was called to active duty last March as a reserve second lieutenant, becomes radio's first man to be decorated with the distinguished service cross. The citation follows:

"The Award of the Distinguished Service Cross, by Direction of the President. Thomas E. Knode, 1st Lt., 126th Inf., USA, for extraordinary heroism in action near Buna, New Guinea, on Dec. 5, 1942.

"During an attack on Buna Village, 1st Lt. Knode led his platoon with conspicuous bravery. When wounded in the leg he disregarded the wound and continued to lead his platoon in the attack. When he was again wounded in the foot and was unable to go on, he refused to be evacuated until he had given final instructions to his platoon."

With the citation for heroism, it was disclosed that Lt. Knode refused to accept appointment to a desk job in Washington when he was called to active duty. Because of his wide experience in the radio news field, Lt. Col. E. M. Kirby, chief of the War Dept. Bureau of Public Relations radio branch, requisitioned the Washington radio man for duty in the radio branch. Knode, however, rejected the offer with the remark, "I'm a soldier and I want to fight this war on the battlefield, not at a desk in Washington."

Later, when he arrived in Australia, Lt. Knode turned down an assignment to the public relations staff of Gen. MacArthur. He preferred to go into battle with his men.

Just two days before the War Dept. notified his wife, Mrs. Catherine Knode, former Washington NBC employee, of the citation, Mrs. Knode received a letter from her husband in Australia. He said nothing about his exploits in action, but told his wife that he had been shot in the right foot. The bullet entered at the ankle and came out through the sole of the foot, shattering the bones. His optimism is reflected in his admonition to Mrs. Knode not to worry.

"The doctors say I'll be able to walk again but I'll be in the hospital another three months," he wrote. "Then I hope to come home and see you all."

The Knodes have three daughters, the youngest born last September while Tom was on duty in the Southwest Pacific.

Award to Du Pont

E. I. DU PONT DE NEMOURS & Co., Wilmington, Del., has received a special wartime award for "Distinguished Service to Safety" from the National Safety Council, currently engaged in a "Save Manpower for Warpower" campaign. Presentation was made Jan. 4 during a broadcast of the company's NBC program, Cavalcade of America. BBDO, New York, handles the account.

Camel Change

COINCIDENT with the shift from an hour program to a 45-minute show, effective Jan. 8, Camel Caravan, sponsored on CBS by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, has changed its name to Comedy Caravan, in line with its recent announcement to feature guest comedians. Program is now heard Fridays, 10-10:45 p.m. on the full CBS network. Agency is Wm. Esty & Co., New York.

Paper Rationing and 'Broadcasting'

IN CONFORMITY with the WPB order curtailing by 10% the supply of print paper of all magazines, BROADCASTING is glad to make its contribution to the war effort by way of saving manpower and transportation facilities involved in the production and delivery of paper. BROADCASTING will continue to provide full coverage of essential industry developments without detracting from interest and appearance since no alteration of basic format is necessary at present.

Consumer Goods May Drop Further

Civilian Purchase, Production To Fall More, Says WPB

FURTHER reduction in civilian purchase, as well as in the production, of consumer goods and services is forecast in 1943 below comparable purchases and production in 1942, according to a study announced last week by the Office of Civilian Supply of the War Production Board.

Appliances Affected

Whereas civilian purchases are expected to drop 10-15% below figures for 1942, production of consumer goods and services is expected to drop 15-20% below 1942, with the resulting deficiency being reflected in inventory. The reduction of inventory was estimated at 25% of stocks on hand at the beginning of 1943.

The biggest buying drop is seen in purchase of durable goods, including radios and electrical appliances, continuing the trend created in 1942 by limitation order halting production. The study shows that in 1942 purchase of durable goods dipped 45% below 1941 and augurs a 35% decrease during 1943 under 1942 figures.

The study further reports low inventories prevailing among consumer goods no longer being produced for civilians, such as radios, phonographs, washing machines, safety razors and others. Offsetting the production of civilian goods to some extent, the report reviews the introduction of substitutes such as plastics in the manufacture of many products.

Some Relief Seen

In considering the civilian standard of living, the report states that much will be decided by the fortunes of the war in 1943. The basic civilian economy is not expected to be reached in 1943, according to the report, except for civilian goods manufactured from critical materials.

Some relief in the quantity of available consumer goods is expected through simplification and standardization. Reviewing some progress already attained, the report looks to continued action in this direction in 1943. By reducing types and simplifying others, needed raw materials are made available to produce the maximum amount of civilian goods from the limited available material.

Cosmetic Plans

COLONIAL DAMES Corp., Los Angeles (cosmetics), is including a larger appropriation for radio in its 1943 advertising budget and will continue to use West Coast spot as well as network time. Firm recently renewed for 52 weeks Find the Woman on 9 CBS Pacific and Arizona stations, Friday, 9:55-10 p.m. (PWT). Agency is Glasser-Gailey & Co., Los Angeles.

Retail Sales Up During N. Y. Strike

Federal Reserve Report Refutes Newspaper Charges

REFUTING certain newspaper charges that radio "failed to do a job" for advertisers during New York's newspaper delivery strike in mid-December, advertising and station executives pointed to Federal Reserve figures which showed a 4% increase in department store sales in New York during the week of the strike over the same week in 1941.

That same 4% increase holds good for store sales in the whole of the New York Federal Reserve district, including Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Newark, all of which had regular newspaper delivery. But New York dependent almost entirely on radio during the strike for news and advertising [BROADCASTING, Dec. 21], kept pace with the rest of the district in increased sales.

No Fall-off in Business

Among New York retailers who used radio time were Bloomingdale's, a regular client of WQXR, and R. H. Macy & Co. Bloomingdale's added an extra quarter-hour to its schedule the second day of the strike while Macy's took a quarter-hour of the Pegeen Fitzgerald program on WOR as well as one-minute and five-minute spots on the same station.

Frances Corey, in charge of Bloomingdale's radio programs, told BROADCASTING that sales of certain items advertised only on the air had been good, indicating that radio was responsible. Business at Bloomingdale's did not fall off, she added. Macy's advertising department expressed a similar thought, adding that business was at least as good as on the same days in 1941 when newspaper space was used.

For three days during the strike New York broadcasters successfully kept the public informed on news developments and did a pinch-hit advertising job for space-buyers who normally depend chiefly on newspapers. In fact radio co-operated with New York newspapers in broadcasting local news, gathered by staff reporters, in addition to the usual world affairs.

Radio advertisers, particularly those who reaped benefits from broadcasts during the strike, were shocked when Royal F. Munger, financial editor of the Chicago Daily News, singled out radio for a bitter attack. Reporting the strike's effect on department store business, Mr. Munger's story said on Monday the stores were full of shoppers, due to the "momentum furnished by the advertising of the previous week". On Tuesday, his article stated, "there was a faint thinning of the buying stream" and "by Wednesday a buying slump was in full blast."

"The crowds had fallen off," his story continued, "and the attempts to use radio in place of the missing advertising were getting nowhere rapidly. In fact, even through their anguish the newspaper advertising men grinned at the job radio didn't do."

Following Mr. Munger's story, the Chicago Daily News, editorially called the strike a "laboratory test of the necessity of newspaper advertising to retail trade," and added: "Radio didn't do the job. Wartime prosperity didn't do it. The enviable and deserved reputations of famous stores didn't do it. The slump came, as every newspaperman knew it would come, and New York's Christmas was curtailed."

These newspaper reports and comments were published prior to the release of the Federal Reserve District department store sales figures.

A reprint of the Munger article as a half-page display ad in the Jamestown (N. Y.) Post-Journal evoked a response from Simon Goldman, manager, WTJN, Jamestown, who wrote Mr. Munger in part as follows:

Cites Newspaper Ownership

"After I finished the article, the first thought that came to my mind was that here was a newspaperman who is surprised that newspaper advertising works. We in radio recognize the newspaper's place in the advertising world and a great number of newspapermen recognize radio's place in the advertising world. (As a matter of fact, an analysis of radio stations shows that newspapers own more stations than any other group. If my memory serves me correctly, I believe one-third of the radio stations in the United States are newspaper-owned.)

"I might mention that all the observations in your article were made not by the retail merchandisers themselves but by New York newspaper observers. To the contrary, those advertisers who were able to turn to radio did get outstanding results. For example, the movie industry, who are heavy newspaper advertisers in New York, reported no loss of business and found that radio was an excellent method of reaching moviegoers. As a result, a number of them are negotiating or have negotiated year-round radio contracts."

Pointing out that radio advertising is built on consistency, Mr. Goldman continued: "The observations made by reporters concerning this strike showed a volume of radio activity, but in the main most retailers were trying to plan their radio advertising, rather than to jump in for the sake of jumping in, and the strike was over before most of these plans materialized."

"Story Unfair"

Replying to Mr. Goldman's letter, Mr. Munger wrote, in part: "As a piece of reporting I have no particular apologies to make for the story. The facts were as stated. While I am glad to have your comments, the whole matter is somewhat remote for me at the moment, as I am leaving immediately for active military service with the United States Marines."

When the Munger story was reprinted in the Buffalo Evening News, John A. Bacon, director of sales, Buffalo Broadcasting Corp. (WGR-WKBW), wrote to nine New York stations asking for definite information regarding the experiences of New York advertisers during the newspaper strike. Ex-

New York Papers Hike Radio Rates

Mere Mention of Program in Regular Copy Costs Double

NEW YORK newspapers last week put into effect a ruling that any advertising of a radio program will be accepted only at the general or national rate. Rule applies not only to radio page advertisements of programs, but also to mention of programs inserted into display advertising for merchandise, BROADCASTING was told.

If, for instance, a department store were to insert into a page ad one line asking readers to tune in the store's radio program, the whole page would be billed at the national rate, in most cases about twice the rate normally charged for department store advertising.

"Short-Sighted Policy"

Retail advertising men, queried by BROADCASTING last week, were unanimously indignant over the move. Ira Hirschmann, vice-president of Bloomingdale Bros., which last week used space in a number of metropolitan dailies to advertise a new radio course in sewing, to be conducted during the store's broadcasts on WQXR, New York, expressed the feeling that Bloomingdale's newspaper contracts cover all of their newspaper advertising, regardless of subject matter, and said he did not intend to accept the new rate.

Terming the move a "short-sighted policy," Mr. Hirschmann said that newspapers should utilize radio instead of opposing it, citing the many examples of wise newspapers that "have used radio, bought radio and worked with radio instead of adopting defensive tactics of this kind".

Denying that the move represented any antagonism toward radio on the part of the newspapers, Richard Murray, in charge of department store advertising for the New York World-Telegram, said that the new rule is merely an extension of various limitations the papers have found it necessary to put on department store advertising from time to time.

Terming the rates given to department stores as "absurdly low" in relation to the general rates (37 cents a line to 78 cents is the World-Telegram's ratio), Mr. Murray explained that "the papers won't permit the stores to exploit them" and "over the years we have had to clamp down on various types of advertising to protect our rate structure. This new move does not represent any discrimination against radio."

