Territorial Governor of Alaska, Mike Stepovich, on the left, shown here accepting a film of Iowa's Governor Loveless welcoming Alaska to the Union. Presenting the film is Dick Compton, KFTV newsman, who was on hand, to record personally, this history-making event of Alaska's becoming the 49th state for KFTV viewers.

WHEN THE BIG NEWS WAS ALASKA A KFTV NEWSMAN WAS THERE

Dick Compton's trip to Alaska is typical of the traveling KFTV newsmen do to record and film news as it happens. A team covered the "Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy" conference in Geneva, Switzerland. Daily films were rushed back for use on KFTV. Channel 9 viewers saw last minute films of the Lebanon crisis. KFTV was in Beirut when the news was made. Another team will cover South American news next February.

Why this on-the-spot coverage of news?

KFTV believes it has a responsibility to the people it serves. A duty to keep them intelligently informed on domestic and world affairs. This is best done by sending men to report and interpret the news as it happens, when it happens.

What does all this mean to you? People in the Sioux City area have come to depend on KFTV as the station with the important things first. That's why KFTV is the most watched station in Sioux City—why KFTV is your best buy in Sioux City.

Bob Billman, left, and Charles Powell, right, along with Dick Compton, pictured above, comprise the KFTV news team. These are the men who bring to KFTV viewers the latest reports and films of the local, national and world news wherever it is happening.

END OF OVERSIGHT? • Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of explosive Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, has notified staff that subcommittee expires Jan. 3, 1959. Rep. Harris, who would prefer that subcommittee activities be absorbed by parent Commerce Committee, said staffers were warned of expiration so they could look for new jobs. Several other members of subcommittee are known to favor subcommittee's continuance in 86th Congress.

New owners of Mutual network are still in diversifying mood. Scranton Corp., whose Hal Roach Studios bought MBS two weeks ago for $2 million plus [LEAD STORY, Sept. 15], was reliably reported Friday to be negotiating for acquisition of Waterman Pen Co. Scranton is owned by F. L. Jacobs Co. of Detroit, whose various subsidiaries make several consumer products including lace, plastic shower curtains and hi-fi phonographs. Acquisition of Waterman could add to Mutual's business opportunities: A. L. Guterman, head of Jacobs company and president of MBS, has said companies' various products "naturally" would give their radio business to Mutual.

LOSS OF AN ARM • Joseph M. Sitrick, FCC Chairman Doerfer's right arm since he assumed FCC helm last year, shortly will resign as chief administrative-legislative assistant to return to private business. He is expected to remain at FCC until Nov. 1 to break in his successor and will join Blackburn & Co., station brokers, in executive capacity at Washington headquarters. It's understood his successor, an FCC attorney for past 18 months, already has been selected.

Resignation of Mr. Sitrick should not be interpreted as indicating imminent departure of Chairman Doerfer, now in Europe as chairman of American delegation to international telephone-telegraph conference in Geneva. Chairman has confided he intends to complete his seven-year tenure which runs until June 30, 1961, barring unexpected. Mr. Sitrick joined FCC Aug. 26, 1957, after having served as special projects director of NAB. Previously his government experience included State Dept. and USIA informational and legislative activities. He has background in station news operations in Midwest and Washington.

MAYBE LATER • White House has already delayed beyond indicated date appointment of high level spectrum analysis commission, and nothing formally may be done until next session of Congress. Highly placed officials had predicted fortnight ago that Commission would be appointed "promptly" with instructions to report within six months. Assurances that legislation, along lines of blocked Potter Resolution at last session, providing for jointly appointed Commission believed responsible for delay, even though membership of commission had been tentatively selected.

If satisfactory commitments are not received on joint executive-congressional study group, it's reported that President will name his own commission promptly. Additionally, there was thought that compromise "advisory committee", operating on confidential level for President, would be named anyway so that time between now and convening of new Congress would not be lost.

MERGER? • Amalgamation of Broadcast Pioneers, originally organized in 1942, and Television Pioneers, formally created last year, will be explored by committee of former organization with officers of latter group. Older organization was Radio Pioneers but changed its name last year to make it all-encompassing. President Frank E. Pellegrin of Broadcast Pioneers has designated committee to initiate negotiations with W. D. (Dub) Rogers, prime mover and president of Television Pioneers.

Another Broadcast Pioneers project—creation of Hall of Fame and history project—may become all-industry enterprise. John F. Patt, last year's president who spawned idea, has discussed project with NAB President Harold E. Fellows, and NAB Board has authorized latter to undertake overall study. Broadcast Pioneers already has authorized $1,000 "seed" money to explore project.

FM EXPANSION • If advertiser interest warrants, WQXR Fm Network [NETWORKS, Aug. 11] may jump boundaries of New York state. Discussions are understood to have been held with fm operators as far south as Virginia, with consensus being, "let's do it." But New York Times, parent of WQXR New York and its network, isn't yet set to invest in building large enough sales and programming staff to consolidate such loosely federated hookup. Meanwhile, it's learned that network is thinking of adding WHFM (WHAM Rochester's fm operation) to its 11-station network.

It's still in planning stage, but Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, may set up station relations posts with view to keeping better apprised of what stations are doing. Plan is to name perhaps two field representatives who would travel about country and serve as kind of liaison with broadcasters in field. Prospects currently are being sounded out.

ROBOT D.J. • Officials of Muzak's Programmatic Broadcasting Service Inc. are elated at reaction to first public showing of new automatic radio programming equipment and program package [PROGRAM SERVICES, Sept. 15], unveiled last week at Oklahoma City NAB meet. They say 26 stations already have asked to see contracts. Single unit ($2,745.75) can program for eight consecutive hours or, with clock unit, be set to cut off and on around local programming. Local commercials are taped and inserted automatically into programming at points desired, while new searching device reportedly can find any given commercial in 60 seconds if for substitution or other purposes it is needed. Taped programming is supplied for fee.

Indictment of former FCC Comr. Mack and friend Thurman Whiteside has no serious significance in Miami ch. 10 FCC proceedings, observers hold. Aside from question whether Mr. Mack should have voted or not in final decision (which may be answered by criminal trial) other issues relate to possible improprieties of applicants and other commissioners and whether grant to National Airlines should be voided. None of these are involved.

ONE OR TWO • Transfer of WCKR Miami by Biscayne Tv Corp. (jointly owned by principals in Miami Herald, Miami Daily News and Niles Trammell, its president and general manager) to Sun Ray Drug Co. (WPEN Philadelphia) for $800,000 has been considered several times in recent weeks by FCC but without action. Reason is FCC has been unable to make up its mind whether radio property is separable from ch. 7 WCKT (TV) since tv case is still in litigation. Sale, subject to usual FCC approval, was announced in late May. Ordinarily, routine transfer case takes month or six weeks.

Richard E. (Dick) Jones, vice president-general manager of KXLY-AM-TV Spokane, has resigned and is disposing of his 10% interest in Spokane operations along with 20% interest in KELP-AM-TV El Paso to principal stockholders Joseph Harris and Norman Alexander. Mr. Jones was formerly director of three DuMont owned and operated stations and has headed Storer Broadcasting Co. operations in Detroit.

SWEDES ON MOVE • Swedish television, presently two years old, is contemplating $10 million investment in new plant and equipment in Stockholm. Preparatory to undertaking project. Per Eckerberg, chairman of the board, and Henrik Hahr, vice president tv-programs of Swedish Broadcasting Corp., visited installations in New York, Washington and Hollywood during past three weeks.

ANOTHER CHARGE OF QUIZ FIXING ERUPTS

New eruption in tv quiz controversy Friday—once again involving NBC-TV's Twenty-One—brought reaction of "surprise" and "unexpected" from network (which owns show), producer Barry-Enright and sponsor Pharmaceuticals Inc. New York Post story Friday said former program contestant James Snodgrass under oath told grand jury of being "rehearsed" and receiving answers to questions in advance.

New York district attorney told BROADCASTING he could confirm fact that Mr. Snodgrass testified before special grand jury investigating tv quiz shows Dotto and Twenty-One but would not discuss Post story. NBC-TV (Twenty-One is on network Thursdays, 8:30-9 p.m.) said "this comes as a complete surprise to us. We had absolutely no knowledge of it. As a result of the Post story, we intend to launch a prompt and thorough investigation of the charges."

Pharmaceuticals said story was "unexpected development" and advertiser also was "looking into" situation. Barry & Enright (Jack Barry, m.c. of program and Dan Enright) issued following: "We have been advised by the district attorney that his office has not released to the press any information pertaining to the Twenty-One program. In view of this, our attorneys have advised us to release no statements at this time."

Post story was based on interview with Mr. Snodgrass, who appeared on program year ago. Mr. Snodgrass was portrayed as having delivered to grand jury three sealed letters containing answers and stage directions for his appearances on Twenty-One and which he was said to have sent via registered mail to himself but never opened. Former contestant (who lost to Hank Bloomgarden but received $4,000) was said to have held back letters and his "story" until he received routine subpoena from grand jury and decided to reveal details upon advice of attorney.

competing applicant and paid "partial expenses" to two other applicants who withdrew.

Swezey Cites Lawyer Reluctance To Accept Radio-Tv in Courts

Broadcast coverage of court trials has demonstrated that proceedings can be brought to public without interfering with justice but legal profession is slow to recognize this progress, Robert D. Swezey, WDSU-AM-TV New Orleans, told Missouri Bar Assn. in address prepared for delivery Saturday (Sept. 27). Mr. Swezey is chairman of NAB Freedom of Information Committee and member of American Bar Assn.

"Many lawyers regard broadcasters as purveyors of second-rate entertainment, with an eye out for a quick buck, rather than respectable members of the community and an important factor in intellectual life," he said. NAB has called on state broadcaster associations to conduct controlled tests of radio-tv coverage of court proceedings.

Bartell Stresses Research

Future growth of radio will require expanded research activity at individual stations, Gerald A. Bartell, president of Bartell Family Radio group said in address prepared for Broadcasters Sales Management Conference, held Sept. 26-27 by Mississippi Broadcasters Assn. at Oxford. Rating services should be used "to corroborate creative research rather than to supply the only method of programming judgment," he said in laying down formula for successful radio management.

BUSINESS BRIEFLY

Late-breaking items about broadcast business; for earlier news, see ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, page 31.

IRISH INVASION • Goodbody Ltd., Dublin, Ireland, making U. S. debut in late October-early November with radio-tv spot drive on behalf of Goodbody's Irish Soda Bread Mix part of its advertising program. Fred Gardner & Co., N. Y., advertising agency, indicates initial broadcast push (budget as yet undetermined) will take place in New England and Mid-Atlantic states and then go national next year.

OVER HALF FOR TV • Northam-Warren Co. (Cutex, O-Do-Ro-No), Stamford, Conn., reportedly considering tossing excess of 50% of yearly advertising budget into television. Just arrived at Doyle Dane Bernbach from J. M. Mathes, N-W is expected to approve agency recommendations. It's already stamped okay on radio test run for newly-refurbished deodorant package headed for markets.

GETS SET FOR '59 • American Dairy Assn. has allocated $4.8 million to consumer media, including radio-tv, for 1959 out of $5.38 million advertising-promotion budget. Bulk of ad budget goes to network tv (Perry Como on NBC-TV) with some to NBC Radio participating programs in special drives during next July, August and November. Consumer advertising budget in 1958 totals $5.1 million. Agency: Campbell-Mithun, Minneapolis.

TIME FOR DESSERT • Penick & Ford Ltd. (My-T-Fine desserts), N. Y., understood to be launching six-week spot tv campaign in about 25 markets in early October, using daytime minutes. Advertiser currently engaged in spot radio campaign in New England and New York state for its new Chiffon dessert, with coverage to be expanded as distribution increases. Agency: BBDO, N. Y.

BACKING NETWORK DRIVE • American Home Products (Chef Boyardee Italian foods), turning to spot radio-tv to supplement network campaign in markets where it cannot get clearances. Starting Oct. 1, Young & Rubicam places 13-week campaign in 12 tv, four radio markets, using daytime minutes. Boyardee is in ABC-TV's Operation Daybreak, CBS Radio's Young Dr. Malone and Ma Perkins daytime serials.

HITTING HARDER • E. F. Drew & Co., N. Y., hyping its Ohio and New England tv spot saturation campaign for Tri-Nut margarine with ID's. Now blanketing markets with minutes and 20's, ID's will step up barrage starting shortly. Donahue & Co., N. Y., is agency.

ABC Opposes, Meredith Backs FCC Proposal for Strike Bids

Final comments filed at Friday deadline on FCC proposal to change rules to discourage mergers, "pay-offs" and "strike applications" were divergent in nature and type of pleadings.

Among those filed, ABC said Commission approach is "unwarranted and unsound," although FCC policies in past may have been too lenient. Network said prior mergers in many instances have been in public interest, helping to speed additional tv service. Other means are available to curb misuse of FCC processes which will not destroy good with bad, ABC said.

Filing joint comments, very similar to those of ABC, were KTAG Assoc. (applicant for ch. 3 Lake Charles, La.), ch. 20 WJMR-TV New Orleans (applicant for ch. 12 there), Tampa Telecasters Inc. (seeking ch. 10 Largo, Fla.), Telecasting Inc. and WJBP-TV Inc. (both applicants for ch. 5 Weston, W. Va.), Tv Broadcasters Inc. (seeking ch. 12 Beaumont, Tex.) and Tele-News Co., applicant for ch. 8 Moline, Ill.

Meredith stations and Washington attorneys Harry J. Daley and Lenore G. Ehrig filed comments in "complete agreement" with stand of Federal Communications Bar Assn. [GOVERNMENT, Sept. 22].

Uhf WVEC-TV Hampton, Va., took no position on proposed change but said if rule's amended, it should not be made retroactive. WVEC-TV, applicant for ch. 13 Norfolk, already has merged with others seeking same facility. An am grantee in Anaheim, Calif., Radio Orange County Inc., took a similar position to that of WVEC-TV. Radio Orange sold stock to one

Congressional Inquiries Blasted By FTC's Gwynne at Bar Meeting

FTC Chairman John W. Gwynne, in presence of Legislative Oversight Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.), Friday fired a scathing attack on congressional investigations. Addressing Federal Bar Assn. convention in Washington, Comr. Gwynne charged such inquiries often:

- Fail to give cases objective and impartial hearings.
- Permit "slander by irresponsible witnesses, through hearsay or other inadmissible testimony."
- Do not make use of "the greatest engine ever invented for the discovery of truth"—the right of cross-examination.
- Characterize opinions by "lurid and unfounded statements more useful for headlines than for establishing truth."

Comr. Gwynne said failure of congressional investigating committees to recognize the above principles "makes it difficult for an agency on trial to get its side of the story to the Congress and the public. . . . Deference to Congress and its purpose preclude competition in press releases and statements designed to make headlines. As a consequence, the press does not always receive a fairly balanced presentation of the facts."

He charged that instead of general, overall investigation, the question now seems to be: "Is the agency enforcing the law as some committee member or staff personnel think it should be enforced?"

"There seems to be," he said, "a growing tendency to look upon the commission as simply a creature of Congress to support the views of certain committees. This will eventually destroy the confidence of the people in the agency. . . . This is having some bad results. These committees tend to become rallying points for disgruntled litigants. . . ."

Comr. Gwynne's FTC was blistered in summer investigation by both Rep. Harris' committee and House Government Operations subcommittee. Asked, following his address, if he was referring to Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, Comr. Gwynne replied: "If the shoe fits."

Rep. Harris immediately preceded Comr. Gwynne in speaker's rostrum. Speaking of ex parte contacts, he said "it is difficult if not impossible to distinguish at certain stages between permissible status inquiries and improper ex parte contacts." Citing recommendations in subcommittee interim report, he reiterated stand that all contacts should be made part of public record.

"Remove the veil of secrecy, and ex parte contacts may never be attempted," he said, "and if attempted could probably do more harm than good to the party in whose interest the contact is made."

Answering questions from panel members after Comr. Gwynne had spoken, congressmen defended his subcommittee and right of Congress to investigate. He said this was only corrective course open to public. "Who is it that can better find out in the interests of the people than Congress itself?" he asked.

Oversight subcommittee has conducted fair investigation, and has not sought to take unfair advantage of anyone, he said.

Robert W. Lishman, chief counsel of Harris subcommittee, was part of Friday panel on proposed codes of ethics at same convention. Before any code is adopted, Mr. Lishman recommended, study should be made by specially authorized commission.

Kendrick Buys Rest of WHGB

Agreement by Herbert Kendrick, president-general manager and 50% owner of WHGB Harrisburg, Pa., to buy remaining 50% of station from Triangle Publications for $75,000 has been reached between two parties and will be filed at FCC in about two weeks. Triangle (Walter H. Annenberg and family) also owns WFIL-AM-FM-TV Philadelphia, WFBG-AM-TV Altoona and WLBR-TV Lebanon, Pa.; WNBC-AM-FM-TV Binghamton, N. Y., and WNHC-AM-FM-TV New Haven, Conn. WHGB is ABC affiliate, 250 w on 1400 kc.

Toledo Ch. 11 Grant Stands

FCC Friday announced it had denied petition for stay of July 23 grant of Toledo ch. 11 to Community Broadcasting Co. (WTOL), asked by losing applicant Anthony Wayne Television Corp. One of reasons stay was asked was Toledo newspaper story implying WTOL has begun construction before final grant was issued [GOVERNMENT, Sept. 1]. Commission said this is inadequate for issuance of stay as "such stories . . . are of undetermined accuracy [and] considerable ambiguity. . . ." In opposition to stay request, WTOL furnished affidavit of Frazier Reams denying news reports of prior construction.

'CHANGED' HIS BRAND

Though his office said Edward R. Murrow "didn't say anything about it," CBS-TV star of Person to Person couldn't be too happy about newspaper tune-in advertisements taken Friday by P. Lorillard Co., alternate-week sponsor of weekly interview programs. Reason: ad shows Mr. Murrow smoking a cigarette—not any old cigarette but doctored-in Kent filter. Inveterate Camel-smoker Murrow recently said he would not switch brands since it's his firm policy not to personally promote sponsors' products.

PEOPLE

CHARLES F. ADAMS, vice president, Cadillac account supervisor and executive assistant to president, MacManus, John & Adams, Friday made executive vice president. He succeeds JOHN R. MacMANUS, who who becomes senior vice president.

SAM SEROTA resigned Friday as director of public relations and special events at WIP Philadelphia. His future plans were not announced.

KATHERINE (KIT) FOX SHOUSE, 45, died Friday at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, following surgery for cerebral hemorrhage suffered earlier in week. She married James D. Shouse, chairman of Crosley Broadcasting Corp. two years ago, and for nearly two decades had been identified with Crosley, latterly with public service programming.

DALE N. HARRIS, Morey, Humm & Warwick, N. Y., account executive, elected to vice president.

EDWARD J. CARNEY, with RCA electron tube division since October 1957, to manager, advertising and sales promotion—semiconductors and components.

GEORGE G. GALLANTZ, Paramount Pictures executive and attorney, resigns to enter private practice of theatrical law. Mr. Gallantz was resident New York counsel for three Paramount subsidiaries on West Coast: Paramount Sunset Studios; KTLA (TV) Los Angeles and International Telemeter Corp., as well as director & officers of both KTLA and Sunset Studios.

HENRY ABT, president of Brand Names Foundation, N. Y., named to board of directors of Advertising Federation of America.

ALBERT FELDMAN, formerly with NBC-TV public affairs department, to Ile-De-France International Inc., N. Y., as associate producer of NBC-TV's Brains & Brawn.

PAUL MURRAY, formerly with Gill-Perna and The Meeker Co., station representative firms, to McGavren-Quinn Corp., N. Y., as account executive.

DONALD H. HANGEN, with GE since 1957, to district sales manager in Cincinnati for General Electric tubes and components.

Crosley Asks Mandate Delay

Request that federal appeals court in Washington stay issuance of mandate denying request for rehearing was filed Friday by Crosley Broadcasting Corp. in ch. 13 Indianapolis case (see early story page 62). Crosley told court it planned to ask U. S. Supreme Court to review case. Mandate will be held in abeyance for 30 days if Crosley request is granted. Meanwhile, WIBC Indianapolis, which had appealed Indianapolis grant to Crosley, filed second petition with FCC requesting establishment of joint trusteeship to run WLWI (TV) Indianapolis. WIBC filed first such request last June when court initially remanded case to FCC on question of Comr. T. A. M. Craven's participation in final decision.

BOB HOPE BUICK SHOW

For Bob Hope fans the 1958-59 tv season got underway at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 19 when the first Bob Hope Buick Show was telecast on NBC-TV. That the show was a musical comedy in place of the usual variety program didn't matter; what was important was that Bob Hope was back on the air in top wise-cracking form. He was and all was right with the world.

The Bob Hope Buick opener was "Roberta," Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach musical whose original Broadway cast of 1933 included Bob Hope as "Huck Haines," leader of an American jazz band stranded in Paris. In the tv version Mr. Hope again portrayed the same role, updated to include such topical gags as "Is this Trujillo's rum-pus room?" and expanded to let him emcee a fashion show of gorgeous gowns on gorgeous girls (terrific in color and easy viewing even in black-and-white) and to sing—and translate—"Volare."

Anna Maria Alberghetti was "Lovely to Look At" and delightful to hear as the designer-princess heroine, although her high, pure soprano voice seemed ill-fitted to "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," traditionally sung in a throaty contralto. Howard Keel was big, handsome and baritone as the football player hero. Janis Paige, as the impishly sexy "Sharwenka," added an exuberantly bouncy and graceful note to proceedings, particularly in "I Won't Dance."

But, from start to finish, it was Mr. Hope's show and only a carping critic would complain with the fact that on camera, as in title, Robert made up most of Roberta.

Production costs: Estimated $400,000.

Sponsored by Buick Div., General Motors Corp., through McCann-Erickson, on NBC-TV in color and black-and-white, Sept. 19, 7:30-9 p.m.

Star: Bob Hope; guest stars: Howard Keel, Anna Maria Alberghetti, Janis Paige.

Executive producer: Bob Hope; producer: Jack Hope; stage director: Ed Greenberg; assoc. producer: Kent McCray; tv director: Dick McDonough; tv adaptation of Otto Harbach's theatrical adaptation of Alice Duer Miller's novel: Mort Lachman, Bill Larkin, Lester White, John Rapp, Charles Lee, Norman Sullivan.

