ROAD SHOW • BBDO's move to reacquaint its people with radio by inviting four networks to make joint presentation [B•T, Dec. 6, 1954] is turning into road show. Success of BBDO project prompted Radio Advertising Bureau to offer to serve as booking agent for similar joint pitches to other agencies, top 12 of which now are slated to be covered. Next on list is N. W. Ayer & Son in Philadelphia Wednesday, with J. Walter Thompson Co. and Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample in New York also booked for early showings.

B•T

ABC-TV soon may introduce five-time-weekly film show produced by Walt Disney. Proposed program, aimed at children's audience in afternoon slot, was discussed last week in Hollywood by Mr. Disney and Robert E. Kintner, ABC president. It would be addition to Disneyland, current nighttime hit on ABC-TV.

B•T

POLITICAL PRODUCTION • With Democrats doing convention shopping early by setting week of Aug. 27, 1956, for national convention (site to be selected), there are strong indications energetic new chairman, Paul Butler of South Bend, will seek to tailor proceedings to meet requirements of radio and television broadcasters. During Aug. 20 week, various committees will get together to organize "streamlined" convention, patterned to meet conveniences of nationwide audiences. Key effort, it's understood, will be made to eliminate dreary polling of state delegations.

B•T

CARBON COPY of confusion at FCC when President Eisenhower allowed FCC chairmanship to lapse from last April to October seen in situation at Civil Aeronautics Board. Chan Gurney, former South Dakota senator and former managing head of WNAX Yankton, who has been serving as chairman, was named "acting chairman" last week after yearend expiration of his term, with indications that new appointee later would be named chairman. White House last year had allowed Rosel H. Hyde's term as chairman to expire, and he served by vote of his fellow commissioners as acting chairman until appointment of George C. McConnaughey last October.

B•T

CONFIRMATION • Last Friday there was no indication when Senate Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee would consider confirmation of George C. McConnaughey as member and chairman of FCC. That's because, as of then, White House had not submitted nomination for consideration of newly organized and Democrat-controlled Congress. After Senate committee last Nov. 9 had voted 7-0 (but with seven Democratic members abstaining) for McConnaughey confirmation, Senate itself didn't act. Thus at this session slate is wiped clean and no action can be taken until President resubmits nomination.

B•T

LOOK for Crusade for Spot Radio, financed by stations and conducted by Station Representatives Assn. among agencies and advertisers during past two years, to cease operations about late spring. Stepped-up activity of Radio Advertising Bureau in spot field seen as making Crusade no longer necessary. Decision to disband expected to be announced soon.

B•T

LAMB PROSECUTOR • Although Broadcast Bureau, in its pleading to delay resumption of Ed Lamb-WICU (TV) Erie license renewal hearing, said that chief counsel Walter R. Powell Jr. would be succeeded by trial attorney Edward J. Brown, top FCC source revealed Mr. Brown had not been named "chief" counsel and decision won't be made until this week. Other quarters speculated Joseph Kittner, assistant chief of Broadcast Bureau, is likely choice. Mr. Powell left FCC for NARTB (story page 76).

B•T

STINGING editorial was published in Jan. 6 issue of Edward Lamb's Erie Dispatch on resignation of Walter R. Powell Jr. from FCC to become staff attorney for NARTB. Editorial alleged Mr. Powell, who has been FCC's chief attorney in renewal proceedings regarding Mr. Lamb's WICU (TV) Erie, has been "fired" and also raised questions about Robert Leahy, FCC staff investigator. Question: Will Lamb stations remain in NARTB membership?

B•T

RAYBURN BAN • House Speaker Sam Rayburn's opposition to airing of House committee proceedings may bring efforts from within his own Democratic Party to effect compromise. Mr. Rayburn has contended telecasting of committee work unduly disturbs decorum. Suggestion will be for study of effect of broadcasting on congressional business, with provision made that important as well as sensational proceedings be aired. Unlike Senate, where each committee makes its own rules, rules of House are those of committee also and Speaker is boss.

B•T

COMMUNITY television operators, 300 strong, have been urged to write congressmen regarding unauthorized re-radiators operating in Washington state [B•T, Nov. 22, 1954]. Fear is expressed by Community Television Assn. officials that unhampered operation of unofficial and illegal "repeater" facilities will give ideas to others—to detriment of community tv groups.

B•T

BEFORE 'TONIGHT' • Hazel Markel, top Washington newswoman, is aligning solidly with NBC. In addition to her new post as associate producer of Ted Granik's The American Forum and Youth Wants to Know, she is expected to take on evening stint preceding Steve Allen's Tonight (with sponsors signed). She also is handling women's angle, on spot news basis, on Ray Henle's Three Star Extra (Sunoco sponsorship, plus co-op).

B•T

COMR. FRIEDA B. HENNOCK has a new cause celebre—subscription tv. She has grabbed ball in recent days. But Comr. Robert E. Lee for some months has been making first-hand study of pay-as-you-go projects and is ramrodding FCC action, expected this week in form of first phase of rule-making looking toward broad comments from all parties in interest.

B•T

HEADED FOR COURT • WTRI (TV) Albany principals definitely have decided to file court appeal against FCC denial of request to stay ownership transfer of WROW-AM-TV Albany to CBS newscaster Lowell Thomas and associates [B•T, Jan. 3]. Commission, although refusing to grant stay of transfer, ordered Jan. 24 oral argument on WTRI charge that Mr. Thomas and CBS should be considered as one for purposes of multiple ownership rules. It also said future hearing will be held on other WTRI allegations. CBS-TV affiliation changes from WTRI to WROW-TV Feb. 1.

B•T

NEW WRINKLE DEPARTMENT: Chicago advertising row hears an unidentified person has been representing himself as executive with "Sherman & Marquette" agency seeking station availabilities for purported time purchases by Oscar Mayer & Co. and Quaker Oats. Changing his name as he moves around, he reportedly has made solicitations to stations in Seattle and elsewhere. Wrinkle: man reportedly is content to settle merely for free drinks and food. Rub: Sherman & Marquette no longer exists. Agency is now known as Wherry, Baker & Tilden.

B•T

TIT FOR TAT • Unusual offer going to radio stations around country from Century Broadcasting System, New York: two free half-hour programs, billed as starring top name talent, to be provided by Century five days weekly in return for one minute of time five days per week to be sold by Century. Letter says one program features such stars as Patti Page, Kaye Starr, Peggy Lee; others, such as Milton Berle, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, Martin & Lewis. Century, said to be subsidiary of Columbia Amusement Corp., booking agency, also offers to pay agency and representatives' commissions. It asked stations to reply by today (Mon.).

HEARST ACQUIRES WTVW (TV) MILWAUKEE; NBC BUYS WKNB-TV NEW BRITAIN, CONN.

PURCHASE of ch. 12 WTVW (TV) Milwaukee by Hearst Corp. for $2 million [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Dec. 13, 1954] announced Friday, subject to usual FCC approval.

Milwaukee sale announcement came same day NBC officially announced its $606,000 purchase of WKNB-AM-TV New Britain-Hartford, Conn. (see early story page 27).

Milwaukee purchase "is first step in our long range plans to acquire the full quota of tv stations," Charles B. McCabe, Hearst radio-tv chairman, said in announcement. He also said Hearst is negotiating in other cities and that "further announcements may be expected."

Hearst owns WISN Milwaukee, WBAL-AM-TV Baltimore, and, through associated company, WCAE Pittsburgh. It owns newspapers in those cities and in New York, Albany (N. Y.), Boston, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Antonio and Seattle. WCAE is one of five applicants for Pittsburgh ch. 4.

Purchase price of $2 million includes assumption of more than $1 million in contracts for completion of power boost to 251 kw and 1,070-ft. tower. Station, which began operating last year, was granted following four-way merger among Milwaukee Area Telecasting Corp., Kolerio Telecasting Co., and WEMP and WFOX Milwaukee.

With Hearst buy of Milwaukee ch. 12 station, company will withdraw from three-cornered Whitefish Bay (Milwaukee) ch. 6 hearing, it was said. This will leave WMIL Milwaukee and non-broadcaster Independent Television Inc. in contest for that channel, but merger may ensue. WCAN Milwaukee, intervenor in ch. 6 battle, has indicated it will withdraw when FCC approves CBS purchase of WOKY-TV Milwaukee and facilities of WCAN-TV [B•T, Oct. 25, 1954], it was understood. Poller station, which also had appealed to federal courts against Milwaukee ch. 12 merger grant, failed to file its brief Jan. 3 and its appeal was dismissed, it was learned.

NBC late Friday acquired WKNB-TV New Britain-Hartford (ch. 30)—its first uhf outlet—for $606,000. Transaction, subject to FCC approval, also is contingent upon move of transmitter site to Mt. Higby. Network will go "all out" and will seek one million-w uhf maximum from new location to provide Hartford-New Britain-New Haven coverage.

NBC, according to Charles R. Denny Jr., vice president in charge of owned and operated stations, acquired all of capital stock of New Britain Broadcasting Co. from Julian Gross, former agency owner, and his associates. This includes WKNB-AM, daytime on 840 kc, 1 kw, which NBC presumably would sell. Last ownership report lists stockholders as Mr. Gross 47.7%; Chester Bland 15.7%; Goodman Banks 10.3%; Lawrence Whitehead 3.3%, and Milton Conhaim 6.4%. WKNB-TV had Class A hour live rate of $400, film $350.

Transaction, in negotiation for several weeks, was completed Friday afternoon by Messrs. Gross and Denny, with Joseph Heffernan, NBC financial vice president; Thomas Irvin, NBC general counsel, and Judge Solomon Elsner and Washington attorney Lester Cohen. Blackburn-Hamilton handled sale.

WKNB-TV now has authorized power of 155 kw visual, 81.3 kw aural, with operating power of 20 kw visual and 10 kw aural. Antenna, on Rattlesnake Mountain, is 970 feet above average terrain, 545 feet above ground. Bolling Co. is national sales representative.

NBC said it had not yet decided upon location of its second uhf outlet, to give it its full quota.

U., and received law training at National U., Washington, during 1951-54. Native of Washington, he is member of board of governors of Metropolitan Club, and also member of Chevy Chase Club and Delta Theta Phi, law fraternity.

George Wheeler Elected Vice President by RCA

GEORGE Y. WHEELER II, for last five years assistant to NBC Washington Vice President Frank M. Russell, has been elected staff vice president of RCA [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Dec. 20, 1954], it was announced Friday. He will remain in Washington.

MR. WHEELER

Mr. Wheeler, 37, joined NBC in 1937 as page. From 1938 to 1944 he served in NBC's Washington program department as announcer, performer, writer, producer and program manager. In 1944 he served as war correspondent in European Theatre of Operations. After World War II Mr. Wheeler was named assistant general manager of NBC in Washington, serving in that capacity until 1949 when he was named Mr. Russell's assistant.

Mr. Wheeler is 1937 graduate of Princeton

STUNT WITH DATA

RADIO Advertising Bureau is using research cutie to demonstrate radio's effectiveness and have fun in process. RAB people got commercial for Jim Clinton Clothing Stores of Los Angeles area, took it thousand miles to Houston and aired it 21 times in one week on KPRC there. Then they hired Pulse to do survey. Findings: of those interviewed, 12% were able to identify Jim Clinton Stores—this even though only couple persons (former Los Angeles residents) had any reason to have heard of them before, and also despite fact commercials were broadcast during evenings in so-called "television time." This is one of several research departures RAB has in works to add weight to pro-radio drive among advertisers and agencies.

Lamb Asks FCC to Drop Issue in Renewal Hearing

EDWARD LAMB's WICU (TV) Erie, Pa., petitioned FCC Friday for severance and immediate decision on Issue No. 1 in license renewal proceeding pending before Examiner Herbert Sharfman. WICU charges "bankruptcy of the Broadcast Bureau's evidence to date [on Mr. Lamb's alleged communist ties] is appalling, and to require Mr. Lamb to answer further the incredible and defamatory charges of such irresponsible and disreputable witnesses as have been heard to date is an abuse of process."

WICU is entitled to renewal "as matter of law," petition asserted, charging there is no evidence Mr. Lamb misrepresented or concealed any material fact from FCC. Case resumes Jan. 18 but Broadcast Bureau has asked delay to Feb. 9 so new counsel Edward J. Brown can prepare.

Magazine Revenues Reach $694.1 Million, New Record

MAGAZINE advertising revenues reported at all-time high, reaching peak of $694.1 million for 1954, Magazine Advertising Bureau said today (Mon.). Figure is based upon "exact measurement of advertising space carried in about 100 general and national farm magazines included in the Publishers Information Service; it is not projected to include any other magazines unreported in PIB." Sunday newspaper supplements are excluded.

Total revenues for 1954 are slightly ahead of 1953 figures, about $1 million more, MAB said, adding that rise in magazine advertising revenues has been "virtually uninterrupted since 1933," with gain from 1948 more than 18%.

KOLD Yuma Sold

Co., operator WSNW Seneca, S. C.

Two other station sales reported Friday, subject to FCC approval: WKTM Mayfield, Ky., and WHDM McKenzie, Tenn. Mike Layman and associates sell WKTM for $27,000 to Michael R. Freeland and G. Paul Crowder. Mr. Freeland and associates sell WHDM for $50,000 to Mr. & Mrs. Earl Nolting, Columbus, Ind. Both sales handled by Paul H. Chapman, Atlanta broker.

Station said it has lost $70,000 over radio profits.

Bills Filed in Congress

NUMBER of activities affecting broadcasters were taking place last week as 84th Congress opened first session. Several bills proposed by congressmen were similar to others introduced in 83rd Congress.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.) proposed witnesses at congressional hearings be given right to refuse to be televised (S Res 15). Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) commended CBS Inc.'s foundation to make grants to colleges formerly attended by executives (B-T, Dec. 27, 1954). Rep. Katherine St. George (R-N. Y.) reintroduced her last year's bill to require station investigation of persons for whom solicitations are made on air (HR 177). Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) promised news media he would try to open more congressional hearings to them. Rep. Kenneth Keating (R-N. Y.) reintroduced his anti-gambling bill (HR 789) of last year, similar to Senate bill last year which met broadcasters' and FCC's objections until it finally was rendered harmless through amendment, but failed anyway. Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.) asked that commercial sponsorship of congressional hearing coverage by radio and tv be prohibited (HR 626). Rep. Carl Hinshaw (R-Calif.) asked again that subscription tv and theatre tv be made common carriers (HR 524).

NORBY

IF SUCCEEDING episodes of Norby, the new tv family series which made its bow Wednesday on NBC-TV, are as well presented as the first, viewers are in for solid, warm entertainment.

The storyline seemed a bit above par, and certainly much of the nonsense that clutters too many of the series' family contemporaries on tv was avoided. Aside from the fact that Norby holds great promise as program fare in 1955, the series is made especially interesting in that it is telecast in compatible color on a regular basis from Eastman color print film.

Eastman, noted for its work in color film, lived up to advance notice that Norby's presentation was designed to be a sort of pioneering precedent for the use of color film in television. The natural colors of outdoor shots filmed on location at Pearl River, N. Y., the deeper color tones as the story switched to "inside" shots (filmed in New York studios of 20th Century-Fox Movietone Studios), and the subdued and attractive use of color in commercials were arguments for more color film on tv.

JOAN LORRING and DAVID WAYNE

Restraint was evident both in the color and in the contents of the commercials. The approach was to suggest the simplicity and coziness of the living room as associated with photography. The middle commercial, titled "Little Girl's Feet," trained the camera on the feet of a baby girl taking her first steps and in fast sequence took her through childhood and adolescence right up to her marriage. The emphasis was on the importance of capturing great moments in a family's life on film. Eastman's "Duo-Pak" in full color against a solid blue background was the parting shot of the middle commercial. The closing commercial was similar with the stress on Eastman's Hawk-eye flash camera.

Both story and commercials are designed to appeal to Eastman's family trade in all age groups. The fact that the program is in the 7-7:30 p.m. EST time slot should prove a shot-in-the-arm toward this realization.

The program centers on Pearson Norby, a junior executive in a small-town bank, well-played by David Wayne. Joan Loring, as his wife, is pert and eye-catching. Evan Elliot, the Norby youngster, nearly stole the show munching on a banana with a gleam of admiration for his dad in his eye as Mr. Norby relates his ecstatic reaction to having been made a vice president (in charge of small loans) at the bank. Ralph Dunn as Mr. Rudge, bank vice president and efficiency expert, brings in a top performance as the typical "watchdog" of office expenditures. One of the funniest sequences in a generally amusing show was the scene in which Mr. Norby extends his hands to receive congratulations on his promotion, but finds them caught in the ripped sleeves of his jacket.

The show's producers promise more outdoor scenes as the series progresses. This alone should be worth the tuning-in, if the photography continues to be as good—colorwise particularly—as in the first episode.

Sponsored by Eastman Kodak Co. through J. Walter Thompson Co. on NBC-TV Wed., 7-7:30 p.m. EST. Telecast in color from Eastman Color Print Film.

Cast: David Wayne, Joan Loring, Susan Hallaran, Evan Elliot; supporting roles by Janice Mars, Ralph Dunn, Carol Veazie.

Producer: David Swift; director: Richard Whorf; associate producers: John Graham and Max Allentuck.

Director of Photography: Larry Williams, ASC. Filmed by Norby Productions at 20th Century-Fox Movietone Studios, New York, and outdoors at Pearl River, N. Y.

Writers: Mr. Swift supervises two writing teams: Harvey Orkin and James Lee; David Rayfiel and George Kirgo.

THE BOB CUMMINGS SHOW

ZANY is the word for the Bob Cummings Show, which bowed Jan. 2 as NBC-TV's challenge to What's My Line? on CBS-TV in the Sunday evening 10:30-11 spot. If enough people agree that zany comedy is fun, then for the first time in its long career, WML is going to have to fight for audience.

In his new series, Mr. Cummings is an eligible bachelor, much sought after by the ladies, with whom his photographic business keeps him in almost continuous contact. Mr. Cummings has a sister, an attractive youngish middle-aged widow whom he'd like to get remarried for the sake of her teen-age son, a head taller than his mother and not precisely an asset to romance. Mr. Cummings also has a secretary, a "plain Jane" who is determined that if she can't lead him to the altar, at least no other girl will.

There are all the makings of another domestic situation comedy. But Mr. Cummings' writers and producers decided instead on low farce and the thin story line is subordinated to a series of raucous gags. In the opening program, a society matron friend of the hero's sister visits Bob's studio and sees his secretary, Shultzie, in an ape costume. (He'd been photographing the ape attacking a lovely bride: "This picture's got to be horrible. It's for the cover of a children's comic book.")

She thinks Shultzie really is an ape and throughout the rest of the program, when she hears of Shultzie typing letters, answering the phone, driving a car, etc., she becomes increasingly amazed. At the program's end she gives Bob her pet poodle, for him to teach to play bridge.

The show included a father-to-son talk which Bob tried to give to his nephew while posing models for fashion pictures. There were also glamour photos of his sister, to entice an old beau, the outcome being that Bob gets an order to take similar pictures of the old beau's wife. And there was the comic secretary getting things all mixed up in her attempt to help. And—but that's enough to give the idea.

The cast overplayed with gay gusto, merrily divorcing the plot—and characters—from any resemblance to reality. Mr. Cummings was properly handsome and helpless. Anne B. Davis, as Shultzie, provided an excellent cari-

FOUR STAR PLAYHOUSE

THE consistently good tv film series, CBS-TV's Four Star Playhouse, came up with a gem of a program last Dec. 23. In a week overlaid with Christmas trees, tinsel, carols, seasonal good will, precocious moppets and general stickiness, Four Star Productions' contribution stood out. Titled "The Answer," it was beautifully conceived, and executed with disarming simplicity.

A dispirited Hollywood screenwriter has returned home and during a visit to his uncle's bar meets an assorted group of people, a sailor, taxi driver, showgirl and a wine-loving intellectual bum, who has absorbed most of the encyclopedia in his research for a play to be the monumental drama of all time. While selling answers to questions to pay for wine, he is induced by the writer to reveal the plot of his play.

This play has to do with a 24-hour treaty, secured by the United Nations in a last-ditch attempt to prevent war between the two greatest powers in the world. To this end, the greatest minds in each field of human knowledge have been assembled to pour their wisdom into a mechanical brain. After assimilating this collected knowledge, the brain arrives at the answer—the Ten Commandments.

Deceptively simple plot-wise, "The Answer," in the hands of David Niven, as the skid-row philosopher, director Roy Kellino and writer Leonard Freeman, is shaped into what should go down as one of the best tv films to date. The suspense is sustained from the opening words of "Thou shalt have no others gods before me" to the final and conclusive "Thou shalt not kill," which was transposed in sequence for necessary dramatic effect.

Roy Kellino, whose "The Interlude" for Four Star is up for the current Screen Directors' Guild tv achievement award, is steadily proving himself a director of stature. Confined to one set with the major focus on one actor, his direction of Leonard Freeman's first-rate script was both sensitive and paced to bring out all possible dramatic values.

Production cost: $35,000 per program.

Sponsors: Singer Sewing Machine Co., through Young & Rubicam Inc., and Parker Pen Co., through J. Walter Thompson Co.

Produced on film by Four Star Productions. Telecast on CBS-TV, Thurs., 9:30-10 p.m. EST.

Producer: David Niven (alternating with Charles Boyer, Dick Powell, Ida Lupino); director: Roy Kellino (Dec. 23).

Cast: David Niven, Carolyn Jones, Anthony Caruso, Nestor Paiva, John Harmon, Ted Stanhope, Richard Reeves, Jack Lomas (Dec. 23).

Original story and screenplay by Leonard Freeman.

Sabotage

EDITOR:

When I read your editorial "Sabotage" [B•T, Dec. 27, 1954] I became very nauseated at the irresponsibility of the reporting in a magazine that supposedly is the newsweekly of the radio and television industry.

You condemn, judge and try the NABET engineers who are on strike against KPIX (TV) San Francisco. You yell sabotage in your most pious manner when you have no proof whatsoever. If you had such proof why didn't you present it for all to see? Has the FCC or any duly accredited law enforcement agency proved that NABET engineers sabotaged the KPIX-TV equipment? ... You know the answer to that as well as I do but you couldn't pass up an opportunity to let your union-hating magazine do some real sabotaging of good labor-management relations and condemn the NABET lads without a trial...

Taylor L. Blair Jr.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

[EDITOR'S NOTE: It remains for an FCC investigation, now underway, to pin the blame on specific individuals, but evidence is abundant that sabotage was committed. B-T sticks by its editorial guns.]

to SIEGFRIED MICKELSON

WHEN did radio-tv journalism emerge as a key function of the broadcast network's present-day operation? One has only to thumb through the career of Sig Mickelson, CBS Inc. vice president in charge of news and public affairs, to find the answer.

The search ends at the point when CBS last summer set a policy that emphasized its news and public affairs operation on the same level as other key CBS departments. Since last August, top-level supervision of CBS' global news and public affairs activities has been Mr. Mickelson's beat.

Mr. Mickelson, who now reports directly to Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS Inc. president, has supervisory authority over a weekly total of nearly 150 radio and tv presentations, including such diverse programs as straight news, discussions, religious, educational, documentary, sports, talks and special events.

In very broad outline, this means that in radio, news programming must follow the new patterns of the medium without yielding to any temptation to distort. Straight news presentation, he emphasizes, must be at once complete, objective, and interesting enough to hold on to the share of audience. Toward this end, he cites CBS Radio's expansion of five-minute radio news programming.

In tv, Mr. Mickelson believes not all the possibilities in straight news have been examined. Formerly, efforts have been concentrated on the form of presentation and on technical aspects; for example, the use of film at the expense of ideas.

The broadcast editorial, such as the one delivered last fall by Dr. Stanton, is here to stay but this right should be exercised by the broadcaster only when the corporate management feels strongly enough about an issue to comment. And, he warns, the editorial ought not to be delivered until first the subject has been researched to eliminate bias. At the same time, the opposing view must have equal time.

A tall, quiet man, modest as he is capable, Mr. Mickelson does not give the appearance of an executive who has lived with news deadlines nearly all of his working life.

The first deadline was met on May 24, 1913, at Clinton, Minn., where a son, Siegfried, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Mickelson. His father was a small-town merchant who moved to Sioux Falls, S. D., while "Sig" (he uses the abbreviated name) was still a toddler.

After public schooling in Sioux Falls, Sig Mickelson entered Augustana College where he studied history and showed an interest in current events. This led to study in journalism, then to the debating team. Competing in 1934 in a national debate, he lost by a narrow 5-to-4 judges' decision.