While the new ruling applies to New York only, its effect will undoubtedly be closely watched by newspapers and department stores throughout the country and it is expected to receive considerable attention during the advertising session of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn. meeting at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, early this week.

BONUS - for all Advertisers in the Great DETROIT Market

As the 1943 curtain goes up on war-time Detroit, far-sighted advertisers will see here the most promising sales opportunities that time has yet revealed. And just as surely as Detroit's accelerated, roaring production lines spell doom for Hitler and Tojo, so also do conditions in this great market assure safety for advertising investment to all who have merchandise to sell, or a good name to uphold. Here are contributing factors:

1. Detroit's population is now at an all-time high. Estimates show a gain of 336,000 between April 1, 1940, and May 1, 1942, with newcomers still pouring into Detroit at the rate of 20,000 each month!

2. Factory employment, too, is at an all-time high. Latest authoritative estimate (November 30, 1942) showed more than 510,000 hourly paid factory workers, alone, in the Detroit industrial area, and that figure grows daily!
3. Wage scales in Detroit are the highest ever. Latest estimates place the average weekly earnings of Detroit factory workers at $56. That places the present factory payroll in this area at more than $28,500,000 a week!

Yes, Detroit is your BONUS market for '43, and WWJ is the station through which you can reach it most effectively and economically.

Senate Probers Ready to Quiz Petrillo

May Ask FDR to End AFM Ban On Discs

IF ALL OTHER efforts fail, President Roosevelt may be asked by the Senate Petrillo Probe Subcommittee to invoke his broad wartime powers and terminate the ban on transcriptions and musical recordings as injurious to national morale during wartime.

This prediction was made by Senator D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho), chairman of the probe subcommittee, on the eve of the appearance of James C. Petrillo, AFM president, before the committee, scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 12.

After reintroducing his far-reaching bill last Thursday to bring the musicians union within the scope of the anti-trust laws as a means of enjoining arbitrary actions which interfere with the war effort, Senator Clark said that if such legislation fails of passage, it is likely his five-man subcommittee will recommend in its report that the President use his broad wartime powers to protect the national morale.

Seek Prompt Relief

With transcription and record reserves, built in anticipation of the Petrillo ban, about to run out, the broadcasting industry and related public performers dependent upon recordings are becoming more and more aroused over the outlook. All eyes are turned toward the Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee in the hope that some relief will be afforded promptly.

While there are two distinct schools in the broadcasting industry on the Petrillo situation and how it should be handled, no public moves toward negotiation of a settlement—temporary or permanent—with AFM have been disclosed. All sides are agreed that the AFM ban, which has blocked recording of a single new transcription or record since Aug. 1, is interfering with wartime morale and is destined to develop into a calamity if remedial measures are not instituted promptly.

Petrillo's appearance before the Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee—his first before a committee of Congress—is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Senate Caucus Room. The committee has been advised by Joseph A. Padway, general counsel of AFL and Petrillo's special counsel, that the AFM head will read a prepared statement of about 45 minutes. Mr. Padway himself then proposes to discuss legal aspects of the controversy, after which Petrillo will be cross-examined by the committee. It is expected this testimony and examination will consume two sessions.

In some quarters it was predicted

ed Mr. Petrillo would seek to turn the tables and ask for an investigation of the NAB and the industry.

At the request of Mr. Padway, who has labor business in Florida, the committee proposes to recess for about 10 days, during which it will line up its schedule of future witnesses. Requests for opportunity to appear have been received from such groups as the NAB, probably to be represented by President Neville Miller and Counsel Sydney M. Kaye; leading transcription companies and record manufacturers; music schools and societies; representatives of Local 802 (New York) of AFM, and spokesmen for coin-operated machine companies, and other public performers of recorded music.

Federal Witnesses

Whether other Government witnesses will be called upon to testify, supplementing previous testimony of such figures as Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, and James Lawrence Fly, chairman of the FCC, who predicted dire effects on wartime morale and upon smaller radio stations, was not indicated. Their testimony, given at a preliminary hearing last September before the original Petrillo probe committee, will be incorporated in the new record, however.

With Senator Clark on the subcommittee are Senators Tunnell (Del.) and McFarland (Ariz.), Democrats; White (Me.) and Tobey (N.H.), Republicans. Herbert M. Bingham, Washington attorney formerly of Montana, special counsel to the subcommittee for the investigation, is handling preparation of the case and presumably will bear the brunt of the cross-examination.

Reports coming to the committee's attention have stressed the crisis ahead. Many dance bands, it was reported, already have disbanded because of lack of engagements for transcription and record recording. NAB President Neville Miller estimated that regular recording bands already are out of pocket to the extent of $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. He also noted that few new hit tunes have been written since the recording ban became effective.

Senator Clark said he would seek approval of his bill to bring the musicians union within the scope of the anti-trust laws at the current session. The measure, introduced Oct. 23, died with the ad-journalment of Congress. It was reintroduced in identical form last Thursday. The resolution, on which the hearings are being held (SRes-286), remains operative until Jan. 31. Under action taken in the final days of the last session, all pending resolutions authorizing inquiries are killed on Jan. 31 and must be reintroduced.

"If we can't get anywhere with this bill in the new Congress," Senator Clark asserted, "it is likely the subcommittee, in its report, will request that the President be called upon to use his wartime powers. The President has authority to take over plants where production has been halted by strikes. I am sure he has wartime power to curb the power of Petrillo to deny popular music to millions of Americans, including troops at home and abroad.

"So far as I know, Petrillo has not offered any concrete proposal as a compromise to either the broadcasting stations, the record and transcription manufacturers, or others involved," Senator Clark continued.

"This matter goes far beyond any labor dispute. Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, told our committee recently that a continuance of the ban would force the closing of many small radio stations essential to our wartime communications.

"He also said, and he spoke for the War and Navy Departments, that the withdrawal of popular music from the radio stations and juke boxes would seriously endanger wartime morale on the home front as well as that of our troops on the battlefield. Quite a few stations have already closed or sold out for nominal sums."

Joins Yankee Network

APPOINTMENT of Barbara Sprague, formerly of KGIR, Butte, and the Z-Bar Network in Montana, to the station relations department of the Yankee Network was announced last Thursday by John Shepard 3d, Yankee general manager. Miss Sprague will contact the 21 stations on the network as well as the three Yankee-owned stations. She will function under Gerald Harrison, in charge of station relations and sales coordination. In radio for the last 12 years, she is a licensed operator and has had experience in all phases of station work.

Love Aids Petrillo

EDDIE LOVE, secretary of San Francisco Musicians Local No. 6, AFM, has been made an assistant to James C. Petrillo, AFM president. He moves to New York headquarters. It is believed on the Coast that he will be assigned to straighten out the situation brought about by the AFM recording and transcription ban.

John Shepard 3d Continues As Yankee General Manager

O'Neil Elected President; Executive Personnel Retained in Network Reorganization

MAINTAINING the same executive management, reorganization of the Yankee Network under its new ownership, was affected last Wednesday in Boston, with John Shepard 3d elected chairman of the board and designated general manager, and William F. O'Neil, president of General Tire & Rubber Co., elected president. The board continued Linus Travers as executive vice-president and Robert T. Bartley as vice-president and elected Mr. O'Neil treasurer, and Robert F. Ide of Yankee, assistant treasurer. Howard F. Wright, Yankee official, was named corporation clerk.

Personnel Meet With Owners

The executive committee comprises Messrs. O'Neil and Shepard and James W. Haggerty, Boston district manager for General Tire. The board of directors comprises Messrs. O'Neil, Shepard, Travers, Haggerty, Loren Angus McQueen, General Tire vice-president, Akron; and Samuel S. Poor, General Tire vice-president, Akron.

Operating heads of the network departments met for the first time with the new owners Wednesday evening. At the dinner meeting, in addition to those General Tire officials mentioned, were W. E. Fouse, vice-president; H. R. Jenkins, secretary, and William O'Neil Jr., of Akron, son of the company president and owner of WJW, Akron-Cleveland.

Yankee officials present, aside from those mentioned, included Gerald Harrison, Roger Coakley, William Eynon, George Steffy, Robert Myers, Irving T. Robinson, Clarence Stone, James S. Powers, Cedric Foster, J. A. Farrar, Joseph Lopez, Malcolm Parker, Dorothy Robinson, Fred McLaughlin and Gertrude Lanza.

Assurance was given the FCC prior to its approval of the sale of the Yankee Network owned stations to General Tire and Rubber Co., for $1,240,000 on Dec. 31 that the company would buy time from Yankee at rates and under conditions available to all other sponsors.

Coincident with the Commission's formal action, granting the transfer by a four-to-two vote, an affidavit of William F. O'Neil, president of General Tire, emphasizing that the network would not be used

MANPOWER TITLES

DUE FOR RELEASE

REVISION of specific manpower titles covering the broadcast industry were approved by the Inter-Departmental Committee of the Manpower Commission last week and may be expected to be released to draft boards within the next 10 days. Although the specific titles have not yet been made known it is understood that the new list is a marked improvement over the original list released Oct. 12 and known as Occupational Bulletin No. 27.

Careful consideration was given to the needs of the small stations in particular it is understood, to insure their continued operation. This does not mean, it was pointed out, that the larger station and network personnel have been overlooked but the need for keeping small stations on the air is very much in the foreground of all planning for radio's wartime future.

... DOESN'T COUNT IN RADIO!

That's the experience of smart advertisers. Particularly in Baltimore . . . today the country's 6th largest market.

If you want to hit this Baltimore trading area target, when you aim at it . . . here are three reasons why advertisers interested in reducing sales costs . . . are swinging to Radio Station WFBR:

1. WFBR covers Baltimore DAY and NIGHT with an efficiency known to few stations in so big a city. There are no dead spots. That isn't magic . . . it's just good engineering.

2. There is no waste with WFBR. We do not use a hopped-up signal to cover the surrounding states in which you may or may not have sales . . . or states in which you have already bought time. Our job is the Baltimore trading area. Not Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Delaware, New Jersey, Virginia.

3. WFBR is the station all Baltimore has been listening to for 21 years. In the last 3 years over one half million people have visited our studios or participated in sponsored shows.

It's good business to get on the target in Baltimore. WFBR makes it automatic.

21 Food Sponsors On Blue Schedule

Quaker Oats, Warner Latest
To Sign With Network

OF THE 50 commercially sponsored programs on the BLUE Network as of Jan. 1, 1943, start of its second year of independent organization, 21 are sponsored by food producers, a larger representation than that of any other industry.

Tetley Tea Co., which launched first consumer advertising for its dehydrated Soup-Mix on the BLUE in November, has indicated expansion of its current schedule in view of increased sales and its confidence in the future of dehydrated products. Produced in six flavors, the Soup-Mix is promoted thrice-weekly on Isabel Manning Hewson's Morning Market Basket.