HARVEY

Television can be beautiful. Art Carney acquainted us with that summer-furloughed phenomenon last Monday (Sept. 22) via his delicious performance in "Harvey," DuPont's initial 1958-59 Show of the Month.

Adapted by Jacqueline Babbin and Audrey Gellen and produced by David Susskind's Talent Assoc., Mary Chase's 1945 Pulitzer Prize play made the transition to tv with impunity to say the least. Art Carney was Elwood P. Dowd and Elwood P. Dowd was Art Carney and all six-feet-one-and-one-half inches of that well known giant of imaginary rabbinhood, Harvey, filled the nation's 21-inch screens.

Never was Elwood a more gentle, amiable imbibor. Never was his relationship with that unpredictable creature of his fancy a greater source of riotous chaos to those associates of Elwood (who remains calm and contented through it all) so determined to rid him of his beloved companion. Headed by the indefatigable Marion Lorne as Elwood's charmingly scatter-brained, elderly sister, the supporting cast turned in a first-rate job.

Furthermore, the extraordinary challenge of keeping a camera-eye on an invisible character was most effectively met. If any viewer actually had doubts as to Harvey's existence, the camera-work must have dispelled them.

When the play drew to a close with Elwood and Harvey jauntily striding off, arms about each other's shoulders, who among the audience was not only thoroughly entertained but provided with something to think about in terms of his own values?

The summer is dead. Long live television.

Production costs: Approximately $175,000.

Series of live 90-minute specials sponsored by DuPont on CBS-TV through BBDO.

Season's opener: Monday Sept. 22, 9:30-11 p.m. EDT.

Author: Mary Chase; adaptation: Jacqueline Babbin and Audrey Gellen; producer: Talent Assoc.; director: George Schafer.

PETER GUNN

That favorite character of detective fiction, the young, handsome, debonair private eye, ready to risk his license and his neck for a fee or a friend, always with a suave cynicism, has another colleague on tv. He's Peter Gunn, hero of the new NBC-TV series of that name, portrayed with full measure of devil-may-care debonairness by Craig Stevens, who looks the part as well as he plays it.

The first of the Peter Gunn series, telecast Sept. 22, opens with an attention-riveting sequence in which a limousine is pursued and sirened to the curb by a police car whose uniformed occupants cold-bloodedly empty their revolvers into the limousine's passengers. In tracking down the killers and their employer, Peter Gunn tenderly eludes the sentimental advances of a young singer at his favorite night club, "Mother's"; rashly attempts to intercede for Mother with the head of the gang that is shaking her down; brusquely tosses a pair of hoodlums down a flight of stairs; masterfully forces the boss' henchman to force the boss into self-incriminating action and blithely wards off all attempts by the law to find out what he's up to.

As the love-struck night club thrush, Lola Albright is sweet, young and beautiful as well as tuneful. The club's owner, played by Hope Emerson, is appropriately hard and worldly-wise. Herschel Bernardi, as Lt. Jacobi of the police force, gives the role the feeling of dogged determination that is traditional for such parts. This trio will continue through the series as foils for the insouciant Mr. Gunn. Outstanding among the assorted characters of the initial program was Jack Weston as the terrified hoodlum whom Peter Gunn forces to defy the boss to save his life.

pinch of sophisticated humor seems to be the formula adopted for Peter Gunn by its creator, Blake Edwards, who wrote, produced and directed the series opener. A major asset of the program is its background music, composed and conducted in the best jazz tradition by Henry Mancini, who uses his music to build the mood, emphasize the action or, on occasion, add a critical comment on what's going on in the drama.

Production costs: Approximately $40,000. Sponsored by Bristol-Myers Co. through Doherty, Clifford, Steers & Shenfield on NBC-TV, Mon., 9-9:30 p.m. Started Sept. 22.

Produced by Sparton Productions at Universal-International Studios in Hollywood; executive producer: Gordon Oliver; producer, director, writer: Blake Edwards.

SAMMY KAYE

It's a nostalgic half-hour these 10 p.m. Saturdays on ABC-TV. In the Manhattan shirt department there's molecular memory, and in the music department there's the old swing-and-sway, sounding the same way it did all those years ago. It's reassuring in a world where atoms grow hotter and music grows cooler that Sammy Kaye should go on unchanged. He's even hung onto his "old and dusty, faded manuscripts." The show even looks as it used to sound on the radio.

They've given the Kaye ensemble a decent production and the musicians all turn in reliable performances—whether it's a hot and authentic-sounding Hawaiian War Chant, or something to soothe the week's jangled nerves. It's a nice Saturday-night-type sound but too short-lived.

Production costs: Approximately $55,000. Sponsored by Manhattan Shirt Co. through Peck Adv. on ABC-TV Saturday, 10-10:30 EDT p.m. Started Sept. 20.

Starring Sammy Kaye and his orchestra and featuring Johnny Amoruso, Lynn Roberts, Ray Michaels, Susan Silo, Hank Kanui and the Kaydets.

COUNTY FAIR

County Fair, which NBC-TV premiered Sept. 22, as a title is too broad for this weekday afternoon frolic for housewives who are biding their time until hubby gets home from work. Bert Parks stars in this half-hour county fair sideshow. He apparently has his orders to attract the attention of midway strollers who are intent on getting to more exciting fair adventures, or even to household tasks. The Sept. 23 performance hardly delayed any dinner preparations.

Mr. Parks works nobly to hold his audience around him in the center ring with "fun, music and games." Primarily, the show emphasizes studio audience-participation. Barker-announcer Ken Williams intro-

On movin' pelves - and pizza

Nobody around WOOD-TV is stupid enough to recommend that old jazz of trying to sell refrigerators to Eskimos.

So — when our esteemed client, the Pizza Palace, declared a willingness to pop for a schedule, local salesman Dave McConnaughey pitched the one WOOD-TV show that is frankly Rock 'N' Roll — O'Hara's BOP HOP on Saturday afternoon.

The result was a sellout of all pizzas before the dinner hour had passed — not once, but twice! Other advertisers like Seven-Up, original and major sponsor; Seyfert's (Potato Chips); Eckrich (Hot Dogs); Leonard Distributing (Record Players); are also happy as gold bugs on the mother lode.

To these clients who have bought BOP HOP, cash register results are a lot more impressive than the show's top ARB rating.

For some products, teenagers are all-important — and WOOD-TV has the show and the personality to reach them. If you want to emulate the Pizza Palace, consider O'Hara's selling ability on BOP HOP the next time Katz advises there is an availability.

“Be Sociable...”

“Be sociable, have a Pepsi.” That theme earmarks one of the important advertising campaigns of broadcast history: Pepsi-Cola’s current 14-week drive on all four radio networks at once. Pepsi tapped network radio for this promotion to reach and register with a total population. (Campaign magnitude: an estimated half-billion impressions.) As the company said, “...no other medium offers the speed, penetration, saturation and continuity; nor can any other medium reach so many people at a comparable cost per thousand impressions.” So whether you need all four networks or one (we know one)—have network radio, and be sociable. duced the star of the show, who immediately led off with the first of an array of stunts, all of which suffered from lack of time for adequate completion. Either shorter stunts should be arranged or a few commercials omitted.

When ringmaster Mr. Parks detects signs of restlessness in his audience he comes up with another crowd-pleaser—the "celebrity corner." The guest Sept. 23 was Jonathan Winters who was introduced, naturally, through a stunt. The audience had been given numbers upon entering the studio. Mr. Parks called number 134 for a prize. Turned out everyone had that number except Mr. Winters who was seated in the audience without a number. Thus setting the stage for conversation, Jack Paar's popular Tonight substitute entered the circle to tell fair-type anecdotes.

The only prize NBC-TV's County Fair can shoot for in this season of all-sized fairs is a possible ribbon for a "game try." Production costs: Approximately $27,000 a week.

JIMMY DEAN SHOW

In spite of a Brooks Brothers suit, in spite of a New York City locale, in spite of city-folk guest stars, Jimmy Dean remains a country boy. An attempt has been made to sophisticate the Texas-born singer on his daily CBS-TV show, but the Madison Avenue make-up is only skin deep.

On the Sept. 23 show of the afternoon series, Jimmy was as affable and easy-going as if he were back in Washington, D. C., emceeing Town & Country Jamboree. He didn't have his guitar, but when he stretched out on an hammock to sing (sort of) "It's My Lazy Day," Percy Kilbride couldn't have been more folksy.

His "Girl of the Week" this last week was Gretchen Wyler, a talented dancer and personality, who presented a vivid contrast to Jimmy. But he worked well with her, not all non-plussed by the more mercurial Gretchen. Judging from this past Tuesday's easy performance, Jimmy can go on talking about his mother, his wife and Texas, and singing popular songs and hymns for the next 30 or 40 years. And he's got a message too: "Love Thy Neighbor." It's an old line from the Bible, but when he says it, he sounds as though he means it.

Production costs: Approximately $35,000 weekly.

Sponsored by Lever Bros. (Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles); Gerber Baby Foods (D'Arcy Adv); Libby, McNeill & Libby (J. Walter Thompson); Eastman Kodak (JWT), Johnson & Johnson (Y&R) and Miles Labs (Geoffrey Wade Adv Chicago) on CBS-TV (Mon.-Fri., 2-2:30 p.m.). Started Sept. 15.

Daytime is always playtime in Florida

The fact was well publicized last winter that Florida didn't play her usual stellar role of the warm, tropical temptress. We join with the critics in declaring it her worst performance in that role during the last 47 seasons.

Yet, even so, there were many qualities Florida afforded the vacationist which, in fairness, should not go unmentioned.

It is true that Florida's typically balmy tropical evenings were missing. But, her sun-time temperatures in the most popular resort centers provided ample comfort for out-of-door fun and vacation enjoyment.

A LOOK AT THE RECORD

For example, at five south Florida cities, Weather Bureau records show the daily range of December, January, February temperatures averaged a 54.1° low and a 69.6° high. This average range did not come up to usual June-like weather prevailing here in normal winter seasons. Particularly under par were the minimum readings which, on too many occasions, got uncomfortably close to freezing. But these lows occurred at nighttime when most tourists are warmly tucked into bed.

Practically every afternoon was ideal for golf, for tennis, for fishing, for seeing the sights, or visiting the race tracks.

As a matter of fact, there were swim-suited people out on the beaches sun-tanning, four days out of five throughout the winter. Surf temperatures, higher than air temperatures, were comfortable for bathing.

This may seem curious, even incredible, to those who have not experienced the power of subtropical sunshine. That's why we say again—regardless of nighttime lows, daytime is always playtime in Florida.

I have always admired Joseph Katz as a business acquaintance and now my admiration for him soars even higher as I read his MONDAY MEMO in your Sept. 15 issue.

I have always felt the same as Mr. Katz regarding the phrasing and delivery of commercials. It flatters my ego no end to know that a man of his calibre has thoughts running in the same channel as mine regarding this particular phase of the business.

EDITOR:

The Christian Radio Mission is attempting to establish a radio station in Pusan, Korea. We are interested in producing educational, cultural and religious programs designed for the people of South Korea.

But we have a problem. We do not have funds to purchase a transmitter as quickly as we need to take advantage of the opportunity of broadcasting. Perhaps some station that has a used one could see its way clear to contribute it to this program. The U. S. government authorizes contributions made to this work to be deductible from income tax.

Rebuttal

EDITOR:

With reference to the letter "Matter of Deduction" from Mr. Heckman, news director of WIBC Indianapolis [OPEN MIKE, Sept. 8], and WFIL's coverage of the Teal slaying: These are the facts we reported.

Shortly after Teal's murder was flashed on the wire, I spoke with a detective sergeant of the Indianapolis police force. We were on the air via beep phone, and he said on the air (and on tape) that "a love angle" was involved in the slaying. Our listeners heard this some 16 to 18 hours before wire service reports confirmed it. A transcript of the tape is available.

These are the facts. We stand by them. In sending the story to BROADCASTING we attempted to show, once again, the many ways a news story can be gathered together by radio. No reflection on WIBC intended.

OUR RESPECTS

to Richard Alden Ray Pickham

SEVEN YEARS AGO, when Dick Pinkham was manager of network planning at NBC-TV, Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver had occasion—one bad day—to refer to his protegee as “Frank Failure.” An ardent disciple of playwright Richard Brinsley Sheridan, Mr. Weaver not long after had cause to change his mind. Under the management of Mr. Pinkham—by then elevated to executive producer of Today, Home, and Tonight—NBC had tapped a new lode of advertiser revenue. Mr. Weaver waxed ecstatic, renamed him “Tom Triumph.”

The two had first met in 1940 when Mr. Pinkham was the Half & Half smoking tobacco account man at Lord & Thomas (now Foote, Cone & Belding) and Mr. Weaver the advertising manager of American Tobacco Co. After a long working relationship with Mr. Weaver (interrupted by a military interlude that saw naval officer Pinkham end the war as c. o. of a four-stacked World War I-vintage destroyer), Mr. Pinkham has grounds to “plead special prejudice” for networking.

As vice president of tv-radio at Ted Bates & Co. since spring 1957, Mr. Pinkham has been subtly reshaping the image of Bates as “a spot agency.” Case in point: Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co., which last year spent most of its broadcast allocations ($9 million) in spot, now has $10 million tied up in network commitments (The Texan, Naked City, Wanted: Dead or Alive and The Wednesday Night Fights) in addition to a $5 million spot budget.

This kind of fervor is all the more significant when one considers that Dick Pinkham is relatively new to broadcasting, having begun in opposition media.

BORN April 11, 1914, in New York City, he is a product of Choate ('32) and Yale U. ('36). After Yale, Dick Pinkham did the “proper thing”: He joined fellow Yaleman Henry R. Luce's Time. Beginning as a cub copywriter, he quit in 1938 to join a friend in an ill-fated two-man agency venture, afterwards set out to correct his credentials by “putting in exactly 366 days behind the other side of the counter” at James McCreery & Co. as the youngest (25) advertising manager in New York department store history. From there it was just a few city blocks to L&T—and Pat Weaver. In June 1941—a month or two after his marriage to the former Mary Struthers—naval reservist Pinkham was called to active duty.

After discharge, he considered three career possibilities. “I didn't want to dedicate my life to selling tobacco,” he says, and this left him a choice of politics, teaching or journalism. The latter paid best of the three. After receiving “three equally appealing” offers from The New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, and Time Inc., Mr. Pinkham joined the Trib as a general business executive, two years later moved up to circulation manager and in 1948 became a member of the board of directors. As the Trib's advertising revenue dropped and television's shot up, Mr. Pinkham didn't need to interpret the handwriting on the wall. He talked to his mentor, then vice president of NBC-TV, and asked him for some introductions at various agencies.

Mr. Weaver refused point-blank, instead offered him an executive assistantship. Mr. Pinkham quit the Trib to become, it was later put, “a dangling executive.” Management consultants, sniffing about for deadwood, paused ominously before his office; Mr. Weaver promptly assigned Pinkham to executive producer of Today.

There Mr. Pinkham, joined by Mort Werner (another “Weaver boy,” now television head of Kaiser Industries Inc.) and Matthew J. Culligan (now NBC Radio executive vice president) manfully tried to make NBC's cash registers jingle. But it wasn't until—as Mr. Pinkham puts it—“I saw $20 million worth of revenue sitting in the NBC casting office waiting room” that Today became tomorrow.

What he actually saw that day across the hall from his office was a monkey named J. Fred Muggs. “That ape,” he recalls, “shot our ratings through the roof,” and changed Frank Failure to Tom Triumph. Mr. Weaver thereupon made Pinkham chief architect on Home; in the autumn of 1954, he became the darling of the somnambulists and of Steve Allen, whom Tonight catapulted out of near-obscurety.

For his efforts, Mr. Pinkham was rewarded with the participating programs vice presidency. In February 1956 he was named programming vice president—a job Mr. Pinkham now describes as an “absolute rock crusher.” There were no hours, he says, “just crises . . . you couldn't get away from it.”

But he did, circuitously. Returning from Europe that Sept. 10, he was told his boss was “out”—permanently. Two months later Mr. Pinkham was named vice president of advertising. The next spring he quit to join Bates as radio-tv director.

Whenever anyone asks why he threw up his career at NBC, he'll point to a gallery of photos lining his office wall. They're of his youngsters—Penny, 15; Dickie, 13; David, 11, and Elizabeth, 8. Then, too, there's “the little matter of leisure.” An avid yachtsman and golf and tennis player, he holds a “flush deck of membership cards” at Rye's Apawamis. Manurs'n; and American Yacht clubs.

The Goose and the Golden Eggs

(Aesop updated)

A certain man had a Goose which laid him a golden egg every day. But being a greedy man he was dissatisfied with just one golden egg a day, and thinking to seize the whole treasure at once, he killed the Goose, and cutting her open found her—just what any other Goose would be! Much wants more and loses all.

So it is with many people—not content with concentrating on the one radio station in a market that delivers the golden egg on a silver platter, they kill their own goose!

NEW TWIST TO FCC CASES: INDICTMENT

- Mack accused of selling his vote in Miami ch. 10 television grant
- Justice Dept., Congress committee at work on other disputed cases

One disputed FCC television case led to a criminal indictment last week and at least one other was under grand jury investigation.

A federal grand jury in Washington indicted former FCC Comr. Richard A. Mack and his longtime friend, Thurman Whiteside, on charges that Mr. Mack sold his vote in the Miami ch. 10 case.

The same jury has been hearing evidence in other television cases, including the grant of ch. 4 Pittsburgh. That case came under Congressional investigation as well last week (see below).

The jury was sworn in last Jan. 7. Its term is 18 months.

It returned its indictment last Thursday, two days after Mr. Whiteside had appeared as a witness in an FCC re-hearing of the Miami ch. 10 case (see page 60).

If convicted of the charges, Messrs. Mack and Whiteside face maximum fines of $15,000 and up to 10-year jail terms.

Washington Justice Dept. officials said last week that arraignment of both men would probably take place Friday, Oct. 3, before a federal district judge in Washington. Neither of the men would be arrested, it was explained; they both would make arrangements to appear through their lawyers.

Bail was expected to be nominal, it was understood. This might run between $1,000 and $1,500.

In Florida, Mr. Mack was reported terming the grand jury's action as "ridiculous." He was said to have added: "I haven't seen the papers yet and feel I shouldn't provide any more comment. I haven't been worried about it all along. The whole thing just makes me feel a little sad."

Mr. Whiteside was reported as commenting: "I am not responsible for results of Washington politics. At any trial my complete innocence will be proven."

Informed of the grand jury's indictment, Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Oversight committee—before whom the ch. 10 scandal was first made public—commented: "It was not unexpected." Mr. Harris also stated that the committee would hold in abeyance "for a reasonable time" further investigation of the Pittsburgh ch. 4 case to allow the grand jury time to act (see separate story, page 29).

It was the opinion of some observers that a trial is probably a year or more away. It was understood that under normal procedures, motions for dismissals are first argued, after which other motions regarding elements of the indictment are heard—all before the actual trial gets underway.

The Dept. of Justice entered the Miami ch. 10 case in February of this year when Attorney General William P. Rogers ordered the FBI to investigate the allegations made during the House committee's probe.

The Attorney General then ordered the Justice Dept.'s criminal division to present the case to the 1958 grand jury.

crat, was appointed to the FCC by President Eisenhower July 8, 1955. He succeeded former Comr. Frieda B. Hennock. Mr. Mack resigned March 3 under fire of the House committee investigation. He is now living in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mr. Mack was appointed to the Florida Railroad & Public Utilities Commission in 1947. He was later elected to the same post.

The Miami ch. 10 hearings—with four applicants vying for the vhf outlet—took place in 1954. A hearing examiner's initial decision favoring WKAT Inc. (WKAT Miami-A. Frank Katzentine) was issued March 30, 1955. Oral argument was heard by the FCC en banc on July 18, 1955, and a final decision favoring National Airlines was issued Feb. 7, 1958. Other applicants are North Dade Video Inc. and L. B. Wilson Inc.

Because of the allegations of improprieties, the FCC asked the U. S. Court of Appeals to return the case for further hearing. This was done, and the new hearings—on issues of disqualification and improprieties—began Sept. 8 before Judge Horace Stern, retired chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

For the latest developments in the ch. 10 hearing before Judge Stern, see page 60.

THE GRAND JURY'S CHARGES

The grand jury indictment charges that Mr. Mack and Mr. Whiteside conspired by engaging "corruptly to influence, obstruct and impede . . . the due and proper administration of the law" and "to defraud the U. S." by interfering with the business and affairs of the FCC, which should be "free from self-interest, bias and improper influence."

Both the conspiracy and the fraud were related to the proceedings involving the grant of ch. 10 in Miami, the indictment read.

The indictment stated that Mr. Whiteside promised George T. Baker, president of National Airlines and of its subsidiary, Public Service Television Inc., that he would do what he could to help obtain the ch. 10 permit for the airlines' company.

[Mr. Whiteside has maintained, both before the House Legislative Oversight Committee and just last week in the FCC rehearing before Judge Horace Stern, that he acted only to help his friend, Judge Robert H. Anderson, then a member of the Miami law firm which represented National Airlines.]

The grand jury charged that Mr. Mack listened to the "private arguments and personal pleas and financial inducements" of Mr. Whiteside in behalf of Public Service Television without notice to other members of the FCC or other parties in the comparative hearing. The indictment also charged that Mr. Mack privately pledged his vote in favor of Public Service Television "without regard to the merits of the [other] applications because of personal friendship with the said Thurman A. Whiteside and his personal and pecuniary interest in the success of the application of Public Service Television Inc. . . ."

Mr. Mack was rewarded in this manner, according to the grand jury:

That when the permit for ch. 10 was awarded to Public Service Television, that company would place its insurance with Stembler-Shelden Insurance Agency Inc.; that Mr. Whiteside would direct that part of his ownership in that agency be transferred to William Y. Stembler, "purportedly as trustee for the defendant Richard A. Mack . . ."; that Mr. Whiteside would direct the insurance company to give certain sums of money to Mr. Mack "as though actually earned by the defendant Richard A. Mack for services rendered the Stembler-Shelden Insurance Agency Inc. when in truth and in fact said sums of money would not be so earned . . ."; that Mr. Whiteside would transfer without consideration the capital stock of Andar Inc. to Mr. Mack; that Mr. Whiteside would direct the Stembler-Shelden agency to issue checks payable to Andar Inc. and that Mr. Whiteside would then direct Andar Inc. to issue checks to Mr. Mack.