Armed with a bachelor of arts degree, Mr. Mickelson landed a reporter-editor's berth on the Sioux Falls Argus Leader and also handled radio newscasts at KSOO Sioux Falls.

After three years, he resumed his educational pursuits. He obtained a teaching position in journalism (1937-39) at the U. of Minnesota, squeezing in a masters degree in history. He later was an instructor in journalism at Louisiana State U., and an assistant journalism professor at Kansas U., and in the fall of 1941 at the U. of Minnesota.

His association with ivy towers ended in 1943 when he was called upon to aid in an expanding field of radio journalism, a task to which he has applied himself ever since. He joined WCCO Minneapolis, then a CBS-owned station, as news editor, and in six years successively became director of news and special events, and director of public affairs and production manager.

Under his tutelage, the news operation at WCCO was redesigned. The facelifting included addition of outside correspondents, local emphasis and scientific analysis of the audience.

This mark at WCCO was not lost at CBS headquarters, which in 1949 moved Mr. Mickelson to New York, appointing him director of public affairs. He became responsible for, among other things, Hear It Now and Nation's Nightmare, and organized the staff for The People Act.

Cameras and cables were becoming commonplace at CBS and a new era for news broadcasting was beginning. Subsequently, CBS-TV in July 1951 named Sig Mickelson as its director of news and public affairs. His staff grew from 18 to 200 people in the three years he was in charge.

Not long after he joined CBS-TV, Mr. Mickelson supervised a four-network telecast of the Japanese Treaty Conference in San Francisco which ushered in coast-to-coast television. In 1952, he was chairman of the tv network's committee that arranged for coverage of the Republican and Democratic national conventions in Chicago. He also helped in production of tv coverage of election returns, President Eisenhower's inauguration and CBS coverage of Queen Elizabeth's Coronation.

A former president of the National Assn. of Radio & Television News Directors, he also lists the Radio-Television Correspondents Assn., Sigma Delta Chi and the National Press Club among his memberships.

Mr. Mickelson and his wife, the former Maybelle Brown of Cairo, Ill., and their two children, a daughter, Ann, 7, and a son, Allan, 4, live in a colonial-type home in Greens Farms (Westport), Conn. Much of his recreation is taken up with gardening and fishing.

The September, 1954 Telepulse survey in the Wheeling-Steubenville market gives WTRF-TV a clean sweep in every category. Not only were the top 25 most popular programs on WTRF-TV, but 63.5% of the viewing audience between noon and midnight were tuned to WTRF-TV, Wheeling. This, Friends, is known as dominating a market, not just slightly but so predominantly that there can be no question that the only way to reach this billion dollar market is with WTRF-TV.

And here are the reasons for this overwhelming domination:

1. WTRF-TV's 316,000 watts on channel 7 delivers a clearer, sharper signal all hours of the day and night.
2. NBC programming, supplemented by ABC shows, topped off by WTRF-TV's own programs designed especially for the viewers in this market are obviously what most people want most of the time.
3. Constant promotion and untiring publicity keep reminding viewers of WTRF-TV, the BIG station in the Wheeling-Steubenville market.

J. PAT COONEY

on all accounts

AS PRODUCER and one of the creators of Play Marko, video version of bingo syndicated by The Caples Co., Los Angeles [B•T, Nov. 15, 1954], J. Pat Cooney, radio-tv director of the advertising firm, strongly believes that a combination of video programming and merchandising, such as is found in Play Marko, is the most effective way to produce results for a client.

Born in Mendota, Ill., on Oct. 14, 1920, Pat—as he likes to be called—was educated in the Cleveland public school system and later majored in chemistry at U. of Chicago. He left college after three years, enlisting in the U. S. Army Air Forces early in 1941. He was discharged in September, 1945.

Pat Cooney then entered radio as an announcer-newscaster, working for WBEN Buffalo, WERE and WSRB Cleveland, WKBN Youngstown and KPRC Houston, among others. In 1951, he left the talent side of broadcasting to explore time sales as an account executive for KPHO-TV Phoenix. The following year, Mr. Cooney became Phoenix resident manager of Ley & Livingston Advertising, San Francisco (now merged into The Caples Co.), for whom he produced numerous radio and tv programs.

In 1953, he became part of the Southern California broadcasting picture, joining KHJ-TV Hollywood as an account executive. Eight months later he assumed his present duties with the Caples Co.

Pat Cooney is especially active in tv production these days, with the expansion of the syndicated Play Marko series into new markets and supervising programming for such Caples clients as Union Pacific railroad and Thorofed Dog Foods. "I don't think radio is dead," he explains, "but at present my interest is in television. It's interesting and creative work."

Expanding on Play Marko, which he created with Russell R. Rullman and John Cody (Caples Co. vice president and account executive, respectively), and first introduced to broadcasting on KTLA (TV) Hollywood, he observes the whole idea of the program was the creation of store traffic, in which it has been most successful.

Presently single, Mr. Cooney has a son from a previous marriage living in Cleveland. Considered a promising tennis player when younger, he still gives his opponents a rough time on the courts. But during the bullfighting season, he now journeys down to Tijuana to watch the matadors and toreros, and to shout, "Ole!" with a true Latin fervor.

It's No Draw...in Omaha

KMTV soars far out in front when it comes to popularity and coverage in the Omaha market.

This championship performance makes KMTV the favorite TV station in an area that includes 65 per cent of all the people in Nebraska.

Both of Nebraska's two major population areas—Omaha and Lincoln—are covered by KMTV's dominating signal.

And... an independent survey shows that KMTV has a 3-to-one leadership ratio as the one most-watched television station within a 100-mile radius of Omaha.*

To advertisers, this means KMTV offers a coverage area of nearly a million-and-a-half prosperous people... a market more populous even than such cities as Baltimore, Cleveland, or Washington, D. C. There are more people in the KMTV coverage area than there are in the entire State of Nebraska.

How is such broad coverage possible? The answers are these: (1) KMTV's strategic location, in more heavily populated eastern Nebraska, with Iowa right across the Missouri river, (2) KMTV's low channel 3 with maximum power, and (3) the flat Nebraska-Iowa terrain.

That's the coverage story. For KMTV's overall rating superiority, see your favorite audience survey. The latest ARB (Oct. 14-21) gives KMTV all of the top 10 weekly shows... and the area's favorite multi-weekly and locally-produced show. The latest Pulse (Sept. 7-13) gives KMTV 11 of the top 15 weekly shows.

To put this profitable combination of wide coverage and rating leadership to work for you, contact KMTV or your Petry man today.

North Carolina Firm Explodes Myth That Industrial Skill Is Regional

Take a new look if you still believe precision manufacturing is done only in the old established industrial centers. Example: Wright Machinery Company, a subsidiary of The Sperry Corporation. This Durham, N. C. firm is one of the nation's largest developers and manufacturers of automatic packaging machines. It helps North Carolina rate more firsts in recognized market surveys than any other Southern state.

Selling this big, buying State is no mystery. More North Carolinians listen to WPTF than to any other station.

POWER PLAYS TAKE SHAPE IN TELEVISION NETWORKING

- NBC buys WKNB-TV New Britain, its first uhf
- CBS-TV affiliations go to Gene Autry, Storer
- DuMont begins adjusting to trimmed operations

• FIRST UHF FOR NBC

Bulletin: NBC late Friday bought WKNB-AM-TV New Britain, Conn., for $606,000, contingent upon FCC approval of the sale and the move of the tv transmitter to Mt. Higby near Middletown, Conn. The network plans to boost the ch. 30 station to a million watts.

NBC last week was negotiating to buy ch. 30 WKNB-TV New Britain, Conn., which would become the network's first owned television station in the uhf band.

WKNB-TV is now the CBS-TV affiliate for the New Britain-Hartford area.

If NBC purchases the uhf outlet, new power plays between NBC-TV and CBS-TV will be inevitable.

Such a purchase would mean that NBC would have no further interest in the outcome of the contest for ch. 3 in Hartford between Hartford Telecasting Co. and Travelers Broadcasting Co., owner of WTIC Hartford. WTIC is one of NBC's oldest radio affiliates.

With NBC owning a uhf outlet in the Hartford area, the winner of the ch. 3 contest presumably would hope to affiliate with CBS. One of the principals and proposed general manager of Hartford Telecasting Co., WTIC's opposition in the case, is Harry C. Butcher, wartime naval aide to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and pre-war Washington vice president of CBS.

The network position of ch. 8 WNHC-TV New Haven, the only other vhf assignment in Connecticut, would also be in question. WNHC-TV is now affiliated with both CBS-TV and NBC-TV. About 40% of its network programs are CBS-TV and 45% NBC-TV.

WNHC-TV, now operating at maximum power of 316 kw, has its transmitter some 26 air miles from Hartford and throws a strong signal into that population center.

Negotiations between NBC and Julian Gross, president and principal stockholder of WKNB-TV, have been in progress for several weeks. Points of difference were said to be still unresolved. One source close to the negotiations said that NBC was hoping to make an arrangement contingent upon FCC approval of a move of the WKNB transmitter site to Mt. Higby, a commanding elevation south of Hartford and some 23 air miles north of New Haven.

Such a contingency would not be unlike that which was attached to the purchase by CBS-TV of WSTV-TV Steubenville, Ohio, for $3 million. That deal will be closed only if the FCC approves the move of the ch. 9 station to the Pittsburgh area [B•T, Nov. 22, 1954].

For political reasons NBC probably will seek an early conclusion to the WKNB-TV negotiations, it was believed. The network hopes to have at least one uhf acquisition or application in the bag before forthcoming Senate committee investigations get underway.

As matters stand, two major investigations of communications, with emphasis on television networking, are set—one by the Senate Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee and the other by the equally powerful Senate Judiciary Committee (see story, page 73). In both, it will be to the advantage of networks to show that they are extending helping hands to uhf, a service that already has been presented to the Senate as the poverty row of tv.

CBS-TV already has contracted for one uhf. Its purchase of ch. 19 WOKY-TV Milwaukee for a total investment of $835,000 [B•T, Nov. 22, 1954] awaits FCC approval.

Assuming NBC acquires WKNB-TV, it will have only one more uhf to go before filling its television portfolio of five v's and two u's. The network now owns the limit of five vhf's, WRCA-TV New York, WNBQ (TV) Chicago, WNBK (TV) Cleveland, WRC-TV Washington and KRCA-TV Los Angeles.

CBS owns WCBS-TV New York, WBBM-TV Chicago and KNXT (TV) Los Angeles. Assuming its purchases of Steubenville's ch. 9 and Milwaukee's ch. 19 go through, CBS will be able to acquire one more v and another u. Selection of its second uhf station is expected to follow NBC's first uhf deal. Frank Stanton,

WDTV (TV) SALE APPROVED; SWITCH READIED TO KDKA-TV

RECORD sale of DuMont's ch. 2 WDTV (TV) Pittsburgh for $9.75 million to Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. was approved by FCC last week and steps were taken promptly for consummation of the ownership transfer today (Monday). FCC will be asked to change the call to KDKA-TV, representing the companion operation to Westinghouse's pioneer radio outlet, KDKA Pittsburgh.

The price for Pittsburgh's sole commercial vhf station is the highest yet paid for a single broadcast station, FCC noted. Chairman George C. McConaughy did not vote while Comr. Robert T. Bartley issued a dissenting opinion sharply differing with the majority ruling taken by Comrs. Rosel H. Hyde, E. M. Webster, John C. Doerfer and Robert E. Lee. Comr. Frieda B. Hennock was not present.

As stated at the time of the signing of the purchase agreement [B•T, Dec. 13, 6, 1954], Chris J. Witting, WBC president, said "WDTV will continue to carry programs from all four networks until such time as there are other vhf facilities in operation in Pittsburgh."

The application disclosed WDTV eventually would seek to become the city's primary NBC-TV affiliate. An agreement to that effect between Westinghouse and NBC was submitted with the application.

Aside from the newly acquired WDTV,

Westinghouse also operates KDKA-AM-FM Pittsburgh, WBZ-AM-TV Boston, WPTZ (TV) and KYW Philadelphia, KPIX (TV) San Francisco, WBZA Springfield, Mass., KEX-AM-FM Portland, Ore., and WOWO Fort Wayne, Ind. Westinghouse is applicant for ch. 8 at Portland, where an FCC examiner has recommended a grant on that channel to a competitor, North Pacific Television Inc.

The transfer application also disclosed that

Harold C. Lund, WDTV manager under DuMont ownership, would remain in that capacity under Westinghouse.

DuMont, aside from its network and manufacturing interests [B•T, Jan. 3], retains ownership of WABD (TV) New York and WTTG (TV) Washington.

Pittsburgh presently is also served by ch. 16 WENS (TV) and educational ch. 13 WQED (TV). Permits are outstanding for ch. 47 WTVQ (TV) and ch. 53 WKJF-TV. part:

In this transfer, I see a substantial diminution of competition. In the absence of a public hearing on such transfers, I am unable to conclude, in accordance with the statutory requirement, that this transfer will serve the public interest. I am unable to reach a determination here, in the absence of a factual record based upon the very factors set forth in the Commission's Rules on multiple ownership, necessary to determine whether there will be a concentration of control inconsistent with the public interest.

MR. WITTING

MR. LUND

CBS president, reportedly has told Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, RCA-NBC chairman, that CBS would not select its second uhf until NBC picked its first.

The CBS purchase of WSTV-TV is under protest. Last week ch. 16 WENS (TV) Pittsburgh petitioned FCC to (1) dismiss the CBS-WSTV-TV applications because they violate Commission rules or (2) set the applications for hearing to obtain more information on which to determine if the proposals are in the public interest.

WENS contends the proposal to switch WSTV-TV's site to Florence, Pa., near Pittsburgh, violates not only the spirit and language of the Commission's allocation rules as established by the Sixth Report, but also Sec. 307(b) of the Communications Act calling for equitable distribution of facilities. The petition noted that before the Sixth Report was issued WSTV argued that ch. 9 should be given the Wheeling-Steubenville area rather than Pittsburgh.

Protests of the CBS purchase and proposed WSTV-TV move were filed with FCC earlier by WWSW and WJAS Pittsburgh and ch. 35 WTRI (TV) Albany, N. Y. [B•T, Dec. 27, 20, 13, 1954]. WWSW and WJAS Pittsburgh are contending for ch. 11.

WTRI was successful in obtaining an order for hearing Jan. 24 on the $298,000 sale of WROW-AM-TV Albany (ch. 41) to a group headed by CBS commentator Lowell Thomas [B•T, Jan. 3]. CBS has announced affiliation with WROW-TV.

The only television operator with a full quota of stations is Storer Broadcasting Co. which owns vhf's WJBK-TV Detroit, WSPD-TV Toledo, WAGA-TV Atlanta, WBRC-TV Birmingham and WXEL (TV) Cleveland and uhf's WGBS-TV Miami and KPTV (TV) Portland, Ore. The ch. 8 WXEL Cleveland last week picked up a CBS-TV affiliation (see below).

• CBS-TV BIG SWITCHES

Plans to switch its affiliations in two cities—Cleveland and Phoenix—were announced last week by CBS-TV, which meanwhile reported three other station signings including the 12th contract for affiliation under its "Extended Market Plan" (EMP) for small-market outlets.

In Phoenix, cowboy singer Gene Autry's KOOL-TV (ch. 10) will become a CBS-TV primary affiliate June 16, replacing Meredith Publishing Co.'s KPHO-TV (ch. 5).

In Cleveland, Storer Broadcasting Co.'s WXEL (TV), on ch. 8, will become a CBS-TV primary March 1 [B•T, Dec. 6, 1954]. It will replace WEWS (TV), on ch. 5, as the network's outlet there.

KOOL-TV has been affiliated with ABC-TV, and WXEL with ABC-TV and DuMont. WXEL, acquired by Storer from Empire Coil Co., is under the general managership of Franklin Snyder. KOOL-TV, owned by Maricopa Broadcasters, of which Mr. Autry is principal stockholder, is under the general managership of Charles Garland, who also is a minority stockholder.

KBST-TV Big Spring, Tex. (ch. 4), was reported to have signed under EMP, designed to extend network television service to small-market stations at prices which the network thinks advertisers will find attractive [B•T, Nov. 29, 1954]. The station is owned by Big Spring Broadcasting Co., with Howard Barrett as general manager.

It also was announced that WTWO (TV) Bangor, Me., had joined CBS-TV as a limited alternate affiliate. The station, on ch. 2, is owned and operated by Murray Carpenter & Assoc., with Mr. Carpenter as president and general manager.

AFFILIATION agreement, effective Feb. 1, between WROW-TV Albany and CBS-TV is approved by (l to r) Tom S. Murphy, WROW-TV general manager; Herbert V. Akerberg, CBS-TV vice president in charge of station relations, and Frank M. Smith, WROW-TV president. The ch. 41 station is owned by, among others, Lowell Thomas, CBS newscaster, and two New York congressmen. The uhf station in New York's capital city is represented nationally by the Bolling Co., New York.

CBS-TV also announced that CJBR-TV Rimouski, Que., ch. 3 outlet, had joined as a secondary non-interconnected affiliate, effective last Nov. 21. The station is independently owned but represented by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

• DUMONT TRIMS OPERATIONS

Meanwhile the DuMont Tv Network last week was reported adjusting, with no major hitches, to its new retrenchment regime [B•T, Jan. 3].

All of the approximately 25 stations being taken off "fulltime" AT&T network service had been notified, authorities said, and the reduced live relay program went into effect the day after DuMont's season of professional football and Shrine Bowl telecasts was completed Jan. 1.

The cutback in personnel, whose extent was not officially revealed but was said in some estimates to involve as many as 75 employees, was believed to have been completed. A rather

De-Intermixture Plea

RENEWING their plea for de-intermixture of commercial vhf and uhf channels at Hartford, Conn., four area uhf stations jointly petitioned FCC last week to reconsider its refusal to act on their earlier pleading for the same relief [B•T, Dec. 13, 1954]. The stations, comprising ch. 30 WKNB-TV New Britain, Conn. (which may be bought by NBC), ch. 18 WGTH-TV Hartford and ch. 61 WWLP (TV) and ch. 55 WHYN-TV Springfield, Mass., asked the Commission to switch Hartford's educational reservation from ch. 24 to ch. 3. The vhf facility is in contest between WTIC Hartford and Hartford Telecasting Co. The joint petitions charged FCC's previous ruling failed to cite grounds for its conclusions and to consider all facts and allegations presented, thereby violating the Administrative Procedures Act.

extensive realignment of programs was announced, but largely affecting WABD (TV), owned station in New York, rather than the network operation generally.

Although they declined to identify the affiliates taken off eight-hours-a-day network service—numbering about half of the 50 which had been getting service of that type—DuMont authorities disclosed that the cutoff applied to all stations which were getting less than 35 hours a month, and confirmed that, generally, this meant the end of fulltime live service to affiliates west of Chicago.

Instead of service of the AT&T contract type, which must be paid for on an eight-hour-day, seven-day-week basis whether the relays are in use all that time or not, DuMont will order live network service to these stations only in the case of sponsored programs and on the "occasional use" basis, which requires payment to AT&T only for hours used. (DuMont has been networking about 21 hours of programs per week.)

There was no affirmative word regarding the new "technological developments" that Allen B. DuMont Labs' Dr. Allen B. DuMont and DuMont Network's Managing Director Ted Bergmann had said, in their announcement of retrenchment plans, are in the offing to help achieve more efficient but less costly telecasting.

Dr. DuMont, however, issued a statement in which he said B•T's account of DuMont development of a combined live-film system, obtained from competent sources, "is not a correct or authorized statement of our plans or decision." Text of his statement:

"The purported disclosure of DuMont Network plans 'in an informal comment by a DuMont executive' with a representative of the magazine BROADCASTING • TELECASTING, as reported in that magazine's issue of Jan. 3, 1955, is not a correct or authorized statement of our plans or decisions.

"As I stated in an announcement issued jointly with Ted Bergmann last week, it is true that 'we are near the end of our search for a technological improvement that will aid substantially' in achieving the objective of more efficient telecasting at lower cost. When we reach the end of our search and make the decisions necessary to inauguration of such a service, Mr. Bergmann and I shall make the announcement ourselves. Until that time, no one is authorized to speak for DuMont on the subject."

As the network moved into 1955, several program revisions were instituted in programming. Also announced were changes for WABD, DuMont's key outlet in New York.

Chief program changes announced for the network included: Down You Go moves from Wednesday 10-10:30 p.m. EST to Friday 10:30-11 p.m., effective last Friday; Johns Hopkins Science Review gives up its Sunday 1-1:30 p.m. time to Between the Lines and moves into the Sunday 3-3:30 p.m. period, effective Jan. 16; and One Minute Please moves from Friday at 9:30-10 p.m. to Thursday at the same time.

Officials said Chicago Symphony, about whose continuance there had been speculation, will continue in the Wednesday 8-9 p.m. period.

Among WABD program changes is the launching of a series of half-hour film dramas—12 telecasts per week—in early-afternoon and late-evening periods, starting today (Monday). This series will be presented Monday through Friday at 1-1:30 p.m. and 11:15-11:45 p.m., and on Sundays at 1:30-2 p.m. and 11:30-12 midnight.

RADIO-TV SPOT ADVERTISING BENEFITS ACCLAIMED BY NEW YORK TIMEBUYERS

Flexibility and coverage are principal features of spot advertising in both radio and tv, according to speakers at the luncheon seminar of the Radio & Television Executives Society. Vitality of radio listening is cited in findings of current research.

SPOT ADVERTISING—radio and tv—was put on the “spot” at Tuesday’s luncheon session of the Radio & Television Executives Society’s timebuying and selling seminar at New York’s Toots Shor’s restaurant.

Speakers were Kevin Sweeney, president of Radio Advertising Bureau, and C. E. (Ned) Midgley Jr., supervisor of the media department at the Ted Bates & Co. advertising agency.

Mr. Midgley noted the similarity of tv spot to radio spot, particularly in flexibility, concentration of markets and as an advertising tool for national, supplemental, regional and local campaigns. He stressed the development of ID’s in television and commented that the time intervals between network programs now have become “logjams” for the timebuyer—“It’s like Times Square in the rush hour.”

He said that in spot tv, again as in radio spot, the advertiser can reach more than 60% of the nation’s population by placing schedules in 162 markets, although it is not always necessary to buy time on stations in all the markets.

While tv spot coverage often is undersold because of the wide area tv signals actually reach, Mr. Midgley said, it must be remembered that the timebuyer’s decision on whether to use radio or tv “depends on the job that has to be done.” Often, he said, the agency will find “the correct answer is the combination of both” media.

Referring to radio’s coverage, he said he wanted to take notice of “the amazing vitality of continued radio listening” which he noted has been pointed up in detail by recent research.

For the timebuyer who uses spot, Mr. Midgley outlined some suggestions: study the market and the concentration of population; keep posted on stations—which are available in which markets and the job each station is doing (he suggested following through trade publications such as station activity as promotion); interpret station ratings, and after gathering facts, “decide and be positive about it.”

Similarly for the seller of spot, he suggested: make advance appointments with timebuyers and have at least one important fact to present; make the point and be brief, recognizing that there is pressure on the timebuyer; if a station representative, expose the station manager to as many agency and advertiser people you deal with as is possible (and if lunching, remember the 2 p.m. “curfew”), and be prompt in relaying confirmations along with exact time and rate.

Mr. Sweeney stressed radio’s ability to deliver for the advertiser who wants “selective marketing.” Radio spot can do the job better than other media, he declared.

Increasing competition by retail advertisers was one of “three significant trends developing for national spot advertisers in radio,” Mr. Sweeney said.

“When a single large retailer comes in and takes 18,000 announcements annually out of those available in a market and his competitors gobble up another 10,000 annually, the competition for good times is sharpened for all national advertisers. And this is what is happening in many metropolitan markets,” he said.

Other trends are “saturation announcement technique becoming standard practice” and “acceptance of the important ‘plus’ local personalities can give in local markets to national advertising.”

Mr. Sweeney said a shift from the five-times weekly 52-week buying pattern of the 1940s to the “40, 100 or even 800 announcements per week pattern for relatively short periods” has emerged as an important trend in buying announcements.

Among advantages for spot radio compared to other selective media, Mr. Sweeney listed: ability to cover other than just the city market; selectivity that enables the advertiser to pick the right group within cities to which he wishes to advertise; flexibility permitting the advertiser to deliver more messages in one market as against another without expensive, mechanical adjustments; true localizing of an advertising message, and freedom of choice of stations within the large cities.