The same program on the BLUE is used by C. F. Mueller Co. for its macaroni on a thrice-weekly basis, a schedule to be continued indefinitely. Agency for both accounts is Duane Jones Co., New York.

New Kellogg Account

The BLUE adds another advertiser to its food accounts Jan. 4 when Kellogg Co. promotes Pep on 13 Pacific stations five times weekly on Breakfast at Sardi's. Agency is Kenyon & Eckhardt, New York. Williamson Candy Co., in November, renewed Famous Jury Trials on 64 BLUE stations for 52 weeks. Show is for Oh Henry candy bars and is handled by Aubrey, Moore & Wallace, Chicago.

Swift & Co., sponsor of a segment of the BLUE's Breakfast Club for more than a year, paid tribute to the program's pulling power on Nov. 3 when it increased its quarter-hour participations thrice-weekly on 87 stations to five days weekly on 143 stations. J. Walter Thompson Co., Chicago, handles the account.

Another J. Walter Thompson account contributing to the BLUE's food industry group in 1942 was Libby, McNeill & Libby, using the entire BLUE network Oct. 19 for a special one-time broadcast dramatizing its forthcoming advertising campaign. Introducing a different idea of consumer relations, the food processing company invited consumers, as well as Libby salesmen and dealers to a "sales meeting of the air."

Quaker Oats Co., Chicago, will take over Terry & the Pirates, quarter-hour children's program, effective Feb. 1. The series, based on the comic strip syndicated in 200 newspapers, has been heard on the BLUE since Jan. 4, five times weekly, 6-6:15 p.m., and will continue at that time when Quaker Oats sponsors it for Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice Sparkies.

The program is written for radio by Al Barker, who has written such children's shows as Don Winslow of the Navy and Orphan Annie. It will be heard on 143 BLUE stations, largest network yet employed by Quaker Oats during its many years of network and spot radio. Agency is Sherman & Marquette, Chicago. Terry & the Pirates is not new to radio listeners, having been sponsored in the past via transcription by Libby, McNeill & Libby, and on NBC by Bowey's Inc. for Dari-Rich.

Other food accounts on the BLUE at the start of this year are Cream of Wheat Corp., General Mills, Hecker Products, A. S. Boyle Co., Calavo Growers of California, Fisher Flouring Mills Co., Langendorf Bakeries, Coca Cola Co., Wonder Co., Northwestern Yeast Co., Skinner & Eddy Corp., Washington Cooperative Egg & Poultry Assn., and Wilson Milk Co.

Coca Cola Plaque

COCA COLA Co., Atlanta, sponsor of Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands on the BLUE, received a silver plaque during a recent broadcast, from Movie-Radio Guide for "outstanding contribution to the morale of the men in the United States armed forces." Award was presented by Harry Hayden, general manager of the Guide Magazines, to Felix Coste, vice-president of Coca Cola Co. The tribute followed shortly after Coca Cola's nine-hour Christmas Day program for service men, originating from 42 camps throughout the country, and aired on the full BLUE network.

Pinch From Shortage of Discs To Be Felt Soon, King Claims

Backlog of Transcriptions Is About Exhausted, He Says, Pointing to Troubles Ahead

WHAT IS the future of recorded music in case the Petrillo-dictated ban on AFM musicians continues.

That was the question posed by broadcasters and transcribers on the eve of the Senate inquiry into Petrillo's bans and edicts, which gets under way Tuesday, Jan. 12.

In the more than five months that have elapsed since the Petrillo ban on transcriptions and recordings became effective, the full force of the production stoppage has not been felt, even though new popular tunes in recorded form have not been available. Transcribers had built up a sufficient backlog of recordings to absorb minimum requirements during that period.

Gerald King, Hollywood partner of Standard Radio, who has acted as spokesman for independent transcribers, asserted last week that prior to the Aug. 1 ban, recordings were made of a sufficient number of the entire present hit list to get by. How stations and other users of recorded music will feel when none of the top tunes will be available in recorded form some 60 days hence is quite another matter, he said. New music will be published and played over the networks so that the publishers get their performance credits, he pointed out, because until recently recorded music did not count in the performance ratings anyway.

Nets Not Seriously Hit

After talking to many broadcasters at the NAB district meetings—which wound up Dec. 10—on the music problem, Mr. King reported that because of the greater interest in war and manpower problems, the music issue became secondary and was taken up when many broadcasters had left or were tired.

The problem, according to Mr. King, is essentially that of the independent station rather than the network, which he said has little to lose in a controversy over recorded music with the exception of some spot business and the effect, in the case of NBC, upon Theatricals. And he poses the question: "In the long run has not recorded programming been a competitor of network broadcasting?"

The primary interest of the networks, Mr. King points out, is maintenance of their network schedules. Consequently, he said, it is only logical and evident that they should seek to avoid any quarrel with AFM, through moves that might entail use of non-AFM musicians or perhaps musicians identified with CIO. A dispute with AFM might result in strike or secondary boycotts, it has been pointed out.

Looking toward the immediate future, Mr. King said most of the backlog of recorded music already is in the hands of stations. Some transcription companies, and in several instances phonograph recorders, have recorded choral groups a capella, or without instrumental accompaniment. Some music, he said, lends itself admirably to such groups, but in the field of popular music, which surveys show uses up at least 60% of the time devoted to music on the air, it is difficult to make satisfactory renditions. So-called "bounce" tunes do not lend themselves to vocal treatment of this sort.

Consequently, Mr. King said, lack of suitable groups for popular tunes is bound to prove a restrictive influence on music. As NAB President Neville Miller has pointed out, it is just as restrictive on patriotic music, as evidenced by the fact that not a single war¹ while patriotic song has been published since the ban Aug. 1.

While transcribers have the privilege of recording music outside the United States and Canada, Mr. King pointed out that much of this recording always has been done, but most of it has emanated from points where it is not now possible to record because of the war. England, Italy, Germany and Austria were the main sources of imported music before the war, with Latin America contributing only typical music.

Even if music other than this could be recorded outside the United States, he reported the cost is very high and few studios and mechanical setups are available for high quality transcriptions. Moreover, he said, musician's unions in some South and Central American countries, anticipating a windfall, have increased their rates by as much as 100% and by restrictions on the use of conductors. While possible supply of instrumental music from these countries is not bright, he predicted much of it would begin flowing from them if the current situation continues for many months.

A third possible outcome, according to Mr. King, is the use of non-AFM musicians. Pointing out that CIO has a musicians' union in New York, Mr. King declared a survey made by one of the transcription companies indicated 99% of stations interviewed had no objection to use of non-AFM musicians. Many of them demanded music of this character as an invitation for Mr. Petrillo to do his worst.

However, the industry heads as a whole, he declared, have felt it unwise to use non-AFM music, although no one has yet given any adequate reason why CIO unions could not be used without the stigma of "scab". While transcription companies have delivered their regular releases to stations for the half-year since the ban became effective, due largely to recordings made in advance of that date, Mr. King emphasized this backlog is practically exhausted.

All transcribers have experimented with vocal groups without instrumental accompaniment, he said. Some of these results have been good, but on popular tunes "we cannot hope to equal Bob Crosby's band with four kazooes and an ocharina. He pointed out that ocharina players, in fact, are on the union list in Los Angeles.

Trouble Ahead

In the case of Standard Radio, Mr. King announced that his company had just recorded the famous Don Cossack Chorus, one of the world's outstanding male vocal groups. He predicted the vocal sections of the transcription libraries generally will be greatly enriched.

"But in a month or so, if the present situation continues, stations will find their library releases cut and popular tune renditions only by non-instrumental groups," he declared.

"Up to this time, no one has felt the pinch; the top tunes of the most played numbers were all recorded in some fashion before Aug. 1. We recorded White Christmas in June, as an example of why this pinch has not yet been felt.

"Those of us who attended the NAB district meetings just concluded feel that we have the support and goodwill of the broadcasters, who recognize the fact that the fight is theirs with the

Special Peabody Award Group To Scan Entries for Judges

Preliminary Digest to Be Ready for Final Study
By Advisory Board in New York on Jan. 15

ENTRIES for the George Foster Peabody Radio Awards will be reviewed by a special University of Georgia faculty committee, according to Dean John E. Drewry of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, which in conjunction with the NAB administers these awards. The committee's report will be considered by the advisory board in New York Jan. 15. The board makes final selections.

Committee members are: Tyus Butler, journalism, chairman; Hugh Hodgson, music; Carolyn Vance, radio and speech; L. M. Ballew, drama; B. O. Williams, sociology; and Warren Jones, journalism, clerk.

The board report is to be ready by March. Members of this board are: Bruce Barton, BBDO, New York; John H. Benson, AAAA, New York; Dr. Ralph Casey, U of Minnesota; Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh News & Observer; Mark Ethridge, Louisville Courier-Journal and Times; Joseph Henry Jackson, San Francisco Chronicle; Waldemar Kaempfert, New York Times; Alfred A. Knopf, publisher, New York; Mrs. Beatrice Sawyer Rossell, Chicago; Dr. I. Keith Tyler, Ohio State U; Mrs. Marjorie Peabody Waite, daughter of George Foster Peabody; Edward Weeks, Atlantic Monthly, Boston; S. V. Sanford, Chancellor, University System of Georgia; Earl J. Glade, chairman, NAB Code Compliance Committee.

Entries for 1942 are more numerous and more varied than in former years, according to Dean Drewry. Response from small stations has been greater and more nominations have come from outside groups such as schools, colleges, and listener groups. Although several network programs have been entered by outsiders, NBC, CBS and BLUE did not submit individual entries. Dr. James R. Angell, public service counsellor of NBC, Douglas Coulter, director of broadcasts of CBS and Dr. H. B. Summers, manager of public service of the BLUE, explained they would be glad to supply data on any programs in which the Peabody board is interested.

The CBS 1941 presentation required "more than 1,000 man-hours of thinking, planning, and production," Mr. Coulter wrote. "Even if we could take the time, it would be grossly out of character to sidetrack our war work and give right-of-way to a prize-seeking presentation." The CBS official, however, lists twenty CBS programs which he said "merit the attention of the judges."

NBC, CBS and BLUE programs will be considered, according to Dean Drewry, under a board regulation which reads: "The board in its selections will not necessarily be restricted to entries, but may on its own initiative select a program or a station for an award."

Six Types of Awards

The Peabody awards last year went primarily to programs. The year before stations and networks were recognized. For 1942, both programs and stations are to be cited.

As originally set up, the Peabody awards were designed to recognize the most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered each year by the broadcasting industry, and to "perpetuate the memory of George Foster Peabody, benefactor and life trustee of the U of Georgia, and friend of educational progress everywhere."