The indictment charged that Mr. Mack would conceal the source of the Stembler-Shelden checks by converting all or portion of them into cashiers or treasurers checks and depositing these sums in his own bank accounts.

One charge was that Mr. Whiteside obtained a loan for Mr. Mack from a bank in which Mr. Whiteside was a director and stockholder and that Mr. Whiteside repaid the loan himself.

The indictment listed 32 "overt" acts by both Mr. Mack and Mr. Whiteside in the "furtherance of said conspiracy . . ." These took place between Sept. 6, 1955, and Nov.

THE PROSECUTORS

The grand jury indictment last week of former Comr. Richard A. Mack and his long-time friend, Miami lawyer Thurman A. Whiteside, is the work of a three-man Dept. of Justice team which has had the case since early this year when Attorney General William P. Rogers ordered the FBI to conduct an investigation of the allegations concerning the award of ch. 10 Miami to National Airlines.

The leader of the trio is Robert J. Rosthal, a dark-haired, slender 42-year-old New Yorker who is head of the government operations unit of the Criminal Div. of the Justice Dept. Mr. Rosthal served for 5½ years as chief of the compliance division of the Office of Price Administration before joining the Justice Dept. He worked on the grand jury inquiry into the Federal Housing scandals in 1954-56. Assisting Mr. Rosthal was James J. Sullivan, 62, a Boston native, who served in the U. S. Attorney's office in Boston and in the Alien Property Office in New York before coming to Washington in 1950. He was active in the Humble Oil Co. case in 1951 and in the Boston Elevated Railroad case earlier. The third Justice Dept. lawyer was Californian William J. Clancy, 32, a World War II and Korean War veteran, who has been with the Dept. of Justice for a year.

4, 1957. The amounts listed add up to $11,360, and were:

- $3,000 issued by Stembler-Shelden company to Mr. Mack on or about Sept. 6, 1955.

- $1,000 issued by Stembler-Shelden company to Mr. Mack on or about Oct. 12, 1955.

- $200 issued by Mr. Whiteside on the account of Yonge & Whiteside (Mr. Whiteside's law firm) to Mr. Mack on or about Jan. 27, 1956.

- $750 issued by Stembler-Shelden company to Mr. Mack on or about March 6, 1956.

- $750 issued by Mr. Whiteside on the account of Kays Realty Corp. to Mr. Mack on or about April 11, 1956.

- $700 issued by Mr. Whiteside to Mr. Mack on or about June 13, 1956.

- $350 issued by Mr. Whiteside to Mr. Mack on or about Sept. 5, 1956.

- $400 issued by Stembler-Shelden agency to Mr. Whiteside which Mr. Whiteside endorsed to Mr. Mack on or about Nov. 14, 1956.

- $300 issued by Mr. Whiteside on his trust account to Mr. Mack on or about Jan. 7, 1957.

- $200 issued by Mr. Whiteside on his trust account to Mr. Mack on or about March 1, 1957.

- $1,000 issued by Mr. Whiteside to Mr. Mack on or about April 1, 1957.

- $600 issued by Mr. Whiteside to Mr. Mack on or about June 17, 1957.

- $1,600 issued by Andar Inc. at the direction of Mr. Whiteside to Mr. Mack on or about Sept. 10, 1957.

- $510 issued by Andar Inc. at the direction of Mr. Whiteside to Mr. Mack on or about Sept. 28, 1957.

The second count of the indictment charged that Mr. Whiteside "did corruptly influence and corruptly endeavor to influence the said Richard A. Mack to vote in favor of awarding to Public Service Television a permit to construct a new commercial television station in Miami, Fla., and, upon completion of such construction a license to operate such station on ch. 10 in the Miami, Fla., area, by privately approaching said Richard A. Mack and exerting personal influence upon said Richard A. Mack and making private arguments, personal pleas and offers of financial inducements to said Richard A. Mack, and by giving, directly and indirectly, sums of money and other things of value to the said Richard A. Mack. . . ."

The third count charged that Mr. Mack "in consideration of sums of money and other things of value given to him directly and indirectly by Thurman A. Whiteside, did corruptly take official action and vote in favor of Public Service Television Inc., in matters pertaining to the award of a permit for the construction of a new commercial television station to operate on ch. 10 in the Miami, Fla., area. . . ."

The indictment charged violations of Secs. 317 and 1505 of Title 18, U. S. Code. Sec. 317 deals with conspiracy to defraud the U. S., while Sec. 1505 refers to attempts to corruptly influence the administration of U. S. laws.

THE EVENTS THAT TURNED THINGS BLACK FOR MACK

The Richard Mack-Thurman Whiteside saga was first publicized officially last Feb. 13 — three days after accuser Bernard Schwartz had been fired as chief counsel of the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee.

Dr. Schwartz, placed under subpoena by his former employers, was put on the witness stand to tell what his investigators had learned in their investigation of the Miami ch. 10 grant to National Airlines. While under oath, he charged that then Comr. Mack sold his ch. 10 vote to attorney Whiteside for $2,650.

Counsel Schwartz produced seven canceled checks—six written since July 1955 when Comr. Mack joined the FCC—which he said proved his point. Not so, claimed Messrs. Mack and Whiteside. The checks constituted loans made by one friend to another, they both maintained.

After Dr. Schwartz aired his charges, there followed six weeks of subcommittee hearings during which a tale of ex parte contacts and pressures against commissioners unfolded. Many top names of Washington officialdom, including several senators, former commissioners and influence peddlers played a prominent role in testimony of witnesses.

The same week the subcommittee hearings began, Attorney General William Rogers ordered an FBI-grand jury investigation on the strength of the Schwartz charges.

Last Thursday's indictments culminated this second investigation.

Still to be heard from: Results of the same grand jury's investigation of the Pittsburgh ch. 4 grant (see below).

Mr. Whiteside first testified before the subcommittee Feb. 25. He denied ever attempting to extract a "pledge" from Comr. Mack and said the checks in question were loans to a personal friend, which had been repaid. Under extensive questioning, he admitted giving Comr. Mack one-sixth ownership of Stembler-Shelden Inc., a Miami insurance agency, and sole ownership of Andar Inc. He also admitted that many of the loans had been repaid through monies channeled to Comr. Mack from these two firms. Stembler-Shelden holds the insurance for National Airlines Miami tv station, WPST-TV.

Comr. Mack followed his close friend as a witness before the House committee, appearing Feb. 25 and 26. He stoutly maintained his innocence of any wrongdoing and steadfastly denied any intention to resign. At the close of the commissioner's testimony, Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) joined several others in calling for his resignation and threatened impeachment proceedings if Comr. Mack did not do so.

"I feel sorry for you," Rep. Harris told the visibly-shaken commissioner. "You are to be pitied, in my opinion, because . . . you have been used as a tool in this unfortunate mess. It seems to me that the best possible service that you could render now as a member of the Federal Communications Commission would be to submit your resignation."

The following Tuesday, March 4, the commissioner did submit his resignation, after, according to reports from several sources, a healthy push by Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams. (It's ironic that this same Mr. Adams resigned last week [see page 66] as a result of disclosures by the same House subcommittee). President Eisenhower accepted Comr. Mack's resignation at once.

Comr. Mack, a Democrat appointed by President Eisenhower to replace Frieda Henock, served on the FCC just over 2½ years. Investigation by the subcommittee disclosed that his income while a commissioner exceeded his $20,000 a year salary by approximately $41,000. Rep. Harris said the source of all of this additional income has never been determined.

The FCC awarded ch. 10 to National Airlines in February 1957, reversing an initial decision which favored A. Frank Katzentine's WKAT Miami. The vote was 4-1-1, with one commissioner favoring WKAT and one a third applicant, L. B. Wilson Inc. The fourth applicant, North Dade Video, received no votes.

McCONNAUGHEY 'PLOTS' ALLEGED

The House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee last Tuesday and Wednesday (Sept. 23-24) heard charges aired that former FCC Chairman George C. McConnaughey solicited "bribes" from two applicants for ch. 4 Pittsburgh, and in turn was offered a "bribe" in the form of future law clients.

Oliver Eastland, subcommittee investigator, gave the testimony based on investigations made by himself and former Chief Investigator Baron Shacklette. The charges were aired as the House committee held its first public inquiry into ch. 4, granted July 25, 1957, following a merger of two of the five applicants.

A blanket denial of all the allegations in Mr. Eastland's testimony was issued almost immediately by practically all the principals involved, including Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) and Pittsburgh Mayor David Lawrence, Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), subcommittee chairman, said at the close of Wednesday's hearing that the House group planned no further action in the Pittsburgh case. "I doubt that we will pursue the matter any further," he said, noting the same grand jury which Thursday indicted Richard Mack and Thurman Whiteside for their alleged actions in the Miami ch. 10 case also is investigating the Pittsburgh grant.

Because of this second investigation, he said, the subcommittee is limited in how far it can go. On Thursday, Rep. Harris qualified his previous statement. He said the subcommittee would give the grand jury a "reasonable time" to act before resuming its own inquiry. He declined to explain what he would term "reasonable time."

However, he gave some indication that he had more than cursory awareness of the grand jury proceedings when he said it was "his understanding" it would complete its action in a few days. After a recess of several weeks, the jury was recalled early last week. A Justice Dept. spokesman said Thursday the jury is "actively considering" the bribery charges in the ch. 4 case but didn't say whether any action would be taken.

Mr. Eastland originally gave his testimony without mentioning any names. In relating specific charges, he simply referred to a former FCC chairman, or a principal in one of the applicants, an attorney for one of the applicants, a high FCC official, a member of Congress, the mayor of a large city, etc. "An effort will be made to avoid disclosures which would unfairly reflect upon the reputation of any individual or firm involved," he said.

Asked why names were omitted when the individuals Mr. Eastland referred to were common knowledge, Rep. Harris said that because of "past experiences of the subcommittee, there might be some justification for it."

In questioning Mr. Eastland Wednesday, however, Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.) and Rep. Joseph O'Hara (R-Minn.) brought out all the names of the principals involved. Rep. Moss said the committee now had a "skeleton" and he wanted to "put meat on the bones so there is no misunderstanding."

Applicants for ch. 4 Pittsburgh included Tv City Inc., WCAE Inc. (owned by Hearst newspapers), Matta Enterprises, Wespen Tv Inc. and Irwin Community Tv Co. The grant went to merged-applicants Tv City and WCAE, with the other three contestants paid $50,000 each for "out-of-pocket" expenses.

Mr. Eastland's specific allegations:

- Earl F. Reed and Lee W. Eckels, principals in Tv City Inc., heard "rumors" from a source they could not remember that Mr. McConnaughey solicited $50,000 from one applicant for his vote and $20,000 a year for 10 years from another.

- Mr. McConnaughey told Mr. Shacklette that Mr. Reed promised to channel some business into the then FCC chairman's son's law firm in Columbus, Ohio.

- Pittsburgh Mayor David Lawrence wrote Comrs. Bartley and Mack on behalf of Tv City Inc., with the correspondence not a part of the official record.

- Multiple-station owner George B. Storer arranged a luncheon between Mr. Reed and Comr. McConnaughey in April 1957, six weeks prior to the ch. 4 oral argument.

- Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) arranged a meeting between Comr. Mack and Hearst executive Richard Berlin.

- Information concerning proposed mergers between Tv City Inc. and WCAE were sent to Comr. McConnaughey in a "personal" form without being made a part of the record.

- Several ex parte contacts were made between then FCC General Counsel Warren Baker and Washington attorney Raoul E. Desvernine, representing a steel company in which Messrs Reed and Eckels have substantial interests. From these contacts, "valuable information was obtained to the exclusion of other applicants," Mr. Eastland charged.

- Examination of the expenses of Irwin "indicates that their disbursement accounts were padded" to reach $50,000 and the FCC made no effort to determine if these and the expenses of the other applicants were genuine.

- FCC Hearing Examiner Elizabeth Smith should be called to explain "certain inconsistencies" in two separate initial decisions she handed down in the Pittsburgh case, one favoring Tv City and the second WCAE. He said a review of the decisions reveals "that the examiner made contradictory findings in several instances on the same set of facts."

- Members of the law firm of Pearson, Ball & Dowd, and attorney George Sutton, both of whom represented Tv City Inc., made frequent visits to the office of Comr. Mack while the ch. 4 case was pending.

- Mr. McConnaughey "appeared" to perjure himself in prior testimony before the subcommittee.

Mr. Reed was quoted as saying he would tell the investigators exactly what he told the grand jury in its investigation of the ch. 4 matter. He said his luncheon meeting with Mr. McConnaughey had been arranged by Mr. Storer. He said he did not discuss with the commissioner the merits of the ch. 4 case but did urge that oral argument be held as soon as possible. He said Mr. McConnaughey agreed to do this.

Mr. Reed denied that he promised to channel any business into the McConnaughey Columbus law firm.

When oral argument was held June 3, 1957, Mr. Reed said, he was annoyed because attorney Sutton was not present and could not understand why since it was a key proceeding and the culmination of their efforts. That same day, he said, he heard a rumor that a tie vote had been taken by the FCC with Comr. McConnaughey voting against Tv City.

Mr. Reed said he returned to Pittsburgh "mad" and the evening of June 3 first learned that Mr. McConnaughey and Mr. Sutton planned to establish a law firm together in Washington as soon as the former left the Commission. He said this disturbed him so much that he called Mr. Eckels and told him to return to Washington as soon as possible and take whatever steps were necessary to protect the interests of Tv City.

Mr. Reed also said he told the grand jury that he had heard rumors Comr. McConnaughey wanted a $50,000 fee in return for his vote in the ch. 4 case.

Looking back upon his May 1957 luncheon with Mr. McConnaughey, Mr. Reed said, it now appears to him that the commissioner was attempting to make an arrangement with Tv City in the event he was not successful in delivering the majority vote to Hearst.

Mr. Eckels told FBI agents Thomas J. Doody and Russell M. Gwynne that he returned to Washington June 4, 1957, the day following the ch. 4 oral argument, on the instruction of Mr. Reed to "put out the fire." He said he told Mr. Sutton that Tv City was not interested in buying the vote of any member of the FCC and positively would not do so.

He said he first learned of the proposed Sutton-McConnaughey partnership at this time. "I then informed Sutton that because of these circumstances and in order to forestall any later accusation of collusion," Mr. Eckels stated, Tv City did not want Comr. McConnaughey's vote. In addition, he said, he informed Mr. Sutton that he would no longer represent Tv City in efforts to secure ch. 4.

Mr. Eckels also told of hearing rumors that Comr. McConnaughey was attempting to solicit $50,000 from Tv City for his ch. 4 vote, as well as $20,000 a year for 10 years from Hearst. He said he did not remember the source of the rumors.

Mr. McConnaughey was interviewed in his Columbus office last May 8 by Mr. Shacklette, since resigned as the subcommittee's chief investigator. The ex-commissioner was quoted as saying he voted consistently for Hearst because he thought the Hearst group were superior on the merits. He said he has not received a retainer from Hearst nor did he ever solicit or receive an offer of same.

Mr. McConnaughey said he did have lunch with Mr. Reed at the latter's invitation. He said Mr. Reed insisted on discussing the ch. 4 case and told of representing clients with substantial business in Ohio. Mr. McConnaughey related the ch. 4 applicant then said he could steer their legal business into the McConnaughey Columbus law firm and the commissioner said he rejected this offer.

Mr. Shacklette then asked Mr. McConnaughey if this offer was made with the intention of inducing a favorable attitude towards Tv City in the pending ch. 4 case. "I don't know what else he could have had in mind," Mr. McConnaughey was quoted as responding. He said he did not ask Mr. Reed for any law business or any other favor but that he did tell his luncheon companion that he planned to enter private practice the following July.

From his Columbus home last Thursday evening, Mr. McConnaughey labeled Mr. Eastland's testimony "just not true," except for his (McConnaughey) statement to Mr. Shacklette read into the record.

Mr. Eastland testified that Mr. Sutton refused subcommittee investigators access to his books, records and clients nor would he allow his secretary to be interviewed. Mr. Sutton cited as grounds for the refusal, Mr. Eastland said, the fact that he had appeared before the grand jury and was still under its subpoena.

John L. FitzGerald, new FCC general counsel, was present at the hearings as the Commission's representative. He said all the details in the Eastland testimony were new to the FCC and that he had no comment. Mr. FitzGerald did explain one point which the subcommittee's witness had questioned.

This contained a penciled notation, on an FCC memorandum, in Mr. FitzGerald's handwriting that the Commission was split 3-3 on the Pittsburgh grant. He said this was not a formal vote but his "impression" of how he thought the commissioners stood after listening to their deliberations. He did not remember when he had made the notation.

Mr. Eastland had testified that immediately after the oral argument, principals in Tv City and their attorneys went to a Washington hotel where they immediately received word the Commission had split 3-3 on a vote. It was not determined where the information came from. Mr. FitzGerald denied that he relayed such information, as did Mr. McConnaughey.

Hearing Examiner Smith declined comment Thursday on Mr. Eastland's attack on her two initial decisions, but others were quick to rally to her defense. The first decision, released April 23, 1956, favored Tv City Inc. Immediately after this decision, a Tv City principal died and the record was reopened. The modified decision, released April 1, 1957, favored WCAE.

Mr. Baker said last Thursday that the information he gave Mr. Desvernine was no different than the information he has given many others—including senators, congressmen, newsmen, etc.

On Thursday, Rep. Harris corrected the record to show that Mayor Lawrence actually had not written Comr. Mack regarding the ch. 4 case. "I feel that no implication of improper action can be made from the action either of Mayor Lawrence or Sen. Smathers," he said. Both of the public officials defended their actions in statements to news media and the managers of Pittsburgh's four tv stations issued a joint statement lauding Mr. Lawrence for his efforts on behalf of television in Pittsburgh.

Rep. Harris opened Tuesday's hearing with a short statement regarding several tv decisions the Washington Court of Appeals has remanded to the FCC. He entered into the record an FCC letter listing the cases [GOVERNMENT, Sept. 22] and said the subcommittee's staff is studying the Commission's authority in the matter.

After this is done, he said, the subcommittee will ask the FCC for its comments with the view in mind corrective legislation may be needed. The chairman said the subcommittee is stymied in any plans for further investigations into tv grants in Boston and Indianapolis because they are included in the court-returned cases.

The subcommittee will meet tomorrow (Sept. 30) to take statements from the Federal Bar Assn. and American Bar Assn. on proposed codes of ethics for the FCC and other regulatory agencies.

Present for last week's interim hearings, in addition to Reps. Harris, O'Hara and Moss, were Reps. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.) and Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.).

AT BBDO: 100% CONVERSION TO TAPE

Agency switches live commercials to VTR, but not without problems

The age of television tape has arrived at BBDO.

With a couple of exceptions, every major "live" commercial the agency has produced for nighttime network showing in the last three months has been done on tape. Now the agency is in the process of converting its live daytime network commercials to tape.

A hint of the magnitude of the live-to-tape move may be drawn from estimates that in 1957 BBDO, fourth-ranking tv spender among all agencies, puts $71 million into television—$46 million of this in network purchases. About 40% of its program commercials are live and 60% are on film.

BBDO is by no means alone among agencies using tape. Many others are working actively in the new process (see separate story). But BBDO is the only one of the major agencies known to be converting so heavily from live to tape at this point.

Aside from the obvious advantages of immediate playback and economy of operation, BBDO authorities feel videotape allows more ambitious live type commercials. The producers, knowing a second take is always possible if the first goes wrong, are inclined to undertake extra effects that would be too risky if done live.

Al Cantwell, head of radio and live tv production for BBDO and therefore leader of the parade from live to tape, summarizes his views on what tape is and isn't, and how it should and should not be used, in this way:

"What it is today—and new developments are still coming fast—is a tremendously useful new method of extending the uses of live tv. It is not a substitute for film. Tape's real advantages can be realized only by using it as a means of recording in the live technique.

"If advertisers and agencies begin to think of it in terms of film and strive for the technical perfection of film by shooting scene by scene and take by take, many of the advantages of tape in terms of economy will be eliminated. At some future date this may not be true. But the only handicaps to tape are the psychological implications of being able to strive for technical perfection and thus losing the spontaneity and 'liveness' of live commercials. The enthusiasms of its friends may be tape's undoing unless they are aware of this problem."

One rule-of-thumb BBDO uses in deciding whether a live studio-type commercial should be on tape or on film is whether or not the commercial is to be re-used. If re-use is planned, then it is put on film. In the present unsettled status of videotape in relation to unions, re-use of tapes is not permitted. Animated commercials and those made on location are as yet impractical.

BBDO's nighttime network clients who are now using videotape for their commercials or who will swing to tape when their fall productions appear are:

Armstrong Cork and U. S. Steel (Armstrong Circle Theatre, alternating with U. S. Steel Hour, CBS-TV, Wednesdays, 10-11 p.m. EDT); Philco (Miss America Pageant on CBS-TV earlier this month and any additional network purchases); Rexall (Swiss Family Robinson hour-long special to be presented by NBC-TV Oct. 12); Sheaffer Pen (Little Women on CBS-TV Oct. 16 and Gift of the Magi in December); Westclox (Wonderful Town on CBS-TV Nov. 30).

In addition to these, DuPont used videotaped inserts in specials on CBS-TV last year and plans to do the same this season. Its commercials, however, are on film.

Among daytime clients, General Mills already is using some tape commercials time. The commercials were taped right along with the program.

Both the New York and Hollywood offices of BBDO have been active in VTR [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, July 14], but the biggest job either has done on commercials was the Philco spots for the Miss America Pageant early this month—12 minutes of commercials recorded in 17 consecutive hours.

In this case tape solved two problems: cost and time. Filming would have been unfeasible because no re-use was planned, according to BBDO, and "live would have been impossible because there simply weren't enough hours in the day to accommodate rehearsals and then live production," Mr. Cantwell noted. So a week before the pageant, the cast was assembled

MAN AND METHOD

Al Cantwell (left), head of radio and live tv production at BBDO, has been in charge of converting the agency's live commercials to videotape. At right is picture of taped shooting of a commercial for Philco used on the special "Miss America Pageant" show. Note that it is live technique with live image orthicon camera in use.