Sheaffer Readying New Buy

NEGOTIATIONS were nearing completion last week for purchase by Sheaffer Pen Co., Fort Madison, Iowa, of Who Said That? on ABC-TV starting Feb. 2 on an alternate week basis. Russel M. Seeds Co., Chicago, handles the Sheaffer account. Sheaffer would buy the panel show for its Fineline fountain pens and pencils (Wed., 9:30-10 p.m. EST) on about 80 stations.

Seeds reportedly was surveying its other clients in the hope of coming up with a second alternate week sponsor for the revived series, which recently moved to ABC-TV. Sheaffer was expected to continue part sponsorship of the CBS-TV The Jackie Gleason Show through the season.

GF Wants ‘Greatest Show’

GENERAL FOODS CORP., New York, last week was negotiating with John North, head of Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey circus, for presentation of a telecast of the circus, probably in color, sometime in March in the NBC-TV Tuesday night period normally occupied by Bob Hope and Martha Raye. If negotiations are completed, the circus show would be sponsored by the company’s cereal division. Most shows are underwritten by the associated products division of the firm. Benton & Bowles, New York, represents the cereal division of General Foods in the negotiations.

Gleason Signs Dorseys For Saturday Tv Show

A CONTRACT has reportedly been signed by Jackie Gleason with CBS-TV under terms of which the comedian’s production firm, Jackie Gleason Enterprises Inc., will supply a Saturday night program starring Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey and the June Taylor Dancers. Costing $1,560,000 for the 1955-56 season, the program would be telecast from 8-8:30 p.m. in the half-hour preceding the comedian’s new CBS-TV show The Honeymooners, scheduled to start next fall under a recently-signed $7.5 million contract with Buick Motors Div. of General Motors [B•T, Dec. 27, 1954].

The new contract, reportedly signed in Hollywood last Tuesday, is said to give the network Mr. Gleason’s exclusive services at $100,000 per year, whether he works or not, for 15 years between 1957 and 1972. His production firm will also supply a replacement show this summer for a fee of $350,000 and receive an additional $1,560,000 if the Dorsey Bros. program is renewed for a second year.

Also rumored as up for sale by CBS is a half-hour radio version of The Honeymooners.

WRCA NEW YORK is carrying Music Through the Night, all-night symphonic music program, for Riggio Tobacco Co. (Regent cigarettes) Tuesday through Saturday from 12:30 a.m. to 6 a.m. Discussing the contract are (l to r): Ernest de la Ossa, WRCA station manager; L. H. Hartman, L. H. Hartman Inc. (agency) president; Arthur B. Modell, Hartman vice president and account executive, and Richard Arbuckle, NBC Spot Sales account executive.

MODERN MANAGEMENT FOR MODERN ADMEN

K&E'S PRESIDENT BILL LEWIS MAKES A BID FOR EFFICIENCY

ADVERTISING AGENCIES, to prosper today, must apply to their own operations the same modern management techniques employed by their clients, William B. Lewis, president of Kenyon & Eckhardt, declared in an address delivered Tuesday to the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia. His remarks are excerpted below. The importance of internal communications to agencies, already expert in external communications, is stressed by Mr. Lewis, whose own brilliant career in advertising began in broadcasting, as program vice president of CBS.

I PREDICT that in the years immediately ahead more and more managers will devote more and more time to the application of modern management techniques to the operation of their advertising agencies, and that this application will lead in turn to better advertising agencies and to far better and more effective advertising, or mass communication, than we have seen or heard before.

There are signs on all sides that many agencies are adopting—if only by a process of osmosis—some of the successful management principles developed by America's more progressive industries, especially in the all-important area of internal communications.

I would like now to explore some of the areas where modern management techniques can serve advertising agencies profitably. If I use for illustrative purposes some examples of Kenyon & Eckhardt operations, please forgive me on the grounds that I have no other recent experience.

First comes the question of objective. What kind of an agency are you trying to build? Do you want a good, well-staffed local agency, or a medium-sized, well-run national agency, or do you want the biggest agency in the world? Do you want your agency to service a diversified list of clients, or do you want it to specialize in certain product classifications?

There is plenty of room for all of these kinds of agencies and plenty of good clients who prefer each kind. But if you are going to staff and operate your agency at maximum efficiency you had better set your objective clearly in one direction and stick to it until fate or circumstances or growth dictate that you change it.

At Kenyon & Eckhardt we set a definite course some years ago, have never varied from it, and see no reason why we should change it for years to come. We want a national agency with a diversified list of clients, small enough in number so that each account can have the constant attention of the agency's principal people, but large enough in billings so that we can afford to render certain services in which we strongly believe. Among these are:

1. The most creative commercials and print advertisements we can possibly produce.

2. Original research, especially into motivation, which will help us to improve mass communication on behalf of our clients.

3. Intelligent, well-integrated marketing, merchandising and promotion services to round out our advertising programs and to keep pace with the forward-looking marketing patterns being adopted by many of our clients.

4. A network of well staffed offices across the nation to enable us to adapt to regional and local needs the advertising of our national advertisers.

Next, let's consider the question of staff. An advertising agency has one commodity (and one commodity only) to sell to a client—the services of people: people with ideas, people with creative talent, people with vision and the ability to plan, people trained and experienced in every phase of the complex marketing strategies required today by nearly every purveyor of products or services, and people with the courage of their convictions.

How do you find such people? How do you know them when you do find them? Fortunately in this area there are useful tools available today, if agencies will only use them wisely. In the hands of competent and qualified management counsellors, mental ability tests and personality tests, including interest inventories, can go far towards eliminating the hazard of the square peg in the round hole.

I have heard it said that such tests are helpful in some areas but not in evaluating creative people. To me this is arrant nonsense, for these tests have helped us immeasurably—and we seek nothing but creative people. In the modern agency everyone had better be creative.

In addition to outside testing, it is well to have a personnel department of your own to probe deeply into the background, personality and working habits of the man you would hire (or, failing a personnel department, to do it yourself). . . .

A great agency is not built, however, by putting together under one roof a group of individuals with diversified skills and letting nature take its course: The individual may be good but what incentive is he given to give his utmost in return? He may be willing but what tools and resources is he given to help him improve his work? He may possess great specialized skill but how can he be persuaded to work in concert with other specialists to produce overall advertising programs of maximum effectiveness? And to produce them with maximum efficiency?

THE ADMAN'S FOUR WANTS

It seems to me that today an inspired and experienced advertising man—be he writer, art director, radio or television producer, merchandising man, researcher, media buyer or planner, contact man or executive—wants these four things above all else: money, security, prestige, and a happy working climate (and not necessarily in that order). . . .

In the matter of incentive, you already pay high salaries (or you can easily persuade yourself that you do). But a high salary today, with the current income tax structure, means little except as a benchmark of prestige.

In addition to salary you have probably adopted some other form of incentive plan (or should)—bonuses, profit-sharing, retirement income. Then, there is the package of standard benefits you can provide—group insurance, hospitalization and the like.

Years ago one of our founders, Otis Kenyon (a very knowing man), decided that the one best incentive a good man can have is the incentive of working for himself. Consequently, at great expenditure of planning time and effort, he put together a unique installment buying plan to enable key employees to buy stock in the agency with no great hardship to themselves and in spite of the virtual impossibility of saving up any substantial amounts of tax-free money for the purpose. Furthermore, Otis Kenyon found his handful of co-owners equally willing to relinquish the majority of ownership they enjoyed in a very profitable business. . . .

They were bright enough to know (and they were pioneers in this knowledge) that if the business were to expand and make even greater profits there would have to be many other members of the firm working as hard as they were—and for the same reason. As it turned out, their perception paid off . . . The people we want with us for years to come are persuaded, urged and cajoled to buy stock more avidly than any stock broker ever sought the investment of a widow's estate.

The result is that the agency is owned by just under 100 people—approximately 15% of the people employed in it . . .

Now we come to a discussion of two serious problems that beset the large and the growing agency—maintenance of high work quality and efficient procedures for getting the work out promptly and—if possible—right the first time.

Who is going to indoctrinate new people in the agency's method of operating? The standards it seeks to maintain? Somebody had better, or boundless and costly confusion will result all through the ranks. Bear in mind that such indoctrination is not an easy chore; it is not a matter of a couple of hours of casual conversation. The saw about teaching the old dog new tricks certainly applies here.

ROAD MAP TO HIGH STANDARDS

One of the tools we have developed is the K&E Book of Standards . . . [It] establishes a high goal for K&E workers. It develops a basic philosophy that advertising should be based on the reactions of the people who are exposed to it, rather than on the opinions of those who prepare or sponsor it. It breaks with many old advertising concepts; it points out many pitfalls to be avoided. It does not advocate any inflexible patterns, but encourages fresh ideas and creative thought. It is a basic guide to good roads to follow and bad roads to by-pass.

Each creative worker at K&E (and as I have said before that classification includes nearly all of us) must be exposed to the Book of Standards at least four times a year. There are three reasons for this frequency:

1. The old dog problem I mentioned earlier. One of the hardest things in the world is to penetrate in a man's mind the shell of old and established concepts. You simply cannot teach new concepts in one session.

2. The tendency to forget. Unless you keep reiterating new standards you are trying to live up to, people have a tendency to backslide into old habits.

3. New information of value. The Book of Standards is constantly revised and up-dated as new information becomes available either through research or experience.

Another new tool we have developed is the Book of Procedures, which outlines the basic Kenyon & Eckhardt organization, the principles that guide the various K&E operating units and the procedures to be followed if K&E clients are to be served with the maximum effectiveness of which the agency is capable . . .

The philosophy of operation adopted by K&E is clearly stated in the introduction to the Book of Procedures, which new employees must read and study almost before they get their coats off:

"To operate successfully in Kenyon & Eckhardt you must understand clearly and at once that you are now a part of a group operation. Individual operations—no matter how brilliant—do not fit the K&E concept. We believe that clients profit from our full resources only when—

- "1. The skills and experience of all the agency's key people are made available to the client (not just the people assigned to the account).

- "2. The client receives integrated programs of marketing and advertising wherein all facts complement one another, and work not in several unrelated directions but toward one desired and common goal.

"Group effectiveness cannot be achieved by isolated account management groups operating as agencies within agencies, nor by one-man dictatorial operations (no matter how strong and capable the man), nor by strong individual departments dictating their own account strategies without relation to the work of other departments. It can be achieved by careful organization, by efficient operating procedures, by group meetings and other practical forms of inter-office communications. . . ."

Like the Book of Standards, the Book of Procedures is not a static book. Changes are made in it whenever new and more efficient operating procedures come to light. We have developed methods to communicate these changes clearly and positively to our people, and all changes made in any given year are reviewed at the annual meeting.

MODERN METHODS OF COMMUNICATION

There are many other modern methods of communication that can contribute to the successful operation of an advertising agency. The common Conference or Call Report is worth a great deal more study than many agencies apparently give it, to be sure that all instructions are clearly given and that precise shades of clients' reactions are communicated to the workers who need to know them. Internal publications, prepared and edited for employees at various levels, are important to keep your people well informed of developments that will help them do better work and feel themselves an integral and important part of the agency. And as in any group operation, the Meeting is of transcendent importance.

In closing, I want to emphasize three points:

1. I do not consider the step I advocate—the application of modern management methods to advertising agency operation—to be an easy one. Even in this lengthy talk I have been able only to touch upon several of many areas where such methods might be applied. Each area might well be the subject of a prolonged seminar. What I have touched upon in 30 minutes might require weeks to study, months to plan, and years to put fully into operation.

2. Although of necessity I have used examples of K&E operations to illustrate my points, I do not want to leave the impression that I believe K&E to be the only agency in the country using modern management methods. My own one-man survey convinces me that quite a few forward-looking agencies have adopted or are installing such methods in varying degrees, and that many more will tend in this direction in the year ahead.

3. Finally, I do not want to leave the false impression that the instigation of these methods has solved all of our problems at K&E, and that the agency now runs benignly and smoothly along well-oiled tracks without roadblock, hindrance or an occasional derailment. That will be the day! We are still working with people (and creative people, at that) with all their temperamental peccadillos and their emotional involvements. We will never make a perfect score at fitting them all into ideal behavior patterns, but the degree of success we attain may have a real bearing on the future progress of the agency.

I will say this, however: I believe that our somewhat unusual recent success has come to us because clients and prospects are impressed with the fact that we are trying with every modern tool we can command to make the agency a business. I believe it will profit the reputation of advertising enormously if many more agencies will follow suit.

NEW SPOT RADIO REPORT PLANNED

Rorabaugh and Boerst set up service to cover activity in individual markets.

A NEW SERVICE measuring national and regional spot radio advertising is being announced today (Monday) by N. Charles (Duke) Rorabaugh, publisher of Rorabaugh Report on Spot Television Advertising, and James M. Boerst, owner of Executives Radio-TV Service [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Jan. 3].

To be issued quarterly, starting in April and covering the first quarter of 1955, the publication, Spot Radio Register, will be based on the reporting cooperation of approximately 400 stations in all major, secondary and tertiary markets, according to present plans.

In format the Spot Radio Register also will follow closely the pattern of the Rorabaugh Tv Report. Messrs. Rorabaugh and Boerst said it "will list complete spot radio activity based on information gathered directly from radio stations and station representatives and will list activity by market, by station, by advertiser and by brand. The listing will show the type, weekly frequency and time of broadcasts for each brand schedule."

In addition, the announcement said, dollar expenditure figures will be made available to individual clients.

Plans for such a service were hailed by both T. F. Flanagan, managing director of the Station Representatives Assn., and Kevin Sweeney, president of the Radio Advertising Bureau.

Mr. Flanagan urged the support of the stations and of the trade associations "for the very good reason that it will help develop more spot radio business."

He pointed out that "such complete figures are door-openers to salesmen working on the task of selling national spot advertising."

"Agency account executives hesitate to recommend national spot to clients unless they can quote up-to-date records of such expenditures by the clients' competitors. And when such figures are available, competitors try to match or out-do in the same medium."

Mr. Sweeney termed the Rorabaugh-Boerst move "encouraging," pointing out that "Radio Advertising Bureau is in favor of any undertaking that will provide authentic data on national spot radio."

Spot Radio Index will be sold to subscribers for $30 per quarterly issue, but stations which cooperate with the service by reporting spot advertising schedules may subscribe for half price. Among stations, only those which cooperate will be eligible to subscribe, but stations are not required to subscribe in order to cooperate.

Messrs. Rorabaugh and Boerst noted that despite their collaboration, there will be no merger of their respective firms and that they will continue to issue their existing publications independently.

Mr. Rorabaugh will direct sales and promotion activities for Spot Radio Register and Mr. Boerst will supervise research and production activities. Headquarters will be at Larchmont, N. Y.

Grey Elects Block, Rand

DAVID L. RAND and Leroy B. Block, account supervisors, Grey Adv., N. Y., were elected vice presidents of the agency at the final 1954 meeting of the board of directors. Mr. Rand has been with the firm for five years and Mr. Block for eight.

WINNERS in the BBDO Norman Sper and His Football Forecasts merchandising contests leave for the Rose Bowl game of Jan. 1. Greg Van Camp (l) and Albert Jones, WTRF-TV Wheeling, W. Va., promotion director and merchandising manager, respectively. The executives were first place winners and the trip was their prize.

ARF Report Discussion

THE Advertising Research Foundation's report on ratings standards [B•T, Dec. 27, 1954] will be discussed at the Jan. 25 luncheon session of the Radio & Television Executives Society's timebuying and selling seminar, it was announced last week. Speakers scheduled are G. Maxwell Ule, vice president and director of research, Kenyon & Eckhardt, who was chairman of the subcommittee which developed the ARF study, and D. H. Denenholz, manager of research-promotion for The Katz Agency, station representatives. The luncheon begins at 12:15 p.m. at the Toots Shor restaurant in New York.

FAMILY TV SETS GAIN 3%—MRCA

Three-month study among various family groups released by Market Research Corp. of America.

AN INCREASE of 3% in family ownership of tv sets in the U. S. over a three-month period (July-October, 1954), was reported last week by Market Research Corp. of America.

Ownership in October stood at 61% compared to 58% in July, MRCA said. The firm said that in 28 geographic and family-characteristic breakdowns, tv set ownership growth was fairly uniform with increases ranging from one to five points.

The rate of increase, however, tended to slow down in family groups where ownership already was high. Samuel G. Barton, president of the firm, pointed out that all three of the one-point gains occurred in the breakdowns where July ownership was 10 or more points above the national figures. MRCA figures are from the National Consumer Panel which is a cross section of all U. S. families. Included are 5,800 families and more than 19,000 persons who report purchases regularly to MRCA.

The show, originating in CBS Studio 58 in New York (facilities were provided by CBS-TV), was carried simultaneously to dealers and newsmen gathered in Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Miami, Minneapolis, New Orleans, New York, Oklahoma City, Des Moines, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, St. Louis, Seattle and Syracuse.

Patterned after the "spectacular" type of tv program, the black-and-white telecast featured the Honey Dreamers Quintet, Joel Herron's orchestra, Westbrook van Voorhees and Betty Furness. It was directed by Perry Lafferty, who directs Robert Montgomery Presents programs and the Imogene Coca Show (both NBC-TV).

'Silent' Agency

GREY ADV., agency for a portion of the RCA Victor account, kept plans for RCA Victor's record price reductions so secret that, prior to the announcement, writers and art people working on the account were holed up in a Manhattan hotel to work out details of copy, etc., and to help keep the secret until it was ready to be sprung.

Serutan, Geritol Shows To Urge Drugstore Buying

THE SLOGAN "Buy-It-at-Your-Drugstore" will be aired on all four network shows sponsored by Pharmaceuticals Inc. (Serutan and Geritol), on behalf of the druggists as a good will gesture by the advertisers.

During February the slogan will be used as the theme to pay tribute to the American pharmacist. The audience will be urged to "Buy-It-at-Your-Drugstore" on the following shows: Douglas Edwards and the News, Juvenile Jury, Life Begins at Eighty and Meet Millie.

Stars of these tv shows will stress that the druggist, together with the physician, helps protect the family's health.

"With so many other outlets now carrying drug items and cutting into drugstore sales," says Harry Parness, director of sales for Serutan and Geritol, "we feel that manufacturers of drug products should use their efforts to direct consumer buying toward the local drugstore. By education and experience, the pharmacist is best fitted to advise the public about all types of drug products.

In addition to tv, Mr. Parness said the campaign will be backed in radio, newspaper and magazine advertising.

Ticket Office in B-T Bldg.

THE PERSONAL TOUCH

SCREEN GEMS GIVES IT TO CLIENTS UNDER NEW SERVICE PLAN

By Rocco Famighetti

THE PRODUCTION of a filmed commercial for television at a large producing organization can be a protracted process involving many minds and many hands. One of the pitfalls is that somewhere along the assembly-line someone will falter and there will be a "miss" 'twixt the sponsor's blueprint and the producer's end product.

It was this recognition of human frailty that prompted Screen Gems Inc., New York, one of the largest film-commercial companies, as well as a major producer of tv film programs, to establish its "personalized" service for advertising agencies. Under this plan one production unit will be entrusted with the responsibility for filming all the commercials of a particular agency.

Several weeks ago [B•T, Dec. 13, 1954] Screen Gems outlined details of its new service and of its new subdivision, called the Producers Group, which will endeavor to eliminate the "miss" between the blueprint and the product by serving as the link between the agency and the sponsor and the various units at the production company.

It is the contention of Ben Berenberg, executive producer of Screen Gems and head of the Producers Group, that SG is the sole film commercial organization to extend this preferential service to agencies. He believes it is a natural outgrowth of the increasing importance of well-made commercials and of the stiffening competition in the field.

As an example of Screen Gems' sprawling organizational structure, Mr. Berenberg explained that the company consists of five subdivisions, aside from the Producers Group. They are preparation, headed by Ben Kranz; animation, Volus Jones; shooting, John Gilmour; editing, Don Heiss, and completion, Bob Horowitz.

"You can readily see," Mr. Berenberg said, "that as a commercial proceeds from one subdivision to another, one man or more might add one or more ingredients that could change the feel of the commercial as it was intended by the agency or sponsor. It was a realization of this pitfall that induced us to establish our new service."

At present, Screen Gems provides its "personalized" service to BBDO and Kenyon & Eckhardt. Mr. Berenberg is the supervisor of the unit producing film for BBDO, with Lee Goodman as associate producer on the account. Sonny Chalif, supervisor of production at Screen Gems, heads the unit servicing K & E, with Don Hershey as associate producer.

"We have learned," Mr. Berenberg said, "that in making commercials, certain advertisers and agencies want a specific approach to sell their product. There are certain subtleties wanted in a commercial that cannot be described in a story-board but must be injected into a commercial, sometimes by implication. They may want a reflection of their product in terms of tying it to campaigns in other media. This is what I call 'quasi-intangibles.' These take time to communicate to a producer. If the same man is assigned to the same agency, our man and the agency man have built up a 'community of experience' over a period of time. Working in close association permits them to get along semantically. Each understands what the other wants and can do."

Mr. Berenberg believes that this system enables the agency to operate more efficiently and economically. He pointed out that ordinarily an agency planning a commercial submits a story-board to several production companies and requests bids. Very often, he said, not too much time is given to the production firm to submit ideas on how the filming can be accomplished more efficiently and more cheaply. Under the "personalized" system, Screen Gems does not have to concern itself about a bid, Mr. Berenberg said, but can concentrate on methods to improve the story-board and reduce costs, when possible. (He observed that, as a check, both BBDO and K & E occasionally ask for bids from other production companies.)

Mr. Berenberg attributed speedy production of a "Quick" commercial for Richard Hudnut [B•T, Aug. 9, 1954] to the "personalized" system's strength of close cooperation between agency, sponsor and producer. He explained that this commercial posed the problem of a time schedule, because the actors in the commercial were also the talent appearing on the Hit Parade television program sponsored by Hudnut. Faced with a tight schedule, Mr. Berenberg said, the sponsor, agency and producer worked out all details in numerous huddles and were able to shoot the commercial in a limited number of days—at times when the talent was available. The commercial, he added, was received very favorably.

Mr. Berenberg insisted that SG's service is needed by small agencies as well as large. He observed that many small agencies do not have tv departments or if they do these departments are often small and comparatively inexperienced. In the case of a small agency, Mr. Berenberg said, Screen Gems will make available a producer from its pool, and will endeavor to assign the same unit to the agency, whenever possible, so that a close relationship can be nurtured.

Though BBDO and K & E are as yet the only agencies with their own units, Mr. Berenberg noted, two other agencies currently are in negotiations with Screen Gems for a similar set-up. He said that the company will provide a special unit when the volume of business is large enough to justify it, but declined to give further details.

SCREEN GEMS' "personalized" unit producing film commercials for Kenyon & Eckhardt goes into a huddle with a K & E team to work out details on a commercial for Richard Hudnut's "Quick." ## MR. D. A. GOES

FOR MANY YEARS, personal appearances were almost exclusively a motion picture industry activity. Of the other mass entertainment media, performers in live radio and tv programs and on the stage were held too closely to performance and rehearsal schedules to take to the road; only the syndicated transcribed radio program field afforded stars enough time to meet their public "in person."

But, in 1949, when film began to become an important factor in television programming, Ziv Television Programs Inc. realized that its production schedules allowed the same leeway to its stars that motion pictures did to theirs and that personal appearances might be utilized as profitably for Ziv programs as they had for theatre motion pictures.

When Eckerd Drug Co. opened a new drug store in Charlotte, N. C., Herbert Philbrick, author of "I Led Three Lives," best-selling book on which Ziv's top-rated tv series was based, was invited to the grand opening to meet customers and employees. Adolph Menjou, visiting the New York brewery of Schaefer Beer, sponsor of Favorite Story in New York as part of a personnel relations campaign, ate in the employees' cafeteria and visited with brewmasters, clerks and other personnel. Later, he posed for photographs with route salesmen and drivers.

A star's visit to a city gives his local sponsor ample opportunities for local publicity. Ceremonies at the airport, motorcades with banners identifying star, sponsor and product, news conferences, radio and tv appearances, meetings with civic associations and school groups are typical examples of what can be done.