This year the awards will be made in at least six categories: 1. That program or series of programs inaugurated and broadcast during 1942 by a regional station which made an outstanding contribution to the welfare of the community the station serves. 2. That program or series of programs inaugurated and broadcast during 1942 by a local station which made an outstanding contribution to the welfare of the community the station serves. 3. Outstanding reporting of the news. 4. Outstanding entertainment in drama. 5. Outstanding entertainment in music. 6. Outstanding educational program. The awards under reporting, drama, music and education may go to either a station or a network program.

According to C. L. Paper Reduction Ordered by WPB

Newspapers, Magazines to Get 10% Less This Year

PAPER reductions face newspapers and magazines in 1943 as the result of limitation orders governing the use of paper in these media, issued by the War Production Board. Newspapers will be limited to 100% of the amount used to produce net paid circulation in 1941 plus a 3% spoilage allowance and magazines are restricted to 90% of the tonnage used by each publisher during 1942.

The difference in bases for the two media results from the attempts made to be most equitable, it was explained. Whereas newspapers, owing to voluntary restrictions, used less paper in 1942, while magazines used more paper than in 1941. In explaining the selection of 3% for spoilage, W. G. Chandler, director of the printing and publishing division, said this was found to be a satisfactory average for all papers over a period of years.

10% Reduction

Under Limitation Order L-240 governing newspapers, it is estimated by the WPB's printing and publishing division that the effect will be a reduction "approximately 10% in current consumption" for the industry generally but will not mean a 10% reduction to each publisher. Weeklies and small dailies using eight or less pages per issue, amounting to 25 tons or less of print paper during any one quarter, are exempt from this order.

Magazines may in any calendar quarter, the order states, use up to 15% more than the quarterly quota, the excess to be subtracted from the quota of the succeeding calendar quarter.

WPB officials, indicating that this order was not likely to stand for a year, said that there would be at least one revision applied to both magazines and newspapers and possibly more. Provision has been made for consideration of individual cases in terms of appeal where "undue hardships" result.

Reasons for the curtailment were given as lack of production resulting from shortages in manpower, tires and trucks. Increased military demands for pulp wood made the move advisable in the light of production uncertainties, it was said.

New WE Contract

CONTRACTUAL notice has been given by Western Electric Co., New York, of its intention to terminate two years hence its license contracts with motion picture producers in the United States operating under Bell System sound recording patents, the Western Electric sound system, it has been announced by T. K. Stevenson, vice-president of the company. Scheduled to run to the end of 1954, the new contract, a draft of which will soon be presented to licensees, will continue to make available Bell System patents for sound recording in the motion picture field and recording fees will be substantially lower.

Pleasure Listening

THE BAN on pleasure driving invoked last week by OPA because of the critical gasoline situation, perforce adds to radio's ever-growing public service obligation. Listening, already at unequalled levels, will hit new highs.

There will be less movie-going, night-clubbing and partying generally in the 17 Eastern States and in Washington—the most densely populated section of the country. Thus there will be a corresponding increase in listening, early and late.

Broadcasters in these States may find it expedient to revise program schedules somewhat to accommodate this new audience segment. All evening time up to midnight is destined to become the equivalent of Class A time. There will be a corresponding increase in listener reaction, too, but radio, schooled as it is in the changing tempos dictated by the war, is prepared to handle the load.

Caesar's Secret

THE GREAT Petrillo mystery (why he banned transcriptions and recordings) may be cleared up before the week is out. For the Great Petrillo himself is slated to appear before the Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee in answer to the Clark Resolution which authorizes a probe into the whole Petrillo-provoked music controversy.

Aside from a few meaningless and futile ejaculations about how "canned music" has caused "unemployment" in musicians' ranks, the AFM head has never explained why he ordered some 34,000 AFM members to quit recording last Aug. 1. He has practically ignored entreaties from the nation's war leaders that the ukases be lifted in the war interest, so our armed forces abroad as well as at home can hear popular music when they want it. He has turned a deaf ear to the plea that the restrictions be relaxed so small broadcasting stations vital to the war effort can continue full program schedules of music. He just hasn't uttered anything beyond his unemployment line, which falls flat with manpower shortage stories in the headlines daily.

Mr. Petrillo gets his opportunity to explain all this and many other things in his Senate Committee testimony. He can tell about stand-by orchestras which must be hired at public benefit performances, about the banning of amateur orchestras from the air and about unionized platter-turners, at regular professional scales. He can't disclaim knowledge of these as isolated incidents, because he perhaps more than any other union czar controls the operations of his locals from his own front office.

Chairman Clark of the subcommittee is fully aware of the seriousness of the recording ban and its effects upon the public, in and out of uniform. If legislative relief is not forthcoming, he proposes to go to the President with the suggestion that his broad wartime powers be invoked to force a cessation of the recording "strike".

Because recording companies had built up a substantial backlog before the Aug. 1 ban, stations haven't yet felt the real pinch. That is destined to come from now on, however, because the reservoir is about dry. It is significant, too, that no new hits have been developed since the ban became effective; that important bands have been broken up because of reported lack of recording dates, and that union musicians who used to make recordings have lost between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 in fees. We imagine Mr. Petrillo has the answers.

There's one thing we hope won't happen during the Petrillo hearings, and that's the temptation for committee members to go off on a tangent and inquire into unrelated matters. This hearing, as we understand the resolution, has to do with the arbitrary bans on recorded music performance and their relation to the war effort. It is not an investigation of the FCC, its licensing policy or the sufficiency of the radio law, or the adequacy of the industry. Those matters, if they require legislative attention (and we heartily believe some of them do) should be handled under legislative authorization specifically drawn to cover them.

Jewelry Trade

ODDLY ENOUGH, despite curtailing supplies, the jewelry trade seems to be flourishing in many localities these days. Though some of its stock cannot be replaced and though deliveries of some goods such as watches are dwindling, its short-term business outlook appears good. Last year, according to the Wall Street Journal, sales rose to approximately $750,000,000, up $200,000,000 from the best previous year on record.

This is a phenomenon also perceptible in England, where the silversmiths of London, and especially the antique shops, which handle metallic gadgets beloved by women, are doing a brisk business even after three years of war. There money is also plentiful and factory workers and other lower income groups, favored by good wages and anti-inflation price ceilings on nearly all necessities, have few luxury goods to buy.

Bill Gillespie, operator of KTUL, Tulsa, whose station has been one of the most aggressive developers of department store accounts, reported last week that his local jewelry store business is in a fair way to offset other local business losses, though he added that his station has not yet felt the diminution of local business perceptible in so many other areas. He suggests—and we are glad to pass on the suggestion—that now is the time to cultivate and extend the use of radio by jewelry establishments.

Ownership Policy

PURCHASE of the Yankee Network by General Tire, an important manufacturing entity now engaged in war work, poses an interesting policy question concerning radio ownership. Two members of the FCC—Walker and Durr—opposed the granting of the transfer without hearing of licenses of the Yankee-owned stations largely because of policy precedent governing transfer of station ownership to another industry.

Actually, the transfer constituted no precedent. Many broadcast stations are owned by companies and individuals engaged in other business pursuits. The broadcasting industry would not have enjoyed its meteoric development if outside capital had not been attracted to this intriguing but definitely hazardous field in its earlier days. Newspapers are abundantly represented in station ownership, although admittedly they are much more closely allied in function than the tire business.

We heartily agree that radio can't become subservient to other fields of endeavor. Because of its intimate contact with all the public, it must maintain independent policy of operation. But the real test is not ownership but operating practice and experience. General Tire, for example, could but shouldn't call Yankee the "General Tire Network"—and it probably won't. Yankee was purchased as an investment, as we understand it, and its facilities will be open to General Tire and its competitors on the same terms. That is as it should be and must be.

Stations (or networks) can't be used as the private mouthpieces of their owners. There is ample legal precedent for that. Brinkley and Baker and the Rev. Bob Shuler saw their stations silenced because they used their microphones in that way. The same fate finally befell the late "Hello World" Henderson of Shreveport.

Under existing law, the FCC is not authorized to license networks as such. Moreover, it can't do anything about station ownership so long as the proposed owners are citizens of good reputation and are financially responsible. It's up to Congress to establish any other policy.

In the final analysis, there's no problem at all so long as the privilege of licensed operation is not abused. Should that happen, there are adequate remedies under the existing statutes and court precedents.

We Pay Our Respects To —

JOHN HASKELL MacDonald

MEET NBC's newest vice-president, John Haskell MacDonald. Elected by the board of directors at its meeting last Dec. 4, the vice-presidency was conferred in recognition of his many contributions to the financial and administrative problems of the network.

Although able to make a bunch of statistics sit up and say "Uncle", Mr. MacDonald has no love of figures for their own sake.

"Figures," he said, "are valuable only when they give management information which enables it to operate its business more effectively. That means, at NBC, that those who prepare the budgets and operating statements for the various departments must know enough about the operations of those departments to make the figures easily translatable into terms of programs, sales, promotion, engineering and other network activities."

In addition to his financial responsibilities, Mr. MacDonald also is supervisory head of the company's personnel relations, representing NBC in its dealings with unions and directing its policies with regard to its unorganized employees. He had a hand in the development of the salary rate schedule which, after a year of research, has just been put into operation, constituting a major step toward putting NBC's personnel relations on a scientific basis.

To his host of friends in all ranks of the industry, Mr. MacDonald's outstanding characteristic is the unusual warmth of his personality. His close associates, however, probably would name as his chief asset his ability to cut, without hesitation, through the verbal trappings of an argument to its essential truth or error. It is probably the combination of the two qualities which has enabled him, a comparative newcomer to NBC, to crash the ranks of its vice-presidential hierarchy with such celerity.

Mr. MacDonald hails from Brunswick, Maine, where he was born Sept. 1, 1896. At 46, he can look back on two decades of broad and diversified experience which began when he was graduated from New York U's School of Business Administration in 1922. His degree of bachelor of commercial science was followed a year later with a master's degree. Thereafter for four years he pursued academic work as a member of the NYU faculty. When he forsook that field he held an assistant professorship in the School of Commerce.

In the half dozen years which followed, Mr. MacDonald was associated successively with McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. as office and personnel manager, and with A. I. Namm & Sons and Walker & Heisler Inc., as controller.

His first-hand knowledge of radio dates from 1932 when he joined Trade Ways, an organization formed to study business problems and management. In the three years which followed, he was buried deep in research and the preparation of reports pertaining to the affairs of NBC, one of the firm's clients. His work led to an offer from NBC to install a cost accounting system based on surveys he had made while with Trade Ways. The system was duly put in operation and Mr. MacDonald thereupon was made NBC budget officer. Three years later he was assigned to the Radio-Recording Division as business manager.

The proposed separation of the Red and Blue networks a year ago presented many complex problems and Mr. MacDonald was moved up to the executive floor in Radio City to assist the NBC management in their solution. The value of his work was speedily recognized, and he became right-hand man to

KMA Is Tops for Grocery Advertisers

THAT KMA is probably the top sales producer in the No. 1 Farm Market is proved by the case history of the P----- Company, manufacturers of a new household cleaner. The product is a powder packed in eight-ounce cartons retailing at 25c.