(the rest are on film) on CBS-TV's Verdict Is Yours—a program that is wholly on tape—and Secret Storm. Other daytime clients moving into tape include Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing (which produces videotape) and Campbell Soup and Lever Bros.' Wisk detergent, all of which plan to introduce tape commercials on ABC-TV's new "Operation Daybreak" project starting in October.

Lever Bros., incidentally, was the first BBDO client to use videotape—on Truth or Consequences on NBC-TV last year. In that case it was not commercials but the broadcast hour that was the motivating factor. The program, live from Hollywood, was carried at 11:30 a.m. in the East, which meant it had to originate at 8:30 a.m. on the West Coast, a distressing hour to round up studio audiences. So they placed the program as if for broadcast at 5 p.m., got good studio audiences, videotaped it and played it back the next day at 11:30 eastern and all eight commercials for the two-hour program were put on tape.

The economy of videotape stems in large part from the ability to tape a number of commercials in one session. This way six or eight can be completed in one session, and many of the below-the-line costs—trucking, scenery, props, etc.—can be amortized over the entire group. Mr. Cantwell estimates that producing a tape or live commercial costs about one-third as much as a film commercial and that, when several are made at one session, each tape commercial costs even less than it would live.

BBDO's experience has amassed evidence to support Mr. Cantwell's fear that "it's best friends may be tape's undoing" if they try to use it like film and re-do sequences constantly in search of perfection. In seven inserts taped for an otherwise live DuPont Show of the Month, it was recalled, the director repeatedly re-shot scenes to correct

WHERE OTHER AGENCIES ARE TAPING

The taped "live" commercial—getting a big impetus from BBDO clients—this fall is beginning to "invade" most major advertising agency precincts.

The three tv networks, checked last week as to the extent of taped live commercials in New York, reported:

CBS-TV has been doing so for at least the following agencies, aside from BBDO: Norman, Craig & Kummel; Lennen & Newell; McCann-Erickson; Grey; Warwick & Legler; Emil Mogul, Young & Rubicam; Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample; Grant; Ogilvy, Benson & Mather; Parkson; Knox Reeves; Kenyon & Eckhardt.

NBC-TV's tape activity in commercials this fall includes the following agencies: McCann-Erickson, MacManus, John & Adams; Lennen & Newell; J.

Walter Thompson; Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample. On Wednesday (Sept. 24) the network taped no fewer than 15 commercials for Bayer Aspirin (Sterling Drug, through D-F-S). On behalf of Sealtest (JWT), six commercials were taped Wednesday and four Thursday (Sept. 25). Another heavy tape user is Nabisco, via M-E, which taped six commercials on Sept. 17 and another 12 on Sept. 22. Within the next two weeks, eight advertisers are slated to tape commercials at NBC-TV—aside from agencies already mentioned are Doyle Dane Bernbach, Foote, Cone & Belding, and N. W. Ayer & Son.

At ABC-TV, only commercials "currently" being taped: P. Lorillard, via Lennen & Newell, and Oldsmobile, through D. P. Brother.

THE IMPACT ON AMPEX STOCK

Ampex Corp. of Redwood City, Calif., principal manufacturer of the magnetic tape recording system that is booming in tv, has caused some electronic shocks in sensitive Wall Street.

The company was formed in 1946 to exploit pioneering magnetic recording work conducted by Germans. It was not until 11 years later that Ampex attracted Wall Street attention. In the fiscal year ended April 1957, the company's sales had expanded 84% from fiscal 1956.

Reflecting this growth, Ampex's stock—traded over the counter but expected to be listed in the near future on the American Stock Exchange—has had a phenomenal rise.

In 1953, when the stock first was traded, price ranged from $6 to $8. By the following year it was in the $7½-$14½ range. In 1955, the stock was traded between a fraction above $14 to a high of $20. The next year the stock jumped from a low of $17 to a high of $43. In 1957, the year VTR premiered, the stock "range" had shot up to $30-$60. This year, the stock has jockeyed in the 44 to 57 range, reportedly was near 100 when a stock split (2½ shares for each share of stock) was effected this summer, increasing the number of shares outstanding to 1,695,663. On Thursday (Sept. 25), the range of the stock—already split—was $40.25-$41.

No dividends have been paid Ampex stockholders.

cation in the usage of tape: "If we hadn't told the cast we would do it again if we had to—if the performers had been psychologically ready as for an air performance—the third take would not have been necessary."

BBDO in New York has worked primarily with CBS on tape because, until recently, CBS had the most tape facilities in New York (14 Ampex units). NBC has been concentrating its facilities primarily in Hollywood (12 units), now reportedly has two RCA color recorders and two Ampex black-and-white units in New York and is adding one more of each shortly. ABC has six in New York, six in Chicago and six in Hollywood.

Chesebrough-Pond's Agencies Likely to Absorb New Lines

Another account was up for grabs last week—but chances were it would land at one of three agencies now retained by Chesebrough-Pond's Inc.

The account: the cosmetics line bearing various trade names such as Prince Matchabelli, Simonetta, Seaforth, Black Watch and Sofskin. It has just been sold by Vick Chemical Co., New York, to Chesebrough-Pond's for "an undisclosed amount of cash," thus taking Vick out of the toiletries business and leaving it clear to concentrate on expanding its drug activity. In fact, Vick's president, H. S. Richardson Jr., stated that Vick will reinvest the proceeds of this sale in its acquisition program which in the past four months has resulted in Vick's entering the vitamin and mouth wash fields.

On July 1, Vick acquired Walker Labs, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., makers of vitamins and other pharmaceuticals. Its agency, Sudler & Hennessey Inc., New York, was retained by Vick. Several weeks ago, Vick acquired the Lavoris Co., Minneapolis, mouthwash manufacturers—an acquisition that will become a legal fact this week (Oct. 1). Its agency, Savage-Lewis Inc., Minneapolis, will be retained for the present.

As of last week, Chesebrough-Pond's had not decided whether to offer the newly-acquired perfume and deodorant line to its agencies-of-record or to award it to a fourth. J. Walter Thompson Co. is the agency for the Pond line; McCann-Erickson services Vaseline, and Compton Adv. represents the Valcreem and other C-P billing. Agencies surrendering the accounts are Morse International (Matchabelli, Simonetta, Seaforth, Black Watch) and Ellington & Co. (Sofskin).

While no definite agency appointments were talked of, C-P president J. A. Straka offered a straw in the wind. He said that Seaforth men's products would be classified internally as another C-P man's line (along with Vaseline) and that Sofskin handcreams would join the Pond's products; conceivably Seaforth might be handled by McCann-Erickson or its subsidiary, Marschalk & Pratt (which recently lost the Mennen Co. men's line account) and Sofskin might go to JWT.

imperfections that "he wouldn't have given a second thought to if he were doing them live." One 20-second insert, for example, was shot eight times.

The average commercial for the Miss America Pageant was shot five times.

What stretches the tape sessions out is that for union reasons CBS-TV, where BBDO has done virtually all of its New York tape work to date, requires that all taping be done in the live technique, not in bits and pieces. Thus if one scene in a commercial needs re-doing, the entire commercial must be re-done.

Mr. Cantwell's first personal brush with tape was enough to frighten him away for life. It was The Red Mill, a special on CBS-TV. Then came the CBS-TV technicians' strike.

The Red Mill was much too complicated a production to be handled live by executives who suddenly found themselves manning cameras, booms and lights. So it was taped in pieces—this time the live-technique requirement did not apply—and then edited together, a thing "never done before or since," according to Mr. Cantwell.

Among other complications, the program wound up 7½ minutes too long ("Harpo Marx became the face on the cutting room floor") and at each point where sequences were edited together there were seven seconds of black. The alternate to the black was "roll-over" on the home screen, and although ways were found to shorten the black period somewhat, it was decided to eliminate the black altogether and take the roll-over. [This was before Ampex perfected its tape splicer. (SPECIAL REPORT, Sept. 8).]

BBDO also claims to have been the first to tape an entire half-hour show. An experimental run, this was "Young and Scared" in the General Electric Theatre series and was done last May. In that case it was decided to make two and if necessary three takes—the dress rehearsal, the "air show" and, if neither of those was satisfactory, a third run-through.

The dress rehearsal was unsatisfactory and before doing the next take "we made the mistake of telling the cast we would do it still another time if necessary." Consequently the actors weren't on their toes and the third shooting had to be made. This produced satisfactory results, and in the sequence BBDO had added to its edu-

RAB Finds Best Foods Best in Its Category

Best Foods Inc., New York, is the top spender among 200 food and grocery advertisers which used spot radio during the second quarter of 1958, the Radio Advertising Bureau reported last week.

Best Foods headed a list of top 20 spot radio advertisers in the food and grocery category, (see below), compiled by RAB from a one-third sample of radio's time sellers. RAB noted that a full 25% of spot radio time bought during the second quarter was used to sell food and grocery products, followed by gasoline and lubricants, 11.5%.

Among food and grocery advertisers, RAB ascertained, almost 91% of the announcements bought were the one-minute commercial. Two companies in the "top 20"—Thomas J. Lipton Inc. and Eskimo Pie Corp.—used 10-second spot heavily but their mainstay was the minute announcement.

The report of food and grocery spot advertisers is contained in a 75-page booklet compiled by RAB for the second quarter, covering radio clients in various categories. It is available to advertisers and agencies on request.

(1) Best Foods; (2) Thomas J. Lipton; (3) Penick & Ford Ltd.; (4) Continental Baking Co.; (5) General Foods; (6) Standard Brands; (7) Eskimo Pie Corp.; (8) Tetley Tea Co.; (9) American Home Foods; (10) National Biscuit; (11) Welch Grape Juice Co.; (12) Fruit Industries; (13) General Mills; (14) Campbell Soup Co.; (15) J. 11 BBDO Regional Heads Confer With Agency Executive Committee

BBDO, New York, held the first of a planned semi-annual series of regional office manager meetings of the company Sept. 20-21 when vice presidents in charge of 11 offices of the agency in the U. S. and Canada met at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., with members of BBDO's executive committee. Charles H. Brower, president, presided.

Following the sessions, Mr. Brower observed that "an exchange of views between our regional management and those in the New York office has contributed a great deal toward forming the policy which will guide our moves during 1959." He pointed out that since advertising trends vary with the sections of the country, it is "necessary both for our national and regional clients that we take advantage of the experience of our branch offices."

Regional BBDO officers at the discussions included: Richard O. Howe, Boston; Dale G. Casto, Buffalo; Jack M. Bristow, Cleveland; William R. Gillen, Chicago; Robert E. Anderson, Detroit; Wayne Tiss, Hollywood; Thomas Dillon, Los Angeles; Bobb Chaney, Minneapolis; Burton E. Vaughan, Pittsburgh; J. G. Motheral, San Francisco; Leslie

F. Chitty, Toronto. Not in attendance were these regional managers: T. F. Hasbrouck, Dallas; William C. Montgomery, Atlanta, and Walter G. Fitzsimmons, Seattle.

New Benton & Bowles Techniques Explained at New York Seminar

A seminar for 250 Benton & Bowles key executives was held Sept. 25-26 at the Savoy-Hilton in New York to acquaint account and key staff people of every department with "new techniques being introduced in all phases of operation within the agency." B&B now has billings "approximating $100 million," according to President Robert E. Lusk.

Mr. Lusk told the meeting late Thursday that changes in the agency's methods of operation have been introduced to meet the "growing client marketing requirements." He cited as an example B&B's reorganization of its media and copy staffs, both shifting from specialists trained in either print or broadcasting to ones that functioned and created advertising materials for all media.

He pointed to B&B's activity in introducing new products as a compelling factor in the growth of the agency, reporting that 60% of the agency's billing today comes from products that B&B helped introduce in the past decade. These, he said, include Tide, Maxwell House coffee, Liquid Prell, Crest, Pepperell striped sheets, Glade, Zest and Pledge.

SQUEEZING DOLLARS FROM A LEMON

How Chemstrand rang up sales with a 'flop' tv show

The play's not the thing for Chemstrand Corp., relatively new to network television. It's found "outstanding results" in tv despite the fact that its dramatic vehicle was not a hit and its ratings were unimpressive. The show: Frank Ross and Joan Caulfield's Sally—a situation comedy that lasted for a relatively short run on NBC-TV Sunday nights at 7:30-8 p.m. last winter.

Chemstrand, explains marketing vice president William G. Luttge, wanted to get into the soft floor covering, or rug, business, with a new synthetic acrylic fiber. The rug industry was ripe for such a move. Having to contend with "wildly fluctuating" wool prices (34 cents/lb. in 1947, $2.25/lb. in 1951, 70 cents/lb. in 1952, 90 cents/lb. in 1956), its members were seeking a material that would remain at a more or less constant price. So Chemstrand in 1956 went after the rug-makers with its acrilan and beat the wool out of the competition. By fall 1957 it was ready to talk to the consumer.

Mr. Luttge, addressing the sixth marketing conference of the National Industrial Conference Board in New York 10 days ago, confessed that the soft goods industry "has traditionally been considered somewhat less advanced than other industries in the application of advertising techniques." Chemstrand set out to change all that. It ordered its agency, Doyle Dane Bernbach, New York, to buy a network show. It was an unprecedented move. DDB produced three commercials for Chemstrand's portion of the series (the other half was picked up by Royal McBee typewriters) which were shuffled in between other Chemstrand announcements.

While the ratings were low, Mr. Luttge points out, audience reaction was high. Its early Sunday evening time period guaranteed a family audience; family audiences meant discussions; discussions often led to decisions to buy. In this case, acrilan-made rugs. Audience count averaged 5.5 million homes or 16 million viewers, reached 19 times between September 1957 and March 1958. DDB's cost-per-thousand estimate was $5.31.

"From an immediate cost standpoint," Mr. Luttge said, "this is not normally satisfactory. However, the fact remains that these commercials and the merchandising behind them produced sales. This, in the final analysis, is the true goal of all advertising and merchandising. For when you determine who decides or most strongly influences the purchase of your goods . . . it is obvious that the sheer magnitude of an audience can make nice statistics without ever reflecting itself proportionately in sales. This was not the case with Sally."

"Despite the show's deficiencies rating-wise, some rather impressive progress was made. When the program started . . . two manufacturers were using acrilan. Six months later, it was well on its way to being used by every important carpet mill in the business. Sales to this field have increased at a very gratifying rate. They actually ran ahead of the most optimistic estimates. Today they are continuing their climb. Retail buyers say that acrilan carpet is a must. They attribute its success, in great degree, to the television advertising. . . . Sally as a show was not a hit. However, the results it produced for Chemstrand in terms of sales and sales promotion were outstanding. This was no mere stroke of luck. On the contrary, it was the inevitable result of all the other things that were done to get the most out of Chemstrand's advertising."

In 1956, acrilan was not a factor in the carpet field. Today it accounts for more than 5% of total fibers used in carpets. Says Mr. Luttge: "This is not an altogether fair picture because acrilan cannot compete cost-wise or price-wise with the rayon and cotton section of the industry. Nevertheless, it is the equivalent of introducing a new automobile and achieving a sales rate of 250,000 units per year in two years' time. This is well above the sales rate of Cadillac, which has been in the market a good many years. We think the comparison is pertinent inasmuch as acrilan is aimed at the Cadillac end of the carpet industry." (Other comparisons offered by Chemstrand's Luttge: acrilan's 5% share can be compared to Mercury's 4.5% share of the auto market, Cadillac's 2.5%, Pontiac's 5.6%; Rinso's 5% share of the detergent market, Lever's All and its 6%.)

So pleased was Chemstrand with Sally that it's stuck to networking ever since. In early May it returned to NBC-TV as alternate week sponsor of Goodson-Todman's Jefferson Drum Friday nights at 8 p.m. It has since shifted to Saturday night and the Perry Como Show, picking up "occasional" half hour strips. Its Como contract runs through next June.

Mary Martin Wants to Bypass December Pontiac Spectacular

Pontiac Motors Div., General Motors Corp., committed to sponsor a Dec. 12 spectacular on CBS-TV, now finds itself minus its star. Mary Martin, through her husband-manager Richard Halliday let it be known that she'd like "out" of the deal, at least for a little while. Miss Martin, touring 80 U. S. and Canadian cities with a "one-woman show," would prefer a break from her present arduous schedule in December.

MacManus, John & Adams, Pontiac's agency, plans to go ahead with the show, as does CBS-TV. Both agency and network are trying to keep out of what "obviously is a problem between Producer Leland Hayward and Miss Martin," says one CBS spokesman. The agency has no

ACTIVITY

HOW PEOPLE SPEND THEIR TIME

NOTE: The Sindlinger interviewing week has been changed to Saturday through Friday, with questions on the basis of "yesterday." Thus, the ACTIVITY week now runs Friday through Thursday.

There were 125,601,000 people in the U. S. over 12 years of age during the week Sept. 12-18. This is how they spent their time:

70.2% (88,172,000) spent 1,741.2 million hours	WATCHING TELEVISION
58.3% (73,225,000) spent 1,092.9 million hours	LISTENING TO RADIO
83.3% (104,626,000) spent 406.5 million hours	READING NEWSPAPERS
34.1% (42,830,000) spent 197.4 million hours	READING MAGAZINES
25.2% (31,651,000) spent 367.1 million hours	WATCHING MOVIES ON TV
31.7% (39,826,000) spent 166.6 million hours	ATTENDING MOVIES*

These totals, compiled by Sindlinger & Co., Ridley Park, Pa., and published exclusively by BROADCASTING each week, are based on a 48-state, random dispersion sample of 7,000 interviews (1,000 each day). Sindlinger's weekly and quarterly "Activity" report, from which these weekly figures are drawn, furnishes comprehensive breakdowns of these and numerous other categories, and shows the duplicated and unduplicated audiences between each specific medium. Copyright 1958 Sindlinger & Co.

† Hour totals are weekly cumulative figures. People—numbers and percentages—are figured on an average daily basis.

* All people figures are average daily tabulations for the week with exception of the "attending movies" category which is a cumulative total for the week. Sindlinger tabulations are available within 2-7 days of the interviewing week.

SINDLINGER'S SET COUNT: As of Sept. 1, Sindlinger data shows: (1) 110,650,000 people over 12 years of age see tv (88.1% of the people in that age group); (2) 42,847,000 households with tv; (3) 47,179,000 tv sets in use in U. S.

intention to disrupt its cycle of monthly specials (planned at the sacrifice of its multi-million dollar tv spot drive). Another factor enters into this "sticky situation," to quote one MJ&A official. Miss Martin is set to appear on NBC-TV shortly after ending her transcontinental tour. "If she's to do the show at some later date, we just don't know when—and how."

Bulova Watch Ready For Holiday Season

What does the approach of the pre-Christmas period mean to advertisers?

To Bulova Watch Co., the shopping-for-gifts season means additional advertising money to spend. In its plans, the watch company will spend more on media, including network tv.

Bulova, via its president and chief executive officer, John H. Ballard, announced last week it will participate in three additional programs in its fall network schedule. The programs are all on NBC-TV, the same network to which the company already had allocated a $7.5 million budget for three shows, Ed Wynn Show, M-Squad and Dragnet [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Aug. 4].

The new shows are Today, the Jack Paar Show and the Chet Huntley-Dave Brinkley weekday evening newscasts.

Bulova, through McCann-Erickson, will be investing in network tv at the rate of approximately $2.5 million for the fourth quarter. Not settled as yet in Bulova's budget: exact use in network tv of $5 million or more to be spent in the medium the nine months after Christmas.

Bulova's strategy, at least in network tv, appears to be strong lineups and heavy expenditures along with merchandising push in the fall (for Christmas), an ease-off after the Yuletide, renewal of strength in the spring and then a weaker effort during the summer.

The original three-show purchase by Bulova was consummated earlier in the year by Mr. Ballard, Robert E. Kintner, NBC-TV president, and C. Terence Clyne, vice president of McCann-Erickson, agency for Bulova.

At one time, Bulova had been directing its monies to spot television, then suddenly switched horses and starting this fall has entered an advertising pattern oriented toward network tv.

Three Name New Agencies

The shifting of three advertiser accounts to new agencies was reported last week with Emerson Radio & Phonograph Corp. moving to Friend-Reiss Adv., New York; Du Barry cosmetics and Sportsman toiletries to Lambert & Feasley, New York, and Magic Chef Inc. (gas ranges) St. Louis, to D'Arcy Adv., St. Louis.

Media plans of the three accounts are now being determined. It is anticipated that Du Barry and Sportsman will use spot radio and tv. Magic Chef in the past has not been active in consumer advertising but D'Arcy is expected to reshape its approach toward the consumer market. Emerson Radio will disclose its media plans within two weeks.

BUSINESS BRIEFLY WHO'S BUYING WHAT, WHERE

MENNEN CHANGE • No announcement has been made, but the Mennen Co., Morristown, N. J.—which recently quit McCann-Erickson and Marschalk & Pratt subsidiary and switched to Warwick & Legler and Grey Adv.—might be revising its broadcast strategy on the programming level. It has let its option on ABC-TV's Wednesday Night Fights drop—into the hands of another (willing) advertiser. Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co., Louisville, already with three major network properties under its belt [see RESPECTS, p. 24], will sponsor the fights through next June. Ted Bates & Co. is B&W's agency.

SHIRT SPOTS • Manhattan Shirt Co., N. Y., failing to clear ABC-TV affiliates in Syracuse, Louisville and Buffalo for the new Sammy Kaye Music From Manhattan series [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 15], has bought spot availabilities in these three markets to carry the ABC-TV show on delayed basis Sundays. Added as of yesterday (Sept. 28): WHEN-TV Syracuse; effective Oct. 5, WHAS-TV Louisville; effective Oct. 11: WGR-TV Buffalo. Manhattan also is understood to be considering KULA-TV Honolulu. Peck Adv., N. Y., is agency.

IN STARTING GATE • Greyhound Corp., Chicago, newcomer in car rental business, intends to advertise on radio-tv. Having participated on few occasions in parent company's portion of NBC-TV's Steve Allen Show, Greyhound's Rent-A-Car Services Inc. is understood to be calling representatives of its agency, Grey Adv., to Windy City to work out spot broadcast program.