Sponsors are highly enthusiastic about the results of public appearances, Ziv reports. Revill Fox of Kostka, Bakewell & Fox, Denver agency for Coor's Beer, called Mr. Philbrick's appearances in eight western markets where the account sponsors I Led Three Lives one of the most "worthwhile public relations campaigns" Coor's ever had. Buddy Smith, owner of Fashion Cleaners & Laundry, Fort Smith, Ark., said he was "tremendously enthusiastic" over results of Mr. Philbrick's appearance in his city.

Richard Carlson, who portrays Mr. Philbrick in the I Led Three Lives series, has also made personal appearances for local sponsors of this program. Other Ziv stars who have done the same include: Adolph Menjou of Favorite Story, Duncan Renaldo and Leo Carillo of Cisco Kid and David Brian of Mr. District Attorney.

A few of the goings on in Cincinnati last summer, when Mr. Brian, as Mr. D. A., was guest of honor at the convention of the National Assn. of County & Prosecuting Attorneys, are shown in the photographs accompanying this article.

ALIGHTING from his plane, David Brian (Mr. District Attorney) receives a summons from Cincinnati's district attorney, C. Watson Hover, summoning him to address the convention of the National Assn. of County and Prosecuting Attorneys.

HIS ADDRESS over, Mr. District Attorney moderates a tv panel show in which three editors (left) turn the tables by asking questions to be answered by three district attorneys. Panel (l to r): Jerry Hunter, Cincinnati Times-Star; Robert Debo, Cincinnati Post; John Cronin, Cincinnati Enquirer; Mr. Brian; district attorneys Miles F. MacDonald, Bert M. Keating and Emmett Perry.

GENERAL ELECTRIC THEATRE

IT'S TRYING A FRESH APPROACH AS A FILM-AND-LIVE SERIES

By Marjorie Thomas

GENERAL ELECTRIC has taken the policy of "off-beat" scripts and a non-fixed budget to come up with the part filmed and part live CBS-TV General Electric Theatre. While the series has had a few duds mixed in with the hits, the techniques it has introduced can be useful to the tv industry as a whole.

General Electric Theatre started on CBS-TV last Sept. 26 after six months of actual planning and, according to the December American Research Bureau national ratings of tv network programs, now fills the number 15 spot. Those same ARB ratings show only one other half-hour anthology series in the top 15 programs and it, NBC-TV's Fireside Theater with a five-year edge, is number 12.

By using part filmed and part live programs for GE Theatre, there are many more advance problems in that you combine both types of problems, according to executive producer Mort Abrahams. One basic problem is story material. Some excellent scripts simply can't be done live. So, in this series, Mr. Abrahams adds, those scripts can be filmed. It is perhaps the first time, he says, that stories do not have to be fitted to the medium. In the case of GE Theatre the medium fits the story.

Talent is another basic problem. Some stars can't go East at the desired time for live originations. Because of the policy of filming some programs in Hollywood, such talent as Alan Ladd, Joseph Cotten, Jane Wyman, James Stewart, Fred MacMurray and Barry Fitzgerald have made their tv film debuts under the auspices of GE. Conversely, the recent signing of Myrna Loy for her first video appearance was completed because her vehicle, Emily Kimbrough's "It Gives Me Great Pleasure," can and will be filmed in New York.

"GE has never given me a set of rules or any do's or don'ts and is the only client I have ever heard use the words 'off-beat' and 'fantasy' in connection with proposed stories and scripts," Mr. Abrahams declares. Not only that, he adds, but GE has no fixed budget for this series. Estimating that film is two to three times higher than live, the price range for the live programs is $18,000 and up. GE's filmed half hours have cost as much as $70,000, as in the case of "The Face Is Familiar," which starred Jack Benny.

GE Theatre has divided its 1954-55 season into 13 films, 22 live dramatic programs and four live musical programs to feature Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, two of which will be telecast in color. This group did the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, of which the latter was the series' first color telecast at an estimated $100,000, and is scheduled for an Easter presentation and possibly an Armed Forces Day salute.

In connection with the films, GE's contract calls for original runs plus an option on first reruns. Upon completion of this contract, each film reverts to its star. This clause, whereby stars retain an interest in their films, is deemed the main reason GE has been able to snag such top name talent. A deal was worked out with Henry Fonda, for example, under which he will star in Emmett Kelly's autobiography, "The Clown." After its second run Mr. Fonda

Formerly McGeary-Smith

1905 Fairview Ave., N.E.,
Washington 2, D.C.

PLEASED with the success of the new CBS-TV General Electric Theatre are (l to r) Z. Wayne Griffin, producer of many of the filmed programs; Ronald Reagan, program supervisor-host; Mrs. Reagan, actress Nancy Davis; Walter Tibbals, vice president in charge of West Coast production, BBDO, and Robert Jackson, in charge of GE public relations, San Francisco.

will have all film rights and can go ahead with his plans to star in his own independent motion picture adaptation.

Scriptwise, GE is going to a variety of sources: to the movies for "Edison, the Man," radio for "The Face Is Familiar," books for "The Clown," Broadway for "The White Steed," classics for "Dolls House," originals for "D.P." and short stories for "Rider on the Pale Horse." Top money is being paid for stories and story material. Price being paid for live rights to stories ranges from $250 to $3,500. Actual scripts then range from $1,000 to $2,500.

In securing stars, money has been no problem, Mr. Abrahams says. The problem has been to get dramatic material the stars feel is worthy of their talents. With certain people in mind, Mr. Abrahams and his staff proceed to hunt for the right script. "We're bucking the same transition that was faced when stars went into radio," he says. "But tv is another way of presenting them to a mass audience and they'll have to give in sooner or later. We must convince them it is their responsibility as performers to want to reach this new mass audience. Also, the new problems of acting in video provide a challenge to any 'real' actor," Mr. Abrahams injected.

The roster of writers signed to insure literate scripts and entice stars includes Charles Jackson, Carson McCullers, Samuel Taylor, William Inge, Gore Vidal, Truman Capote and Jerome Weidman.

Mr. Abrahams, who produces CBS-TV's Medallion Theatre, is producer on all live shows for GE Theatre and serves as executive producer on many of the filmed shows. Z. Wayne Griffin and Leon Gordon produce most of the filmed shows through the facilities of Revue Productions. In a few instances, however, a star has his own production setup, as in the case of Jane Wyman's Karman Productions and Alan Ladd's Jaguar Productions. Don Medford directs all the live shows with specific directors assigned to those that are filmed.

As a rough estimate, Mr. Abrahams says that 60% of the live shows will originate in New York and 40% in Hollywood. This, he explains, is because some scripts demand space which is available only on the West Coast. Shrugging off the live vs. film and New York vs. Hollywood controversies, he advises, "Let's not fight but take advantage of the best facilities in both places."

This debate will be resolved very shortly, according to Don Medford, by the magnetic tape. The process, which he believes will be made available in not too long a time, has the "spontaneity of live video combined with the range of hindsight of film. We'll be able to shoot at a time and money cost comparable to live tv, but with the chance to retake, edit and see the location filming now available only to film," he says.

Relying on CBS-TV's Ray Milland Show, NBC-TV's Joan Davis Show and ABC-TV's Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet to promote specific products and divisions, GE, through BBDO, adheres strictly to institutional advertising for its Sunday evening anthology series. Billed as GE's progress reporter, Don Herbert uses the commercial time to discuss and demonstrate new developments, either completed or in the research stage.

What would appear to be a most happy selection is that of Ronald Reagan as program supervisor-host. As an actor, Mr. Reagan introduces each program and will appear in seven shows for the series. He has already done one on film and two live. Additionally, Mr. Reagan recently completed a seven week's tour of GE's some 280 plants to further personnel and public relations. As program supervisor, he is employed directly by GE. When the agency, sponsor and production units confer, his attitude is that he represents the sponsor's viewpoint in helping select and put on the best possible show. "I feel that I provide the liaison between the entertainment and the business end, and I also feel personally responsible in seeing to it that we don't select stories which might hurt GE," he declares.

"Ronnie's position in relation to the client agency is about as carefully thought out as anything I have ever seen. There is nothing ad lib in this whole operation," according to Mr. Abrahams, "and the incredible thing is that so far, nothing has been fouled up."

— film maker —

JOEL MALONE, a tv film maker by happenstance, doesn't believe in whistling in the dark. In order to produce half-hour tv shows with quality and with reasonable budgeting, planning must be minute, intricate and precise, Mr. Malone observes.

MR. MALONE

And that's why Joel Malone Assoc., Hollywood, Calif., in producing The Whistler series for CBS Television Film Sales syndication, can knock out half-hour films assembly-like, as are hard top convertibles at the Willow Run plant.

Mr. Malone is new to tv film production. Paradoxically, it fits him like last year's glove. He knows tv's limits and potentials, having been reared in radio as a writer for CBS on the West Coast in the late 30s. Radio, he notes, has been his training ground for the commercial and timing aspects of tv.

Tv film, he explains, fundamentally is a half-hour production because it is patterned after radio. That's one of the first things he says a tv film producer must understand. Also, the producer must not forget that tv is seen in the living room on a screen that's microscopic in size as compared to the majors' trend to the wide, Cinemascope-sized movie screen.

In 1940, Mr. Malone joined Warner Bros. to learn about motion pictures. He was a writer and associate producer at Warner's "shorts" stable and later switched to "features" (he was a writer for the first feature-length vehicle in which Jane Wyman starred).

Two years later, Mr. Malone was in the Army. He spent four years with the Army Air Force motion picture unit, writing, directing and producing on some 22 half-hour films, including state-side work on "Target Tokyo."

In 1946, Mr. Malone was editing and writing CBS Radio's The Whistler. Since that year, he has written some 200 of the radio shows. Also in post-war years, Mr. Malone wrote screenplays for Universal International Pictures, being associated with some 10 motion pictures.

Reviewing this varied experience, Mr. Malone believes he has profited from all of it, permitting him to apply what he has learned to the production of tv films. His production techniques—which basically pivot on carefully planned charts and timetables—were learned partly in the Air Force.

A great concern for the independent producer is the budget problem. If you go over the budget, it can mean money out of your own pocket. Thus, Mr. Malone has drawn from Hollywood's top production skills for his associates, directors and cameramen.

Pre-production, he notes, is one of the secrets of tv film success. The sun's arc must be studied when shooting outdoors, to avoid shooting into the sun or being harried

Detroit youngsters have a new hero. He's a masked adventurer—"Captain Flint"—whose fabulous career as a soldier, jet pilot, deep sea diver, cowboy lends great weight and authority to his words. He entertains the kids with Western films and interesting guests (right) who demonstrate their specialties. He also tells inspirational stories of national heroes with action pictures. Proof of Captain Flint's tremendous appeal: his rating is already double that of competition.

by varying shadow lengths. This seasonal change is but one of the intricacies of split-second timetabling.

An idea as to how problems must be met and licked can be gleaned from Mr. Malone's current schedule. On Nov. 11, his company was contracted by CBS to produce The Whistler series, for which a pilot film already had been made. On Nov. 15, the crew started shooting. On Dec. 23, the schedule called for the completion of the first Whistler cycle—13 films. Thus, 13 half-hour films in 33 days, eliminating Sundays and Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Malone, who writes about half of the tv series, recalls how important the company's schedule is in terms of dollars. On Nov. 24 the unit completed "Kind Thought" (starring John Howard) after shooting "outside." Set for 1 p.m. that day, a cast of 16, including stars, supporting players, stand-ins and extras was ready at the studios for "inside" shooting of "Roark Island" (starring Tom Brown), the next in the series.

His philosophy on tv film? Film productions are "little half-hour movies employing the same techniques, so far as possible, as those used in motion pictures." After exterior shots, the camera records the story by following the people in it. Except for establishing mood and setting, the tv camera, he notes, must concentrate on the action.

"This is where we differ from feature movies," he explains. A person's look, expression or reaction rather than words as in radio or panoramic camera work as in wide-screen movies distinguish films for tv.

3-D TELEVISION

IT NEVER GOT OFF THE GROUND, BUT IF IT EVER DOES, ACADEMY FILM CAN SAY IT GOT THERE FIRST

AMONG authorities who should know best, 3-D is regarded as a phenomenon that never got off the ground, either in the nation's movie houses or in television.

It is not that it is obsolete or impractical, say these experts, but simply that it got sidetracked for the likes of Cinemascope in theatres and for color in the visual broadcast medium. Three-dimension television right now is deadlier than last year's fashions.

But if and when it ever comes to tv—perhaps with the natural advantages of color—one of Chicago's fastest growing film companies will say: "We did it first."

While, like everyone else, Academy Film Productions has relegated 3-D tv to the background, this company retains a specialized knowledge of three-dimension shooting techniques. It claims to have pioneered in the first projected 3-D commercial ever made expressly for television.

This commercial was produced in 1953 through W. E. Long Co., Chicago, for Holsum Bread to illustrate to its salesmen what a three-dimensional film could do for them on television. The fact that the film was never shown on the air does not detract from another fact: that it appealed to the advertiser and proved an effective sales pitch. It also won Academy nationwide distinction in the three-dimension field.

Bernard Howard, president and executive producer of the firm (located at 123 W. Chestnut St. in Chicago), acknowledges that, for now, 3-D tv is dormant. But he is equally convinced that there is a field for it.

It is quite impelling to see a pretty model extending a loaf of Holsum bread (or for that matter, one of a variety of other appealing products) right into the viewer's home.

Practically stated, 3-D has not yet come to commercial television because no system has been found to be compatible with present standards. Among the interests which have been "toying" with the phenomenon are ABC, American Television Inc., 3-D Television Corp. and others. ABC's system, introduced at the 1953 NARTB convention in Los Angeles, called for polarized light glasses, a specially-designed tv receiver and a conventional camera with accessories (a rotating plastic disc and front-surface mirror). The ATI method was based on the "mind-retention" theory with alternating pictures. All techniques have been relegated to the mothballs.

Academy uses the Bolex Stereo, a special lens and silver-coated screen. It has turned out 3-D films for the National Safety Council, Stone Container Corp. (industrial), Sears, Roebuck & Co. and other organizations. It also prepared the first baseball film ever shot in 3-D, a game between the Chicago Cubs and the Milwaukee Braves.

A Stone Container sound-and-color 3-D film won Academy the Merit Filming Award from American Cinematographer, national cameramen's publication for the American Society of Cinematographers, for "meritorious achievement in the photography of the motion picture" in mid-1954.

Academy stresses its ability to turn out quality commercials in record time, sometimes operating around the clock on editing and other activities. To this end, the company recently completed a three-month renovation program. Academy produces animated, semi-animated, live action, slide and other type commercials.

Mr. Howard says he went into the tv film production field in April 1950 after working with and for agencies for 14 years, because he felt there was a definite need "for a producer who could interpret and examine the problems of making a tv film commercial from the point of view of the advertising agency (and its clients) as well as that of the film producer." He noted that production costs were "too high."

Mr. Howard likes to describe Academy as "the largest small studio in Chicago." The third dimension at Academy is the personalized service which it extends to clients, he adds, and is likely to be emphasized if and when 3-D comes to tv sometime in the future.

27 High Budget Movies Released for Tv Use

A TOTAL of 27 "multi-million dollar" motion pictures are now ready for distribution, according to Earl Collins, president of Hollywood Television Service Inc., who stated the initial production cost of most of the features ranged from $1 million to $2 million each.

Making up the "diamond group" are 26 features never released to tv before including "Change of Heart" with Susan Hayward; "Brazil" with Tito Guizar; "Scotland Yard Investigator" with Sir Aubrey Smith, and a group of pictures starring Judy Canova.

First feature in the group up for distribution is "Bill and Coo," Ken Murray's Academy Award winning film.

"Prints were acquired from Consolidated Film Industries with a high rating in the matter of light and sound fidelity and clarity for tv presentation," Mr. Collins declared.

Ziv Colorcasting Schedule To Be Increased for 1955

THE NUMBER of Ziv Television Programs' shows to be telecast in color this year has been increased over the number presented in color during 1954, it was reported last week by John L. Sinn, president.

Mr. Sinn said that KSD-TV St. Louis and WTMJ-TV Milwaukee each scheduled three colorcasts for the first three months of this year and that other stations are planning to present Ziv programs in color at later dates. KSD-TV and WTMJ-TV have scheduled colorcasts of I Led Three Lives, Mr. District Attorney and the Favorite Story film, "The Empty Holster."

In 1954, according to Mr. Sinn, Favorite Story was telecast in color over KING-TV Seattle, WNBT (TV) New York (now WRCA-TV) and XEW-TV Mexico City on Aug. 14. Another Ziv property, Cisco Kid, was telecast in color by WBTV (TV) Charlotte on Oct. 30 and over WBAL-TV Baltimore on Nov. 9.

Bing Signs for CBS-TV Films

EXCLUSIVE agreement with CBS Television has been signed by Bing Crosby for two one-hour film programs to be made and released during 1955. CBS-TV has the right to one network rebroadcast of each show, according to Hubbell Robinson Jr., vice president in charge of network programs, who disclosed the agreement last week.

Mr. Robinson stated that the first show is now in preparation. It will be produced by Ralph Levy and will be made during March. The second show will be filmed during either June or July.

Broidy Settles With Reynolds

SALES CONTRACT governing distribution of Wild Bill Hickok tv film series has been purchased from Stuart Reynolds for $125,000 by William F. Broidy, president of the firm which produces the series. The check, received by Mr. Reynolds Dec. 29, also effects a settlement of the suit he filed against Mr. Broidy last May in which he claimed Mr. Broidy owed him $74,470 under a contract whereby Mr. Reynolds was to receive 5% of the gross income from national sales of the series. The film series has been sponsored by Kellogg Co., through Leo Burnett Co., since February 1951.

EASTMAN TRI-X FILM DESIGNED TO CUT COSTS

Producers of realistic, semi-documentaries will benefit from decreased lighting demands which will cut time and production costs, the firm says.

BOON to the producers of realistic, semi-documentary type of filmed tv programs is seen in the development of the new Eastman Tri-X 35mm film, said to require only one-third as much light as ordinary film. While not designed to replace Plus-X or Super Double-X film, Tri-X, which costs about the same, claims several advantages to better fill the needs of such programs as NBC-TV's Dragnet and Medic, and CBS-TV Film Sales' The Lineup.

Night scenes, according to an Eastman spokesman, can be photographed in normal night street light. This makes for more natural exteriors and cuts costs as there is no necessity for extra illumination. Decreased handling of lights has meant that Mark VII now is able to shoot five Dragnet programs in two weeks instead of the previous record of four films in that time, B•T was told. Especially beneficial to the desired realism, it was explained, Tri-X provides greater shadow detail with objects actually seen in the shadows, whereas with other film the objects appear completely black. This reproduction of extreme contrasts, in turn, provides a greater range of effect lighting.

Available for the past six months, Tri-X is also being used by Roland Reed and Hal Roach Jr. for NBC-TV's My Little Margie because fewer light set-ups means greater speed in shooting schedules. DPI loads its cameras with Tri-X for B & R Enterprises' ABC-TV Ray Bolger Show, because in shooting before a studio audience there is so much physical exertion on the part of the dancer-comedian that he can't withstand the heat generated by the usual amount of lighting.

While Medic, Dragnet and the syndicated Waterfront strive for realism and can exploit the fact that actors look more natural in less light, there are several series which would not be benefited by the development of Tri-X. As one cinematographer revealed, he can't use it because there are some actresses, beyond the first flush of youth, who need light and lots of it—otherwise lines and wrinkles galore become apparent.

Newsreels are taking advantage of the new film to cover night scenes and, in particular, to shoot fall and winter sports and events, coverage of which has heretofore been hampered by unsatisfactory natural lighting.

It was obtained by persistent requests of the Soviet embassy in the Nation's Capital, taking a year and a half before this persistence was rewarded, according to INS-Telenews.

Premier Malenkov's answers were read for the cameras in Washington by Soviet Ambassador Zarubin. They were cabled to Washington from Moscow and included a bid for a diplomatic conference to settle Far Eastern problems.

NCAA MEMBERS SOUNDED OUT ON FIVE TV PLANS FOR '55

The national football telecast controls of past years proved to be an ever festering point among the schools at last week's convention. The Big Ten again hints of rebellion. The Pacific Coast Conference reiterates its stand for a regional plan. A straw vote is to guide the tv committee in its proposal for fall.

GROWING disaffection for the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s policy of nationally-controlled telecasting of college football games was in evidence at the NCAA's 49th annual convention in New York last week.

But no clear-cut judgment could be ascertained on the final course the 1955 television committee will adopt toward a program for next fall. However, these major developments did unfold:

- The Western Conference (Big Ten) urged adoption of a national-regional plan and voiced a threat that if its stand were repudiated, it might have to withdraw from the NCAA program, leading possibly to "unrestricted" television in the Midwest.

- The Pacific Coast Conference stood firm for regional telecasts, but did not buttress its stand with any threat, implied or overt.

- The Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference recommended establishment of a plan similar to the one in effect for the past several years, setting up national controls for protection of attendance of the games of lesser attraction.

- The National Opinion Research Center, Chicago, issued its sixth annual report on the effects of television upon college football attendance, showing that attendance during 1954 rose 2.5% over 1953 but attributing this "modest increase" to larger student enrollments and slight advancement in personal incomes (See separate story, page 58).

The question of which type of television program to select for 1955 was discussed at a round-table meeting Thursday at the Hotel New Yorker, attended by about 300 directors of athletics. Harvey Cassill, U. of Washington and chairman of the 1954 television committee, summarized five possible plans.

Following discussion by several delegates from the floor, one delegate from each of the NCAA member colleges was asked to indicate by written straw vote his preference on a 1955 plan. It was stressed that the straw vote represented only "an expression of opinion" for the guidance of the 1955 tv committee and opinions expressed would be kept confidential, even from NCAA membership. The nature of the 1955 program, delegates were told, is the responsibility of the new committee, which will forward its recommendations to NCAA membership for a mail referendum in the spring.

Plans that delegates were to consider in the straw poll were as follows:

1. The 1954 tv plan, calling for one game telecast per Saturday. No college team to be telecast more than once during the season, and point of origin of weekly telecasts to be widely distributed geographically with all NCAA districts represented.

2. National-regional type of program with national control through the medium of an NCAA tv committee which would establish basic limitations for operation of the program within each region. Controls may take several directions. For example, the U. S. could be divided into regions for television purposes along traditional groupings; institutions be allowed to telecast one game at home, and one away from home, on stations in regions where game is played; an institution be restricted to a choice of either regional or national telecasting (but not both); each institution be allowed to negotiate its own television contracts with the consent of opponents in games involved.

3. The "one-rule" plan with a single turn governing the "live" television of member institutions' football games. Under the plan any member institution may telecast one of its home games and appear on television in one of its away games, only one of which may be carried on a network (carried into more than one tv market area). Member institutions may make their own arrangements under this one restriction.

4. Regional program under which regions would be established along traditional lines.

THE NCAA last week heard a warning from Herbert O. "Fritz" Crisler (picture at left), U. of Michigan athletic director, that the Western Conference (Big Ten) might withdraw from the NCAA tv program if a limited television program, instead of the national-regional setup favored by the Big Ten, is adopted. Thad Brown (at microphone in picture at right), NARTB vice president, also spoke. Flanking him are Harvey Cassill (l), chairman, and Asa S. Bushnell, director, of the 1954 NCAA Tv Committee.

No telecast across regional lines. Maximum telecasting of one home and one away game per college.

5. No restrictions plan, under which each member college would negotiate for the telecasting on a local, regional or national basis. There would be no rules imposed by the NCAA concerning the number of an institution's tv appearances or the area covered by its telecasts.

The 1955 television committee that will frame this year's plan was to be elected at a business meeting on Friday.

In addition to Mr. Cassill, the 1954 television committee consisted of J. Shober Barr, Franklin & Marshall College; Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA; Jefferson J. Coleman, U. of Alabama; Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, U. of Michigan; Eugene F. Flynn, Holy Cross College; Howard Grubbs, Southwest Conference; Wilbur V. Hubbard, San Jose State College; Robert J. Kane, Cornell U.; Reaves E. Peters, Big Seven Conference, and E. L. Romney, Mountain States Conference. Asa S. Bushnell, Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, served as director of the 1954 tv committee.

In a report to the convention, Mr. Cassill characterized the 1954 plan as "successful," claiming it had achieved its objectives.

An indirect challenge to NCAA's controlled plan was expressed by Father Edmund Joyce, moderator of athletics of Notre Dame U. Father Joyce, who said he detected "a considerable cleavage of thought" at this convention, said he was opposed to the secret straw ballot that was to be taken, pointing out that NCAA delegates had the right to know "the temper of feeling" among the membership. He contended the results of the straw vote could serve as a guide to members in asking questions on the plan that appears to be in favor.