Founded in 1939, the P----- Company used KMA as its exclusive advertising medium. But in 1941—after only two years—the company did a $60,852 business through 49 jobbers in Iowa, 37 in Nebraska, 16 in Missouri, and 7 in Kansas. And at an advertising cost of only 6 1/2 %!

In other words, as a direct result of KMA advertising, 243,408 boxes of the cleaner were sold in retail stores to 14.9% of the families in the KMA primary of 151 counties.

But getting 14.9% distribution among all families in two years is only part of the story. The figures for 1942 (though not completely available yet) represent magnificent increases over 1941 in every way.

Get all the facts. Write today for your copy of the KMA Atlas of Wholesale Grocers. It shows you how to get your share of the $156,044,000 business done by the 7,113 grocers in the prosperous KMA primary. Copies are limited, so write—right now.

The show, conducted by Glen Law, news commentator for the Iowa Broadcasting System, was in the form of interviews. Similar recordings are planned for other stations by the Public Relations Office of the First WAAC Training Center at Fort Des Moines.

KROW, Oakland, Cal., broadcast the ceremonies when the Army-Navy "E" award was presented to Ben C. Gerwick Inc., contractors, for their efficient construction work at the Oakland port of embarkation. MOHAWK SERENADE

Loudspeaker Cheers Rodents

Marooned By River

STRAINS of "Bob Burns The Arkansas Traveler" from the loudspeaker entertained more than a score of big rats marooned on the balustrade of the steps to the transmitter house of WIBX, Utica, Columbia's Mohawk valley station. Marooned with the rats when five inches of water crept into the transmitter room was engineer Paul Dixon.

So swift was the stream that rescuers with provisions for the Dixon larder had only to steer their boat without rowing when snow and increasing cold caused a recession of the record high level of the Mohawk river.

MADELEINE CARROLL, star of motion pictures and radio, is scheduled to conduct the Radio Reader quarter-hour program, when it returns to CBS Jan. 11 for another series.

All Lord & Thomas Accounts Go to Foote, Cone & Belding

New Agency Starts Business With Total Billings of More Than $20,000,000 Covering 50 Accounts

PRINCIPAL officers of Foote, Cone & Belding, new agency created from the interests of Lord & Thomas [BROADCASTING, Jan. 4], were announced last week by the agency. Emerson Foote has been elected president and will continue in charge of the New York office; Fairfax M. Cone, in charge of Chicago operations, will be chairman of the executive committee, and Don Belding of the Los Angeles office will be in charge of Pacific Coast activities for the agency and will serve as chairman of the board. The San Francisco office will continue to be directly managed by Eugene I. Harrington.

To carry out the firm's conception of "central direction", frequent meetings of the principal of-

"no account which was handled by the former agency at the time of its dissolution will have failed to signify its intention to remain with the new agency."

Born in Alabama in 1906, Emerson Foote has had a varied career since his schooling in California. His first business experience was in the wholesale end of the automobile industry. He was also associated with the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co. and served as secretary of the Western Statistical Assn. before joining the Leon Livingston Adv. Agency, San Francisco, at the age of 24.

He stayed there three and a half years before starting his own agency, Yeomans & Foote, in partnership with Lewis H. Yeomans. In 1936, he joined the research department of J. Stirling Gatchell, New York, selling out his interests in the agency to Mr. Yeomans.

Research director, account executive and general executive at Gatchell, Mr. Foote then joined Lord & Thomas to handle printed advertising for the American Tobacco Co. account, later taking over the entire account including radio. In 1940, he was elected a vice-president of the agency, a member of the board of directors in May, 1942. Two months later, he was elected executive vice-president and placed in charge of all New York operations.

Varied Career

Fairfax M. Cone attended the U of California in his native state, and upon graduation joined the art department of the San Francisco Examiner, where he remained three years. In 1939, he was offered a job as copywriter in the San Francisco office of Lord & Thomas, and after ten years, became manager of that branch, as well as vice-president.

In 1941, Mr. Cone came to New York to take charge of all creative work at Lord & Thomas, and in 1942 was sent to Chicago in the same capacity, later becoming general manager in charge of all Chicago operations.

A graduate of the U of Oregon with a B.S. degree, Don Belding became manager for Western Union in Klamath Falls, Ore., for two years, also running a daily newspaper in that town. He joined Lord & Thomas in 1923, working up from office boy to space buyer to copywriter. During the ten years from 1927-37, Belding handled practically every account of the agency's Los Angeles office, and in 1938, when Don Francisco came East to become president of the agency,

Radio City Visitors

DESPITE war restrictions on travel, a total of 1,200,000 persons visited the studios of NBC in 1942. More than 700,000 of this number visited the studios to watch their favorite programs. Since NBC instituted guided tours at Radio City, eight years ago, 4,400,000 persons have come to the radio center.

he was named vice-president and manager of the office. Three years later, he became one of the firm's three executive vice-presidents. One of the original members of the Advertising Council, Mr. Belding is also a director of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and Merchants and Mfrs. Assn.

Mr. Foote

Mr. Belding

Mr. Belding

Mr. Cone

Officers will be held in Chicago and New York, the first to take place Jan. 16 in Chicago when other officers will be elected. Plans are under way for an expansion of personnel, although no changes are contemplated in the present personnel as it functioned under the name of Lord & Thomas.

$20,000,000 in Billings

The new agency starts business with total billings well in excess of $20,000,000 annually. It will definitely handle a total of 50 accounts, all formerly placed by Lord & Thomas, and belief was expressed by the agency last week that it could shortly be announced that

"His WFDF Flint Mich. spots do so well, he's all wrapped up in golf."

Big News Contract Signed by Gilchrist Department Store

Boston Retailer Carries News Hourly During the Daytime

A NEW department store-radio link, presaging a closer relationship between the two industries, has resulted from the recent NAB District meeting in Boston, with signing by Gilchrist department store, that city, for nine five-minute newscasts daily on WORL, Boston.

The store's decision to utilize radio for institutional and goodwill advertising came about after the station's sales department presented to Gilchrist executives the opportunities inherent in such an alliance. A sound stage has been equipped on the fourth floor of the department store for the broadcasts, which run every hour on the hour from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The news is fed directly by United Press ticker service, installed in a newsroom adjoining the sound stage. The broadcasts will also be used for recruiting messages of Army, Navy, Marines, and War Bond sales talks.

Customers and visitors are invited to visit the newsroom, read the news flashes and headlines which are posted on bulletin boards, and attend the broadcasts. With news becoming more and more important to the public, it is expected that Gilchrist's news service will be of increasing value to listeners in New England.

NINE NEWSCASTS A DAY by Gilchrist Department Store on WORL, Boston, resulted from discussion at a recent NAB meeting in Boston. Leavitt Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Mayor Maurice Tobin of Boston at the inaugural broadcast. Attending were (standing, l to r): Fred S. Bailey, WORL account executive; Richard Salinger, head of the agency handling the Gilchrist account; F. Frank Vorenberg, president of Gilchrist's; Bob Perry, WORL's chief announcer and program director. Seated are Mayor Tobin and Gov. Saltonstall.

He attended the first district NAB meeting in Boston Dec. 9-10 at which Lew Avery, chairman of the NAB sales division, outlined the retail promotion plan for department store use of radio. He made an intensive study of his station's setup of department store advertising, held conferences with store executives and agency heads and outlined a plan for radio programs which resulted in Gilchrist's WORL campaign.

as a vehicle to promote the tire business, was revealed as having been filed with the Commission.

Two members of the Commission—Walker and Durr—dissented from the approval, holding that the transfer should have been set for hearing. Both raised the question of policy on transfer of broadcast stations to another industry and the precedent thus established. Commissioner Durr also cited absentee ownership and control and questioned whether it would be in the public interest to have large business establishments in a position to mold public opinion, which is inherent in the operation of broadcasting stations.

Colonial Net Acquired

The FCC approved the transfer of the four standard broadcast, four relay stations, two experimental and two FM stations to General Tire at a special meeting Dec. 31 [BROADCASTING, Jan. 4]. Commissioners Fly, Craven, Case and Wakefield voted affirmatively. Commissioner Payne was absent.

The price was given as $1,240,000, plus an additional amount to be determined equal to 94% of the aggregate net quick assets of Yankee over $100,000. General Tire also acquired, in a separate transaction, the stock of Colonial Network Inc., which is not a licensee, and whose income has been derived primarily from the sale of station time and wired transcription service (Muzak) to subscribers.

The O'Neil affidavit recited that General Tire believed that post-war America "is going to be an entirely new America, with increased manufacturing capacity and facilities, entirely changed methods of merchandising and advertising, a tremendous buying power and an even higher standard of living." The affidavit added General Tire believed radio has the potentiality for a tremendous contribution to this new pattern by employment of technological advances and new program techniques to not only entertain and inform listeners, but to become an important cog in our system of economy by aiding in the widest possible low-cost distribution of the commercial produce of the nation's productive genius and capacity.

General Tire said it believed advertising techniques that depreciate the public acceptance of broadcasting programs constitute not only bad programming but very bad advertising. The affidavit stated General Tire intended to buy some time on stations in the New England area and would use the Yankee Network stations to some extent for that purpose.

"It will buy time, facilities and services from Yankee at rates and under conditions that are available to all other sponsors who seek to buy time on the Yankee Network and its stations. No better deal for facilities, time or services will be made to General Tire than is made to any other user of time. It recognizes and will meet the necessity for it, as a broadcast licensee, to use the time sparingly to promote or advertise its own manufactured products and never, in any manner, form or practice that will give it an unfair advantage over any competitor or convert the stations and the network into a mere advertising or merchandising medium of the General Tire & Rubber Co.

To Reserve Net Decision

"Furthermore, as the transferee has agreed in its employment contract with John Shepard 3d, copies of which were furnished to the law department of the Commission, the 'advertising programs and announcements of the General Tire & Rubber Co., its affiliates or distributors will be subject to change in time when the time can be sold commercially to other sponsors.'

"The program policies and structure of the Yankee Network Inc. will be continued, but every effort will be expended to increase the public acceptance of these programs by keeping abreast of new techniques in program building and by the recognition of new interests of the listeners."

KELLOGG RETURNS TO NATIONAL AIR

ABSENT from national network radio since 1939, Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., on April 5 will expand its regional use of the BLUE network of 130 stations located from the East Coast to and including the Rocky Mountain area. Contract calls for Monday through Friday sponsorship of the last quarter-hour of the network's Breakfast at Sardi's program, heard 11-11:30 a.m. (EWT). The first portion of the broadcast from 11-11:15 a.m. will be used to build up the ensuing quarter-hour, sponsored by Kellogg in the interest of Pep cereal.

This new contract is in addition to the company's five-minute participations on Breakfast at Sardi's, heard on 13 BLUE Pacific Coast stations five times weekly, 9:30-10 a.m. (PWT). Kellogg began these participations, also in the interest of Pep, on Jan. 4 of this year. Agency in charge is Kenyon & Eckhardt, New York.

other network organization, the O'Neil affidavit said that Yankee now has an affiliation contract with Mutual that runs for approximately two years.