SIX MARKET KICKOFF • Ralston Purina Co., St. Louis, is launching an intensive spot-radio tv campaign this week in six scattered markets to introduce its new Corn Chex breakfast cereal. The initial spot radio-tv effort will spread to all major markets. The campaign, through Guild, Bascom & Bonfigli, S. F., will utilize from 240 to 897 radio spots during a 13-week campaign and between 30 and 40 tv spots in each market during the 13 weeks. Corn Chex also will be advertised on Ralston Purina's Bold Journey on ABC-TV (Mon., 8:30-9 p.m.). Introductory markets are Spokane, San Diego, Denver, Wichita, Albany, N. Y., and Columbus, Ohio.

TIME FOR SNACK • King Kone Corp. (Old London food products, melba toast etc.), N. Y., is introducing in New York City a new snack product, a corn chip called Dipsy Doodles for which King Kone is allocating a spot tv schedule on three stations. Company is expected to expand the introduction to other markets in a few months. Richard K. Manoff Inc., N. Y., is agency.

INSTANT SPOTS • Standard Brands Inc. (instant Chase & Sanborn coffee), N. Y., buying list of unspecified number of markets for 52-week tv spot campaign beginning late this month. Agency, Compton Adv., N. Y., declines details.

INSURANCE POLICY • Nationwide Insurance Co., Columbus, Ohio, understood to be resuming sponsorship of half-hour Mama filmed series for 13 weeks, starting end of September, in 25 markets and also launching four-week spot radio campaign this week in 13 Ohio and Vermont markets. Agency: Ben Sackheim Inc., N.Y.

TV NETWORKS' TOP BRAND: WINSTON

- Displaces Tide as leading product customer in July
- But P&G remains biggest company client with $4.1 million

R. J. Reynolds' Winston cigarettes placed top money among the network tv brand advertisers in July. To do it, Winston spent about $200,000 more for time on the tv networks that month compared to June when it ranked No. 3.

Tide, a Procter & Gamble product, moved from the top spot to fourth place; the second and third places were held down respectively by Whitehall's Anacin and General Motors' Chevrolet passenger car.

These Television Bureau of Advertising figures are based on a report by Leading National Advertisers and Broadcast Advertising Reports.

Procter & Gamble again led the list of top 15 network advertisers for July as it had in June. Second place went to Colgate-Palmolive which moved up from third, and displaced General Foods which dropped to the fourth slot in July.

In the breakdown into day parts of network tv billings: nighttime gross charges rose 9.0% to almost $30 million in July, as compared with nearly $27.5 million in July 1957, while the January-July 1958 nighttime gross charges increased to almost $231 million, as against nearly $202.5 million in the comparable period last year. Daytime grosses in July dipped by 1.7% over July 1957 but the January-July total this year was 7.4% over the figure for the comparable period in 1957. Total gross billings (both nighttime and daytime) were up 5.9% for the July period and 14% for the January-July period, as compared with last year.

In product classifications, toiletries and toilet goods once again this year is giving the foods category (the perennial No. 1 spender among all classifications) a run for its money in network tv investment.

Toiletries in July racked up $8.6 million in gross time charges in network tv compared to foods' $8.3 million, though foods advertisers were still outspending toiletries for the January-July period by some $3.7 million.

There were 11 advertisers in the top 15 list which spent at least $1 million in July, seven which spent at least $1.4 million, five which invested at least $1.5 million and three with $1.8 million or more.

Top advertisers in terms of the number of brands listed in the top 15: Procter & Gamble for Tide and Lilt Home Permanent; R. J. Reynolds for brand leaders Winston and Salem cigarettes, and Colgate-Palmolive for its regular and Aerosol dental cream and for Fab detergent. Of the 15 brand leaders, six are cigarettes—Winston, American Tobacco's Lucky Strike, Salem, Brown & Williamson's Viceroy, P. Lorillard's Kent and Liggett & Myers' L&M Filter Tips.

Of interest is the jockeying from month to month by network tv's brand leaders. Whitehall's Anacin, for example, which had been fourth in June rose to second in July, while Tide, No. 1 in June, was No. 4 in July. Eastman Kodak, No. 11 in June, had slipped to No. 15 in July, and Salem, which had not appeared in June, was 10th in July.

In the compilation, network gross time billings for July were $41,059,274, an increase of 5.9% over the same month 1957.

REFLEX ACTION

Six months ago, Channel 4 in St. Louis became a CBS Owned station. Natural reaction: today, it's first! In fact, KMOX-TV has the largest share of the St. Louis television audience according to all three audience measurement services...Nielsen, Pulse, and ARB.

Nielsen, for example, shows that KMOX-TV is ahead of competing stations for all three periods of the broadcast day—morning, afternoon and night!

For KMOX-TV, leadership was inevitable. Because CBS ownership, in St. Louis as elsewhere, means a full schedule of top-rated programs from the CBS Television Network, the very best local live programming and the finest feature films from Hollywood's major studios.

It follows that month-in, month-out more and more advertisers are finding Mid-America's most sales-productive medium is KMOX-TV. You will too...naturally.

Calkins & Holden Merger With BDA Officially Off

"The deal is definitely off." That's the official word from J. Sherwood Smith, board chairman of Calkins & Holden Inc., regarding the proposed merger of his agency with Burke Dowling Adams Inc. [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 15, et. seq.].

Mr. Smith, representing the "groom" in the ill-destined marriage, confirmed earlier reports that his major account, Boeing Airplane Co., had voiced objections to the match due to reasons of "client conflict of interests" [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 22] and indicated there were "other reasons" as well. He would not enlarge upon them.

James H. Cobb, vice president and general manager of the "bride" agency, Burke Dowling Adams, declined to comment. He indicated, however, that the agency was not "so burned" that it would not consider overtures to merge with another agency.

False Concepts of Advertising's Influence on Voters Assailed

Democratic politicians are to blame for encouraging the belief "that advertising agencies can somehow mesmerize voters into electing candidates who wouldn't otherwise stand a chance," Draper Daniels, vice president and creative director of Leo Burnett Co., told the Chicago Art Directors Club. "Advertising agencies have always been loath to dispel this impression," he felt. "After all, don't they want their clients to believe in the power of advertising?"

Mr. Daniels asserted that advertising is in trouble with the public because "we have been guilty of bad taste, shoddy practices and sneaky half-truths too often." He also accused critics of advertising of "using emotion and half-truths to build a case against advertising that has strong appeal to the masses." While advertising always has had its "critics," he pointed out, they never had so large an audience as now.

Mr. Daniels attributed a growing "strong bias against advertising" to the "heavy and continual publicity given to motivational research, subliminal advertising and the new influence of advertising upon the national political scene."

A Burnett study earlier this year, according to Mr. Daniels, brought the conclusion that a "considerable portion of the public whom we hope to get to buy the goods we advertise is becoming emotionally hostile to advertising."

K&E AT PAR AGAIN

The recession's over—at least for Kenyon & Eckhardt executives. Last May 1, all making more than $10,000 a year took, in a recession move, salary cuts ranging from 10 to 20%. News was better last week. They were notified that the pay cuts would be lifted Sept. 30—and on Friday (Sept. 26) they would receive in full the money that had been deducted as a result of the cut.

Among correctives Mr. Daniels suggested was that advertising executives should create advertising that is honest and believable. He continued:

"Every time we okay a commercial where an announcer shakes his fist at the tv audience and bellows with fake excitement, 'Friends, the only way to prevent tooth decay is with the real toothpaste made to guard against teeth decay,' we contribute to a public impression of advertising as a world peopled by boors and dull-witted frauds."

Mr. Daniels is a former chairman of the Lake County Democratic Committee in Illinois.

Lorillard Picks 'Masquerade'

P. Lorillard Co., through Lennen & Newell, came up with its replacement show for its The $64,000 Challenge dropped as the tv quiz probe in New York threw an unfavorable light on the program [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 15]. The new program, which will go on NBC-TV, Thursday (Oct. 2) in the 10:30-11 p.m. period: Masquerade Party, a veteran tv panel show. Bert Parks probably will be master of ceremonies. The Challenge had been slated to move into the Thursday nighttime slot on Sept. 18 after its run on CBS-TV, but was dropped suddenly by the cigarette advertiser. With no new program ready to fill, NBC-TV put on a sustaining news special, "China: War or Peace?," and last Thursday (Sept. 25) aired another news program—"Man Against the Senate" (about Jimmy Hoffa of Teamsters fame)—also sustaining.

GB&B Strengthens Marketing, Buys Crisp Consultancy Firm

As part of an expansion at Guild, Bascom & Bonfigli, San Francisco, the agency has bought the marketing consultant firm of Richard D. Crisp & Assoc., Chicago, and has appointed Richard Crisp as director of marketing.

In announcing the move last week, Walter Guild, president, said the growth of GB&B necessitates "additional marketing strength." He noted that the agency began business nine years ago with $200,000 in annual billing and the total now has grown to more than $12 million.

The agency, he said, will open a Chicago office at 105 West Adams St. in the quarters formerly used by the marketing firm. No accounts will be serviced there for the present but other branch offices of GB&B—in New York, Hollywood and Seattle—may utilize the marketing facilities of the Chicago office.

Before he started his own company in 1955, Mr. Crisp was director of marketing research, a member of the executive committee and one of the owners of Tatham-Laird Inc., Chicago. Earlier he had been manager of the marketing department of Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago.

AGENCY APPOINTMENTS

Revlon Inc., N. Y., expected to name Heineman, Kleinfeld, Shaw & Joseph, N. Y., for That Man men's cologne, newest product of Revlon's line of male toiletries.

Burlington Industries Inc., largest U. S. textile organization, has shrunk its agency list from 9 to 8 with appointment of J. M. Mathes Inc., N. Y.—one of 9—to handle all divisions serviced by Daniel & Charles Inc., N. Y. Mathes was named Burlington parent agency on Jan. 8 this year.

Manhattan Coffee Co., St. Louis, names Rutledge & Lilienfeld Inc. for Manhattan coffee. Agency will continue to handle company's other product, Dining Car coffee.

Swanson Cookie Co. (Archway cookies), Battle Creek, Mich., appoints Grant Adv. to handle its advertising. Firm has been using tv.

The Jack Wrather story: oil, stations, programs—and now world television Television abroad, in the opinion of Jack D. Wrather, is today just about where television in the U. S. was in 1950. At any moment it can explode with the kind of force that made U. S. tv a major business in a couple of years.

When it does, Mr. Wrather expects to take a long joyride on a soaring world market in television, with no interruptions except frequent stops at the deposit windows of his several banks. He has already tuned up for the trip.

In July, his Jack Wrather Organization and the Wall Street investment house of Carl M. Loeb, Rhoades & Co. joined forces with Associated Television Ltd., British program contractor for commercial tv stations in London and the Midlands, and Incorporated Television Programme Co. Ltd. of London to form Independent Television Corp. as a worldwide purveyor of tv entertainment. A $12.5 million concern, ITC started out with six tv programs series: JWO's Lassie, Lone Ranger and Sgt. Preston of the Yukon and ITP's Robin Hood, William Tell and Invisible Man, and with promises that this was only the beginning.

Less than two weeks ago, ITC made what Mr. Wrather termed "the first of several expansion moves planned for ITC both here and abroad" by acquiring Television Programs of America and its subsidiaries at home and abroad for another $11.3 million. This transaction beefed up ITC's program stock immediately with TPA's Fury, Ramar of the Jungle, Private Secretary, Last of the Mohicans, Charlie Chan, Tugboat Annie, Count of Monte Cristo, Ellery Queen, Halls of Ivy, Stage 7, Cannonball and New York Confidential (LEAD STORY, Sept. 22).

ITC also is developing several new programs, Mr. Wrather revealed last week, including The Adventures of Tom Swift in this country and two co-producing deals in England: Interpol Calling with J. Arthur Rank and Four Just Men, based on the Edgar Wallace stories, with ATV. Hannah Weinstein, adapter-producer of the Robin Hood series, is acting in the same capacity for Four Just Men.

Last week, ATV on its own bought Broadcasting Assoc. Pty. of Sydney, Australia, obtaining a part interest in a Sydney tv station, ownership of six radio stations and a newly equipped studio for producing programs and commercials for tv and radio [see story, page 84]. ITC is not financially involved in this transaction, but there seems no doubt that ITC now has a waiting Australian outlet for its programs.

"ITC brings together a group of companies with allied interests in a sort of hands together relationship that gives each of us the right to participate in another's deals," Mr. Wrather explained, pointing out that ATV had an operating profit of $11.5 million last year and that its stockholders include Pye Ltd., "The GE of England," and Moss Empire Ltd., largest theatre owner in England. He said that the alliance of the Wrather organization with ATV is the first merger of this magnitude and a very important thing for worldwide television.

"Television is already underway in such countries as Italy, West Germany and Japan, as well as Great Britain and Australia," Mr. Wrather stated. "Its spread is inevitable. Eventually," he said, "we expect to get about 40% of our gross program revenue from the foreign market."

A native Texan, born 40 years ago in Dallas, Mr. Wrather followed in his father's footsteps and entered the oil business after his graduation from the U. of Texas in 1940. After the war, in which he spent five years in the Marine Corps, being discharged with the rank of major, he visited Southern California for a couple months of rest and change of scene, but friends in the motion picture business got him interested and he formed a company to produce industrial films which led him into the theatrical picture field. (Later, in 1952, he also produced a tv series, Boss Lady, for Procter & Gamble.)

"Now I had to make a decision," he recalls, "whether to get out of the oil business or back into it, so it was back to Texas and oil. But by that time entertainment had gotten to be a major interest and tv was also rearing its ugly—or should I say lovely—head, so I began looking for stations. In a year I got options on three stations—in Dallas, Los Angeles and San Francisco—at prices that make me want to kick myself when I see how well they're doing now, because I didn't take up even one of the options.

"The way I got my first tv station was by running into George Cameron, an oil man too, at the Racquet Club in Palm Springs. He invited me home for a drink and when I saw his desk littered with papers and commented that Palm Springs was for play, not work, he said that the paper work was in connection with his tv station, KOTV in Tulsa, and he'd sell it if it wasn't making so much money. I asked him how much it was making; he answered $20,000 a month, but added that I was right and he ought to sell it. Again I asked him how much; he said $2 million and I said, 'if it's built right and if it's really making $20,000 a month you've got yourself a deal.'"

It was; he had, and Jack Wrather was started on a broadcasting career that has to date also included the acquisition of KPMB-AM-TV San Diego (for $3.15 million in 1953), The Lone Ranger (for $3 million in 1954), Lassie (for $3.5 million in 1956), Sgt. Preston of the Yukon (for $1.5 million in 1957) and KERO-TV Bakersfield, Calif. (also in 1957, for $2.15 million).

In 1956, Mr. Wrather headed a syndicate which bought WNEW New York for $4 million. "We can point with pride to this deal as having brought to the people in radio a true appreciation of their medium," he stated. "Radio was still in the depths then, but we had faith in the future and we planned to get five major market radio stations. But when we bought WNEW for the top price ever paid for a radio station to that time we gave the industry a shot in

Syndicated Film Value Underscored by Rettig

Short-term contracts of 13 weeks or 26 weeks may be okay for live network tv programs, but they won't work in syndication, Earl Rettig, president of California National Productions, NBC's tv film subsidiary, said last week in Hollywood, where he is looking for profitable new properties.

"In live programming you can call up the people and say 'you're through tomorrow,' but with a film show for syndication there is too much original investment to be amortized and too many options to make 13-week contracts feasible," Mr. Rettig stated. CNP is selling on the traditional pattern of 52-week schedule of 39 originals and 13 re-runs, he said.

He commented that the local or regional advertiser buying a syndicated film program can pick his own markets and stations with which he is completely familiar and does not have to take unwanted coverage to comply with a network's must-buy list. "Therefore, a long-term contract is less risky for him than it might be for a national advertiser at this time."

Aviation may be the next popular subject for tv programming, Mr. Rettig said, reporting that Flight, which Airborne Productions is now producing for CNP with Al Simon as executive producer, has already been sold in more than 85 markets, including a 20-market purchase by Schlitz. WPIX (TV) New York will start telecasting Flight tonight (Sept. 29), with other stations to start it through the fall.

"Because programs like this are made in cooperation with the Air Force and use Air Force films for much of their action footage," he commented, "the action is real and therefore the stories are real too and that realism comes over the audience in a way that was not always true of westerns or other tv programs."

Science fiction might also be a fruitful field for tv programming, Mr. Rettig said. CNP would be interested in looking at science fiction programs, either for production and syndication or for syndication only, he stated, adding that this is an intriguing but tricky subject.

Asked about videotape, Mr. Rettig said that it has provided the networks with an ideal solution to their time zone problems but at the present it does not seem very practical for syndication purposes, as too few stations are equipped with reproducers to make syndication via tape alone practical on a national scale. The day may come, he added, when most stations do have tape equipment and then, with its production economies, tape may virtually supplant film as a means of program distribution. "We're watching tape" he said, "and when the the arm that caused station owners to boost their prices to a point where we were no longer interested. It was a case of being done in by good publicity. If we'd reported the price of WNEW as $2 million, we'd probably be operating a string of radio stations today."

As it was, the Wrather group wasn't interested in owning just one radio station, so in 1957 it sold WNEW for another record amount, $7.5 million, giving another boost to radio morale, as well as to radio station prices.

When Jack Wrather bought KOTV (TV), the station was managed by Helen Alvarez, who owned 15% of the stock. "I needed someone to handle the day-to-day operations so I asked her to continue as manager and gave her the chance to build her interest up to 50% as an incentive. When we bought KFMB, we went into that on the same basis, only Edward Petry was also in on this purchase with 22%, leaving Mrs. Alvarez and me 39% each. When we sold KOTV [to J. H. Whitney in 1954 for $4 million] we made a large sum of money and needed a place to put it, so we acquired the Disneyland Hotel."

Later the Wrather-Alvarez relationship became stormy; there were suits and counter-suits and last spring Mr. Wrather bought out Mrs. Alvarez for an undisclosed price estimated at more than $2 million [AT DEADLINE, May 12]. A new corporation named Marietta (for the secretary of the attorney preparing the papers) now is licensee of the KFMB and KERO properties, owned 64% by Mr. Wrather, 36% by Mr. Petry. In all other ventures Mr. Wrather is associated with John Loeb, senior partner in Carl Loeb, Rhoades & Co.

time comes we'll be in it with both feet."

Mr. Rettig said he sees no threat to CNP or other tv film syndicators in the plans of many stations to utilize their tape machines to put their most popular local programs into syndication. "If these local programs are good enough to go national, why haven't they come to the fore before this?" he asked. "Why haven't they gone network already? Many local programs were put on the networks in the early days of television, programs like Ding Dong School and Kukla, Fran and Ollie. They did well for a while, but when tv became more professional and more competitive they fell by the wayside."

FILM SALES

MCA TV Film Syndication Div. announces Paramount Pictures' library of 700 feature films has been sold to four tv stations, including WFBM-TV and WTTV (TV) in Indianapolis on shared basis by two outlets. Other station sales were made to WTCN-TV Minneapolis and KUTV (TV) Salt Lake City.

MGM-TV reports additional $100,000 in sales of its short subjects in past 30 days, figure representing films being placed in another 12 markets. Total number of stations programming shorts now is 34. Included are Our Gang Comedies, Passing Parade and Crime Does Not Pay. Latest sales were to WNBQ (TV) Chicago; KVAR-TV Phoenix; WHIO-TV Dayton, Ohio; WPTA (TV) Fort Wayne, Ind.; WEHT (TV) Evansville, Ind.; KVIL-TV Amarillo, Tex., and WHTN (TV) Huntington, W. Va., all buying Our Gang, and KING-TV Seattle, KGNC (TV) Amarillo and KATV (TV) Little Rock, Ark., purchasing Passing Parade.

Associated Artists Productions, N. Y., has

A year ago Messrs. Wrather and Loeb bought Muzak, pioneer background music service, from William Benton, former U. S. Senator from Connecticut, for $4.35 million, acquiring WBFM (FM) New York in the transaction [PROGRAM SERVICES, Sept. 23, 1957]. "We will undoubtedly acquire other fm stations," Mr. Wrather says, "as part of our overall plan to build up a group of complementary companies—tape, electronics and the like."

Muzak's now programmatic device to provide automatic program operation for radio stations [PROGRAM SERVICES, Sept. 15] is going so well "we've run out of contracts," he reports. On the international scene, Muzak has just completed an agreement with ATV to handle the distribution of Muzak services in the United Kingdom and Australia, which Mr. Wrather expects in a few years to produce revenue amounting to "about 40% of what Muzak now gets in the United States, although of course this domestic income will continue to grow."

Tall (just under 6 feet), heavy-set ("I'm about five pounds overweight right now, despite trying to diet"), Mr. Wrather is a far cry from the boastful Texan of contemporary gadgom. Courteous and affable, answering questions directly (or declining to answer with a smile that robs the refusal of any sting), he looks like the successful businessman he is.

On the wall of his office on the top floor of the Beverly Hills, Calif., building that houses all of the Wrather enterprises hangs an oil painting of an oil field. This is not a symbol of Mr. Wrather's past. He is still active in the oil business, which is a distinct operation, with headquarters in Dallas. "We've drilled some 200 wells in the past six years," he says, "and brought in about 100 producing wells, including perhaps 8 or 10 discoveries. The rest are development wells from fields brought in previously."

Mr. Wrather also emphasized that, unlike some other oil operators, he and his associates were not merely investors in other fields but an operating group, taking an active part in the management of whatever they go into.

Television Programs of America, N. Y., reports that Drewrys Ltd. USA Inc. (brewery), South Bend, has bought New York Confidential, half-hour tv film series, in 15 midwest markets, starting shortly. Agency is MacFarland, Aveyard & Co., Chicago.

Victor & Richards, New York, announces sales of its syndicated live package Top Ten Dance Party, to KSL-TV Salt Lake City, for use as once-a-week program; WSLs-TV Roanoke, Va., for expansion of programming to six-days-a-week; and renewals by WHEN-TV Syracuse; WTEN (TV) Albany; WDXI-TV Jackson, Tenn.; and WXEX-TV Richmond, Va.

Cates: quiz shows were already waning, current hubbub only greased the skids

The current "scandal" has put the whammy on quiz shows, but it merely sped rather than initiated their exodus from high popularity—and they'll be back, sooner or later, in new forms and new favor.