"No matter which plan is indicated as the preferred one in the straw poll," Father Joyce said, "I know I have a lot of questions that I want answered."

In reply, Chairman Cassill told Father Joyce he could bring up the matter at the business meeting on Friday.

Mr. Crisler, spokesman for the Western (Big Ten) Conference, contended that sentiment had grown in the Big Ten for the so-called "national-regional" plan, pointing out that some "pressure" had been exerted by state legislatures in the seven mid-western states that support state institutions in that area. He warned that the conference could "not hold the line" for a nationally-controlled plan and said it would be forced to withdraw from the 1955 plan. This could lead, he said, to "unrestricted" tv in the conference area.

Al Masters, Stanford U. and spokesman for the Pacific Coast Conference, spoke briefly in support of the regional plan. He claimed that the best interests of the Pacific Coast would be served by such a plan.

One unusual sidelight to the convention was a charge by Jack Trinsey, national director of the newly-organized American Television College Football Fans.

The ATCFF was organized by Mr. Trinsey and other college football fans throughout the country "to enable college football to flourish and live with television" [B•T, Jan. 3]. He said he had been invited to attend the convention and submit views to the tv committee, but claimed he had been told he would not be permitted to talk.

Thad H. Brown Jr., NARTB tv vice president, told NCAA in a brief talk that "readjustments, new ideas, new concepts, imaginative thinking on an individual basis, are all necessary to keeping up with, and taking advantage of, this modern world of opportunity."

Grid Crowds Gained 2.5% in '53—NORC

NCAA-sponsored study also discloses substantial increase in tv set circulation, but nevertheless gives an indirect endorsement to limited television program.

SIXTH annual report of the National Opinion Research Corp., Chicago, circulated at the NCAA convention in New York last week (see story, page 56), showed that attendance at college football games in 1954 registered a 2.5% gain over 1953.

The report, prepared by NORC at the behest of NCAA, attributed the "overall modest" increase in ticket sales in 1954 to "the slight advances in personal incomes and the continued growth in student enrollments."

NORC provided a tabulation of paid attendance at games from 1947 through 1954, with a corresponding table showing the number of television sets in circulation, based on NBC and ABC estimates for Nov. 1 of each year. It showed that in 1947-48 (average per two years), paid attendance was $15,248,000 and sets in circulation, 426,000; 1949, $15,675,000 and 3,025,000 sets; 1950, $15,172,000 and 9,169,000 sets; 1951, $14,272,000 and 14,556,000 sets; 1952, $14,196,000 and 19,751,000 sets; 1953, $13,754,000 and 26,364,000 sets; 1954, $14,091,000 and 32,262,000 sets.

NORC observed that in 1954 the "small rise" in attendance was accomplished despite an increase of almost six million new tv sets during 1954. It voiced the opinion that the new tv set owners consisted primarily of persons in the lower economic group, who never had "great interest" in college football and who were not attenders.

In an indirect endorsement of a limited television program, NORC stated that the "slight upturn" was accomplished in a period of "vast population and income gains," and stressed that attendance remains "well below the pre-television peaks." The report added:

"Were the present limited television program to be replaced by wide-open television of major games, or by another program which would substantially increase the number of top games available locally on tv screens, all evidence indicates a further adverse effect on attendance levels generally."

AP News Wins Steady Renewal

Station WRAK, Williamsport, Pa., likes the number "13." One of its advertisers has sponsored an AP news program for that many years.

It is the station management's opinion that this success story of consistent renewals is based on (1) genuine public service and (2) concrete sales performance.

"Confair News," sponsored by the Confair Bottling Co., Williamsport, Pa., is broadcast over WRAK at 12:15 p.m. daily, Monday through Saturday. Holding an audience day in and day out for thirteen years has paid off in the increasing business enjoyed by this soft drink manufacturer.

To quote the sponsor, Mr. Z. H. Confair, President of Confair Bottling, "We are happy to renew each year, knowing that we are presenting an invaluable public service, made possible by the comprehensive coverage of The Associated Press."

And from J. Wright Mackey, Commercial Manager at WRAK, this comment: "We work hard to keep our sponsor happy... Associated Press is a welcome aid in renewing a satisfied account."

Case History No. 4

Merrill Morris, news director of WMTR, Morristown, N. J., had just arrived home. It was late. A full day at the station was behind him. The phone rang. He was told:

"Bleachers at the Dover auto speedway have collapsed. Looks like a good story."

Morris called The Associated Press, then headed for the speedway, 15 miles away. Enroute, he picked up a police bulletin:

"All available ambulances needed in Dover. Urgent!"

The speedway was a scene of busy doctors and ambulance crews. A quick check gave Morris the broad facts.

"Looks like about 100 injured," he reported. "Sticking with it. Will call you back."

Although WMTR couldn't use the news until the next morning, Morris stuck with the story all night . . . interviewing doctors, victims, relatives.

Finally the story was wrapped up and Morris went home to bed.

Even as Morris slept, WMTR continued to protect The AP.

Station Manager Kenneth Croy and Nick DeRienzo followed up on the condition of the injured.

Once again, Station WMTR — noted for being on top of the news — had done a top-notch job for The Associated Press and fellow AP members everywhere.

NARTB BOARD LINES UP HEAVY AGENDA FOR MEETING IN FLORIDA JAN. 26-28

High on list will be problems caused by the log-jam of countless conventions and clinics. Smaller committee meetings will also be held in Hollywood, Fla., commencing Jan. 23.

NARTB's Board of Directors will seek a solution to one of the industry's pressing problems—the log-jam of conventions and clinics—at its winter meeting to be held Jan. 26-28 at Hollywood Beach Hotel, Hollywood, Fla.

With the industry growing in both size and complexity, radio and tv executives have become involved in heavy expenditure of time and money because of the staggering lineup of business meetings.

NARTB President Harold E. Fellows will take a series of recommendations designed to whittle the meeting schedule down to practical size, saving both time and some of the estimated $3.5 million spent in attendance. The association has been studying the question for some months.

Extent of the meeting problem was shown in a B•T analysis of ideas submitted by 400 stations [B•T, Dec. 13, 1954]. This study cited 59,048 man-days spent away from station offices to attend industry meetings.

Meeting Attendance Up

While declining attendance of NARTB district meetings has been causing concern in recent years, the 1954 figure was slightly higher than 1953. Even so, many of the meetings failed to show the spirit and interest found at state association sessions where programming was livelier and delegates stayed in their chairs while programs were underway.

NARTB's board will decide—or ask a committee to consider—whether NARTB, Radio Advertising Bureau, Television Advertising Bureau, Broadcast Music Inc., AP broadcasters and the 40-plus state associations should merge their meetings so management and staff executives can get maximum benefit from programs with minimum loss of office time and money.

The meeting problem and many others will come before the separate Radio and Tv Boards as well as the combined boards. A series of smaller meetings will start Jan. 23 when the NARTB Tv Code Review Board will meet. The code group will consider a plan to invite such related industry units as advertisers, agencies and film distributors to participate in code operation. At a December meeting with American Assn. of Advertising Agencies the whole code problem was discussed in detail [B•T, Dec. 6, 1954].

If additional industry agencies are invited to join stations and networks in subscribing to the code, basic changes in the whole code process will be involved. These would include display of the Seal of Good Practice. NARTB has not yet announced withdrawal of the seal from a subscriber. John E. Fetzer, head of the Fetzer Stations, is code board chairman with J. Leonard Reinsch, WSB-TV Atlanta, serving as vice chairman.

Code board actions will be presented to the NARTB Tv Board Jan. 26. The Radio Board meets Jan. 27, with the combined boards assembling Jan. 28. Clair R. McCollough, Steinman Stations, is chairman of the Tv Board. Henry B. Clay, KWKH Shreveport, La., is chairman of the Radio Board.

Group meetings are planned Jan. 24 by the Television Finance Committee and General Finance Committee. The By-Laws Committee meets Jan. 25 along with the Convention Committee. Messrs. McCollough and Clay are co-chairmen of the convention group, which held a preliminary meeting, one of a series, in Washington last Thursday.

Legislative problems will receive serious attention during the board sessions. Association officials are concerned over the recent stand taken by Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) against reporting of Congressional proceedings by the electronic media. They face, too, an upcoming investigation by the Senate Commerce Committee's staff investigation of networks and uhf. Just a few days ago NARTB filed a detailed statistical report on the extent of beer-wine sponsorship based on a questionnaire survey covering most of the industry. It was filed with the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee [B•T, Jan. 3].

First detailed report on NARTB's million-dollar project to conduct a tv circulation census will be submitted to the Tv Board. Tests of various survey methods have been conducted by Alfred Politz Research Inc. The association's preliminary work is financed by a $34,000 grant. The circulation measurement methods are being checked against findings of a new type of recording device attached to tv sets. This machine was developed especially for the NARTB testing.

Discussion of association financial problems will include a report showing membership at a high point (see separate story). This, of course, simplifies the budget discussion since station contributions have been rising. A new membership campaign is getting underway along with a separate "membership maintenance program." The budget runs around $700,000.

Harold See, KRON-TV San Francisco, will appear before the Tv Board as chairman of the Television Film Committee. The committee has been considering such problems as uniformity of film contracts in an effort to bring order into this chaotic field.

A report of the NARTB Am Committee, headed by James L. Howe, WIRA Fort Pierce, Fla., will cover the committee's proposal that volunteer panels of NARTB members provide yardsticks of industry information covering income and cost trends and other topics. At least 150 stations would take part in a plan of this sort. The committee is promoting a check-list system by which stations may evaluate their sales departments and it wants more enthusiasm stirred up for the annual National Radio & Tv Week.

A report from the NARTB Fm Committee, headed by Ben Strouse, WWDC-FM Washington, will call on the board to continue resisting efforts to tear space out of the 88-108 mc band so more vhf frequencies can be obtained. The committee is considering ways of providing more income for fm stations by use of multiplexed services permitting broadcast of more than one program at a time.

One of the active committees, Freedom of Information, will report to the board on its fight to attain equality with other media in covering public events. The Sports Committee, which has similar problems, also will report.

Other topics will include the copyright situation; plans to seek extension of remote operating privileges to directional stations and those with power over 10 kw. The Tv Board will discuss subscription tv projects and community antenna systems.

NARTB Membership Attains Peak at Turn of Year

PREDICTS INCREASE IN RADIO-TV SPOT

Adam Young, new SRA president, sees 1955 prospects "excellent" for tv spot business; asks for true and accurate evaluation of radio.

PROSPECTS for increased television national spot business in 1955 are "excellent," and there is every reason for spot radio advertising to grow.

This outlook for the national spot field was offered last week by Adam J. Young, newly-elected president of the Station Representatives Assn., who based his observations on a survey conducted by SRA and its members on prospective business for 1955.

"With 100 new television stations on the air in 1954," Mr. Young said, "and with television also proving to be a most potent sales medium, the prospects for national spot business in 1955 are excellent."

Mr. Young was less forthright about prospects for the outlook in national spot radio, but declared:

"The best way to put it is to say that in 1955 'radio will be reborn'. The very success of television is, to an extent, overshadowing the growing radio medium. Many advertisers are testing out television or looking for the right combination of the two broadcast media. Since there is every reason for spot radio advertising to grow, stations and their representatives face the difficult problem of helping stations, advertisers and their agencies to evaluate radio truly and accurately."

As reasons why radio "must move up to largely increased volume," Mr. Young cited the following information on radio's strength:

"The only medium reaching virtually every person in 95-98% of all homes; multiple sets take radios to all rooms in the home with personal listening; radios in 30 million cars make radio the largest outdoor medium; countless bulk hours of listening by individuals and groups in stores, hotel rooms, garages, factories, barber shops; 25 million radio sets sold in the last two years; average home listening same in 1954 as in 1953, though radio was in more homes, and radio listening increased in tv homes."

As evidences of the "rebirth of radio," Mr. Young pointed out that the representative firms, through the association, had completed a new spot radio presentation, setting forth new concepts of media planning that fit 1955; the Radio Advertising Bureau is stepping up its promotion of national spot business and N. C. Rorabaugh and James M. Boerst have promised more complete spot radio reports [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Jan. 3; also see page 32].

Looking toward the future, Mr. Young asserted that programming in radio has become "the foremost station problem." He said that stations cannot lean "so heavily" on networks as heretofore, and claimed that many stations without network affiliation are "dominant in their markets, purely as a result of outstanding local programming."

Another problem facing radio stations, according to Mr. Young, is that methods of buying time gradually are changing. Station representatives, he said, are in a position to suggest simplified methods of buying radio time to produce more income for stations and also to point out to stations examples of successful programming that may strengthen their weak periods.

Treyz Discusses Phila. Advertising Expenses

ALTHOUGH Philadelphia has a high average of weekly viewing, local advertisers there are funneling money at a far greater ratio into newspapers than into television, according to Oliver Treyz, president of Television Bureau Inc.

Mr. Treyz' look at the Philadelphia market was contained in his first major address as head of the new tv industry promotion bureau. He spoke Wednesday before the Tv Assn. of Philadelphia at the Poor Richard Club.

An impressive array of figures was presented by Mr. Treyz to back up his assertion that in Philadelphia local advertisers are more resistant to tv while national advertisers are more receptive to the medium.

The figures as presented by Mr. Treyz: in 1954, advertising expenditures on tv in Philadelphia totaled $43.5 million, of which $28 million was for network, $8 million for spot and $7.5 million for local. In newspapers, a total of $50 million was spent by advertisers in the Quaker City, $12.5 million of it by the national advertiser and $37.5 million by the local advertiser.

Thus, according to Mr. Treyz, national advertisers prefer television in Philadelphia by a ratio of 3 to 1 while local advertisers there favor newspapers 5 to 1. Mr. Treyz noted that the number of hours viewed per week per family in Philadelphia stands at 30.4.

The TvB president said the bureau would endeavor to find out why the discrepancy in local advertiser interest as between newspaper and television.

AAAA Seeks Uniform Availabilities Form

Compton Adv.'s Ruth Jones suggested a standard format in a speech on Dec. 7, 1954; her idea was endorsed by H-R Reps.' Frank Pellegrin and forwarded to the AAAA.

A REQUEST that station representatives provide samples of individual forms used for submitting radio and tv availabilities to timebuyers has been made by the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies' Radio-Tv Committee.

The bid is an outgrowth of a move stimulated by a public statement by Ruth Jones, broadcast supervisor of Compton Adv., to standardize forms used by stations and their representatives [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Jan. 3]. Standardization of such forms also has been on the AAAA committee agenda for some time.

Miss Jones urged a standard form in a talk Dec. 7, 1954, at a Radio & Television Executives Society timebuying and selling seminar in New York, noting that it would be helpful to all timebuyers if stations and representatives would agree on such a form.

Endorsing Miss Jones' suggestion, Frank E. Pellegrin, vice president of H-R Representatives and H-R Tv Inc., originally urged in a letter to Frank Silvernail, BBDO radio-tv manager and chairman of the AAAA Radio-Tv Committee, that a group be appointed to review standard forms now in use by representatives or stations. Mr. Silvernail relayed the letter to AAAA.

Mr. Pellegrin said:

"As you well know, from your own experience during your timebuying days, when any timebuyer is given a rush job to do, he frequently will have to buy 40 or 50 markets—maybe more.

Essence Alike, Detail Different

"These will be submitted by 20 or 30 different representative firms—maybe more. Each firm has its own pet form on which it submits availabilities. They are alike in essence but different enough in detail that the timebuyer can never find the same piece of information in the same place on any two forms.

"The wear and tear on his eyesight and nervous system must be terrific."

Mr. Pellegrin proposed that the AAAA working group review all of the so-called "standard forms" now in use, compare relative merits and come up with a recommended single standard form, which combines the best features. He suggested that the form be "truly uniform" from the viewpoint of timebuyers so that it would be "easier to buy radio or television." He said: "On that basis, I am sure the AAAA would have the wholehearted cooperation of all sales elements in the industry."

This standard form would be a contribution to the industry such as the forms standardized for contracts by AAAA and NARTB, Mr. Pellegrin continued.

The reason why the request was not turned over the Station Representative Assn., Mr. Pellegrin said, was that every representative "now thinks his own form is the best." Additionally, he observed, it should be the timebuyer and not the salesman who "should call the shots and say what he prefers rather than having the salesmen get together and decide on what they are going to let the buyer have, whether he likes it or not."

PROSPECTS for 1955 national spot business are checked by (l to r) John P. Blair, who has just concluded two terms as president of Station Representatives Assn.; T. F. Flanagan, SRA managing director, and Adam J. Young Jr., newly-elected president of the association.

DEVELOP 'CREATIVE' PERSONNEL—PACK

WBC national program manager decries lack of training development of new production, programming people.

RADIO BROADCASTING industry was urged last week by Richard Pack, national program manager of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., to train and develop "creative" radio production and programming personnel.

He told a meeting of officials of WBC's five 50 kw radio stations at a radio-only meeting that television has "a surplus of competent tv production and programming executives" but radio "just hasn't been training new programming personnel." The meeting was held last Thursday through Saturday at the Hotel St. Regis in New York and was attended by executives of KDKA Pittsburgh, KYW Philadelphia, KEX Portland, WBZ Boston and WOWO Fort Wayne.

"Too many radio program managers, producers and disc jockeys," Mr. Pack said, "are afflicted with a nerve-deadening malady which might be called 'tv frustration.' They are spoiling to get into television even though they know that both the financial and personal rewards can be as great in radio as in tv."

A five-point "therapy" program was offered by Mr. Pack to cure tv-minded radio personnel of "tv frustration." He said radio station employees ought to keep in mind that the American people bought more radio sets than tv sets in 1954; a good local radio disc jockey "makes more than a lot of network television personalities;" their major opposition is the other radio stations and not the television stations in their town; the music-and-news formula should be applied "resourcefully and imaginatively," and "a good radio man is hard to find these days."

Mr. Pack disclosed plans for three joint public service operations by WBC stations to be built around public education, mental health and juvenile delinquency. He said that some programs will be uniform for all stations, while certain phases will be handled purely on a local basis.

Through WBZ and KDKA, Mr. Pack said, WBC plans to produce cooperatively two or three program packages for the Quality Radio Group, of which WBZ and KDKA are members. He noted that these might be written by KDKA personnel and produced at WBZ.

Other speakers during the three-day meeting were Chris J. Witting, president of WBC; David E. Partridge, national advertising and sales promotion manager; Eldon Campbell, national sales manager, and Joseph E. Baudino, executive vice president. Another speaker was E. V. Huggins, vice president of corporate affairs, Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Mr. Witting announced that a similar meeting would be held at a later date for officials of Westinghouse television stations—WBZ-TV Boston, WPTZ (TV) Philadelphia, KPIX (TV) San Francisco and KDKA-TV Pittsburgh.

The climb to 1,000 kw will be spread over a couple of days, Mr. Shelburne said, in order to protect the equipment and allow engineers to keep check as the power is fed gradually.

Mr. Shelburne said that with the aid of good weather the adjustment was to be made last Friday.

Conference-Call News Circuit Arranged by Five in S. C.

FIVE South Carolina stations have formed a conference-call news circuit by which stories of statewide news interest are exchanged. In pre-arranged order, each newsman reports over the loop, with stations tape-recording the programs for a wrap-up of state news. The plan was devised by Charles Wickenberg, news director of WMSC Columbia, S. C. Participation newsmen include Harry Gianaris, of WCSC Charleston; Ervin Melton, WJMX Florence; Jim Hobbs, WSPA Spartanburg, and Monty DuPuy, WFBC Greenville.

The conference call method is less costly than direct line pickups, according to C. Wallace Martin, manager of WMSC, and serves as a good program source as well as prestige builder. Mr. Wickenberg said the idea grew out of Marine Corps procedure, where commanding officers talk on a loop to all battery commanders. Each station shares in cost of the 15-minute five-way circuit.

WRCA-AM-TV Calls 1954 Best in Stations' Histories

"MOST auspicious year in the stations' histories—programming, sales and operations-wise" was recorded during 1954 by WRCA-AM-TV New York, according to Hamilton Shea, NBC vice president in charge of WRCA-AM-TV, and Ernest de la Ossa, stations' manager.

WRCA radio time sales reached a record peak in 1954. Local sales ran 48% more than those made in 1953. National spot sales were "well ahead" of those in the previous year.

In tv, WRCA-TV's time sales for 1954 were 29% higher than they were in 1953. High point of the year was set in August when records show $2½ million in net billings.

WGN-AM-TV's 1954 Slate 'Outstandingly Successful'

WGN-AM-TV Chicago recorded an "outstandingly successful" 1954 as WGN marked its 30th year and WGN-TV its sixth milestone, Frank Schreiber, manager and treasurer, stated in a yearend summary.

Mr. Schreiber said the tv operation "developed a successful plan of nighttime programming with film" the past year and said radio "continues to make pertinent progress, especially with the rural and small town areas, and the future looks very encouraging."

William A. McGuineas, commercial manager, WGN-AM-TV, reported a 13% increase in national spot and local revenue the last six months of 1954 over the same period in 1953.

WCUE Has Record Billing

RECORD gross billings at WCUE Akron, Ohio, during 1954 were 18.1% higher than those in 1953, Tim Elliot, president of the outlet announced last week. Combined gross local and regional business was up an estimated 18% over 1953. National spot business increased by 12.5%. Estimated net profits, before taxes, exceeded those of the previous year by 26.8%.

WVEC-TV Records Increase

INCREASE in national business of over 400% during the last four months of 1954 was reported last week by WVEC-TV Norfolk, Va. Thomas P. Chisman, president of the ch. 15 uhf outlet, cited local spot sales as being up over 200%, and predicted a record year for the station in 1955.

Charlotte Cooperation

A NEWS SCOOP that epitomized cordial press-broadcasting relations was registered on Dec. 29 by WBT-WBTV (TV) Charlotte, N. C., when the stations simultaneously broadcast the sale of the Charlotte Observer to the Knight newspaper interests by Mrs. Curtis B. Johnson. The Jefferson Standard stations were invited by the newspaper to be the first to make the announcement. James L. Knight, vice president of the Knight newspapers and new president and publisher of the Observer, flew to Charlotte and with Mrs. Johnson broadcast news of the sale. WBT-WBTV broke the story at 6:30 p.m. and the Observer headlined the story the next morning. The past cooperation between the stations and the Observer was credited for the scoop. This was climaxed last October when WBTV telecast a salute to "National Newspaper Week." Mr. Knight, who is former general manager of the Miami Herald, has several radio-tv interests [B•T, Jan. 3].

Weed Sees Rise in Tv Spots On Locally-Produced Shows

AN EXPANSION in spot tv programs, wherein programs are locally-produced for national advertisers, is seen for 1955 by Joseph J. Weed, president of Weed Television Corp., station representatives.

In a forecast to client stations and to advertisers last week, Mr. Weed said stations have mastered most production techniques and, in some instances, created original formats which have wide appeal to local audiences. Mr. Weed made particular note of news and special events treatment by local outlets which use basic material supplied by national and world-wide news services. Stations are able to weave in the local viewpoint which may be lacking in network presentations, Mr. Weed said.

Strides have been made in the development of community-level panel and discussion programs, Mr. Weed reported, adding that the potential is high for locally-produced children's shows and interview programs.

KRON-FM Suspends

KRON-FM San Francisco, on the air since July 1, 1947, operating on 96.5 mc, suspended operations on Dec. 31, 1954. A station spokesman said the action was taken because it was decided that "the effort, energy and money" expended on KRON-FM could be "better devoted to other broadcasting services of the company." The station's suspension in no way affects KRON-TV San Francisco, he added.

WTVI (TV)'s CP Telethon

PLEDGES in the cerebral palsy telethon conducted just prior to the holidays by WTVI (TV) St. Louis were at the $80,000 mark last week, with both pledged and unpledged funds still coming into the station. WTVI is a uhf outlet operating on ch. 54, competing against two vhf outlets. John D. Scheuer Jr., WTVI executive vice president and general manager, said the talent lineup for the Dec. 17-19 telethon included artists from a dozen other local tv and radio outlets, plus the services of 4,300 volunteer workers. Talent included Ted Mack and Mel Torme, Joe Garagiola, sportscaster, and 200 other radio and tv personalities.

BRANHAM CREATES UNIT OF 'JUNIOR DIRECTORS'

The representation firm also announces the election of three new vice presidents: Patzlaff, McCauley and Harding.