"No negotiations have been initiated or plans formed for the affiliation of the Yankee Network Inc. with any other national network. The present intention of the transferee, actually, is to fulfill its obligations specified in its affiliation contract with the Mutual Broadcasting System and to reserve decision on an extension thereof or affiliation with some other national network until facts and circumstances warrant consideration of such a program."

Two Dissents

The dissenting statements of Commissioners Walker and Durr follow:

Commissioner Walker: The application should be set for hearing. A finding that a transfer shall be in the public interest is mandatory. The application herein does not show on its face, or contain therein, convincing facts that the public interest would be served by the proposed transfer. A public hearing would, therefore, seem advisable.

The application should, in any event, be set for hearing on the issue of transferring broadcast stations to another industry. The instant application involves not only the control of certain broadcast stations but also of The Yankee Network Inc.

Broadcasting is of such public interest and importance that an effort should be made to keep it separate from other businesses. If a transfer of chain broadcasting interests, as herein proposed, may be granted to a tire and rubber company, may it not likewise be granted to a motor company or to a public utility? The precedent having once been established of transferring licenses controlling a network to other interests, where can the line be drawn? Chain broadcasting is of such vital public consequence and public interest that it should be a business in and of itself, and disassociated from any other business.

Commissioner Durr: I think the application should be set for hearing.

First, a question of absentee ownership and control is presented. The stations involved in the transfer are all located in New England. The control is now in the hands of people who are residents of New England and familiar with its problems and needs. Transferee is an Ohio corporation with its principal place of business in Akron. Its officers and directors are residents of Ohio with the exception of one who resides in Florida. With the exception of two brokerage houses in New York City, all stockholders owning 1% or more of the outstanding capital stock are residents of Ohio. Nor does the application show that the transferee and those controlling it have a familiarity with or interest in the problems of the New England area. Accordingly, I do not believe that sufficient showing has been made to warrant a finding that the transfer of control would be in the public interest.

Second, the transferee is a large manufacturing concern whose products have a nationwide distribution. By this transfer it will acquire, as an adjunct to its private business operations, a number of broadcasting stations which together serve a major portion of the New England states. With the networks to be acquired as a part of the same transaction, it will have access by radio to virtually the entire New England area.

The issue presented here is not whether interests engaged in other lines of business should be prevented from owning any broadcasting stations, but rather the extent to which they should be permitted to go in the acquisition of such stations. Unless some limitation is imposed, they may embark upon a program of station acquisition which will force their competitors, and even concerns in entirely different lines of business, to follow the same course in order to survive. Such a course would tend to make radio broadcasting an adjunct of private commercial enterprise instead of the independent medium of entertainment and expression which it must be if it is really to serve the public interest. Moreover, the war has greatly accelerated the tendency toward bigness in industrial concerns which has long been under way. Will it be in the public interest to consolidate under a common control the economic power of large business establishments and the power to mold public opinion which is inherent in the operation of broadcasting stations?

These are questions which I believe should be carefully investigated before the application is granted.

LOCAL GROUP SEEKS WKBB, IN DUBUQUE

WKBB, Dubuque, which four weeks ago had considered shutting down for the duration, has decided to remain on the air, according to Manager James Carpenter. Under the erroneous assumption that the FCC had decided to permit stations to suspend operation without prejudice during the war, Walter Klauer, president and majority stockholder, decided to cease operation Dec. 31 [BROADCASTING, Dec. 7].

Announcements were broadcast on the station to that effect. This resulted, according to Mr. Carpenter, in the receipt of large quantities of telegrams, letters and petitions asking the station to remain on the air. A few days later Mr. Klauer notified the FCC he was reconsidering.

Mr. Klauer is understood to have been anxious to withdraw from the station to devote all his time to his manufacturing concern engaged in war production. Negotiations for purchase of the station by Mr. Carpenter and a group of local businessmen are under way.

WKBB operates on 1490 kc. with 250 watts and is a BLUE affiliate. It was involved in litigation against FCC licensing of KDTH, Dubuque, contesting the grant on economic grounds. The case went to the Supreme Court where the FCC was upheld.

Johns Buying WOSH

NEGOTIATIONS are in progress for the sale of WOSH, Oshkosh, Wis., 250-watt outlet on 1490 kc. which first went on the air Jan. 1, 1942, to William Johns and his son, Miles. The elder Johns, former general manager of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press and Dispatch, is now head of Ridder-Johns, Chicago firm of newspaper representatives associated with the Ridder newspapers. His son is employed in the firm. The station, a BLUE outlet, would be purchased for approximately $50,000, with young Johns holding 55% of the stock and operating the station. It is now owned by Howard H. Wilson, head of the station representative firm bearing his name.

NEWSCASTS on the hour from 1 a.m. to 5 a.m. (EWT) have become a regular part of the WLW, Cincinnati, news service which is now an around-the-clock feature.

The youngsters, who welcomed Santa Claus to Hartford, are back row (l to r), Joan Patricelli, daughter of Leonard J. Patricelli, assistant program manager; Judy and Fred Wade Jr., children of Fred Wade, heard as Zeke Peck on the Wrightville Clarion and assistant production chief of WTIC; Paul Lucas Jr., son of Production Chief Lucas.

Second row, Clive Cowper, son of Irwin Cowper of the commercial department; Santa Claus, in private life Announcer Tom Carr; Arthur and Kathleen Jarvis, nephew and niece of Miss Clarke; Joan Kingsley, daughter of Edward Kingsley, engineer.

Front row, Robert Patricelli, Joan's brother; Robert Lucas, another son of Paul Lucas, and Miss Clarke.

Vetters Heads WFTL

S. A. (Steve) VETTER, commercial manager of WIOD, Miami, and a veteran in Florida radio, has resigned to become general manager of WFTL, Fort Lauderdale, according to an announcement last week. Mr. Vetter will establish offices and studios in Miami supplementing those in Fort Lauderdale in preparation for the operation of the station on 710 kc. with 10,000 w. scheduled about Feb. 1. Miami quarters will be on Biscayne Blvd. at 16th St. Mr. Vetter succeeds R. M. Tigert, who resigned several weeks ago. WFTL, an MBS outlet, now operates with 250 w. on 1400 kc., and is owned by Ralph A. Horton, local business man.

A. L. ALEXANDER'S Mediation Board, coincident with its shift from WIN to WOR, New York, Jan. 11, has been placed on Mutual as a regular weekly series, Monday, 9:15-10 p.m.

New Standard President

RALPH W. GALLAGHER, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey since last November, has been elected president and chief executive officer of the company, succeeding the late W. S. Farish. Eugene Holman, a vice-president and director of the company, was elected to membership in Standard's executive committee by the board of directors, which met last week. Named general sales manager of the company to succeed R. T. Haslam, recently elected a director, is A. Clarke Bedford, formerly assistant general sales manager.

KLX Staff Changes

WITH recent remodeling of studios, KLX, Oakland, Cal., announced several staff additions. Earle Caldwell has been appointed public relations director. Newcomers to the production department are Don Victor and Helen M. Camara. Added to the script department are Betsy Brown Porcher and Janet P. Bogert, formerly of Windsor Productions, New York. Robert Garner has joined the transmitter staff.

War Broadcasting Extended by CCBS Clear Channel Group Devotes 10% of Time to Government

THE GROWING scope of radio's war functions is recorded in a survey of one year's broadcasting since Pearl Harbor by the 1A Clear Channel stations.

The report, prepared by the Clear Channel Broadcasting Service, embraces the broadcast schedules of KDKA, Pittsburgh; KFI, Los Angeles; WBAP, Fort Worth; WFAA, Dallas; WGN, Chicago; WHAM, Rochester, N. Y.; WHAS, Louisville; WHO, Des Moines; WJR, Detroit; WLS, Chicago; WLW, Cincinnati; WOAI, San Antonio; WSB, Atlanta; WSM, Nashville; WWL, New Orleans. The survey covers the period from Dec. 7, 1941, to Dec. 7, 1942.

War Programs Increase

At the beginning of this country's active participation in the war, station programming was devoted primarily to spot announcements, news broadcasts and a limited degree of educational work on the background of war developments. As the year progressed, stations gradually began putting more and more showmanship and individual management into their war programs. This is illustrated by the different methods now employed by Clear Channel stations in the sale of War Bonds, scrap metal and rubber salvage collections, new stunts and shows for servicemen and in creating organizations of listeners to do many other activities for the war effort.

With the second year of war now under way, broadcasts related to the war have become one of the largest single types of programming on Clear Channel stations' schedules. Figures for the first year reveal a total of 63,606 spot announcements concerned with the war effort broadcast by CCBS stations, approximately 2,026 hours of locally originated live programs, 954 hours of locally originated and transcribed shows and 2,436 hours of network war shows.

Only Sustainers Counted

Although war programming is just a necessary function of radio in wartime, the hours devoted to war broadcasts by each station were more than 10% of its total broadcasting time. The total value of all time dedicated to the war effort, estimated on the basis of each station's card rates and discounts, but making no allowance for production and talent costs, runs over $4,400,000.

Programs and announcements used in the compilation of this survey were broadcast on a sustaining basis. No newscasts, sports programs and late-hour orchestra music—of interest and for the entertainment of practically all listeners—were included.

NAB Head Calls Petrillo Ban a Blow To Morale; Patriotic Music Stymied

By NEVILLE MILLER
President, NAB

FULLY five months have elapsed since James C. Petrillo put into effect his ban on electrical transcriptions and other types of musical recordings. Since Aug. 1, no new recordings have been made; in fact, few songs have been written during the intervening five months. Such inspiring events as the Battle of the Solomons, the North African campaign and the scuttling of the French fleet at Toulon, which ordinarily would have been celebrated in song, have gone unnoticed by the composers, and the inspirational values of new patriotic music have been lost to the people. The result is a distinct blow at the morale of the American people; and consequently to the war effort.

Industry Employed Thousands

The passage of time has made the claim on which Mr. Petrillo went to the public, namely, a claim of unemployment, even more patently absurd than it was on Aug. 1. It is recognized that the country at the present time faces manpower shortages. Even before 1942, however, the American Federation of Musicians had no legitimate issue of unemployment outside of a few large centers of population, and there is no evidence to show that recordings have ever thrown musicians out of work. The NAB has repeatedly pointed out that the radio industry, far from reducing employment of musicians, has provided continually expanding opportunities for their employment; and that musicians today have more employment in radio at better wages, than ever before.

From the broad social and economic viewpoint, it can be demonstrated that the invention of the phonograph and radio not only brought distinct cultural gains to all the people, but made possible the employment of several hundred thousand persons and hundreds of millions of dollars of capital.