This not altogether unique view is held by Joe Cates, original producer and director of $64,000 Question, generally acknowledged as the quiz show that started the trend in big-money giveaways. Mr. Cates also has produced $64,000 Challenge, Stop the Music and other quizzes, and currently has the Haggis Baggis quiz on NBC, where in the past two years he has produced a number of major specials (Ethel Merman Chevy Show, The Bachelor, High Button Shoes, Salute to Baseball, among others).

Mr. Cates says he's convinced that quiz shows are and have been fundamentally honest.

"Look at it this way," he said. "People in our business are like everybody else—we're basically honest. There are a few quacks in every business, and no doubt we have our share. But I don't think we have more than our share; most of us are honest."

"If this investigation has been able to turn up only a handful of contestants crying 'fix,' out of all the thousands of contestants who've been on these shows, then you can be sure the shows have been fundamentally honest."

But the handful of charges that have been made—and displayed garishly in the newspapers—have cast suspicion on all quiz programs and, despite a number of studies to the contrary [NETWORKS, Sept. 22, 15], in Mr. Cates' opinion, are bound to hurt all.

"If the district attorney announced today that all quiz shows had been cleared, if he announced that all of them had been investigated by the grand jury and all found to be honest without exception—it wouldn't change a thing. Public confidence has been undermined and they're done for."

He added quickly that they had begun to slump in popularity—because the vast number of the breed and the element of imitateness involved—before the scandal broke. In his view the scandal merely stepped up their decline by three to six months.

"But they won't be gone for good," he said. "Quizzes fit the three requirements for television programming."

To him the three requisites are: (1) It must be live, (2) It must be unrehearsed and (3) It must involve real people. Congressional hearings, baseball and football games are among the programs which, along with quizzes, meet these requirements, Mr. Cates asserted.

"Quizzes are popular features," he said. "Newspapers and magazines have them in various forms. A year from now, or two years from now, somebody will come up with a new quiz show idea and they'll bounce back into the top-rated programs again."

"It goes in cycles. It happened before with Quiz Kids, again with Stop the Music, and the last cycle started with $64,000 Question. No doubt the next cycle will have additional built-in safeguards—we can't afford not to take lessons from experience."

Mr. Cates and his associates at Louis G. Cowan Inc. (now Entertainment Productions Inc.) initiated some safeguards of their own when they pioneered the big-money giveaway with $64,000 Question in 1955.

From the first, the producers kept "open house" for the press. Newsmen were free to come and go virtually at will—and did so. Being constantly under scrutiny in this way, Mr. Cates reported, was practically a guarantee that everything would be on the up and up—or that if anything was awry it would be exposed.

For another thing, in interviewing prospective contestants the producers were not as much interested in asking direct factual questions about a subject as they were in establishing generally that the prospects were truly experts. If an applicant's subject was history, for example, they didn't ask him what Napoleon did to whom in what year and on which battleground. Instead they asked the candidate about his schooling; they checked his college and his friends; they wanted to know the makeup of his personal library and what books he had read in the past year—all clues indicating just how scholarly he might be in affairs of history.

Mr. Cates conceded that in many cases it is possible that contestants can be partially "controlled," despite safeguards.

"You don't have to feed a contestant questions or answers in advance," he pointed out. "If he is truly expert in his field, all you need do is give him questions which—even though they sound difficult to the layman—are more or less fundamental in that field and therefore would be known by any expert.

"But there's nothing dishonest about this. The producer's job finally is to ascertain that (1) the contestants are experts and (2) the questions constitute a 'fair' test."

But Mr. Cates denied that this technique was used on $64,000 Question—or could have been. The questions, he asserted, were made up independently by Bergen Evans, professor, lexicographer and tv panel moderator (The Last Word). More than that, he added, they are made up by Mr. Evans well in advance of the appearance of any panelist who would be asked to answer them.

Is it common practice to "regulate" the number of appearances a contestant makes by putting easier questions to those who demonstrate audience appeal and more difficult ones to those who don't?

Mr. Cates didn't consider control by this method to be possible with any degree of accuracy.

"If the questions are too simple," he said, "the audience becomes suspicious. Beyond that, you get into the area what's hard for one person may be easy for another. We've had some long arguments—one person saying 'this question is easy but that one is hard' and somebody else claiming the reverse. It gets to be a matter of opinion—or of how much any given person knows."

"On 64 we developed the 'multi-part' question, which eliminated the need to grade questions according to difficulty. We used the same basic question for all money levels, but as the money increased we added more parts."

Summing up in Mr. Cates' book (and words): to rig a program "would be dishonest—and even worse, it would be downright stupid."

Mickelson Cites Value Of Tv News to Sponsors

Television news is maturing as an information service and its growing stature is leading to increasing advertiser support, Sig Mickelson, vice president of CBS Inc. and general manager of CBS News, told a meeting of the Poor Richard Club in Philadelphia last Tuesday (Sept. 23).

Mr. Mickelson told advertising executives that the evolution of television news over the past ten years has been from a limited service provided largely by newsreel organizations to a world-wide news operation started by CBS-TV itself. With this growth has come the development of new techniques by the network, he said, covering the "specials" on specific issues in the news, and full-length documentaries which provide background to today's problems. He pointed out to the advertising executives that news and public affairs offer "a most favorable framework" for advertising messages.

He singled out the Prudential Insurance Co. of America as one of CBS-TV's "most valued sponsors." He explained that Prudential sponsors one of CBS-TV's news documentaries, Twentieth Century, which in the last year has covered such subjects as

With October set for the introduction of most 1959 car models, ABC-TV reported last Thursday (Sept. 23) that automotive sponsorships on the network will hit a new peak during the month with seven manufacturers represented on the schedule. Sponsors include Plymouth Div., Chrysler Corp. (Plymouth Show, Starring Lawrence Welk); Oldsmobile Div., General Motors Corp. (Bing Crosby Show); Chevrolet Motors Div., General Motors Corp. (Pat Boone Chevy Showroom); Dodge Bros. Corp., Div. of Chrysler Corp. (Dodge Dancing Party) and Willys Motors Inc., subsidiary of Kaiser Co. (Maverick). During the introductory period in October, participating sponsors on ABC-TV will be Buick and Ford Motor Co. [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 22].

Mr. Mickelson noted that Prudential already has invested about $4 million in the program because of "its dignity, prestige and dedication." But the company, he said, also is merchandising the show in "a most energetic and imaginative way," using some 22,000 agents throughout the country. Agents distribute brochures on the program to policy holders and prospects. In addition, a detailed teaching aid on each program is distributed to 60,000 teachers in 12,000 schools.

Mr. Mickelson also paid tribute to other sponsors of CBS-TV specials, saying, "It is advertisers such as these who are helping to provide the sound economic base for television news and public affairs."

Mr. Mickelson conceded there are two areas in which television news executives must be particularly vigilant: they must not succumb to the lure of the picture when the picture, in fact, may be a distraction from the main theme of a story; secondly, they must master the use of graphics.

Mr. Mickelson noted that television news and public affairs are costly undertakings. In 1957, he reported, CBS News' losses ran to about $10 million for radio and television. He expressed the hope that these losses will be cut in the future with the assistance of national advertisers.

ABC-TV SHIFTS EXECUTIVE LINEUP

New executive assignments at ABC-TV were announced last week by President Oliver Treyz. The reorganization, according to ABC-TV, has been effected in part to free Mr. Treyz for top management work by reducing the number of key executives who report directly to him.

In the changes:

Donald W. Coyle, a vice president and director of sales and development and research, becomes vice president and general sales manager, reporting to William P. Mullen, vice president in charge of tv network sales. Mr. Coyle continues direction of sales development and research.

Slocum Chapin, vice president in charge of ABC-TV client relations, is assigned as vice president for the western division. Harold Day, manager, western division, reports to Mr. Chapin as will the Chicago, Detroit and West Coast network sales offices.

Michael Minahan, budget officer, becomes administrative officer, acting also as assistant to Mr. Treyz on general administrative matters. Other managerial personnel in tv sales now reporting to Mr. Mullen will report to Mr. Coyle. Tv station clearance will become part of the sales department with Donald Shaw, director of tv station clearance, reporting to Mr. Coyle.

In effect, noted Mr. Treyz, the change combines the function of sales, sales development, research and station clearance "to allow for greater concentration on all facets of marketing services."

Mr. Mullen joined ABC-TV's sales department as an account executive two years ago, last year was promoted to sales manager for the Detroit division and this year was elected vice president and general sales manager. His associations before ABC-TV included John W. Loveton Productions, Trans-Film Inc., Cappel MacDonald & Co., William Morris Agency and CBS-TV.

Mr. Coyle was a research writer with ABC-TV in 1950, was promoted successively to director of research, took over sales development two years ago and was elected a vice president a year ago.

Mr. Chapin in 1942 joined WJZ New York (now WABC), two years later was with radio network sales and in 1948 became eastern sales manager for ABC-TV when the department was created. In 1951 he became vice president in charge of o&o stations for ABC, three years later vice president in charge of ABC-TV's sales and a year ago vice president in charge of ABC-TV client relations.

Mr. Minahan has been with the network nearly two years, joining as systems specialists in the internal audit and systems department, moved up to business manager of ABC Radio nearly a year ago and to budget officer of ABC-TV in June 1958. His previous experience was with industrial companies in Canada.

As a result of the consolidation these key executives continue to report to Mr. Treyz: Thomas W. Moore, vice president in charge of tv programming; Mr. Mullen; Dean Liner, director of advertising and promotion, and Alfred R. Beckman, vice president in charge of tv station relations.

Hayes, Perkins, Close Elected To CBS Radio Affiliates Board

John S. Hayes, WTOP Washington; George M. Perkins, WROW Albany and Joseph K. Close, WKNE Keene, N.H., have been elected to the board of directors of CBS Radio Affiliates Assn., for three-year terms, according to Charles C. Caley, WMBD Peoria, Ill., chairman of the board. New members will take office at the association's fifth annual convention in New York Oct. 29-30.

Mr. Hayes, who will serve as vice chairman, was elected to the board from District 3. He had been filling the unexpired term of Donald W. Thornburgh, WCAU Philadelphia; Mr. Perkins, to represent District 2, replaces C. Glover Delaney, WHCC Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. Close, representing District 1, replaces J. Maxim Ryder, WBRY Waterbury, Conn., former secretary-treasurer of the association.

A chairman, vice chairman, secretary-treasurer and three new directors-at-large to serve for 1958-59 will be named at the start of the annual convention.

Remainder of membership of the board follows:

Harold Danforth, WDBO Orlando, Fla., District 4; Hoyt B. Wooten, WREC Memphis, Tenn., District 5; Joseph M. Higgins, WTHI Terre Haute, Ind., District 6; Frank Fogarty, WOW Omaha, Neb., District 7; J. C. Kellam, KTBC Austin, Tex., District 8; Westernman Whillock, KBOI Boise, Idaho, District 9; Worth Kramer, WJR Detroit, director-at-large; Lee B. Wailes, Storer Broadcasting Co., Miami Beach, director-at-large; and John M. Rivers, WCSC Charleston, S.C., ex officio member.

FCC'S CRAVEN HOISTS WARNINGS ON INDIFFERENCE TO ALLOCATIONS

- Tells IRE that other services could succeed in spectrum grab
- Urges own plan to ensure adequate outlets in major markets

FCC Comr. T. A. M. Craven, the Commission's only engineering member, raised hurricane warnings for broadcasters last Friday (Sept. 26) in a speech before IRE engineers in Washington.

Mr. Craven said television broadcasters must give more serious thought to the allocations problem or they will find other services making good better claims to unused portions of the tv bands.

He took occasion to plump for his integrated plan of tv allocations—a contiguous band of 25 to 30 channels running from the present ch. 7 (174 mc) to 324 mc [LEAD STORY, June 2]. He also urged consideration to "short range" plans to ensure three or four outlets in all major markets.

"While my suggestion has some of the disadvantages of going to all uhf," Comr. Craven stated, "it appears to me to possess advantages of significant importance . . ."

COMR. CRAVEN

He termed these as better propagation than uhf, easier receiver design, continuance of the usefulness of present vhf receivers (since seven existing channels would be continued), and the opening up of desirable portions of the radio spectrum to other services.

"While 25 or 30 television channels would not provide for idealistic competition," Mr. Craven said, "there would be at least a sufficient number of channels to offset the present monopolistic trends in television broadcasting."

He called on the technical staffs of stations to impress on management that inaction "could be damaging to your industry's business, and that blind resistance in the face of technological progress could be contrary to his best interest." Failure to furnish the FCC with constructive suggestions, he said, "could result in settlements which may be far from satisfactory to the broadcast industry."

Mr. Craven called attention to the fact that 59.5% of the radio spectrum between 25 mc and 890 mc is allocated to broadcasting (education and entertainment), while the federal government uses 25.7%, and the remainder by such services as public safety, travel safety, commercial research and development, public correspondence and personal convenience. New services which will be seeking spectrum space in this area, Mr. Craven said, include forward scatter, astronautical organizations, air navigation and traffic control, land mobile, marine, safety, common carrier, public telephone to and from airplanes and industrial, scientific and medical services.

These demands for more space has been met by broadcasters with "resistance to change", Mr. Craven stated.

Television in the uhf band has not been utilized efficiently, Mr. Craven said, because of its inferior performance compared to vhf. This in turn results in the reluctance of advertisers to use uhf stations, he stated. Also, he added, the wide range of frequencies between ch. 2 and ch. 83 places "such a burden upon the receiver designer that efficient, all-channel receivers have not been produced at market prices comparable with the cost of vhf receiver installations."

Referring to a 12-channel only tv system, Mr. Craven warned that "Some persons already envisage radical regulatory measures, possibly more stringent than those now imposed on common carriers . . ."

The suggestion that tv be moved entirely to the uhf band must await the results of the investigation by the Television Allocations Study Organization, Mr. Craven stated. But, he continued, unless more selective and better uhf receiver performance is achieved, uhf will never provide the service rendered by vhf today. And, he added, if such an improved uhf receiver can be achieved, would it not be far more expensive than present vhf models prices?

Proposals to increase the utilization of the 12 vhf channels—through directional antennas, precise offset carriers, vertical and horizontal polarization, increasing video-audio ratios and other techniques—would not alleviate the "monopolistic" aspects, Comr. Craven said, and "might well lead inevitably to such a deterioration in the quality of reception in rural areas as to result in significant costs to the public, and consequently, public resentment."

Deintermixture has not been successful, he pointed out, because it has not been tried on a large enough scale. But, he continued, such a move would create much the same problems as going all out to uhf.

The FCC commissioner spoke at the annual broadcast symposium banquet of the Professional Group on Broadcast Transmission Systems.

The seminars included a forum and a

MORE TIME FOR REPLIES

The date for reply comments in the FCC's clear channel proceeding last week was extended from Sept. 29 to Oct. 29. The Commission made the extension following requests for such action.

panel discussion of black and white and color tv videotape systems, as well as papers on very precise carrier offset, vidicon performance, stereophonic broadcasting, weather radar and tv broadcasting, fm and multiplex operations and broadcast switching facilities.

Rep. Bray Wants to Reinroduce Measure for Study of Spectrum

Legislation to limit a study of spectrum allocations to military use of frequency space will be re-introduced early in the 86th Congress by Rep. William G. Bray (R-Ind.)—if he is re-elected to the House.

Rep. Bray promised as much when he appeared before the Indiana Broadcasters Assn. meeting in Indianapolis [TRADE ASSNS., Sept. 15]. He also said tv—probably five- or ten-minute programs—would play a vital part in his campaigning.

The Indiana congressman noted his previous measure (H J Res 381) died in the last session of the 85th Congress (in the House Commerce Committee) and told BROADCASTING if re-elected, he plans to introduce a similar resolution next January calling for a study of frequency space allocated to the government, looking toward the assurance of efficient utilization of allocations to the government, specifically the military.

Identical resolutions by Rep. Bray and Sen. Charles Potter (R-Mich.)—(S J Res 106) this past summer became stalled in the last session [GOVERNMENT, Sept. 1, Aug. 4; LEAD STORY, Aug. 18].

Congressman Bray reiterated his previous views about expanding the investigation to include all allocations and again questioned the military's motive. He emphasized his belief such a study should be limited to the military alone, with industry leaders being permitted to testify in any investigatory hearings.

A member of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Bray also introduced bills in the 85th Congress to prohibit pay tv (HR 10562) and repeal the 10% excise tax on radio and tv sets (HR 12572).

New Deadline of Oct. 31 Set For 25-890 Mc Statements

The FCC last week suspended until Oct. 31 its deadline for filing of statements of proposed evidence to be presented in the Commission's inquiry into the allocation of frequencies to non-government services in the 25-890 mc band of the spectrum.

NAB filed a statement saying it plans to (1) ask the continuance of fm broadcasting in the 88-108 mc band and will show the importance of fm in the U. S. and its resurgence by figures on sets in use and fm stations on the air; (2) ask delay on that part of the proceeding affecting tv until Television Allocations Service Organization (TASO) makes its report next Jan. 1 and the FCC and the broadcast industry has had a chance to study findings; (3) show evidence illustrating the need for frequencies for remote pickup facilities in the 25 mc, 150 mc and 450 mc bands and emphasize the need for at least 5 mc separation for use of frequencies at 450 mc.

TV SPECTRUM REPORT RELEASED

- Senate Commerce Committee relays to FCC sans comment
- Bowles slaps at Commission's past allocation practices

An advisory committee on tv allocations to the Senate Commerce Committee last Thursday (Sept. 25) released its report—a document which failed to receive the sanction of the parent Senate body, plus several members of the technical group itself.

The study is the work of Edward L. Bowles, chairman of the special ad hoc committee and Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor, who obstinately had the assistance of nine other committee members. The report, with strong dissents on some points, recommends:

"1. An independent audit of the uhf-vhf allocations problem [with a $500,000 allocation].

"2. An objective review of the Commission's mandate, management, operation and budget.

"3. The establishment of a communications office or authority as part of the Executive structure.

"4. An authoritative classified review of the radio spectrum requirements of the nation as a whole, conducted at Executive level."

The Commerce Committee sent the Bowles report to the FCC for its comment. Underscoring the fact it has not been acted upon by the committee, Chairman Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.), announced that "further action will be determined" after the Commission has replied.

In a section entitled "Additional Views of Edward L. Bowles," the author takes a verbal punch at the FCC and the method by which commissioners are appointed.

The actual report encompasses only eight pages of a 266 page document, with the remaining space devoted to Mr. Bowles' "additional views" and supporting brief.

"The Commission has wrestled with the television allocation imbroglia with negligible success," the report states in commenting on its first recommendation. The FCC has demonstrated its incapacity to deal with the problem without assistance while "piecemeal solution offers no more than an insidious panacea," Mr. Bowles' report maintains. It continues:

"There is need for a realistic evaluation of the economic, social and technical factors affecting the growth of commercial television broadcasting (including community tv) in order that national projections of growth may be made to guide the government, industry, and the public. To the extent that monopoly is inimical to the public interest, the government must insure that by the nature of its action or lack of action it does not engender the underlying causes.

"It is for these reasons that the ad hoc committee recommends that the Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee take the formal steps necessary to underwrite and monitor for the Commission an independent audit of the tv allocations problem. . . . The purpose of this audit would be to give the Commission a considered, comprehensive analysis of the national tv problem with detailed recommendations with respect to a nationwide allocation plan."

The report recommends the proposed audit be placed in the hands of a nationally recognized, professional institution and that "a minimum budget of $500,000 be immediately set aside to insure initiation of the project."

Housekeeping burdens obscure the Commission's more important functions, the report said in setting out reasons for the second recommendation. The FCC has given but passive notice to the section of the Communications Act enjoining it to study and encourage new uses of radio, the report stated. "One example is its reliance on interested industry, to the exclusion of independent study, for technical analysis involved in the allocations problem. It has no control over the scope or quality of this industrial source of information. . . . This situation is not simply unhealthy; it is tantamount to an abdication of responsibility. . . .

"Here is a vital matter needing examination. It is, therefore, recommended that a group be selected . . . to examine the Commission's mandate under the Communications Act, its organization, budget and management."

The report found the current method of assigning civilian (by the FCC) and government (by the President) spectrum space is undesirable. "In ordinary circumstances, a lack of overall unity may be simply inconvenient; in times of emergency, it can prove disastrous," the report stated. Also, it said, because of the 1959 international radio conference, there is "an imperative need for a critical study of the radio spectrum in terms of governmental and non-governmental needs. Clearly, such a study should be made under classified authoritative aegis at Presidential level."

On the overall allocations problem, Mr. Bowles stated: "To argue that it is too late to take any corrective steps is but to condone the lack of decisive action by the Commission over the past five years and to endorse this pattern as a tradition."

Mr. Bowles told the Senate committee that the following ad hoc committee members endorsed the report: Allen B. DuMont, Allen B. DuMont Labs; Donald G. Fink, Philco Corp.; Haraden Pratt, IRE, and consulting engineer A. Earl Cullum Jr.

C. M. Jansky Jr. and his alternate Stuart

L. Bailey, partners in an engineering firm bearing their names, wanted it emphasized that the additional views and supporting brief are the opinions of Mr. Bowles and not the individual committee members. They also said that the recommended establishment of an Executive communications office should be re-evaluated in the light of present knowledge.

Committee member William S. Duttera of NBC said that any audit of the uhf-vhf situation should function only in an advisory capacity to the FCC and disagreed with the recommendation to the extent that it might in effect replace the FCC in policy development. Mr. Duttera vetoed the proposed investigation of the FCC, pointing out congressional committees periodically review Commission authorization and operation.

Mr. Duttera also said that the third and fourth recommendations are outside the scope of the technical committee's purposes and directives.

CBS' William Lodge, in objecting to parts of the Bowles report, stated: "I feel that much of the criticism leveled at the FCC is directed at decisions which, with the benefit of hindsight, seem glaringly wrong, but which were based on reasonable assumptions at the time." He also disagreed with the recommendations for a uhf-vhf study and an investigation of the FCC.

Mr. Lodge asked that a committee meeting be held before the Bowles draft was submitted to the Senate Commerce Committee. "I believe that it is more forthright of me to state my position and to suggest that a committee meeting be held, than merely to dissociate myself from the committee's final action," he told the report's author.