A NEW "junior board of directors" has been created by the Branham Co., station representation firm. The board's first meeting was to be held in Chicago over the past weekend.

According to M. H. Long, chairman of the board, who made the announcement, the junior board is a form of "multiple management" that has been used successfully in many types of industries. He said the Branham firm anticipates "that it will prove particularly advantageous in the media representation field."

At the same time, Mr. Long announced the election of three new vice presidents: Walter F. Patzlaff at San Francisco, who is in charge of the West Coast operation; J. Sloane McCauley of the newspaper division, and George Harding of radio and tv, both at Dallas.

The junior board members were selected from the younger stockholder-employees, according to Mr. Long, who said they represented a cross-section of the Branham selling organization on a geographical basis.

Newly-elected junior board members and their headquarters are Frank Stapleton and Thomas B. Campbell, New York; A. J. Engelhardt Jr. and Dudley D. Brewer, Chicago; Edwin C. Charney, Detroit; Norman E. Noyes, Los Angeles, and Horace L. Ralls, Atlanta.

PLOTKIN REPORT ASKS REVIEW OF FCC, JUSTICE ACTIVITY IN NETWORK FIELD

Senate Commerce Committee probe of network and uhf-vhf problems is made ready by new Chairman Magnuson as Congress opens.

WHAT is likely to be the Senate Commerce Committee investigating staff's majority report on the current probe of tv networks and uhf-vhf problems was submitted to incoming Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) last week.

Attorney Harry M. Plotkin, former FCC assistant general counsel who has been minority counsel for the investigation since it was initiated last summer by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) as chairman under a GOP regime, made his report Wednesday to Sen. Magnuson.

The Plotkin recommendations reportedly suggest that the investigation be continued, but that the committee first take steps to ascertain if the Justice Dept. and the FCC are exercising their full authority in the respective fields where they are empowered to act against monopolistic situations.

Since Democrats took over leadership on Capitol Hill last week, Mr. Plotkin's report, written while he was minority counsel, presumably becomes the majority report, provided, of course, it is approved by the committee.

Mr. Plotkin's report came after a stepping-up of activity in the investigation on the part of attorney Robert F. Jones, former FCC commissioner and Ohio congressman, who under Sen. Bricker's chairmanship of the Commerce Committee has been majority counsel for the investigation. After a period of relative quiescence following Democratic victories at the polls Nov. 2, the investigation suddenly gathered speed again late last month, largely through the prompting of Mr. Jones.

Meanwhile, Mr. Jones, who also has been writing a report as majority counsel under the GOP tenure, said Thursday he had not yet submitted his report to Sen. Bricker. Mr. Jones' report presumably would become the minority report in a Democrat-controlled Senate.

Mr. Plotkin last week declined to say whether he would accept the post of majority counsel for the investigation under the Democrats if offered to him, beyond saying that he had not ruled out that possibility. Mr. Jones, asked Thursday whether he would be willing to continue in the changed position of minority counsel, said the question was somewhat inappropriate because he had not conferred with Sen. Bricker since the latter's return to Washington.

Probes to Continue

Sen. Magnuson, meanwhile, set the machinery in motion last week to continue all special investigations and studies currently being made by the Commerce Committee, including the probe of the networks and uhf-vhf problems. This was in the form of a resolution introduced on the floor by the Washington Democrat, asking authorization to carry on the committee's investigations initiated by Sen. Bricker, for which funds expire Jan. 31.

Sen. Magnuson's resolution is similar to that (S Res 173) approved last year for committee investigations under Sen. Bricker. The Senate at that time appropriated $115,000 for work by three subcommittees. The amount to be asked in Sen. Magnuson's resolution—which would be in effect from Feb. 1, 1955, to Jan. 31, 1956—was not specified pending the Commerce Committee's organizational meeting.

Sens. Magnuson and Harley M. Kilgore (D-W. Va.), who has proposed a probe of "monopolistic trends" in the communications field as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, had not conferred by last Thursday on fields of activity in which they will operate to prevent overlap, but they apparently had reached an agreement on the problem.

Although the two senators had not talked together by Thursday, it was believed the agreement had been reached through their respective representatives. Under the plan [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Jan. 3], the Commerce Committee would examine the Communications Act of 1934 to determine if changes are needed. The Kilgore group would restrict its probe to the "monopoly" aspects of manufacturing company ownership of networks and radio-tv stations, and common ownership of newspapers and radio or tv and ownership of both radio and tv outlets.

Broadcaster Howard Chernoff, who has been asked by Sen. Kilgore to act as consultant for the "monopoly" probe, was scheduled to arrive in Washington today (Monday) to make recommendations to Sen. Kilgore on the nature and extent of the probe.

Mr. Chernoff, now a radio-tv consultant on the West Coast, conferred with Sen. Kilgore last month and afterward talked to network, radio-tv manufacturing and other officials in New York. Mr. Chernoff, part owner of WTAP-TV Parkersburg, W. Va., resigned a year ago as general manager of KFMB-AM-TV San Diego and still makes his home there.

Regarding a report that the Kilgore investigation did not plan to investigate "monopolistic" aspects of subscription tv, the West Virginia Democrat's office last week disowned such a report and said there was nothing to indicate

Subcommittee Chief's Job

SEN. WARREN G. MAGNUSON (D-Wash.) as late as last Thursday was reported debating whether he would take over the chairmanship of the Senate Commerce Committee's Communications Subcommittee. The incoming Commerce Committee chairman was said to be considering heading the subcommittee because of the "terrific importance" of the broadcasting industry as a molder of public opinion. Earlier, he had expressed his intention of heading the Maritime subcommittee.

Others being considered for the Communications Subcommittee chairmanship are Sens. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) and A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.). Other Democrats on the Commerce Committee are Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), George A. Smathers (Fla.) and Earle C. Clements (Ky.). Two Democrats will be added and its seven Republicans probably will remain, with Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), chairman during the 83d Congress, as ranking GOP member.

The House Commerce Committee, which will be headed by Rep. J. Percy Priest (D-Tenn.), will add seven new Democrats, while two Republicans will be dropped from the 31-man group. Rep. Priest has announced he will have standing subcommittees.

ator would not go ahead with his announced plan to take a look at the pay-as-you-see tv field.

It still was not definitely known last week whether Sen. Kilgore would head the investigation as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee or of its Anti-Monopoly subcommittee, or whether he would turn the active reins over to another senator who would be chairman of the subcommittee.

Speculation was rife last week on Capitol Hill on who would be named to head the subcommittee, which also, under Democratic control of the Senate, is expected to hold investigations of the Dixon-Yates atomic energy contract.

Regarded as the most likely candidate to head the subcommittee was GOP Sen. William Langer (N. D.), who is said to be in agreement with Sen. Kilgore on many issues. Also in the running was Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Sidney Davis, who has been counsel for Sen. Langer's chairmanship of the anti-monopoly group under the Republicans, said last week he would remain as counsel with either Sen. Langer or Sen. Kefauver, if asked.

Sens. Kefauver and Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.) also are regarded as candidates for the Judiciary Committee's Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee, which held hearings during the 83rd Congress on tv programming for children.

Boxing Investigation?

BOXING may come in for an investigation by the Senate Commerce Committee, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), incoming chairman of the committee, said last week. Sen. Magnuson told reporters the committee may investigate possible racketeering in boxing, with its jurisdiction for such a probe to come from the large number of fights being televised. The International Boxing Club and its president, James D. Norris, were the subject of an expose-type article in a recent issue of Sports Illustrated magazine.

Ex-Gov. Pyle Undecided On Leaving Public Life

EX-GOV. J. Howard Pyle of Arizona, on leave as vice president of KTAR Phoenix, is undecided whether to stay in public life or return to broadcasting, he told B•T Tuesday. His second two-year term as governor ended Jan. 2.

MR. PYLE

Gov. Pyle has been offered an important government job by the White House, it was learned in Washington after he had talked with President Eisenhower, but he refused to answer any questions about the assignment.

With 20 years of broadcast experience prior to his Arizona executive post, he feels the urge to get back in the industry. "I'll do a lot of thinking in the next 10 days," he said, before leaving Washington for Phoenix. "After I clean up two or three things, I'll be in a better position to make up my mind. It's hard to get out of public life once you're in it."

Gov. Pyle was re-elected in 1952 by the largest majority ever given a state candidate in Arizona but lost out this year in the general election trend that brought defeat to many Republican candidates. He owns a little over 1% interest in KTAR and its affiliated KVAR (TV) at nearby Mesa (800 of 64,706 shares).

Portland Ch. 12 Loser Appeals Grant to Oregon Tv

AN APPEAL to the U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington against the FCC's grant of ch. 12 Portland, Ore., to Oregon Television Inc. [B•T, Aug. 2, 1954] and the Commission's denial of a request to reopen the hearing [B•T, Dec. 13, 1954] was filed last week by Columbia Empire Telecasters Inc., the unsuccessful applicant.

The Commission's grant to Oregon Tv Inc. was made primarily on the ground that it comprised new, non-broadcast and non-newspaper ownership in tv. It is principally owned by Portland businessmen, including Julius L. Meier Jr. (Meier & Franks department store). Columbia Empire was denied among other things, because its owners were affiliated with radio stations and newspapers (KPOJ-Portland Journal and Wesley I. Dunn, owner of KSFO and former owner of KPIX [TV] San Francisco).

Attack on Oregon Tv's qualifications by Columbia was based primarily on questions regarding the manner in which its proposed general manager, Walter J. Stiles, was hired and resigned, and the validity of the Commission's action regarding diversification. Columbia also claimed that Oregon misrepresented its plans for its antenna site, and was not financially qualified.

A third applicant, Northwest Television & Broadcasting Co., has not participated in the petitions for reconsideration or in the appeal to the court.

GRANT OF CH. 12 TO WPRO-TV AFFIRMED

FCC denies protests of WNET (TV), upholds earlier rulings granting the tv permit and special temporary authority to begin operation.

FINAL decision affirming its 1953 grant of ch. 12 to WPRO-TV Providence, R. I., was issued by FCC last week denying the Sec. 309 (c) economic protest filed by ch. 16 WNET (TV) there, which postponed commencement of the vhf station for more than a year.

In its final ruling, to which Comr. Robert T. Bartley dissented and in which Comr. Frieda B. Hennock did not participate, the Commission majority made effective immediately the special temporary authority earlier granted WPRO-TV to begin interim operation. Both grants of the ch. 12 permit and STA had been stayed by the Commission pending hearing of the protest.

FCC turned down WNET's claims of improper procedure in the protest hearing and in the original ch. 12 grant. The decision concluded the ch. 16 outlet was not prejudiced in the protest hearing—although the examiner did not make final conclusions and instead certified findings of fact to the Commission—since FCC considered all issues in its final ruling.

FCC found "without merit" WNET's arguments with respect to the Commission expediting procedure, granting WPRO-TV the day after withdrawal of two competing applications by Hope Broadcasting Co. and Greater Providence Broadcasting Co. These dismissals were pursuant to an agreement on a proposed merger subject to later FCC approval.

FCC said the WPRO-TV grant represented "action taken on an application long on file with the Commission and pursuant to published and well-known regulations reasonably designed to meet the processing situation confronting the Commission."

The final ruling also denied three basic substantive arguments made by WNET. These included alleged violation of the multiple ownership rules, contravention of Sec. 319 of the Communications Act (premature construction) and violation of FCC policy against "payoffs" in tv application dismissals.

The Commission refused to agree that because of the merger agreement, principals in three am stations in the same community were "interested" in the same tv venture. FCC noted the merger has neither been effected by the parties nor approved by FCC.

Cherry & Webb Broadcasting Co., WPRO-TV permittee, operates WPRO-AM-FM there and is chiefly owned by William S. Cherry Jr. and his sister, Ann Cherry Gross.

Hope principals include President John B. Poor, Mowry Lowe and Henry H. Tilley, all with WEAN Providence until sale of the station by General Teleradio Inc. last fall for $260,000 to the Providence Journal, approved by FCC [B•T, Sept. 27, 1954]. Mr. Lowe, former WEAN manager, has bought WHOO Orlando, Fla., from Edward Lamb for $295,000, subject to Commission consent.

Largest single stockholders (20% each) in Greater Providence were Robert T. Engles, president and manager of WHIM Providence, and Charles G. Taylor, WHIM program director. Each holds 12.5% of WHIM and 25.5% of WORC Worcester, Mass. They withdrew from Greater Providence under the merger proposal and acquired personal options for part interest in WPRO-TV.

FCC refused to accept WNET's premature construction charge against WPRO-TV, based on provisions for tv expansion provided in the WPRO-FM building and tower. The Commission indicated the WNET argument constituted excessive restriction against "any" construction or planning for eventual tv service when a station undertook building of new fm or other facilities. The WPRO-FM tower was victim to Hurricane Hazel, FCC observed.

The Commission could not agree with WNET that the ch. 12 merger proposal included provision for an excessive "pay-off" to Messrs. Engles and Taylor if certain option rights were canceled for consideration of $205,500.

The merger plan calls for formation of a new firm having capitalization of 1,000 shares, $100 par. Cherry & Webb would acquire 550 shares, Hope 250 shares and Greater Providence 200 shares. In consideration for their withdrawal from Greater Providence, Messrs. Engles and Taylor received an option for 12 months (from the time FCC approved transfer of the permit for ch. 12 from Cherry & Webb to the new firm) to acquire 130 shares of the stock in the new firm held by Cherry & Webb and Hope (Cherry & Webb would transfer 110 shares and Hope 20 shares).

The option agreement provided that before the end of the 12-month period, but not before 7 months, Cherry & Webb and Hope have the right to cancel the option by paying Messrs. Engles and Taylor the sum of $205,500 in cash.

FCC said it could not find fault with $5,500 of the sum designated as reimbursement of expenses, although the $200,000 raised a "more serious" question. But the Commission could not find "unreasonable" Messrs. Engles' and Taylor's original interest in Greater Providence or their right to buy stock in the proposed new firm, and thereby could not find unreasonable the alternative payment of $200,000 should they relinquish such valuable rights.

In his dissenting opinion to the majority report, Comr. Bartley stated:

I dissented to the original grant in this case because of the circumstances surrounding the "pay-off" for dismissal of the competing applications . . . The findings made by the examiner after a hearing and adopted here by the Commission, concerning the specific details of the payments made and to be made and the "consideration" passing as a result of these agreements, merely strengthen my original opinion that a grant should not be made. I am therefore compelled to dissent from the action of the majority here.

SENATE RULES UNIT REPORTS ON RADIO-TV

Subcommittee recommends that witness be allowed to object to lights and cameras, and that Senate consider installing radio-tv facilities on Hill.

A WITNESS giving testimony before a congressional committee hearing should be entitled to request that tv and motion picture cameras and lights not be directed at him, a Senate Rules subcommittee recommended in its report published last Thursday.

Such a request then would be ruled on by committee members present at the hearing, the report said. The three-man Senate group held hearings during the 83rd Congress under the chairmanship of Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) on ways and means of overhauling congressional hearing procedures, and among other things heard testimony on whether radio and tv should be admitted to open Senate committee hearings.

The subcommittee's recommendation said witnesses should have the right to protest against cameras and lights on grounds of distraction, harassment or physical discomfort, with committee members present ruling on the request.

The Senate unit also recommended that the parent Senate Rules & Administration Committee study the practicability of installing up-to-date facilities on Capitol Hill for unobtrusive coverage of committee hearings by radio-tv and other news media.

Testimony pro and con on the radio-tv question was heard from senators and congressmen at hearings last summer [B•T, July 5, 1954, et seq.] and arguments in favor of radio-tv coverage from broadcasters and others [B•T, Aug. 9, 1954]. The Senate Rules subcommittee made no recommendations specifically concerning radio coverage.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) has ruled against televising of House committee hearings during the 84th Congress [B•T, Jan. 3].

In its report last week the Senate group cited testimony in favor of tv coverage by Sen. Karl Mundt (R-S. D.) during the hearings and a statement by Ernest Angell, board chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union, favoring unrestricted coverage, with no rights of objection by witnesses. The Senate group's report added in part:

If we accept the premise that the public is entitled to be present at all public sessions of congressional committees, it would seem to follow that broadcasting, televising and photographing of such proceedings, provided these media do not interfere with the orderly presentation of the evidence, are a legitimate means for acquainting the public with the activity of its legislature. We are not prepared, however, to go quite so far as the ACLU, and [we] believe that a request by a witness to testify free from distraction should be considered and passed upon by the committee.

The report cited "up-to-date communications facilities" used in broadcasting and televising United Nations activities unobtrusively (a point made by industry witnesses at the hearings), recommending that the Senate study the "feasibility of installing modern facilities for the coverage of public committee hearings by all communications media."

Citing criticism that radio and cameras degrade and cheapen the legislative process, transform hearings into carnivals and bring out the thespian rather than the statesman in legislators, the subcommittee said, "There is no answer to satisfy all the critics."

Other members of the Senate Rules subcommittee were Sens. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) and Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.).

Program's Contents Checked, Ziv Tv Informs House Group

ZIV TELEVISION Programs Inc., in an unsolicited report last week to the House Commerce Committee, said the firm is careful not to include in the program content of its shows any subject matter which, in conjunction with beer commercials, might be considered offensive, distasteful or harmful to the audience or the business identified with the program.

The House Commerce Committee last summer asked broadcasters and the beer and wine industries to report on the amount of beer and wine advertising on radio-tv. NARTB and the U. S. Brewers Foundation have made their reports [B•T, Jan. 3].

The Ziv Tv report was signed by John L. Sinn, president, and said, "We believe tv advertising of beer can be accomplished with care and good taste. . . ."

Lamb Postponement Asked

FURTHER CONTINUANCE of the FCC license renewal hearing involving Edward Lamb's WICU (TV) Erie, Pa., from Jan. 18 to Feb. 9 was requested of Examiner Herbert Sharfman Thursday by the Commission's Broadcast Bureau. Action followed resignation of Walter R. Powell Jr., chief Broadcast Bureau counsel in the case, to join NARTB (story, page 63).

Earlier, counsel for WICU asked extension of the renewal hearing until Jan. 18 in order to complete investigation of certain Broadcast Bureau witnesses who are being recalled for further cross examination [B•T, Jan. 3; Dec. 20, 1954].

WBID-TV Asks 1,000 Kw

POWER boost to 1 megawatt was requested by ch. 62 WBID-TV Detroit, Mich., in an application filed with the FCC last week. GE transmitter and antenna were specified with antenna height above average terrain of 643 ft. The application further specified its studio and transmitter location as the Penobscot Bldg., 645 Griswold, Detroit.

ABC, NBC Urge Rayburn To Throw Out Tv Ban Idea

TWO NETWORKS have asked House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) to withhold imposition of his proposed ban on televised coverage of

MR. TAYLOR

House committee hearings. Rep. Rayburn said Dec. 28 that he would reimpose the ban against tv in effect during the 82d Congress, of which he was House speaker [B•T, Jan. 3].

John Daly, ABC's vice president in charge of news, special events, sports and public affairs, in a letter to Rep. Rayburn, asked that the ruling be withheld until ABC and other interested parties could present their views. Mr. Daly said he believed industry views "will be unanimous in recommending that in all public matters radio and television be granted right of access equal to that granted any other medium of information."

Davidson Taylor, NBC vice president in charge of public affairs, said: "We hope the speaker (Rep. Rayburn) will give this matter serious reconsideration because it is our belief that television is the most direct reporting device thus far invented."

Anthony Petition Seeks Vhf Allocation in Mass.

PETITION to institute a rule-making proceeding looking toward allocation of ch. 6 to a point on Martha's Vineyard at Nashaquitsa, Mass., was filed with FCC last week by E. Anthony & Sons Inc., licensee of WNBH-WFMR (FM) New Bedford and WOCB-AM-FM West Yarmouth, and former permittee of ch. 28 WTEV-TV New Bedford and ch. 50 WBOS-TV Boston.

The petition said the assignment can be made without deletion or substitution of any presently assigned vhf channels and would cover the southern Massachusetts area including New Bedford, Fall River, Martha's Vineyard, most of Nantucket and Cape Cod.

Meanwhile, FCC last week turned down a joint petition filed by ch. 62 WFIE (TV) Evansville, Ind., and ch. 50 WEHT (TV) Henderson, Ky., seeking de-intermixture of uhf and vhf channels in the area. FCC denied their request for switching of the educational reservation at Evansville from ch. 56 to ch. 7. Chairman George C. McConnaughey did not vote and Comr. Robert T. Bartley dissented. Three applicants are in hearing for ch. 7: WGBF, WEOA and Evansville Tv Inc.

NARTB, THEATREMEN ASK PAY-TV HEARING

Petitions ask FCC to take full action of subscription plan. Zenith has requested authority for toll tv without hearing.

FULL and complete hearing on subscription television was asked of the FCC last week by NARTB and the theatre exhibitor dominated Joint Committee on Toll Tv.

Both groups' positions were taken in opposition to the new Zenith petition to the Commission which urged that pay-tv be authorized without a hearing [B•T, Dec. 6, 1954].

The NARTB attitude toward this request was made known in a carefully couched letter to FCC Chairman George E. McConnaughey by NARTB President Harold E. Fellows. In essence, Mr. Fellows said that the Commission should hold as full and formal a hearing on the subject as necessary to determine subscription tv is in the public interest.

He also emphasized that NARTB was not taking a position regarding the merits of the proposed new service. Gist of NARTB's letter:

"... this subject is one requiring the utmost in regulatory consideration—in which opportunity, in keeping with the Administrative Procedure Act, should be afforded interested parties to air the subject completely."

The Joint Committee, in a formal opposition to the Zenith request, took issue with every one of the points Zenith made.

"Every segment of the interested public should not only have the right to appear and testify at such a hearing, but those who have stakes in the question of the establishment of subscription television should also have the opportunity to cross-examine the proponents," the Joint Committee said.

It claimed that the time element becomes relatively insignificant "when weighed against the tremendous social and economic upheaval which may follow the establishment of subscription television." Zenith had cited the length of rule-making hearings as one of the reasons why the Commission should move more quickly in approving subscription tv.

The bulk of the Joint Committee's opposition was a point by point refutation of the basic arguments made by Zenith on behalf of immediate action by the Commission. In essence the Joint Committee held that Zenith was in error, and that the Commission was required to hold a full and open hearing on the subject.

The Joint Committee [B•T, Oct. 25, 1954] identified itself as a voluntary association of the following organizations: Allied State Assn., Theatre Owners of America, Texas Drive-In Theatre Owners, So. California Theatre Owners Assn., Kentucky Assn. of Theatre Owners, Independent Theatre Owners Assn. of New York, Metropolitan Theatre Owners Assn. Members of these organizations own 75% of the 16,000

McDonald Reacts

IN Chicago, Comdr. Eugene F. McDonald Jr., Zenith Radio Corp. president, charged that "several groups of movie theatre exhibitors are seeking to delay the coming of toll tv simply because they consider it a 'competitor'."

Comdr. McDonald addressed a National Wholesale Distributors convention Thursday morning in Chicago's Shoreland Hotel, where he apparently received word of the opposition petition to the FCC submitted by six groups of owners. He contrasted the "far-sighted action" of individual exhibitors, some of whom, he said, have applied for Phonovision franchises in their localities, to the "obstructive efforts of the organized groups."

motion picture theatres in the U. S., the document said. Total investment is $2 billion, it said. The opposition was filed by Cohn & Marks, Washington broadcast legal firm.

The 1954 "substitute" petition by Zenith and its subscription tv subsidiary, Teco Inc., also asked for a quick and simplified hearing if the Commission did not feel it could authorize pay-tv without some sort of a hearing. This, too, the Joint Committee opposed.

In 1952, Zenith petitioned for rule-making hearing on subscription tv. Earlier last year, Skiatron Tv Inc. petitioned for rule-making hearing to authorize its system of subscription tv [B•T, Sept. 20, 1954]. Also on file with the FCC are numerous petitions from stations, mostly uhf, urging approval of toll-tv.

Seven Insurance Firms Deny FTC Jurisdiction

ANSWERS from seven health and accident insurance firms of the 17 charged by the Federal Trade Commission with false and misleading advertising [B•T, Oct. 25], said the companies are licensed within the states they are operating and therefore not under FTC jurisdiction, the commission announced last week.

Additionally, the replies indicate public misunderstanding of the charges has resulted in a decline in business. Southern National Insurance Co., Little Rock, Ark., which the FTC noted last week asked for dismissal, said it has been deluged with personal calls and correspondence from policyholders inquiring into its financial stability and how long it would stay in business. "Many policyholders," the firm said, "have cancelled policies and others have advised they would take action."