NAB has demonstrated the speciousness of the argument that the record is responsible for unemployment among musicians. It is, of course, obvious that in many industries machines have been invented which have caused men and women to lose their jobs. The phonograph, however, was invented more than half a century ago, before any union musician now alive had decided upon music as a career. The industries which make use of the phonograph or record can hardly be expected to assume a responsibility in perpetuity of providing jobs to men and women who elect instrumental music as a career.

Mr. Petrillo, on June 25, made public his order banning the making of transcriptions and recordings, beginning Aug. 1. At no time has he made any demands on the affected industries which they might accept or reject. Indeed it is possible that he has not even formulated the terms and conditions upon which he would permit his men to return to work.

The various points of view, as well as all the facts in the situation, are expected to be thoroughly explored by the subcommittee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, headed by Senator D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho), whose investigation is scheduled to begin on Jan. 12.

Five months have seen no change in the ban; have emphasized the absurdity of Mr. Petrillo's claim of unemployment. And the musicians who used to make recordings are already out of pocket in the sum of $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

To Film 'Command'

FILM VERSION of Command Performance, Army program shortwaved to the AEF, will be produced by a new Hollywood independent company now being formed. Headed by Myron S. Marks, formerly partner of Marks Bros. Theatre Circuit, Chicago, and Julie Styne, songwriter, the firm acquired film rights to the shortwave radio program June 28, it was said. Picture will combine both drama and music. It will relate story of the program from its inception, dramatizing wartime conditions under which the AEF receives the show. Actual production starts following conferences by Marks with Government officials.

Navy-OWI Broadcasts Beamed to All War Theatres

HOME TOWN news is featured in two new programs beamed to Navy and Marines personnel overseas and begun recently through cooperation of the Navy's Public Relations radio branch, headed by J. Harrison Hartley, and the OWI Overseas Forces Division, of which Louis G. Cowan is chief.

The Navy program, Calling the Navy, is a daily quarter-hour, recorded by the OWI and transmitted at various times on shortwave stations to all theaters of operations. It contains local news items and notes of interest to naval personnel.

Designed for the Southwest Pacific area only, Tell It to the Marines is aired by KGEI, San Francisco, at 1:05 a.m. (PWT), immediately following KGEI's regular newscast, Tues., Thurs. and Sat. This program follows the Navy show in format, although Marine combat correspondents have been asked to provide material and keep Washington headquarters posted on the type of news the Marines want.

Greetings from Adm. Ernest J. King, Commander-in-Chief and Chief of Naval Operations, the Hon. Ralph A. Bard, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, USMC, commandant, were broadcast on all Navy programs Jan. 1 and 2. The Calling the Marines broadcast started Jan. 5.

Ira L. Grimshaw

IRA L. GRIMSHAW, 55, assistant general counsel of NBC, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home in Scarsdale, suburb of New York City, on New Year's Day. He had been with NBC for 10 years, located in the company's New York offices, with A. L. Ashby, vice-president and general counsel.

Born May 31, 1887, in Denver, he moved to San Francisco at an early age and in his teens, to Santa Fe. Graduated from the U of Michigan with the degrees of A.B. and LL.B., he returned to New Mexico to practice law, later becoming clerk for the Supreme Court of New Mexico.

Moving east, Mr. Grimshaw was associated with the late Stephen Brooks Davis, formerly Justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico, as assistant counsel for the National Electric Light Assn. He was also assistant to Judge Davis when the latter had charge of radio licenses when these were administered by the Department of Commerce. He was subsequently associated with Judge Davis in general law practice in New York until the Judge's death in 1933, following which he became a member of the legal staff of NBC.

During his decade at NBC, Mr. Grimshaw devoted himself chiefly to legal problems arising in the network's sales and program talent divisions and he was also in close touch with legislative matters pertaining to radio and with the industry's union negotiations.

Mr. Grimshaw served as a major in the Army in World War I.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beatrice Grimshaw, and by two sons, Robert and Thomas, both students at the U of Michigan. Funeral services were held at Scarsdale on Jan. 3 and were in part conducted by the Masonic Lodge of which Mr. Grimshaw was a high ranking member.

cerpts from some of the answers follow:

Bernard Estes, director of public relations, WINS: "This story is as unfair as it is inaccurate . . . to my knowledge no radio station in New York deliberately went out and solicited accounts that were currently running in the newspapers—thereby taking advantage of a fellow advertising medium in distress. The amusement field (restaurants, theatres and movies), which did increase its use of radio, found it to be so successful that a good portion of the temporary business has become permanent without affecting the amount being done with the newspapers; in other words, the amusement field is spending more money for advertising without decreasing its newspaper appropriation—so that while radio has gained, newspapers cannot claim that they have lost anything."

Most Stores Sat Tight

Hugh Kendall Boice, vice-president, WQXR: "Bloomingdale's, which was already on the station on a regular schedule, bought some additional time. But most of the other stores and specialty shops simply sat tight, thinking every morning and afternoon that the strike would be over. We have checked on the effect of the newspaper strike on the theaters and motion picture houses through an agency here which handles a lot of this advertising, Kayton-Spiro Co. The motion picture houses had no falling-off at all; in fact, they were very busy. They were the ones who bought most of the time on stations here. The theatres always note a falling-off in business during the few days before Christmas."

Edgar Kobak, executive vice-president of the BLUE, said that WJZ, BLUE station in New York, made no effort to go after department store advertising during the strike. When one medium is in trouble the other media should help out and not go in competitively, he said, adding he would ignore attacks of the Munger variety as not typical of the views of the newspaper industry.

WHN's answer to Mr. Bacon had not been completed as BROADCASTING went to press, but Herb Chason, WHN promotion manager, pointed to the Federal Reserve figures showing the department store sales increase as an answer to the newspaper stories.

When "Random Harvest" opened at Radio City Music Hall on Thursday, without the usual three-day newspaper advertising but with only radio promotion, crowds swamped the lobby more than an hour before the first show began.

Sherman D. Gregory, general manager, WEA, said: "When the strike was called we immediately increased our news periods as much as possible . . . the amusement industry, plus Curtis Publishing Co., immediately contracted for live spot announcements on a day-to-day basis and have since continued to buy announcements on WEA. . . . After the first 24 hours three department stores asked for rates for 15-minute periods in case the strike went on."

"When the strike entered its third day, the New York Herald-Tribune asked WEA for a 15-minute period in which to inform radio listeners what would be in the next day's issue of the Herald-Tribune. That afternoon the strike was called off, but the Herald-Tribune had been prepared to buy a 15-minute spot, write the copy for this period and have it read by one of our announcers."

MARK GREGORY, formerly an announcer of WMCA, New York, WFIL, Philadelphia, WNAC, Boston, and WCPO, Cincinnati, has joined WLW-SAI, Cincinnati, replacing Howard Woodard, announcer who has joined the armed forces.

HITLER JAMMING SHORTWAVE BEAMS

INDICATING that United Nations news broadcasts are having their effect upon Germany and occupied Europe, the Nazis last week opened a wavelength "jamming" campaign described in a Jan. 7 United Press dispatch as "one of the greatest ether offensives of the war". The dispatch said they were attempting to jam every foreign broadcast which might disclose the extent of Germany's setbacks.

While Propaganda Minister Goebbels' commentators maintained a strategic silence on the Russian war, Nazi jamming transmitters attempted to reduce all foreign broadcasts to a jumble of noise.

They concentrated particularly on German-language broadcasts by the Moscow radio, but also attempted to block British broadcasts to Sweden, which hitherto have been untouched, and Swedish transmission to Europe.

The Nazis' jamming efforts indicated new fears of cracks in the German home front, where foreign broadcasts apparently are still being heard, despite the severe penalties which long have been imposed upon persons caught listening. British radio engineers reported, however, that their broadcasts were getting through to Europe despite the Nazis' efforts.

WPB to Get AFRA Pacts This Week

10% Salary Raise Provided;
Nets, Union in Accord

AMERICAN Federation of Radio Artists expects to submit its revised network sustaining contracts to the War Labor Board for approval sometime this week. Attorneys for the networks and AFRA, in a meeting last week, agreed on the final form of the new contracts, which were sent out by the union to broadcasters for signatures.

"The alterations were changes of expression and not of content," said Emily Holt, AFRA executive secretary. She added that the meeting adjourned on a note of complete agreement and that signing the contracts is now only a formality.

The four AFRA locals whose members are affected by the contract revisions—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco—have approved the new terms, so that when the contracts come in from the broadcasters AFRA will sign them and submit them to the WLB, probably early this week.

This is necessary because the contracts call for a 10% increase in the minimum scales for the employment of radio artists on sustaining programs on the nationwide networks and key stations. All wage increases must be approved by the WLB before they are put into effect, under the Government's wage stabilization program.

AFRA board on Thursday approved contracts negotiated by the union with WCAE, Pittsburgh, and WJWC, Chicago. Both are new contracts and standard AFRA documents with wages and conditions for artists and announcers at each station on a par with other stations of similar rating in their communities. WCAE contract runs for one year. WJWC contract expires Nov. 1, common expiration date of most AFRA contracts with Chicago stations.

Ray Jones, secretary of the AFRA Chicago local and a member of the union's national board, has enlisted in the Army and enters officers' training school Jan. 15. Vic Connors, field representative of AFRA, has been notified to report for induction on Jan. 29.

FTC Holds 17,925 Commercial Scripts for Further Scrutiny

Broadcasters Cooperate by Submitting Million Continuities for Review in Fiscal Year

DURING the fiscal year 1942, the Federal Trade Commission's Radio & Periodical Division marked 17,925 commercial broadcast scripts for further study as containing claims that might be false or misleading, according to the FTC's annual report made public Jan. 6.

The figure compares with 18,221 periodical advertisements noted as containing claims that appeared to be false or misleading.

Drugs Lead

Broadcasters cooperated with the FTC in submitting continuities for examination, the report states. The Commission staff received 1,053,875 commercial broadcast continuities during the fiscal year and examined 1,001,450. The continuities received amounted to 2,032,417 pages, with 1,912,725 pages examined. These consisted of 1,416,606 pages of individual station script and 13,119 pages of script representing the built-in commercial portions of transcription recording productions destined for broadcast through multiple pressings. An average of 6,230 pages of script was read each working day.

Of the radio and periodical cases,

86.5% resulted from the routine survey of advertising material and 13.5% came from complaints or information received from other Government agencies, competitors and other members of the public.

Breaking down questioned continuities by types of products, the FTC found that 75.6% were in the food, drugs, devices and cosmetics class. These are divided into human food 10.6%; animal food 2.9%; drugs 44.3%; cosmetics 15.4%; devices 2.4%. Other products are: Specialty and novelty goods, 5.4%; auto, radio, refrigerator and other equipment 1.3%; home study courses 1.6%; tobacco products 1%; gasoline and lubricants .9%; poultry and livestock supplies and equipment .2%; miscellaneous, including apparel, fuels, house furnishings and building materials 14%.