Committee members Edward Kenehan, former chief of the FCC Broadcast Bureau and now with Haley, Wollenberg and Kenehan, and Ralph Harmon, Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. vice president, did not express their approval or disapproval of the report. Frank Marx of ABC and Comr. T. A. M. Craven, appointed to the Bowles group before he joined the Commission, both resigned from the special committee prior to the release of the report.

Mr. Bowles devoted a good portion of his "additional views" to a criticism of the FCC. Its operations, he charged, reflect "the insidious practice of meting out appointments as political favors. It would appear from recent appointments that there are no qualifications other than American citizenship and political acceptability."

Other additional views of the author:

- The FCC has not tried to make uhf work.

- Comparative cases are decided through an arbitrary set of criteria whose application is shaped to suit the instant case.

- The Commission should charge a fee to broadcasters for its service. "It seems strange that a tax should not be levied on the use of the radio highways," he said.

- A plea for pay television. "Can it be that there should be a dog-in-the-manger attitude when it comes to exploring subscription tv?" he asked. "This innovation could supply the incentive by which to give uhf a full opportunity to prove its worth, later rebounding to the advantage of free tv."

- Put the FCC on a judicial plane with lifetime appointments and larger salaries.

- A more careful selection of future commissioners with particular attention to their qualifications. "Morality, ethical behavior, comportment . . . and experience are not legislated," Mr. Bowles said. "Inadequate legislation can admit the weak and encourage the corrupt. Easy access to an office where the temptations are great is the fault of executive and legislative function."

The special ad hoc committee was formed by the Senate Commerce Committee in June 1955 to examine the allocation of tv frequencies and to advise the senators on technical matters. A first draft of the report was submitted last fall and met immediate opposition from some members of the Senate committee.

The only action taken on the report by the Commerce Committee was the authorization given to have it printed last March.

Maryland Court of Appeals Asked To Reverse Decision on Ad Taxes

Reversal of a court ruling that upset Baltimore city taxes on advertisers and media [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, July 14] was asked by the city government Sept. 19 in an appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals. Media counsel argued the taxes should not be imposed during 1958. The levies expire next Jan. 1, following the July court decision.

The court took the case under advisement. Joseph Sherbow, for WBAL-AM-TV and the Baltimore News-Post, argued repeal of the taxes (2% on gross advertising receipts, 4% on the advertiser) had resulted by public protest based on the fear basic freedoms would be lost. Richard F. Cleveland, for the Sunpapers, said loss to the newspapers would be $350,000 this year. Harrison L. Winter, WJZ-TV counsel, contended broadcasts can't be limited within the borders of a state.

Hugo A. Ricciuti, acting Baltimore city solicitor, held the issue before the court was whether the taxes impaired the ability of news media to disseminate news and information. He argued it had not been shown that the taxing power had been abused and the First Amendment did not apply.

Reprimands on Film Incident Go With Storer, WBC Renewals

The FCC last week notified Storer Broadcasting Co. and Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. that they violated Commission rules last March in presenting excerpts of films "discussing a controversial public issue" without revealing that the films were furnished by National Assn. of Manufacturers.

The Commission so informed the two licensees after renewing the licenses of Storer's WJW-AM-FM-TV Cleveland, WJBK-AM-FM-TV Detroit and WSPD-AM-FM-TV Toledo, and of WBC's KYW-AM-FM-TV Cleveland. In renewing the station licenses, the FCC said it is taking no further action "at this time" in view of the stations' over-all operation in the public interest, but said the violations are being associated with FCC files for the stations for such future consideration as the operation of the stations may warrant.

Storer's WJBK-TV and WVUE (TV) Philadelphia and WBC's KYW-TV ran excerpts of films made of the "Kohler hearings" held by a special Senate Labor-Management Committee last March. Storer denied knowing the films were furnished by NAM, while WBC said it did not believe its presentation of excerpts of the films with other material on news shows constituted a violation of FCC rules. Both denied violations.

The FCC said neither Storer nor WBC exercised the "diligence" required of a licensee, especially in view of the nature of the films ("public controversial issue"), and that although neither willfully violated FCC rules, the conduct of both fell "substantially short."

More than a score of other tv stations have been contacted by the FCC in regard to their presentation of the films [GOVERNMENT, April 21, et seq.]. The FCC action came after a complaint by AFL-CIO, whose United Auto Workers has been on strike against the Kohler Co. in Sheboygan, Wis.

Eisenhower Okays New Measure To Simplify Procedure on Appeals

President Eisenhower has signed a bill to permit the FCC to greatly reduce records and files sent to appellate courts in contested cases. The measure, HR 6788 (introduced by Rep. Emanuel Celler [D-N. Y.]), authorizes the courts to permit regulatory agencies to forward only those portions of the record pertinent to the appeal.

The bill provides that when appeals to the same decision are filed before more than one court, the court in which the first protest is lodged will hear the case. The court, however, may transfer jurisdiction to a second court if "the convenience of the parties and the interest of justice would be served." HR 6788 was passed by the House in July 1957. The measure was approved Aug. 14 by the Senate. It was forwarded to the White House Aug. 19.

FCC's Lack of Teeth Again Evokes Censure

A recurring question—whether the FCC should be given the power to impose penalties short of license removal—was up again last week. The forum: a post-hearing session of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) directed subcommittee staff member, Robert McMahon to read a memorandum he had prepared on the question of FCC sanctions. In it Mr. McMahon reviewed the history of the question, quoting both a Hoover Commission study and the FCC itself on the subject. The former (1) criticized the FCC for not formulating regulatory policy except at the request of the industry it regulated and (2) found that even when the FCC did try to impose regulatory sanctions it was "stymied by a lack of a tradition of enforcement. Its chain broadcasting regulations and its policies with respect to program content, for example, have been little more than pious statements of principles unaccompanied by vigorous attempts to secure compliance."

The FCC was quoted from a Don Lee case in which it agreed that the licensee merited punishment, but not so drastic a punishment as license removal. Having no middle course, it elected not to punish at all.

"Consequently," found Mr. McMahon, "once an individual or corporation has 'gotten away' with an illegal act, their doing so sets the stage for others to follow suit and the statute becomes meaningless."

Little further light was shed on the subject at the hearing. Chairman Harris called FCC Chief Counsel John L. Fitzgerald to testify on the matter, but he offered only the observation that the FCC could exercise control at the time of license renewal. Comr. Rosel Hyde declined an offer to testify, saying he would prefer to reserve his remarks until after release of the programming portions of the Barrow (network) report.

Chairman Harris observed that if a licensee disregards an FCC cease and desist order, it should have its license revoked.

Tube Maker Signs Consent Order

The Federal Trade Commission last week approved a consent order which prohibits Stanley Electronics Corp., Paterson, N. J., from selling radio and tv tubes without disclosing whether they are used or not of first quality. FTC issued a complaint last March charging that Stanley failed to disclose in its advertising and on cartons that the tubes were used, pull-outs, factory rejects or surplus. The company and FTC's Bureau of Litigation agreed to the consent order.

WILLINGLY QUOTED

The subject of quiz shows (which apparently will not down), moved two congressmen to comments last week. Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, said that although no formal investigation is planned, the subcommittee is in touch with the New York district attorney's office. Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.), ex-chairman of the subcommittee, said "public interest demands some more rules and regulations of tv programs."

A wisp of an even more potent threat came through Rep. Harris' comment when he added that even if the subcommittee does not investigate, it may recommend changing the laws which now are interpreted as barring the FCC from any concern with program content except for considerations such as obscenity and libel.

Wide-Swing Signal on Fm Mx Opposed by Northeast Radio

Stereo broadcasting using a wide-swing signal on an fm multiplex channel will make mx receivers available to the general public and allow legal "piracy" of background music services, according to Northeast Radio Corp., operating in the New York State region.

In a brief filed with the FCC in its multiplex case (Docket 12517), Northeast contended wide-swing fm stereo would prevent multiplex licensee users from having both background music and stereo on a multiplex basis.

The brief argued that FCC should only impose at this time the limitations necessary for protection of high-fidelity performance on the main channel. Northeast was described as the first multiple-program fm relay broadcast system, serving as the state-wide outlet for the new WQXR Network (New York). High-fidelity programs broadcast by WQXR-FM are relayed over five o&o stations and six affiliates. The network uses a sub-channel to furnish background music to subscribers of Magne-Tronics Inc.

A multiplex system, used by the network, is favored by Northeast. It is based on two high-quality program subchannels without degrading of main channel program transmission and reception. All fm stations now operating supplementary communications services would be eliminated from participation in the new stereo broadcast service, it is contended. The wideband adapter, using a subcarrier at a center frequency of 50 kc, would permit unauthorized listeners to receive communications, according to Northeast, and would force the network to suspend operations since the five basic network stations depend on superaudible remote-control signals and telemetering impulses in the super audible band.

The network says extensive tests show that high-quality program signals associated with two subchannels may be relayed over the network with no noticeable deterioration in quality, and without impairment of high-fidelity main-channel programs.

Proposed TWX Rate Hike Delayed 90 Days by FCC

The FCC last week granted a 90-day suspension of proposed increases in rates for private line teletypewriter services furnished by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union to radio and tv stations, news services, newspapers and others. The increased charges were scheduled to go into effect Wednesday (Oct. 1), pending outcome of an FCC investigation of AT&T and WU rates for such services. The FCC action moves this date to Jan. 1, 1959.

FCC said the proposed increases raise questions as to their "propriety" and possible effects on competition. NAB and other groups which had asked suspension of the rates were given leave to intervene in the FCC investigation, upon filing of proper notice.

JONES RELATES EFFORTS ON HILL

- Former FCC member recites work for Miami ch. 10 contestant
- Attorney's buttonholing precipitated Celler probe, he says

Further behind-the-scenes efforts in the Miami ch. 10 case came to light last week when it developed that former Congressman and FCC Comr. Robert F. Jones was instrumental in persuading Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.), to look into the "public policy question" of whether an airline should be permitted to own a television station.

Mr. Jones was a witness in the rehearing on the Miami vhf grant being held before Judge Horace Stern, retired chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The hearings began Sept. 8 [GOVERNMENT, Sept. 15, 22].

The hearings resume Wednesday, with John L. FitzGerald, newly appointed FCC general counsel and formerly chief of the Commission's Office of Opinions and Review, as witness. Mr. FitzGerald has been called by Paul A. Porter, attorney for Mr. Katzentine.

The first two days of last week's three-day hearings saw Thurman A. Whiteside, Miami attorney and friend of former Comr. Richard A. Mack, on the stand.

Mr. Jones said he was hired by Walter Compton, now an MBS newscaster but then a minority stockholder and proposed general manager of North Dade Video Inc., one of the three losing applicants. Mr. Jones said his mission was to "neutralize" the rumored political pressures allegedly being asserted on behalf of WKAT Inc. (A. Frank Katzentine), National Airlines and L. B. Wilson Inc. Mr. Jones was paid $2,000 for his work.

Mr. Jones said that his first recommendation was that North Dade file a petition for reconsideration and rehearing on the ground that the death of L. B. Wilson had changed the character of that application. The North Dade group vetoed that, he said.

He then considered the public policy question, he said, and spoke to the late Rep. Carl Hinshaw (R-Calif.), second ranking Republican on the House Commerce Committee, and Bert Wissman, minority clerk of the Senate Commerce Committee. Both informed him, he related, that their respective committees would not be interested in combatting the grant to National Airlines.

It was only after he spoke to Rep. Celler, Mr. Jones said, that he got some action. The New Yorker, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and of its antitrust subcommittee, injected the tv subject into an aviation hearing in May 1956.

He also told Judge Stern that a "critique" of the examiner's 1955 initial decision favoring WKAT Miami which was reviewed by Mr. Jones to show North Dade as the most desirable of the four applicants was given to Comr. T. A. M. Craven only after the final decision was issued Feb. 7, 1957. Comr. Craven abstained in the Miami ch. 10 case, Mr. Jones pointed out. He also said that he understood North Dade was not contemplating any further action in the case. North Dade, however, filed a petition for reconsideration a few days after the final decision.

The Jones study was found in Comr. Craven's office files when House Legislative Oversight Committee investigators and FBI agents were investigating the Miami ch. 10 case.

Mr. Jones' testimony was generally corroborated by Mr. Compton.

Earlier in the week, Mr. Whiteside related his associations with Mr. Mack, going back to college days.

He told of assisting Mr. Mack financially, but averred he kept no records until January 1956. From that time to June of 1957, Mr. Whiteside said, he loaned Mr. Mack varying amounts, totaling $3,850. He said all loans had been repaid to date, except for $250.

The Miami attorney related that he transferred one-sixth interest in G. C. Stembler insurance agency to Mr. Mack out of friendship and as a place for Mr. Mack when and if he retired from public life. In 1954 this company was merged with an insurance firm headed by Charles F. Shelden to become the Stembler-Shelden Insurance Agency Inc. During this time, Mr. Mack's "ownership participating" account was credited with $9,896.58, Mr. Whiteside said. These were from commissions collected on insurance he controlled, Mr. Whiteside said. In January 1956, Andar Inc. was "reactivated" and Mr. Whiteside turned over 100% stock interest to Mr. Mack. Mr. Mack's commission's were then paid to Andar Inc., Mr. Whiteside said, amounting to about $2,000 plus repayment of a $2,300 loan which Mr. Whiteside had made to Mr. Mack.

Mr. Whiteside said he was also approached to help by applicants in the Miami ch. 7 case and in the Charlotte ch. 9 case. He identified these as Jack Stein, a principal in South Florida Tv Corp., an applicant for Miami ch. 7, and Mitchell Wolfson, a principal in Carolina's Television Corp. applicant for Charlotte's ch. 9.

In both cases, Mr. Whiteside said jocularly, Mr. Mack voted against those he was trying to help.

Mr. Whiteside repeated the same story he had told the House Legislative Oversight Committee; that his great and good friend Judge Robert H. Anderson of National Airlines' law firm in Miami asked him to become an attorney of record, that he refused because he was cutting down on his law practice, but that he promised to help as a personal favor.

Mr. Whiteside described his conversa-

Mr. Whiteside again referred to a private litigation matter, in which Mr. Katzentine represented Mr. Whiteside's opponent, as "tantamount to blackmail."

Mr. Whiteside acknowledged that he has loaned Mr. Mack money since Mr. Mack returned to Miami after resigning his FCC post: $500 in July and $260 on Sept. 1.

John Rollins Stock Retirement Would Pass Control to Brother

Rollins Broadcasting Inc.—which in its own right and through two subsidiary corporations owns one tv station and seven am outlets—applied to the FCC last week for purchase and retirement to the treasury of 25% of the company's stock held by John W. Rollins for $500,000.

Rollins' balance sheet as of June 30 showed total assets of $482,817.13, including $221,630.05 current assets ($103,970.88 of it cash on hand), $53,750.00 investments (100% stock in the two subsidiaries) and $207,247.63 capital assets (total $331,631.57 less $124,383.94 depreciation reserve). Total liabilities were listed at $102,926.41 of which $94,884.68 was current liabilities and $8,041.73 capital liabilities. Total net worth was listed as $379,890.72 of which $100,000 was capital stock and $279,890.72 capital surplus.

One Quits New Orleans Case

The New Orleans Times-Picayune has filed a motion with the U.S. appeals court in Washington withdrawing its appeal from FCC's New Orleans ch. 4 decision. This followed expiration of a 60-day grace period during which the Times-Picayune's $3.4 million purchase of the New Orleans Item was subject to sale to any other party meeting the same financial terms [GOVERNMENT, July 21]. The sale was conditioned by the Justice Dept. on the Times-Picayune relinquishing its WTPS there and also giving up the appeal in the tv case. Sale of WTPS is contemplated but no final agreement has yet been made. The appeal of James A. Noe from the ch. 4 New Orleans decision still remains before the court, the argument having been heard last June. FCC granted New Orleans ch. 4 to Loyola U. (WWL there) in July 1956.

Crosley Loses Appeal On Indianapolis Ch. 13

The U. S. Appeals Court for the District of Columbia last week denied a petition by Crosley Broadcasting Corp. for rehearing by the full nine-member court of the court's decision last June 16 setting aside the FCC's award of ch. 13 in Indianapolis (WLWI [TV]) to Crosley.

The court vacated the FCC's grant to Crosley after an appeal by WIBC Indianapolis, one of three losing applicants for ch. 13, in which WIBC said Comr. T. A. M. Craven should not have voted because he did not sit in for oral argument. Comr. Craven was not a member of the FCC at the time oral argument was heard.

In an opinion written by Judge Wilbur K. Miller, the court last week explained why it held in its decision last July 16 that Comr. Craven's participation in oral argument had not been "clearly waived." While it was argued that any absent commissioner might take part (in oral argument) in the absence of any objection, the court said last week, Comr. Craven at the time was not an "absent commissioner"—he was not a commissioner at all.

To Crosley's petition that only three votes were necessary to control because four commissioners constitute a quorum and three votes would control the quorum, the court said that by this reasoning three votes would control no matter how many were present and voted.

"The truth is that when six voted, it took four to control," the court said. (The FCC vote was 3 for Crosley and 3 for others and Comr. Craven was asked by the other members to break the impasse.)

The two other contestants for ch. 13 were WIRE Indianapolis and Mid-West Corp.; the latter had received a favorable initial decision.

Of the present Commission, only Comrs. Craven and John C. Doerfer voted for Crosley. Comrs. Robert T. Bartley, Rosel H. Hyde and Robert E. Lee dissented. Voting for Crosley were former Comrs. George C. McConaughy and Richard A. Mack.

Last week's decision was handed down by Chief Judge Henry W. Edgerton and Circuit Judges E. Barrett Prettyman, Wilbur K. Miller, David L. Bazelon, Charles Fahy, George Thomas Washington, John A. Danaher, Walter M. Bastian and Warren E. Burger. Judges Edgerton, Miller and Washington ordered the June 16 decision.

WLWI has been on the air since Oct. 30, 1957, and Crosley has been operating the ch. 13 outlet pending the outcome of its petition.

Am, Fm Allowed Tv Sound Use

KDYL-AM-FM Salt Lake City was authorized by the FCC last week to use the aural transmitter of its tv affiliate there, KTVT (TV), to transmit stereophonic programs of music in conjunction with KDYL and KDYL-FM. The FCC waived its rules to grant the 90-day temporary authorization for periods of the day when KTVT is not scheduled on the air (late evening and early morning). Under the experiment, a listener can use the aural facilities of his tv set, in conjunction with his am or fm set, to receive the stereophonic broadcasts. Comr. Frederick W. Ford dissented on grounds the stations did not make a sufficient showing in their request for waiver of rules.

USIA Establishes Tv Arm; Romney Wheeler Named Director

The U. S. Information Agency announced Tuesday (Sept. 22) that it is establishing a separate tv service with NBC overseas executive Romney Wheeler as its director. Mr. Wheeler's appointment becomes effective Nov. 3, according to USIA Director George V. Allen.

Mr. Wheeler, 47, joined NBC in 1950. He has been the network's director of European Operations, managing director of NBC International and general European representative. He formerly was with the Associated Press and two southern newspapers.

Mr. Allen said USIA is increasing its tv activities to supplement American commercial output to over 450 tv stations in Free World countries, excluding the U. S. and Canada. The new service will supply tv stations with documentary films, special events coverage and features which depict various aspects of American life. The agency's tv activities heretofore have been handled by Voice of America, its radio arm.

Kentucky Broadcasters Propose Substitute Plan for Conelrad

The Kentucky Broadcasters Assn. has recommended scrapping Conelrad. In a letter to Brig. Gen. J. S. Lindsey, Kentucky civil defense administrator, they propose a substitute plan for broadcasting during enemy attack.

They would permit all am outlets to remain on the air at their regular frequency (fm and tv to go off if necessary) equipped for air-to-air pickup of signals from key stations. There would be one superpowered national station the signal of which could be relayed by every U. S. station. A similar arrangement would prevail on the regional and local level, with one key station conveying information to be relayed by the others.

The Kentuckians maintain this system would be less conducive to panic than Conelrad because it is in keeping with public habit. Under Conelrad, to prevent enemy aircraft from homing in on our stations, only participants in the system would remain on the air during attack, all using one of two frequencies. With all stations that remain on the air in a locality broadcasting on the same frequency and with the signal shifting rapidly from one transmitter to another, no one station could guide the enemy.

"Maximum community service was WRCV-TV's aim in erecting the tallest tower possible under the F.C.C. regulations," says Mr. Howard, pictured (left) with Henry E. Rhea, Director of Engineering, Radio and Television Division, Triangle Publications, Inc., operating WFIL-TV which cooperated in the construction of this 1109' Dresser-Ideco tower supporting stacked antennas for WFIL-TV and WRCV-TV in Philadelphia.

"Philadelphia viewer orientation problems were eliminated by centralizing all TV transmitter antennas.

"To WRCV-TV advertisers, our new antenna means the addition of 272,000 television homes or approximately 770,000 viewers — more TV homes than the coverage areas of Knoxville, Tennessee or Lincoln, Nebraska or Mobile, Alabama! It's almost as if Salt Lake City were moved into the WRCV-TV coverage area.

"WRCV-TV's taller tower is another plus for advertisers when they use the NBC station in the nation's fourth market!"

Dresser-Ideco design and construction features assure tall-tower safety...

"Confidence in Dresser-Ideco, in their engineering ability and reputation, were our reasons for selecting a Dresser-Ideco tower" said Mr. Howard.

A majority of the nation's tall tower owners share Mr. Howard's confidence in Dresser-Ideco, as evidenced by the fact that more than half of them own Dresser-Ideco towers. In fact, more towers in the 1,000 foot or higher class have been built by Dresser-Ideco than by all the other tower companies combined. This is an experience record that cannot be matched in the industry.

So when your new tower is in the planning stage... whatever the height, whatever the antenna and wind load requirements... you can place your confidence in Dresser-Ideco's proven ability to design, fabricate and construct the tower you need. Write us, or contact your nearest broadcast equipment representative.

For every broadcast antenna tower Dresser-Ideco builds, a complete file of design drawings is maintained. Whenever you may need counsel in the future on tower modification plans, this permanent record of your tower assures you prompt and accurate advice from Dresser-Ideco tower engineers. It's an important extra service from Dresser-Ideco, one of the nation's oldest tower builders... supplier of the diverse tower needs of the communications and broadcast industries for nearly 40 years past, constantly planning for continued leadership in the years ahead.