Another firm, which last December asked the FTC for a similar dismissal, asserted that the rate of application for new policies decreased approximately 34.7% since release of the charges. Reserve Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, Tex., said that it has received thousands of letters from policyholders. One letter declared, "I heard on radio . . . your insurance is worthless. They said your insurance doesn't live up to what's in the policy."

The seven companies whose answers were announced last week are: the Guarantee Reserve Life Insurance Co., Hammond, Ind.; Guarantee Trust Life Insurance Co., Chicago; LaSalle Casualty Co., Chicago; Life Insurance Co. of America, Wilmington, Del.; United Insurance Co., Chicago; Bankers Life & Casualty Co., Chicago, and Prudence Life Insurance Co., Chicago.

Bankers Life has allocated about $75,000 in radio and $10,000 in tv advertising for the current fiscal year. The firm owns KGA Spokane and KCSJ-AM-TV Pueblo, Colo.

In addition, about a fortnight ago, the Commission issued similar complaints against six more firms: Sterling Insurance Co., Chicago; Combined Insurance Co. of America, Chicago; Professional Insurance Co., Jacksonville, Fla.; Service Life Insurance Co., Omaha, Neb.; Postal Life & Casualty Insurance Co., Kansas City, Mo., and Girardian Insurance Co., Dallas Tex.

South Carolina Station Sold

SALE of WBSC Bennettsville, S. C., by John Orvin for $110,000 to Atlantic Coast Life Insurance Co., Charleston, has been filed with FCC. The insurance firm is a family interest of Y. W. Scarborough, in the late 1930's 50% owner of WTMA Charleston. The insurance firm will use the station a maximum of 6 hrs. weekly to promote its business.

which has jurisdiction over radio-tv, will be inaugurated governor of Colorado tomorrow (Tuesday). He had been a member of the Senate since 1936, but last November declined to run again for his seat in order to seek the governorship.

KLZ-TV Denver will telecast the entire inaugural proceedings which will originate from the House chambers of the State Capitol Bldg.

Initial Decision Favors KHAS for Hastings Ch. 5

INITIAL decision proposing to grant a new tv station on ch. 5 at Hastings, Neb., to KHAS there was issued by FCC Examiner Charles J. Frederick last week.

The decision became possible when Strand Amusement Co. dismissed its competitive bid last May. KHAS is owned by Assistant Secretary of Defense Fred A. Seaton and family. Mr. Seaton also is former Republican senator.

The Seaton family also owns the Seaton Publishing Co., owners of KMAN Manhattan and KGGF Coffeyville, both in Kansas, and publishers of Hastings Tribune, Manhattan Mercury, Coffeyville Journal, Winfield (Kan.) Courier, Alliance (Neb.) Times Herald, Deadwood (S. D.) Pioneer-Times, Lead (S. D.) Call, Sheridan (Wyo.) Press, and the magazine Western Farm Life (Denver).

Daytime Skywave Comment Deadline Again Extended

STILL further extension of the deadline for comments on FCC's daytime skywave proposal from Jan. 17, 1955, to April 17 was announced by the Commission last week. Date for filing replies was extended to May 1.

This is the fourth extension since FCC announced its proposal last March, which drew opposition from segments of the industry [B•T, Nov. 29; Oct. 11; July 19, 12; March 15].

Three More Uhf's Deleted; Total Now Stands at 100

UHF TV stations which have surrendered their permits numbered 100 last week with the deletion of ch. 39 WSHA (TV) Sharon, Pa.; ch. 36 KCTV (TV) Sioux City, Iowa, and ch. 23 KETV (TV) Little Rock, Ark. In addition, 21 post-thaw vhf stations have surrendered their permits.

WSHA was owned by Leonard J. Shafitz. The FCC last November issued an order directing Mr. Shafitz to show cause why his permit for WSHA should not be revoked. The Commission charged financial misrepresentation in the application for the ch. 39 facility [B•T, Nov. 8].

Meanwhile, a new corporation, Community Telecasting Co., filed its bid for the Sharon facility and specified the identical transmitter site of the former WSHA. Community Telecasting Co. is composed of equal partners Sanford A. Shafitz, sole owner of WFAR Farrell, Pa., and applicant for a new am station at Salem, Ohio, and Guy W. Gully, local banker.

In another action, FCC approved the request of ch. 42 WNAM-TV Neenah, Wis. to suspend operations having concluded arrangements to merge with ch. 5 WFRV-TV Green Bay, Wis.

Application for approval of the merger was filed with FCC last week. The merger interests propose to operate ch. 5 WFRV-TV with the ultimate discontinuance of ch. 42 WNAM-TV. The application further disclosed a plan to operate the ch. 5 facility from WNAM-TV Neenah studio and from leased tower facilities of the defunct WJPG-FM, near Green Bay.

According to the merger agreement, WFRV-TV principals will exchange their shares of stock for an equal number of shares in WNAM-TV. In addition, a number of WFRV-TV principals agree to purchase an additional 839 shares of stock for $839,000. WFRV-TV principals then will own approximately 41% of the merged interests.

District Court Continues LBS-Baseball Suit to April

THE U. S. DISTRICT COURT in Chicago has continued until April 18, action on the $12 million suit filed by the now defunct Liberty Broadcasting System against 13 major league baseball clubs.

Judge Julius Hoffman will proceed, however, with a pre-trial hearing as scheduled Jan. 17 at which time the issues will be sifted in conferences with attorneys for baseball and LBS. Judge Hoffman also is expected to determine whether trial will be by jury and what other steps can be taken to shorten the litigation.

Flint Reversal Asked In Court of Appeals

REVERSAL of the FCC's decision granting Flint, Mich., ch. 12 to WJR Detroit was asked of the U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington last week by unsuccessful applicants, WFDF Flint and W. S. Butterfield Theatres Inc. The two applicants claimed that the Commission acted erroneously in granting the Detroit applicant. One basic issue is that of diversification.

The FCC reversed the hearing examiner in making the ch. 12 grant to WJR. The hearing examiner had favored WFDF Flint, but the FCC's decision last May [B•T, May 17, 1954] held that WFDF's relationship to WFBM-AM-FM-TV Indianapolis, WOOD-AM-TV Grand Rapids and WEOA Evansville disqualified it on the diversification issue. All the stations are owned by Harry M. Bitner and family.

MBS IN NOV.-DEC. BILLS $9 MILLION

In yearend statement, O'Neil also points out that Ward survey findings will guide program revisions for 1955.

MORE than $9 million in new business, renewals and extensions was billed by Mutual in the last two months of 1954, it was reported last week by the network in a yearend statement.

Singled out for noteworthy attention was the return to the network of three leading advertisers: National Biscuit Co., Kraft Foods Co., and the Esso Standard Oil Co.

Among other clients listed as having renewed their programs over Mutual for 1955 were P. Lorillard Co. (for Queen for a Day); R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (for the multi-message programs), and American Home Products (Gabriel Heatter commentaries). Religious groups which renewed their commercial time on Mutual included: The Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn., the Christian Reformed Church, the Dawn Bible Students Assn., the Lutheran Layman's League, the Voice of Prophecy, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and the Radio Bible Class.

Thomas F. O'Neil, Mutual president, stated that in line with the recently-completed J. A. Ward survey measuring total radio audience and activities of the individual listeners throughout the day, radio must "bury the past and re-assess the situation on the basis of listener location and their changing listening patterns due to the inroads of television."

During 1955, Mr. O'Neil continued, Mutual will be guided by the results of the survey, realigning its schedule to reflect changes in listenership pattern. The first step in that direction, he said, is the announcement of a schedule of nighttime broadcasts of major sports events, beginning tomorrow (Tuesday). The Parade of Sports will be presented on a three-to-six day per week basis, and will cover basketball, hockey and major track events [B*T, Jan. 3].

ABC-TV's 'Ozark Jubilee' Under 'You-Set-Price' Plan

HOUR-LONG Ozark Jubilee, country music program from the mountains of Missouri [B•T, Jan. 3] will be presented on ABC-TV on Saturday nights, 9-10 p.m. EST, starting Jan. 22 under what was reported unofficially last week to be a five-year contract.

First half-hour of the show is being made available to affiliates for local sale—under an extension of the "You-Set-the-Price" plan which ABC-TV inaugurated on its special Christmas program by Burr Tillstrom [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Dec. 20, 1954]—while negotiations are in progress for sales of sale of the second half-hour on a network basis.

Unlike customary co-op selling, ABC-TV will let each affiliate set the price, then pay the network a percentage. In the case of the Tillstrom show, 87 stations carried it and 29 sold it locally (in addition to a purchase by Gordon Baking Co. on four stations). Those which sold the show paid ABC-TV 30% of their take. In the case of the first half-hour of Ozark Jubilee, stations are asked to pay the network 35% of revenue from local sale.

rector of radio network sales. The position has been established "in order to service the increasing number of clients and agencies in the Detroit area with a full-time radio staff unhampered by the demands of television," Mr. Horton said.

Until he received his new assignment, Mr. Swats was an account executive for NBC Radio's Central Division, Chicago. He launched his advertising career in 1936 when he joined Blackett-Sample-Hummert, Chicago. He joined NBC in 1952.

OVER five year's affiliation with the Yankee Network will be terminated Jan. 30 by WWON-AM-FM Woonsocket, R. I., Gene Rousseau, manager of the stations, has announced. The association with the Yankee Network began Aug. 1, 1949. The stations will concentrate on improved local programming featuring more music and news, with additional special feature broadcasts of local interest, according to Mr. Rousseau. Commitments already have been made to broadcast the 1955 Woonsocket Mardi Gras activities (Feb. 16-22) and the station will continue to carry city council meetings as a public service. Mr. Rousseau said the present staff will be augmented to handle the new programming.

NBC Signs 'Oscar' Pact

RCA, DuMONT UNVEIL RADIO PRODUCTS

Smaller, less expensive 50 kw transmitter announced by RCA. DuMont Labs states that it may enter the general production of radio sets.

THE FIRST WEEK in 1955 ushered in two new developments in the radio set-and-equipment making field.

• RCA unwrapped a new type 50 kw am broadcast transmitter which was said to represent "the most significant advance in [transmitter] design in nearly two decades."

• An Allen B. DuMont Labs official, queried by B•T, acknowledged that DuMont is "experimenting with the idea" of entering the general production of radio sets.

The RCA development was announced Thursday by Theodore A. Smith, vice president and general manager of the RCA Engineering Products Div. He said he expects the new "Ampliphase" transmitter, which is to be made available to broadcasters late in the year, to have "as revolutionizing an effect on American broadcasting as did the high-level modulation circuit for maximum power transmitters introduced by RCA some 17 years ago."

An RCA spokesman said no "definite" plans have been made to apply the new principle of the "Ampliphase" high-power transmitter to lower-power radio transmitters but that "certainly there are possibilities for the future."

RCA has not yet set the price on the transmitter, but it was said the cost can be expected to be lower than existing comparable 50 kw transmitters.

Space, Costs Reduced 50%

According to Mr. Smith, the new transmitter will require half the space of comparable broadcast equipment and will reduce operating costs by 50%. It uses phase modulation principles to produce standard broadcast amplitude modulation (am). An electronic circuit permits two 25 kw phase-modulated amplifiers to produce a combined power which RCA said would equal the output of "appreciably larger transmitters." Only a few watts of audio power is needed to generate the 50 kw modulated signal. RCA also said that the circuit already has been used successfully in foreign equipment and is of particular advantage for high-power transmitters operating at 50 kw and above.

From the broadcaster's view, Mr. Smith said, the transmitter will save building space, simplify installation and reduce cost while eliminating about half of the normally required power tubes, "bulky" components and accessory equipment.

The transmitter, he said, is housed within four cubicles which require less than half the floor space needed by existing 50 kw radio transmitters. The need for under-floor cable trenches, external blowers and associated equipment are eliminated, Mr. Smith said, and because the new transmitter is air-cooled, costly and complex water-cooling apparatus is unnecessary. The more important component eliminations, he pointed out, include modulator tubes, modulation transformers and reactors.

While DuMont may be only considering full radio set production at this time, the firm already is making radio sets which are offered as an optional extra in three models of its new "Wide Horizon" tv receivers. [AT DEADLINE, Jan. 3]. The radio set is operated separately from the tv receiver but uses a common speaker. These radio receivers were shown

Monday at Chicago's American Furniture Mart.

William H. Kelley, vice president and general manager of DuMont Labs, had predicted that a high percentage of future DuMont tv set sales would be in the models with radio installed. The tv set with a DuMont radio installed at the factory has $30 added to its list price.

Up to now, except for console type set production, DuMont has concentrated solely on television in its set production.

The acknowledgment that DuMont is experimenting with radio came from Jack Siegrist, merchandising manager of DuMont's Receiver Div., who last Monday disclosed details of the DuMont "radio optional"—which he described as "an outstanding technical development in radio engineering."

The optional radio weighs about three pounds and has a chassis a little larger than a man's hand—but with common use of the tv speaker—"gives the performance of a large console radio." It contains five tubes (AC-DC superhetrodyne), has a built-in loop antenna and can be installed in the tv receiver without changing the location of any tv parts. It uses 10 resistors, 21 capacitors and one of its circuits is manufactured with the new printed circuit technique.

CBS-Columbia Sets Move Into Industrial Tv Field

MOVE into the industrial tv field by CBS-Columbia Inc. was announced last week by Seymour Mintz, president of the radio-tv receiver manufacturing division of CBS.

CBS-Columbia will begin to manufacture closed-circuit industrial color tv equipment as part of the company's "program of expansion and diversification in the electronics field," Mr. Mintz said.

The CBS industrial color camera chain, developed by CBS labs, is available immediately, Robert K. Hartman, director of government and industrial contracts, reported. Production of the unit will be carried on at CBS-Columbia's Long Island City (New York) plant. Mr. Hartman reported that the chain is the same unit that has been demonstrated successfully by CBS in industrial, medical and merchandising applications.

DuMont Appoints Scott Cathode Tube Sales Manager

APPOINTMENT of Robert G. Scott as general sales manager of the cathode-ray tube division of Allen B. DuMont Labs, Clifton,

MR. SCOTT

N. J., was announced last Wednesday by F. P. Rice, division manager. Mr. Scott succeeds William C. Scales, now manager of DuMont's receiver sales division.

In his new post, Mr. Scott is responsible for the sale and merchandising of DuMont's tv picture tubes. He joined the company in 1948 as a senior engineer in the cathode-ray tube division and then was assigned to product engineering and subsequently placed in charge of sales engineering. Last year he was promoted to assistant sales manager of the division.

WATCHING Glenn Flynn, chief engineer of WOW-TV Omaha, as he threads film through a new RCA projector, are (l to r) Bill McBride, program director; Bill Kotera, director of engineering, and Fred Ebener, sales manager. New equipment purchased by WOW-TV from RCA includes a Vidicon camera and two 16mm film projectors, an investment of $28,000.

RADIO-TV MAKERS SHOW THEIR WARES

Latest models go on display at Home Furnishings Market. RCA's Folsom sees outstanding sales volume in '55.

THE 1955 outlook is for line-holding prices on tv receivers in the foreseeable future, a unit output comparable to 1954's seven million in monochrome and a sprinkling of color sets—anywhere from 150,000 to 300,000—manufacturing representatives predicted at the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago last week.

While the sale of major appliances is expected to show a more gainful rise in 1955, black-and-white receivers probably will hold their own in a "transition" year that looks toward the advent of colorcasting on a mass-production basis some months ahead.

Color television was conspicuous by its absence in the form of exhibits and displays at the winter mart in Chicago's merchandise and American furniture headquarters.

And yet replies to queries for predictions were optimistic. Frank M. Folsom, RCA president, felt there will be "continued advances in 1955 with color television adding to the spark of progress. I expect outstanding sales volume in the next 12 months but it will call for continued vigor and new ideas in merchandising and advertising. The new year should be a good one for all who recognize their opportunities in a buyer's market which necessitates extra-hard work and expert sales planning."

RCA displayed its new 21-inch color console model, with suggested retail price of $895. The console includes simplified controls for focusing and other purposes. Also shown were 21-inch black-and-white sets for $259.95 and $269.95, along with RCA-Victor's radio and phonograph instruments. The line also has a record-in-the-slot player attachment and two am-fm radios.

While CBS-Columbia showed its complete line without price or model changes or additions, spokesmen claimed a market up to 300,000 color sets, depending upon dealer promotion.

Backing President James Carmine's optimistic predictions for a "banner year" in tv and appliances, Philco Corp. showed 11 new video models supplementing its previous line of 24 units, including a 21-inch set for $159.95 and table sets ranging up to $219.95. The new 21-inch consoles range from $229 to $299.

Among other exhibits:

Westinghouse Electric Corp.—Twenty-four new sets including 17-, 21- and 24-inch table and console items in the $150-$500 price range.

Admiral Corp.—Two new 24-inch and 21-inch giant consoles. Admiral also had announced to distributors a 21-inch color tv receiver assuring a 245-square inch picture priced at $895, contrasted to a 15-inch set which it sold for $1,000 in December 1953. Admiral's automation and robot chassis concepts are incorporated in the 24-inch units.

Motorola Inc.—A color set with picture claimed comparable to 21 inches in monochrome, or 205 square inches (CBS-Columbia's 205), price $995. A new sensitive chassis is incorporated into eight of its 14 current black-and-white units, including 19- and 24-inch units.

Hallcrafters Co.—Introduced seven basic models in the 21- and 24-inch console class.

Zenith Radio Corp.—A new line of 17-inch receivers, with suggested retail prices for some 50 sets in the range from $149.95 to $1,250 for a 27-inch console combination. Firm claims a new concept in tv styling with a shorter 90-degree picture tube.

Allen B. DuMont Labs—A new 21-inch table model and two new 21-inch open-face consoles. They contain radio as "optional units."

Capehart-Farnsworth Co.—A new line of tv combinations and high fidelity instruments, to be marketed within 60 days.

Among other exhibitors were Raytheon Mfg. Co. (which last week introduced a new transistor radio—story, this page). Arvin Industries, Bendix and General Electric.

Bersche, Branigan Fill RCA Tube Division Posts

HAROLD F. BERSCHE, formerly manager of distributor sales, tube division of RCA, has been promoted to the newly-created post of manager of the marketing services department of the division, it was announced last week by Lee F. Holleran, the division's general marketing manager. Duward M. (Max) Branigan, promotion manager for the division's receiving tube and transistor marketing department, was named manager of distributor sales.

In his new position, Mr. Bersche, who has been associated with RCA sales and merchandising activities for 10 years, is responsible for all advertising, sales promotion, warehousing, traffic and market research activities affecting the RCA tube division's four product-marketing departments: receiving tube and transistors, cathode ray and power tubes, electronic components, and equipment and parts.

As manager of distributor sales, Mr. Branigan will supervise the tube division's distributor field sales force and will have responsibility for sales of all division products handled through distributors. These products include RCA electron receiving tubes, television picture tubes, power tubes, test equipment, electronic components and radio batteries.

Vidicon Camera Chain Announced by Kay Lab

KAY LAB, San Diego, Calif., tv equipment producer, announces the introduction of a compact vidicon camera chain which the firm describes as especially suited for use by small-area uhf operators as well as educational and closed-circuit television groups.

Chains are manufactured in expandable units which can be integrated with existing facilities, Kay Lab reports. The basic system consists of a camera, camera control, remote control panel and viewfinder assembly. Kay Lab says the completely integrated camera control can be mounted either in standard relay racks or in a suitcase for portable use.

Complete camera chains are available from $3,000. Further information may be secured by contacting the company.

Raytheon Announces Tubeless $79.95 Radio

A TUBELESS radio receiver, doing away with conventional vacuum tubes and incorporating eight transistors instead, was unveiled by Raytheon Mfg. Co. in Chicago last week. The receiver is slated to sell for $79.95.

Introducing the new portable model, which is designed to operate a full year from the power of four conventional, one-cell flashlight batteries, Henry F. Argento, vice president and general manager of Raytheon's tv-radio operations, predicted that plug-in receivers may be obsolete in five years.

Raytheon spent over $5 million and five years in research to perfect the receiver now in production.

Other characteristics of the new receiver are:

- (1) It will operate for two and a half years from a single set of mercuric oxide batteries;
- (2) With normal care, the transistors need never be replaced;
- (3) It will operate for one year at a cost of about 60 cents compared to $15-$35 for an ordinary plug-in battery-operated radio with vacuum tubes.

Mr. Argento said the new radio, compared with conventional radios, offers "equivalent sensitivity and greater undistorted volume."

Philco President Sees Good Year for Appliances

POINTING to economists' estimates that the U. S. buying public will have $9 billion more to spend in 1955 than it had in 1954, James H. Carmine, president of the Philco Corp., predicted before a convention of Philco distributors in Atlantic City, N. J., that 1955 will be a banner year for the television and appliance fields.

In discussing prospects, Mr. Carmine stated his belief that "with proper emphasis on creative selling and merchandising," sales of radio and tv receivers, air conditioning units, freezers, refrigerators, and electric ranges could exceed 1954 sales even though the overall picture in the electronics field last year was very good.

Zenith Offers Fm Control Unit

ZENITH RADIO CORP. announces automatic frequency control circuit designed to simplify fm tuning and eliminate drifting for best reception. A control circuit contained in the firm's new am-fm table model sets allows for a leeway of several degrees on either side of the desired channel. When the indicator comes within range, the circuit automatically tunes station on the center of the channel, eliminating drift and "locking in" the station. H. C. Bonfig, Zenith vice president and sales director, said the device "permits full enjoyment of fm's superior reception qualities without the extremely careful dial manipulation necessary heretofore." Models are available in cabinets for suggested retail prices of $89.95 and $91.95.

Gen. Instruments Expanding

FIVE-POINT expansion in the Canadian operations of General Instrument Corp., Elizabeth, N. J., manufacturer of television, radio and electronic components, has been announced by Abraham Blumenkrantz, chairman of the board. The program includes construction of an expandable 250-employee plant at Waterloo, Ont.; increased development and production of "made in Canada" parts; establishment of a product research laboratory, and additional personnel and new equipment.

Fm Suit Settlement Ends Six-Year Fight

RCA-NBC's $1 million settlement comes year after Maj. Armstrong's death.

ONE of the broadcasting industry's more dramatic patent stories ended abruptly a fortnight ago with the announcement that the fm patent suit brought against RCA-NBC some years ago by the late Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong had been settled for approximately $1 million [AT DEADLINE, Jan. 3].

Only a year ago, the sudden death of Maj. Armstrong, whose fall from his 13th story apartment in New York was listed in police reports as suicide, touched off a new wave of publicity on the court battle.

In a farewell letter to his estranged wife, Maj. Armstrong, credited with being fm's developer, placed on this patent litigation and on his absorption in it for some five years, the blame for his neglect of his home life which had led to separation from his wife.

Reportedly Maj. Armstrong, who died at 63 last February, had concerned himself with the suit virtually round-the-clock when it was being considered by the courts.

Maj. Armstrong first filed his suit in the U. S. District Court at Wilmington, Del., in July 1948. It alleged infringement by RCA and NBC of five of his fm patents.

Of interest perhaps in the light of events which have transpired since the suit was filed, was Maj. Armstrong's comment in his charges that "today [1948] there are nearly 600 fm broadcasting stations on the air in the U. S., and set production is in the millions per year. Fm is definitely on the way toward permanently obsoleting am radio."

Maj. Armstrong reportedly first got into his fm idea in the 1920's and by 1933 persuaded RCA to give him space in the Empire State Bldg., in New York, where RCA already had begun its experimental telecasting, to test out his theories. After a few years, however, RCA decided to concentrate on tv and the major moved his apparatus to Alpine, N. J., on the Palisades across the Hudson from uptown Manhattan. This move was mentioned in the Armstrong brief filed with the court as having been the result of NBC's alleged showing of "no interest in giving the public" fm service.

Optical Color Deception

COUNTLESS high school physics students have been impressed with it, and now it's come to tv. Creating color from black and white patterns, that is.

Faint impressions of color were achieved on black and white closed circuit tv at Indiana U.'s television studio in tests made by two members of the psychology department, the university has reported. The test made use of the so-called Prevost-Fechner color effect. This is achieved by the rapid alternation of black and white patterns, which to an observer seems to create color.

The closed-circuit telecast was arranged as part of studies into the causes of the effect. One of the drawbacks in creating strong color on tv through the use of rapidly spinning black and white patterns on a disc is the stroboscopic effect caused by the fact that tv images are intermittent and not a succession of pictures, it was said.