Fewer Pending Cases

During the year the FTC sent questionnaires to advertisers in 432 cases and to advertising agencies in 36 cases, and accepted 219 stipulations involving radio and periodical advertising, of which 27 were amended, substitute or supplemental stipulations.

A total of 451 cases received Commission handling under its methods of procedure. Of this number, 207 cases were considered settled upon receipt of reports showing compliance with previously negotiated stipulations. In 17 cases the FTC waived compliance reports. Of the remaining 227 cases, 208 were closed without prejudice to the right of the Commission to reopen if warranted by the facts.

Of these 208 cases, 99 were for lack of jurisdiction or lack of evidence sufficient to establish a violation of law, 94 because of discontinued business and practices or insufficient public interest, 15 because corrective action by the Post Office Dept. made further action by the Commission unnecessary, and 19 supplemental investigations were filed without action for various reasons.

In addition, the Commission in 42 cases directed issuance of complaints, 31 because advertisers failed to stipulate and 11 because of violations of previous stipulations. Field investigations were ordered in 28 cases and 779 radio and periodical cases were pending July 1, 1941, as against 726 on June 30, 1942.

Among FTC activities last year are included surveys, analyses, summaries and reports to various United States agencies covering advertising having relation to the war effort, armed services, price trends, rationing, priorities and other war-related topics. Possible violations of the Code of Wartime Practices for American Broadcasters as promulgated by the Office of Censorship were transferred to the FTC.

Errors in Morehouse Article

In a paragraph dealing with Commission procedure, the word "high" appeared as "low". This paragraph, at the bottom of the first column, page 15, should have read:

Compiling Data

The FCC already is working on its justifications for the new appropriation, compiling data of the character usually requested by members of the Appropriations Subcommittee, of which Rep. Woodrum (D-Va.) is chairman. Rep. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.) persistently has requested the Commission to furnish the committee with detailed information on station sales and transfers and on certain aspects of network operation.

Last March, Chairman Fly made two appearances before the House Rules Committee and denied knowledge of any effort to block passage of the resolution. There were fireworks aplenty then. It was strongly indicated that the Administration, because of the pressure of war activity and emergency legislation, preferred to avoid an inquiry. Subsequently, hearings were held before the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee on the Sanders bill for reorganization of the FCC, but the measure died with the adjournment of the last session.

TEXT OF COX RESOLUTION

FOLLOWING is the full text of the resolution (HRes.-21) introduced Jan. 6 by Rep. Eugene E. Cox (D-Ga.) for an investigation of the FCC, which was referred to the House Rules Committee:

RESOLVED, That there is hereby created a select committee to be composed of five members of the House to be appointed by the Speaker, one of whom he shall designate as chairman. Any vacancy occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled in the same manner in which the original appointment was made.

The committee is authorized and directed to conduct a study and investigation of the organization, personnel, and activities of the Federal Communications Commission with a view to determining whether or not such Commission in its organization, in the selection of personnel, and in the conduct of its activities, has been, and is, acting in accordance with law and the public interest.

The Committee shall report to the House (or to the Clerk of the House if the House is not in session) at the earliest practicable date during the present Congress the results of its investigation, together with such recommendations as it deems desirable.

For the purposes of this resolution the committee is authorized to sit and act during the present Congress at such times and places within the United States, whether or not the House is sitting, has recessed, or has adjourned, to hold such hearings, to require the attendance of such witnesses and the production of such books, papers, and documents, and to take such testimony, as it deems necessary. Subpoenas may be issued under the signature of the chairman of the committee or any member designated by such chairman or member.

FCC Changes Identification Rules For Non-Standard Broadcast Stations

APPLYING TO SERVICES other than standard broadcasting, the FCC last Tuesday adopted regulations pertaining to announcement of call letters for station identification. All standard stations, under existing regulations which are in no wise altered, are required to announce call letters at half-hour intervals except under conditions where a continuous program service would be interrupted. The new regulations, applicable to such services as television, FM, developmental, relay and studio-transmitter service require call letter announcements at least every hour. Following is the text of the public notice:

Adopted Section 2.65, relative to the announcement of call letters, which reads as follows:

Equal Time Issue Debated by House

Control of Air Commentators Urged by Two Members

REVIVAL of the perennial issue of equal time for discussion of public questions developed with the convening of the new Congress last Wednesday, with two members of the House unbending on commentators and commercials.

Reps. Rankin (D-Miss.) and Mundt (R-S.D.) agreed that legislative steps to control commentators would be desirable, but they offered no precise formula. Variations of the equal time issue have been raised during every recent session of Congress. Mr. Rankin loosed a tirade against "a few flannel-mouthed propagandists". He said Congress is constantly "abused, maligned and vilified over the radio" and asserted this was one of the problems it would have to meet.

"As far as I am concerned, I am in favor of making arrangements whereby we may either have a national radio system or time divided between the two sides of both House and Senate, in order that members and Senators may go on the radio and speak to the American people on issues that confront the Congress, and thus offset a lot of the propaganda and insinuations that are being spread by a few flannel-mouthed propagandists who are doing more to destroy American institutions than they are to spread public information."

Radio Alert When Floods Threaten

Ohio Valley Stations Remain On Job as Waters Rise

RECALLING the emergency job radio performed in the disastrous 1937 Ohio valley flood, stations in affected areas during the recent high-water scare were prepared for any eventuality.

In Wheeling, W. Va., WWVA, operating on a 24-hour basis, kept listeners informed on the condition of the swollen Ohio with bulletins at half-hour intervals.

Portsmouth, O., one of the hard hit cities of the 1937 flood, made ready to meet the emergency should the Ohio go over a 62-foot wall which protects the city. Under Acting Manager Paul Wagner, WPAY organized its staff for fulltime duty. Bulletins were broadcast. The station did much to allay fears brought about by unfounded rumors. With no local newspapers published New Year's day, Portsmouth inhabitants turned to WPAY for full information. The swollen waters came within .8 feet of reaching the flood wall top before receding.

Cincinnati

In Cincinnati, Program Director Fred Dodge of WKRC organized for an all-out emergency operation, but when it became apparent that the Ohio river would not reach severe flood proportions there, WKRC devoted its special broadcasts to the city's preparedness campaign. A record library of the WKRC broadcasts will be presented to the city for reference use in future flood control planning.

In New York, the Red Cross needed oil stoves for victims of the Onandaga valley high water. Fred Ripley, whose music and poetry program for Carling's is a feature of WSYR, broadcast the appeal. Within a few minutes the Red Cross had 103 stoves.

Instalment Buying Plan

ing on the certificate's total values. The dealer would forward this contract to a sales finance agency authorized by the Federal Reserve Bank to handle collections and bookkeeping.

Payments Locally Made

In possession of the post-war delivery contract, the sales finance agency would issue a payment book to the purchaser and open a ledger account for him. Plans contemplate that the purchaser would make payments through local organizations, such as public utilities firms already equipped for budget collections. Local agencies would forward payments to the proper sales agencies and they, in turn, would transit the funds to the Federal Reserve Bank or district branch which would credit receipts to a special post-war delivery account in the name of the Treasury Dept.

Sales finance agencies and local collection agencies would be allowed small commissions, which would be subtracted from collections. Sales and collection commissions would be taken directly from purchaser payments but covered when the certificate was entirely paid by the Treasury.

Reverse of Present Buying

The incentive offered to the consumer is dual: a prior claim on goods finally available when post-war production commences and a 10% discount from the established post-war price, achieved by assigning a merchandise value in excess of the purchase price.

In developing the plan, Mr. Nugent pointed out that there was no intention of having it replace normal savings, purchase of War Bonds or any other existing tax method. He declared that the existing machinery for reduction of purchasing power is inadequate to handle the enlarged buying power resulting from increased production of war goods and reduced production of consumer goods.

The plan's success will be predicated in part, Mr. Nugent contended, on the established habit of instalment buying which is merely being turned in reverse. Normally the consumer is able to pay a small amount down and obtain the merchandise for immediate use. Under the proposed plan, payments would be made periodically but total payment would precede actual use.

The plan is not intended to enlarge the post-war market but rather to preserve goods and services that might otherwise be sacrificed to meet payments for durables.

Some opposition is anticipated from those who will maintain that consumers will be unwilling to buy goods not yet in existence. In answer, the plan points out that mail order houses have had success with sales of merchandise on the basis of catalogues where only descriptions of goods can make a sale. It is pointed out, however, that the consumer is not committing himself to a specific make or brand beforehand. Furthermore consumers are well aware of the performance of goods manufactured by such names as Ford, Chevrolet, Plymouth, Frigidaire, General Electric or any other. The consumer is free to choose among makes and models at the time of delivery.

Transmitter Stolen

MOBILE transmitter WJSN of WTJS, Jackson, Tenn., was stolen from the streets of Jackson recently. Alarm was broadcast throughout four States. The blue Studebaker coach which housed the transmitter, gaily painted in silver letters, front, sides and rear, was spotted parked in front of a hotel in Columbus, Miss., by Bob McRaney, manager of WCBI, Columbus. Nothing was damaged.

OWI Reorganizes Overseas Branch

Barnes is Associate Director In Streamlined Setup

STREAMLINING operations of the Office of War Information Overseas Branch, several personnel changes were announced last week under which Joseph Barnes, chief of the New York headquarters of the Overseas Branch was advanced to the post of associate director of the branch, continuing in charge of the New York office; Harold Guinzburg was relieved of his responsibilities in the direction of the outpost setup and promoted to deputy director in charge of recording and transcriptions; and James Linen was advanced to take charge of outpost operations.

Along with changes in personnel, the branch was reorganized on the basis of geographical areas. Under the new arrangement, material will be prepared by areas. Under this decentralization it is expected, officials say, that broadcast operations will be improved through specialization.

Communications With Africa

Last Wednesday new transmission facilities were opened from North Africa directly to Washington, Elmer Davis said at his news conference. Operating one channel of a six-channel transmitter, OWI is sharing time with press associations and newspapers in the direct transmission of news to this country instead of through London as heretofore.

The new setup will provide for the transmission of news at the rate of about 3,000 words per hour for three or four hours a day, Mr. Davis said. It will be delivered to Washington by Western Union and then transmitted to the news associations in New York, he explained. Censorship will be cared for at the African end, Mr. Davis felt, and said that no provision had been made for further censorship at this end.

CAPACITY: ONE GALLON

... Doesn't Mean a Thing!

THE "capacity" is the same whether the jug is full or empty. A radio station's capacity to cover square miles is identical whether or not anyone is listening. And unless people are listening, you can't pour a drop of selling into their ears. No amount of potential listeners can possibly equal one who actually does.

WKY's capacity for covering square miles in Oklahoma exceeds that of any other Oklahoma City station, but what is more important, WKY delivers that coverage with the greatest available volume of actual listeners. Hooper is authority for that.

WKY delivers LISTENERS with its coverage . . . and decisively more of them per square mile and per dollar than does any other Oklahoma City station.