Color Equipment Production Major '55 Trend—Kessler

MAJOR trend in 1955 for manufacturers of tv station transmitting equipment and studio installations will be the production of color tv transmitting equipment, according to Robert E. Kessler, manager of Allen B. DuMont Labs' Communication Products Division.

Mr. Kessler said 1954 was a year of "outstanding accomplishment" for the division.

Among the accomplishments he cited was DuMont's color Multi-Scanner, introduced last year and now in large-scale production.

Other developments: installation of DuMont's line of conversion units for stations who wish to broadcast color continuing at a rapid pace; move to high power transmitters by tv stations begun last year can be expected to increase (DuMont has been shipping new 25-kw and 50-kw transmitters); growth of mobile two-way commercial radio communication equipment, a field in which DuMont in 1954 became a major competitor, and introduction of a re-designed and improved "Tel-Eye" camera for closed circuit tv.

Seidel Terms Television 'Sparkplug' of Electronics

TELEVISION continues to serve as the "sparkplug" of the electronics industry, with total tv sales in 1954 accounting for about $1.5 billion and expected to hit a similar mark this year when seven million units are expected to be sold, an RCA official said last week.

Robert A. Seidel, RCA vice president, appeared on an all-appliance panel Wednesday during the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago. He predicted that set-makers would turn out about 200,000 color units in 1955. Mr. Seidel said nearly 150,000 more tv receivers were sold in 1954 than in the previous year, along with 11 million radio sets and 3.7 million phonographs.

Prediction that about one million more major appliances would be sold this year was voiced by Parker H. Erickson, vice president of Avco Mfg. Corp., with overall sales expected to jump 3 to 30%.

National Prosperity Cited In Sylvania Yearend Report

PREDICTION that 1955 may be the best economic year in the history of the United States was made last week by Don G. Mitchell, board chairman, and H. Ward Zimmer, president, Sylvania Electric Products Inc. The joint statement also forecast that the steadily climbing gross national product, described as the sum of the nation's goods and services, already shows signs of exceeding previous records.

Sales at Sylvania in the last quarter of 1954 were the highest for any fourth quarter in the company's history, Messrs. Mitchell and Zimmer reported, with net sales of almost $79 million recorded for that period.

The total factory production of tv sets for 1954 is expected to reach 7.5 million and sales to the public more than 7.2 million. The Sylvania executives said that current estimates for 1955 are 5.9 million black-and-white sets and 100,000 to 300,000 color sets.

The sale of radio receiving tubes declined in 1954 due to the tv industry inventory adjustment, but Messrs. Mitchell and Zimmer reported a pick-up is underway now that customer inventories are substantially reduced.

Radio-Tv Expansion In '55 Faces Europe

Reports from West Germany, Austria, France and other places on the Continent disclose advances during 1954 and even bigger plans for '55.

West Germany:

SOUTHWEST GERMAN RADIO has completed construction of 80% of the tv transmission facilities granted to the network under the Stockholm Frequency Plan. About 70% of the network's area is now covered by four larger and six smaller repeater stations. A 667-ft. antenna tower of concrete is now under construction in Stuttgart, W. Germany. Tower, which is claimed to be the most unusual one in Europe, will have a restaurant accommodating 220 patrons at the top.

Number of licensed tv sets in West Germany at the end of 1954 is estimated at 80,000. Another 80,000 are estimated to be operated illegally. Number of licenses is now rising at a monthly rate of 20% of the total.

On Jan. 1, 1955, there were 26 tv transmitters operating in West Germany, most of them being repeater stations fed from the studios of seven different semi-official networks (yet producing one joint program, almost no local ones). Existing transmitters operate on channels 2 to 11 and cover 60% of the area's population.

A recent survey in West Germany disclosed that interest in radio spot commercials is rising despite adverse propaganda in competing media. In 1954, 72% of listeners voted in favor of continued radio spot commercials, against 62% in 1952 and 68% in 1953.

Austria:

AUSTRIAN Postal Administration will spend a total of about $2.5 million for construction of four tv transmitters, additional vhf stations and relay lines. Plan requires start of construction work in early 1955.

Italy:

RAI's latest plans are for 13 new vhf radio transmitters in Italy in 1955. This will bring the total of vhf stations in Italy to 27. Stations will carry all of the three different national programs.

Eurovision:

I. WATTS of Britain, E. Haas of Switzerland, L. Wallenborn of European Radio Union, H. Plato of West Germany, figures in Eurovision, met in Frankfurt, West Germany, to set new plans for further Eurovision hookups in early 1955. Talks resulted in plans for 24 programs to be exchanged in January to April 1955. Denmark, which discontinued its Eurovision partnership after the mid-1954 hookup, has not yet announced any plans to rejoin the network.

France:

ACCORDING to available statistics there were 104,689 licensed tv sets operated in France. An unknown number of additional sets are operated without proper licenses. Gap between official statistics and actual number of sets in operation is illustrated by the fact that dealers in Marseille report sales of more than 5,000 sets while statistics for Department Bouches Du Rhone, Marseille area, has only 10 sets on the list.

Luxembourg:

COMMERCIAL tv station in Luxembourg will start in early 1955. Station, to operate under call of Tele Luxembourg, is owned by Compagnie Des Compteurs, Compagnie Generale de T.S.F., Banque De Paris, and Agence Havas. Program is supplied by Compagnie Luxembourgeoise de Radiodiffusion. Sales representative for the new station, one of the few European ones operating on a straight commercial basis, is Informations Et Publicite Co., Luxembourg.

Canadian Tv Set Sales Reach $184.6 Million

CANADIAN tv receiver sales in the first 11 months of 1954 amounted to 530,350 receivers valued at $184,607,674, according to a report of the Radio-Television Mfrs. Assn. of Canada. Sales in the same period in 1953 totaled 313,633 receivers. Record November sales amounted to 93,649 sets. ## Overseas Broadcasts Cut

OPERATION of the international service of Canadian Broadcasting Service will be cut by at least 20% in the 1955-56 fiscal year under Canadian government policy to cut the budget for this service by $500,000 from $2,300,000 in the current fiscal year ending March 31. The cut will mean curtailment of shortwave broadcasts to Europe and possibly to Latin America and Australia. There will be no curtailment of the service to Canadian troops in Europe and the Canadian Arctic. Broadcasts to Finland are expected to be completely cut and broadcasts to Holland, Italy and the Scandinavian countries will be considerably reduced. Broadcasts to countries behind the Iron Curtain will not be reduced from the present average of about seven hours a week to Russia, Poland, Ukraine, Czechoslovakia and East Germany. Currently the international service broadcasts for the Canadian government about 115 hours weekly in 16 languages from studios at Montreal and transmitters at Sackville, N. B.

Philippine Agency Reports On Tv Sets, Listenership

THERE ARE more than 5,000 tv sets within a 100-mile radius of Manila, approximately 3,000 within the city (with a 2-million population) and about 2,000 in outlying Philippine provinces, according to a report from Antonio R. de Joya & Assoc., Manila advertising agency, to V. S. Becker Adv. Service, New York. The Becker concern serves as New York office of the Manila agency.

Average audience per set in the Philippines is far larger than in the U. S., de Joya reported, with an average of 13.7 persons watching per receiver. The price of tv sets, 600-700 pesos ($300-$350), while keeping down their distribution, means that the audience is composed largely of middle and upper income families, prospects for luxury merchandise. In the Philippines, alcoholic beverages may be freely advertised on tv and radio, the agency said.

Three 1955 Investigations Seen for Canadian Radio-TV

BUSY YEAR for investigations into radio-tv is expected by the Canadian broadcasting industry. Preparations are being made by the Canadian Assn. of Radio & Television Broadcasters for at least three investigations at Ottawa. There is scheduled a Royal Commission on Copyright, at which the CARTB will present a brief. A Royal Commission on Television is anticipated, having been suggested by the Massey Commission in 1950, when it recommended setting up a national television system and a review of the status of television within three years of the establishment of a government system. The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. began telecasting in September 1952. The annual Parliamentary Broadcasting Committee is expected to sit this year, and may possibly investigate the growth of tv at the same time. Urged is elimination of the CBC tv monopoly in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Gillett to British Post

ROLAND GILLETT, former radio-tv director of Biow Co. and tv program producer, has been appointed head of all British commercial tv programs for the London area. He will serve as controller of programming and production for Associated-Rediffusion Ltd., whose first commercial telecasts in Great Britain are scheduled to begin in September 1955.

MR. GILLETT

Before his association with Biow, Mr. Gillett was tv supervisor at Young & Rubicam, and later vice president in charge of radio-tv production there. In a previous association with CBS-TV, he served as first director of Toast of the Town and also directed Winner Take All.

The summary shows a population of 15,018,000, a total of 3,748,000 radio homes (96.4% of all households) and total retail sales of $12,092,174,000. G. E. Rutter, market research consultant, Toronto, compiled the figures.

KPIX (TV), UNIONS REACH AGREEMENT

NABET and AFTRA personnel go back to work at Westinghouse's San Francisco station. FCC is investigating charges of sabotage there.

AGREEMENT last Thursday between KPIX (TV), Westinghouse station in San Francisco, and two striking unions—NABET and AFTRA—brought to an end a three-week impasse during which supervisory personnel kept the station in operation. FCC's West Coast office is investigating KPIX charges that station equipment was sabotaged.

Philip G. Lasky, KPIX general manager, said both unions started returning to work late Thursday under the settlement-agreement. A two-year contract was formally signed with NABET at 2 p. m. Thursday. Terms had been agreed to informally last Tuesday.

Mr. Lasky said 44 NABET employees will get the same wage offered by management long before the strike was called Dec. 14. Formal signing of a new AFTRA two-year contract will take place next week, he said.

Included in the strike settlement, he said, was an agreement by NABET members to repair any equipment damage "discovered during the period of technical readjustment under supervision of KPIX executives."

The 11 NABET floor men who had been getting $97 per week will get a 6% increase and an additional 7% after a year. Thirty-three technicians who had been getting $132.46 are getting similar percentage increases.

Asked One-third Boost

At the time of the strike the NABET local was asking a 33 1/3% boost in salary. Mr. Lasky said management secured removal of certain provisions in the old contract it had considered undesirable.

Management obtained the right to take legal action against anyone who engaged in or conspired to engage in sabotage of equipment. NABET members are being recalled to work on an individual basis at the discretion of management while equipment is repaired and production of live programs is resumed.

Last week's accord followed a week of negotiations in which federal conciliators participated.

On the first day of the strike, Dec. 14, Mr. Lasky charged that supervisory engineers found "widespread evidence of sabotage to technical equipment." During the strike, he added, executives and supervisors who were operating the station discovered that operation with fewer people was practical. As a result, orderly reductions in the technical staff will take place in the immediate future, he added.

AFTRA members returned to work immediately when the contract was signed between NABET and the station. Only six KPIX employees are covered but over 30 performers on the station are affected by Wednesday's AFTRA accord. AFTRA had ignored NABET picket lines during the first week of the strike.

KPIX announcers who earn $145 a week in the old contract will get $150, with directors who received $160 going up to $170. Revisions in commercial fees were effected and some disputed details of the old contract were modified.

Both unions receive benefits of the liberalized life insurance, retirement and welfare program that had been announced to all KPIX employees when Westinghouse acquired the station last summer. The program was formally offered the two unions when bargaining began last September, according to Mr. Lasky.

After the first week of the strike KPIX went on a complete network and film operation.

Six Trustees Named To Tv Welfare Plan

SIX TRUSTEES and their alternates, representing management and television performers, were appointed last week to administer the new welfare and pension plan agreed upon in contract negotiations between the four television networks and the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists [A.F.T.R.A., Nov. 22, 1954].

The pension and welfare plan, covering television performers only, requires employers to contribute 5% of "gross compensation" due each artist, but talent will make no contribution. Industry estimates are that about $50 million will be spent for tv talent by advertising agencies and networks during this year, and on this basis, the plan would realize about $2.5 million.

The trustees chosen to represent management are: I. S. Becker, president, Air Features Inc., program production firm; Emanuel Sacks, vice president, NBC, and Edward G. Wilson, vice president, J. Walter Thompson Co., New York. The alternates are: Gordon Gray, vice president of General Teleradio Inc. and general manager of WOR-AM-TV New York; Geraldine B. Zorbaugh, secretary and general counsel, ABC, and David Miller, vice president, Young & Rubicam, New York.

The trustees representing the television performers are: George Heller, national executive secretary, AFTRA; Clayton (Bud) Collyer, announcer and a director of the federation's New York local, and Frank Nelson, an actor and national president of AFTRA. The alternates for the performers' trustees are: Claude McCue, Alex McKee and Raymond Jones, all employees of the federation's executive staff.

First meeting of the trustees is scheduled for tomorrow (Tuesday). It is not known when the pension and welfare plan will be placed into actual operation, because there are various problems that have to be solved.

NLRB Rules Against AFM

LOCAL 802, AFM, New York, has been ordered by National Labor Relations Board to cease picketing activities at Yankee Stadium and Parkway Rink in connection with a dispute involving WINS New York. The board found the AFM local had been engaging in secondary boycotts in violation of the labor laws. The picketing started last April.

NLRB dismissed a complaint brought against WPRA Mayaguez, P. R., by union talent on the ground the case did not come within the minimum of $200,000 gross business annually. It ordered an election at CBS New York to determine representation of six film cameramen. AFL and IATSE both claim the cameramen.

ALASKA'S COLDER THAN N. M.

TO SHOW the situation could be worse when snows and winds hit most of New Mexico late last month, Dave Muhlstein, news director of KSVP Artesia, N.M., placed and recorded a person-to-person telephone call to Stephen Anderson, mayor of Nome, Alaska. The mayor reported to Mr. Muhlstein that Nome was having a mild day of  $-25^{\circ}$  and that skies were clear, with only four inches of snow on the ground. A  $-36^{\circ}$  day has already been recorded this year in Nome. Mayor Anderson said, and, on rare occasions, the temperature dips to  $-40^{\circ}$ . The recording was aired on a KSVP evening news show.

BOSTON, PAST AND PRESENT

BOSTON was discovered over 500 years before Columbus came to America, intimates "Who's Who in Boston (Past & Present)," a brochure distributed to agencies and advertisers by WEEI Boston. The man was Bjarni Herjulfson, a Norseslander, one of the many past characters who are integrated with the present in the booklet. The present-day Boston history-makers, of course, are WEEI personalities. Boston's "most listened-to station" says that rather than recite its accomplishments of the last thirty years, "let us consider . . . some of the most colorful personalities in all history (which) are part and parcel of Boston tradition . . .", adding it will not let itself go entirely unnoticed, since "our WEEI personalities play no small part in molding the character (and purchasing habits) of present-day Boston." The 12-page brochure is presented all the way through in an early American motif and contains drawings of each "who" and sketchings of the Boston scene on the cover.

SHELTER IN A STORM

UNSCHEDULED tour of KWTU (TV) Oklahoma City was conducted Dec. 28 when 11 inches of snow and 60-mile winds struck the city. Drifts blocked all highways and those bogged motorists seeking shelter at KWTU studios were given a hot cup of coffee and a tour of the building. Al Hazelwood, sportscaster marooned with other employees at the studios 10 miles from downtown Oklahoma City, led the red-eyed group through the station at 3 a.m. State highway crews opened the roads early in the morning and traffic and television talent moved normally.

CHRISTMAS ON KGBC

RELIGIOUS aspect of Christmas marked the Christmas Eve programming of KGBC Galveston, Tex., as the station successively broadcast the birth of Christ, as told by St. Luke; Christmas Carols by six outstanding Galveston County school choruses; a program of Christmas music by four Galveston church choirs with short talks on Christmas' meaning by two local pastors, and the community Christmas service of the First Lutheran Church from the city's Pleasure Pier. To emphasize the real meaning of Christmas, KGBC sent a check to the local Salvation Army equalling the amount spent on gifts for clients and agencies in previous years. Copies of the letter enclosed with the check were sent to the agencies and clients together with hand-written personal greetings. Both the programming and the charity check ideas provoked favorable response, the station reports.

NO STOCK, NO SPOT

STING of the cancellation by Kaiser-Frazer Sales Corp., Los Angeles, of participations in the KLAC Hollywood Peter Potter Show was eased somewhat for station executives by an accompanying letter from the automobile firm. The letter, facsimiles of which were distributed to advertisers and agencies by KLAC, states in part that results of the Potter program "were little short of sensational," but that the home office had ordered the cancellation because the local firm will have no new cars to sell for at least 30 days, having sold out its previous stock.

Sherlock at the Sheraton

TEASER announcements, promotional gimmicks, a master detective and a closed-circuit telecast were parlayed by a supermarket chain into the sale of all available cooperative advertising for a 52-week tv show within 24 hours. Ervin Levinson, advertising manager for Wrigley's Supermarkets—which operates 60 stores in the greater Detroit area—started the campaign by sending to 175 food brokers, manufacturers' representatives and suppliers invitations to "Wrigley's mystery party." Accompanying each invitation were a pipe, magnifying glass and "Sherlock Holmes" cap with the copy stressing "elementary." When guests were assembled in the grand ballroom of Detroit's Sheraton Cadillac Hotel after cocktails and a buffet supper, the closed-circuit telecast began. The telecast revealed how Sherlock Holmes was working for Wrigley's Supermarkets via the Sheldon Reynolds' tv film series (Wrigley's sponsors the Sherlock Holmes series over WXYZ-TV Detroit) and included an excerpt from one of Holmes' adventures. During intermission, Dalton Dannon, Detroit representative for Motion Pictures for Television, outlined the pre-selling job accomplished on the series by national magazines and told of the successful reception the series has received in New York. Mr. Levinson explained the package deal being offered to participating sponsors on a 52-week basis and a dummy edition of the Detroit Times was displayed bearing the headline: "Wrigley's Captures the Great Sherlock." Twenty-four hours later Mr. Levinson had signed contracts for all the cooperative time available—104 participating spot announcements.

Economics of Broadcasting—Then and Now

WHEN 26-year-old William S. Paley bought the Columbia network back in 1928, he had about $1.5 million, which swung the deal. Ed Noble in 1943 bought the Blue Network from RCA, under the forced draft of the FCC "duopoly" regulation, for a gross of $8 million and a net of about $6.4 million. In 1952 that same network operation (now the holder of five television construction permits in the first six markets) was merged with United Paramount Theatres in a $25 million gross transaction.

Last week saw a single television station—WDTV (TV) Pittsburgh—sell for $9,750,000. And there had been a higher offer to DuMont than that which bought the station for Westinghouse, to become KDKA-TV. Based on earnings, the station was worth every dollar paid for it.

But an even more spectacular demonstration of the economics of broadcasting has unfolded during the last fortnight.

Estimates vary as to the amount of money Jackie Gleason will be taking in from his two new arrangements with Buick and CBS-TV, but it is beyond question that the amount is substantial, not to say staggering.

The Buick deal for a two-year run of Mr. Gleason's The Honey-mooners on CBS-TV is variously reported at from $6 million to $11 million, with the most reliable evidence indicating it is around $7.5 million.

Last week Mr. Gleason announced he had signed a $5 million contract with CBS entailing production by Jackie Gleason Enterprises of a half-hour show in which he will not appear, production of a summer replacement for his current program, and a 15-year personal contract at $100,000 a year guaranteeing his services exclusively to CBS.

The CBS contract becomes effective two years from now, after the initial run of Mr. Gleason's Buick arrangement. Hence the comedian is assured of 17 years of income if not of work.

Seventeen years are a long time for a comedian of Mr. Gleason's ebullience to stay on top of what is bound to be vicious competition. Plainly, CBS-TV has decided to gamble on Mr. Gleason's durability and an unswerving loyalty of the public. In the network's view, it will be at least 17 years before The Honeymooners is over.

When the Whirlwinds Blow

FBI DIRECTOR J. Edgar Hoover—one of the great men of our times—isn't given to making public utterances for the sake of notoriety. Except when called upon by committees of Congress, he usually confines his statements to a yearend report on the state of crime in the nation. During the last decade, every such report has made mention of Communist subversion.

In his 1954 year-ender, Mr. Hoover again calls for "eternal vigilance" against subversion by Communists. He alluded to infiltration in several sensitive fields, including electronics and communications.

As the new year starts, we suggest that all in broadcasting again take heed. Five years ago Mr. Hoover spelled out with particularity to a Senate committee what the Communists were up to in communications. He said their primary objective is to control communications facilities in a national emergency. Party members, he recited, "have not only infiltrated the airways but now are persistently seeking radio channels."

Nothing has happened in the intervening years to allay that condition. Through the Korean hot war and the present tepid relations, this work, it must be presumed, has gone forward. Mr. Hoover said then that Communist schools and Communist fronts have offered training courses in connection with radio writing, acting and directing.

Broadcasting—every phase of it from transmitter to microphone and camera—is sensitive. It provides the fastest and most potent means of reaching the people.

We repeat now what we have said before: Every individual in broadcast management has a responsibility above and beyond that of the ordinary citizen. Just as every lawyer is an officer of the court, every broadcaster is an officer of the air. It is his responsibility, by whatever means available, to make certain that access to the microphone is denied those who would turn traitor when, as FCC Comr. Doerfer once put it, "the whirlwinds blow."

Drink on the House

THE NARTB's comprehensive surveys of beer and wine advertising on radio and television [B•T, Jan. 3] provides statistical confirmation of what was already informally known—that the proportion of such advertising is negligible.

That knowledge is further reinforced by the less extensive report which the U. S. Brewers Foundation also sent to the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee a fortnight ago.

The NARTB's statistics will unquestionably be of great assistance in beating down Congressional attempts to place restrictions on alcoholic beverage advertising. As a political instrument, the association's study will be most valuable.

But involved in the repeated efforts of dries to force beer-wine commercials off the air is a vital principle which does not pertain to statistical measurements of the amount or frequency of such commercials. The principle at stake is whether federal censorship will be applied to radio and tv. It is on that principle that broadcasters ought to stand.

By Constitutional amendment, the federal government has left it up to the states to decide whether the sale of alcoholic beverages is legal or illegal. It is not the prerogative of the federal government to reserve for itself the power to prohibit advertising of such beverages. Such a prohibition would constitute unadorned censorship of a particularly objectionable kind since it would be directed exclusively against radio and television and would not affect any other advertising medium.

Let the government get away with banning beer-wine advertising from the air and there would be no consistent argument against its banning any other kind of advertising.

Whether the percentage of total broadcast time occupied by beer-wine advertising is zero or 100, it is not a matter for adjustment by the Congress of the United States.

Rayburn's Archaic Ukase

THE announcement by Speaker Sam Rayburn that he intends to forbid television coverage of House committee sessions has aroused the widespread criticism it deserves. Such a sweeping ukase is out of date in today's world of journalism.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Rayburn will at least modify his order to the extent of permitting committee chairmen to decide whether television coverage is appropriate. He could do so gracefully by announcing that he personally opposes televised hearings but that he trusts committee chairmen to make sensible decisions for themselves.

In the long run, of course, television must be given access equal to that accorded any news medium. Its undeniable virtues as an objective reporter will eventually win it that place.

Meanwhile, telecasters may have to satisfy themselves with less than total equality. But they certainly cannot be satisfied with the blanket exclusion that Mr. Rayburn has proposed.

A black and white cartoon illustration of a man in a robe sitting on a chair, holding a long, thin object (possibly a pipe or a tool) and looking at it with a smile. To his right is a complex electronic circuit diagram featuring various components like resistors, capacitors, and a vacuum tube, with labels such as "1000 OHMS", "100K", and "100M". The man is wearing a robe with a decorative pattern and has a long, pointed nose. The circuit diagram includes a vacuum tube, several resistors with values like 1000 OHMS, 100K, and 100M, and various capacitors and other electronic components. The artist's signature "Hutch" is visible in the bottom left corner.

"Turkey feathers."

"Danged if I know. Reckon they good for anything?"

"What?"

"What you gimme for the whole load?"

"Six bits or a turkey."

"Got any giblets on him?"

"Yup."

"'Sadeal,'"

And that's how the duster industry was started in Monticello, Iowa. Today as many as 16,000 feathers per day are washed, disinfected and moth-proofed, before 35 to 200 are selected for one of the twenty different models made in Iowa and distributed all over the Western Hemisphere.

Carried to extremes, feather dusters might eventually take the place of vacuum cleaners and thereby eliminate one source of tv picture interference.