WXYZ, RCA License Renewals Subject to Pending Matters

The FCC last week granted license renewals to AB-PT's owned Detroit stations (WXYZ-AM-FM-TV) and of an RCA experimental tv station in Camden, N. J. (KE2XNY), but noted the renewals were granted without prejudice to what the Commission may finally decide on recommendations of the Network Study (Barrow) Report, related FCC studies and inquiries now being conducted, and, in RCA's case, "pending antitrust matters relating to NBC and RCA."

The FCC action was a continuance of its cautious policy toward approval of broadcast facilities operated by networks pending the outcome of the Barrow proceeding and antitrust litigation concerning CBS and NBC. The first such instance was in the Commission's approval of the purchase of WCAU-AM-FM-TV Philadelphia by CBS Inc. [GOVERNMENT, July 28].

Allen Explains USIA Plans

Stepped-up broadcast activities by the U. S. Information Agency were outlined by its director, George V. Allen, in an address before the Overseas Press Club in New York last Tuesday (Sept. 23). Construction of a new transmitting facility on the U. S. East Coast, to begin soon, will strengthen our radio signal in response to ever-increasing communist jamming, on which they are spending an estimated $100 million a year, Mr. Allen said. He also described growing emphasis on television by his agency which is establishing a separate tv service headed by NBC executive, Romney Wheeler (see story, page 62).

Industry Providing Programs For Soviet Exchange Project

The American broadcasting industry has been "most cooperative" in its participation in the East-West (U.S.-Russian) Exchange Agreement, signed earlier this year [GOVERNMENT, Feb. 3], according to Ambassador William S. B. Lacy of the State Dept.

All radio-tv networks as well as a dozen independent companies have submitted "comprehensive lists of programs for sale or exchange," on film and tape, to the Soviet Embassy as part of the U.S. end of the agreement, Mr. Lacy announced. The programs involved are of a purely entertainment nature. The State Dept. has also delivered documentaries on tv film for selection by Russian authorities. The East-West pact covers cultural, educational and technical exchanges over a two-year period and will conform "to the principles of reciprocity."

Bowron Suit to Trial Nov. 12

The million dollar damage suit by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Fletcher Bowron against ABC, Philip Morris, N. W.

Ayer & Son and Mike Wallace has been set for trial Nov. 12 in federal court in Los Angeles. The action, filed in January [AT DEADLINE, Jan. 20], is one of four suits against network, sponsor and agency charging defamation of character by Mickey Cohen, ex-gambler, on May 19, 1957, when Mr. Cohen was guest on the Mike Wallace Interview program on ABC-TV. Suits of William H. Parker, Los Angeles chief of police, and Capt. James Hamilton of the city's police intelligence squad were settled out of court [NETWORKS, Jan. 20]. Suit of C. B. Horrell, former Los Angeles police chief, is not ready for trial.

Adams Radio-Tv Appearance Sparks Equal Time Demands

Embattled Sherman Adams chose radio and television to announce to the nation his decision to resign as President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide [EDITORIAL Page 110]. Under fire from members of his own Republican Party as a result of disclosures by the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, Mr. Adams asked for and was given time early Monday evening (Sept. 22) on all three radio-tv networks and Mutual Radio to announce his decision.

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler immediately asked for equal time on all networks to reply to Mr. Adams. CBS, NBC and Mutual granted the Democratic request, putting Mr. Butler on the air Tuesday in the same time period granted the Presidential assistant. ABC, however, declared the request not valid and instead gave Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the subcommittee, air time to reply.

John C. Daly, ABC vice president in charge of news, special events and public affairs, said "the only controversial issue to warrant application of the FCC requirements [for equal time] . . . was the single reference in Mr. Adams' statement to a congressional committee whose membership is comprised of both major political parties." Accordingly, he said, the network offered time to Rep. Harris.

Flint Grant to Appeals Court

W. S. Butterfield Inc. and Trebit Corp. took their cases to the U. S. Appeals Court for the District of Columbia last week following the FCC's refusal earlier this month to reconsider its July 9 decision affirming its 1954 grant of ch. 12 at Flint, Mich., to WJR Detroit [GOVERNMENT, Sept. 15]. The FCC had denied petitions for rehearing by losing applicants Butterfield and Trebit and dismissed two actions against decision by WKNX-TV Saginaw, Mich. (ch. 57).

Pembina, N. D., Assigned Ch. 12

Allocation of ch. 12 to Pembina, N. D., was carried out by the FCC last week in response to a petition by KNOX-TV Grand Forks, N. D. (ch. 10), which has said it would apply for and build a tv station in the area upon such allocation. The allocation was made on condition that radiation of the station toward Winnipeg, Manitoba, be limited. KNOX-TV claims the station would bring a first tv service to a farming and trading area of 50,000 people.

And the fourth "R"—Radio—is strong, too!

It's a very healthy educational picture in Metropolitan Washington. 409 elementary schools. 88 secondary public schools. Well over 100 parochial and private preparatory schools. 21 universities and colleges. And more impressive than statistics on structures is the individual attention given the student. Current expense per public school pupil is $322—compared to the U.S. average of $300.* It's not that Metropolitan Washington sets a higher value on education. It's just that the efforts of officials and citizens alike seem to head the class.

Washington's fourth "R"—Radio—gets high marks as well, especially when you use Station WWDC. The July PULSE showed us with an average weekly audience share of 19.8%—almost two full points ahead of our closest competitor. And eight of our programs were in the Top 15. We have a simple formula—to be a listenable station to our audience, and a promotional station to our hundreds of national and local advertisers. The mutually happy result—ever-increasing listeners for us, ever-increasing sales for you.

NEXT NAB CONFERENCE: S.F. TODAY

- Last week: Niskanen says profits, not cost, should be stressed
- Hattwick suggests review of fundamentals of communication

NAB's Fall Conference series, programmed around basic operational problems of station management, enters the half-way mark Monday (Sept. 29) in San Francisco after meetings held Sept. 22-23 in Oklahoma City and 25-26 in Sun Valley, Idaho.

After three of the eight autumn meetings had been concluded, broadcaster delegates indicated general agreement that the 1958 agenda, running 1½ days, was living up to hopes of the NAB board and the headquarters staff.

NAB executives led discussion sessions at Oklahoma City and Sun Valley that included participation by a number of station executives, following the pattern at the opening conference held Sept. 18-19 in Biloxi, Miss. [TRADE ASSNS., Sept. 22].

Two advertiser executives were luncheon speakers last week—Dr. Melvin S. Hattwick, director of advertising, Continental Oil Co., at Oklahoma City Sept. 23, and William Niskanen, general manager of Pacific Trailways, at Sun Valley. At San Francisco Charles Stuart Jr., advertising manager of Bank of America, will address the luncheon on the final day.

After adjournment at San Francisco the fall series of NAB meetings will take a recess, passing over the World Series period and giving the NAB road crew headed by President Harold E. Fellows a chance to catch up with work back in Washington.

The last half of the conference series will start Oct. 13 at Milwaukee, Wis., moving to Minneapolis Oct. 16. The final two meetings will be held Oct. 20-21 at Boston and Oct. 27-28 at Washington.

Registration at Sun Valley totaled 140 the afternoon of the opening day, about matching the Oklahoma City and Biloxi attendance.

At Oklahoma City President Fellows said the decision of the Oklahoma Criminal Court of Appeals, denying a burglar's contention that presence of tv at the trial deprived him of a fair hearing, marked "a historic milestone that will be studied by future students of freedom of expression in this country."

He said broadcasters, representing the new electronic journalism, "have fought long and arduously for more than 30 years to establish their media on a basis second to none in serving the people in the area of news dissemination."

Broadcasters should constantly emphasize their ability to make money for their advertisers, Mr. Niskanen told the Sun Valley broadcasters. "Don't ever ask anyone to spend money with your station, or to buy time," he said. "But, rather talk about profits. Show that man how you can increase his profits. Be enthusiastic about helping him. Explain to him how your organization would like to join his team to help him increase his profits."

Mr. Niskanen said no American need apologize for the profit motive, noting "the search for profit is making our companies stronger and America greater." He said many businesses not using broadcast media should be advertising on the air, adding, "There are a lot of other advertisers you now have who need to advertise more. You can actually do these people a favor by selling your services."

He contended broadcasters should not depend merely on their sales managers or sales personnel to do the selling. "Your whole organization should be your sales department," he said. "Get everyone enthusiastic about increasing your own sales and profits. But, just as important, make them enthusiastic about increasing the sales and profits of the sponsors."

Competition within broadcasting as well as with other media requires leadership with "adaptive ability," Mr. Niskanen contended. "In both radio and tv," he explained, "it can be said if you are doing business today as you were doing it last year, you are doing it wrong. Let me caution you to be alert to these changing conditions, and also ask, as you leave this conference: Are you willing to go back to your business with courage to make the necessary changes, or are you going to keep whistling in the dark, hoping you can keep on doing the same as you have in the past? Are you going back to an easy-going, coasting type of relatively inactive leadership, or are you going back with a firm determination to have an enthusiastic, hard-driving, hard-hitting, alert organization that is sales and profit minded?"

People in consumer communications (agencies and media) often fail to headline a consumer benefit in their advertising, according to Dr. Hattwick. He told the Oklahoma City luncheon that those in the advertising industry agree their communications should be both true and believable. "A feel of the pulse of those to whom such communications are directed casts grave doubts that the communicators really know what constitutes either truth or believability in the minds of most people," he said.

Dr. Hattwick, traced these actions to the "ego-involvement" of communicators, saying, "Today's advertising shows a shocking amount of doing what advertisers say should not be done . . . and because of ego-involvement such advertisers are seldom aware of the damage they do to themselves."

The fundamentals of communication should be periodically reviewed, he said, and ego-involvement pitfalls should be understood. He cited the three fundamentals of effective communication as, "Keep it simple, headline a real benefit and make it believable." He suggested the "Truth in Advertising" movement be revived. The three principles of believable communication, he added, include, "That people's beliefs are based on feelings and emotions more than on reason (or even truth); that people believe what comes from an authoritative source . . . when that source is unquestionable; and that people believe what they want to believe, and what fits into their own experience."

At a Sun Valley radio panel Gordon McLendon, head of the McLendon station group, predicted that within two to five years radio will increase its share of the advertising dollar from 6 cents to 20 cents. This increase was tied to further development of the retail advertising market.

"Saturdays and Sundays will be as good as weekdays," he predicted, adding that radio's night tunein is only 20% under the daytime figure. "Newspapers can't match radio circulation in any market," he contended. He opposed superpower for radio stations and suggested the FCC should permit directional vhf tv signals.

Two NAB Technical Committees Appointed by President Fellows

Two committees serving in a technical advisory role were named last week by NAB President Harold E. Fellows. They are the Engineering Advisory Committee, one of the association's standing committees, and the Broadcast Engineering Conference Committee, which arranges programming for the annual technical meeting to be held during the next NAB spring convention (March 15-19, Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago).

Jay W. Wright, KSL-AM-TV Salt Lake City, was named chairman of the Engineering Advisory Committee. Other members are: Max H. Bice, KTNT (TV) Tacoma, Wash.; A. James Ebel, KOLN-TV Lincoln, Neb.; George E. Gautney, Gautney & Jones, Washington, D. C., president of Assn. of Federal Communications Consulting Engineers; Ralph N. Harmon, Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.; Joseph H. Mitchell, WFLA Tampa, Fla.; Frank Marx, ABC; James D. Parker, CBS-TV; Leslie Learned, MBS; Andrew L. Hammerschmidt, NBC.

Allan Powley, WMAL - AM - FM - TV Washington, was named chairman of the conference committee. Other members are: James H. Butts, KBTB (TV) Denver; John H. DeWitt, WSM Nashville, Tenn., NAB Convention Committee radio liaison; Joseph B. Epperson, WEWS Cleveland; Julius Hetland, WDAY Fargo, N. D.; Wilson Raney, WREC Memphis; James D. Russell, KKTV (TV) Colorado Springs, Colo., NAB Convention Committee tv liaison; Mel Burdill, KIMA-TV Yakima, Wash.; Raymond F. Guy, NBC; Messrs. Marx, Parker and Learned.

John Sheehan Succeeds Barrett As TvB National Sales Director

John R. Sheehan, Television Bureau of Advertising sales executive since February 1957, has been named TvB director of national sales, it is being announced today (Sept. 29) by Norman E. Cash, president. He succeeds Halsey V. Barrett, who has resigned effective Oct. 1.

MR. SHEEHAN

Two other sales appointments also were announced last week: Guy Cunningham, most recently with Outdoor Life magazine, and for over 10 years with CBS, has joined TvB's national sales division; Peter J. Krug, formerly tv-radio director at Calkins & Holden, New York, joins as a sales executive.

Mr. Sheehan's experience includes a vice presidency and directorship of tv-radio at Cunningham & Walsh, and tv-radio directorship at Buchanan & Co., as well as specialization in broadcasting and motion pictures with General Electric Co.

Mr. Barrett has been national sales director since 1955. His first broadcast post was with WOR New York in 1939, two years later moving to WNEW New York and after the war joining CBS. In 1948 he became associated with the old DuMont Television Network, holding spot and network sales posts.

Wis. Broadcasters Set Agenda

The agenda for the Wisconsin Broadcasters Assn.'s convention in Madison Oct. 10-11, in cooperation with the U. of Wisconsin, was announced last week by Mig Figi, general manager of WAUX Waukesha and WBA treasurer.

Meetings at the Lorraine Hotel will open Friday with a business session including election of officers and directors. Key talks will be given by Dr. Conrad Elvehjem, president of the U. of Wisconsin, and Dr. Ira Baldwin, assistant to the president. H. B. McCarty, director of the radio-tv education department, will discuss the university's broadcasting activities. Open house at its radio-tv studios will precede reception and dinner at the Lorraine Hotel.

Quaal Heads NAB Labor Group

Ward L. Quaal, WGN-AM-TV Chicago, has been named chairman of the NAB Labor Relations Advisory Committee by President Harold E. Fellows. Other members named to the committee were Richard M. Brown, KPOJ Portland, Ore.; Harold Grams, KSD-TV St. Louis; William Grant, KOA-TV Denver; Leslie C. Johnson, WHBF Rock Island, Ill.; Robert B. Jones Jr., WFBR Baltimore; John S. Riggs, WHAM Rochester, N. Y.; Calvin J. Smith, KFAC Los Angeles; Harold C. Stuart, KVOO Tulsa, Okla.; Richard L. Freund, ABC; William C. Fitts Jr., CBS; Joseph F. Keating, MBS, and B. Lowell Jacobsen, NBC.

Kops Re-Elected by AP Group; Radio-Tv News Needs Explored

Daniel W. Kops, president of WAVZ New Haven, Conn., and WTRY Troy, N. Y., was re-elected president of the Associated Press Radio & Television Assn. last week. His re-election was announced after a board meeting in New York of the organization—made up of AP broadcasters who act as liaison between 2,000 radio and tv member stations and AP's management.

The board also heard two reports, one by the APRTA news committee by Tom Powell, WGBI Scranton news director who is chairman; the other by AP Radio News Editor John Aspinwall.

Mr. Powell noted that a study made shows two groups of broadcasters asking for news reports with opposing objectives. One group—a majority segment—seeks an abundance of short items to supply a multiplicity of daily news programs, and the other wants more detail including background and interpretation. He also reported trends to an increasing use of local news and a demand for in-depth reporting.

Mr. Powell said there was a need for more regional and state news. Mr. Aspinwall told the board that steps already have been taken in many states to "beef up" the regional news file. Mr. Aspinwall also pointed up AP's policy of expanding five-minute summaries a few months ago as making the news wire "much more flexible and much more usable."

Also re-elected by the board to APRTA were Tom Eaton, WTIC Hartford, Conn., first vice president; Joe H. Bryant, KCBD-TV Lubbock, Tex., second vice president; Jack Dunn, WDAY-TV Fargo, N. D., third vice president; William W. Grant, KOA Denver, fourth vice president; Oliver Gramling, AP assistant general manager, secretary, and Robert Booth, AP's treasurer, treasurer.

Morton Re-Elected by Film Group

Maurice Morton, vice president, McCadden Corp., was re-elected president of the Alliance of Television Film Producers, association of 22 companies engaged in the production of film programs for tv. Other officers for the coming year are: vice president Armand Schaefer, Flying A; secretary, Bernard Weitzman, Desilu, and treasurer, Robert Stabler, Filmaster. Additional executive committeemen are: John Findlater, Revue; Archer Zamloch, Hal Roach, and Maurice Unger, Ziv.

All-Media Convention Agenda Arranged by Promotion Group

Emphasis will be on all media—print as well as broadcast—during the Broadcasters Promotion Assn.'s third annual convention-seminar in St. Louis Nov. 16-19, Elliott W. Henry Jr., ABC Central Div. and BPA president, announced last week.

Charles Lipscomb and Edward A. Fala-sea, president and creative vice president of American Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Bureau of Advertising, will speak at the opening session. Also scheduled are A. M. Snook, Chicago manager of Magazine Advertising Bureau, and a representative of Outdoor Advertising Inc.

A session, "breaking into print," will include talks by Jack Perlis, public relations counsellor, and Pete Rahn, radio-tv editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Dr. Thomas Coffin, NBC research director, and Dr. E. L. Deckinger, vice president and media director, Grey Adv., will analyze "rating madness." A "pick the brain" idea exchange is planned.

John F. Hurlbut, WFBM-AM-TV Indianapolis, is convention program chairman, and Don B. Curran, KTVI (TV) St. Louis, convention arrangements chairman.

The BPA convention will be open to all personnel in advertising, broadcasting and allied fields. Fee for all sessions is $30 for members and $35 for non-members. Registration is being handled by William Pierson, WBKB (TV) Chicago. Assisting Mr. Hurlbut in convention program planning are Carol Vinson, KSLA-TV Shreveport, La.; Clayton Kaufman, WCCO Minneapolis; L. Walton Smith, Transcontinent Television, Rochester, N. Y., and William Waler, WFGA-TV Jacksonville, Fla.

AAAA Central Unit to Discuss Agency Profits, Public Relations

Agency profits and public relations will be among major topics to be explored during the opening day management session of the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies central region's 21st annual meeting in Chicago Oct. 9-10. Workshop sessions will dominate the second day meeting for all agency members.

Baltimore, Chicago Chapters Formally Chartered by ATAS

Charters for new Baltimore and Chicago chapters of the Academy of TV Arts & Sciences have been ratified by the ATAS board of trustees, which met in Los Angeles, Sept. 10-11. The Baltimore chapter adds 102 members to ATAS and Chicago chapter an additional 500 members.

During the two-day meeting, the following business also was taken up:

- Recommendations for changes in the annual Emmy Awards telecast on NBC-TV. The changes now will be studied by a special committee before any action is taken.

- Shelving of a committee report that proposed including categories for tv commercials in the awards. It was unofficially learned that the report was tabled until such time "further study" may resolve possible conflict arising out of airing commercials of non-NBC clients. ATAS has a contract with NBC-TV under which that network has the option—until 1962—to air any and all Emmy award shows.

- Acknowledging the gift offer from Ampex Corp., Redwood City, Calif., to supply all three networks with free videotape for recording all award-winning live shows for inclusion in the ATAS archives.

Beverage advertisers led a national popularity survey of radio commercials conducted by John Blair & Co., station representative.

A commercial prepared by Leo Burnett Co. for National Tea Council was first, with a Tetley Tea commercial by Ogilvy, Benson & Mather ranking second. Winston Cigarettes, through William Esty, won third place followed by Pepsi-Cola, through Kenyon & Eckhardt, in fourth place. Budweiser, through D'Arcy Adv., was fifth and Slug-a-Bug, through Wesley Assoc., was sixth.

The survey included voting by 2,000 advertising and broadcasting executives nationally plus a Pulse Inc. consumer-check on spot radio commercials in the top 10 markets, results of which were correlated.

Votes were tabulated by nine marketing regions. In five of the regions, the area winner also placed among the national winners but in four areas a regional advertiser led the voting.

These regional leaders received special awards: Pepperidge Farms (Ogilvy, Benson & Mather), Mid-Atlantic states; Busch Bavarian Beer (Gardner Adv.), West South Central states; Hamm's Beer (Campbell-Mithun), Mountain states, and Butter-Nut coffee (Buchanan-Thomas Adv.), Pacific states.

The Blair company has conducted three surveys in recent years. R. J. Reynolds (Winston and Camel) and Anheuser-Busch (Budweiser) placed in all three.

TRANSISTOR radio is presented by Clifford Barborka (l), vice president and Chicago manager of John Blair & Co., to Leo Burnett of Leo Burnett Co., whose commercials for National Tea Council won top place in the Blair firm's latest spot radio commercial survey.

MANUFACTURING

Fm Tuner From Granco Designed To Cut Down Price of Receivers

Granco Products Inc., Long Island City, N. Y., last Thursday (Sept. 25) introduced a patented tuning device for fm receivers, which the company claims will expand the fm market substantially by reducing costs.

Company officials said at a news conference in New York that the low-cost tuner will be instrumental in creating "a mass market for fm receivers, now that the major obstacle of high cost has been eliminated." They declined to specify the percentage of the reduction, as compared with present tuners, but said use of the device will make possible the manufacture of high-performance fm receivers at a cost comparable to present am sets.

The tuner is no larger than a pack of king-size cigarettes and incorporates miniaturized components and original circuitry. Production tooling has been completed, officials said, and initial output has been set at 1,000 units per day.

Initially the device will be used in the 1959 line of Granco fm and am-fm radio receivers; later it will be made available to other manufacturers for use in equipment of their own design.

Science Fare Doubled by ETV's, Survey at Ann Arbor Concludes

Educational tv stations are doubling science programming this year, the Educational Tv & Radio Center, Ann Arbor, Mich., has announced. During a sample week in April ETRC found that among 27 stations surveyed, 89 hours of science was offered, compared to 47 hours for the same period last year. Stations increased programming by about 100 hours over last year, the survey found, ascribing the increase to more stations (27 this year vs. 21 last year); and the fact that the majority of stations are on the air longer. One station (WTHS-TV Miami) tripled its air time, ETRC found, while three others (WTVS [TV] Detroit, WYES-TV New Orleans, KUON-TV Lincoln, Neb.) each doubled program schedules. Four stations (WTTW [TV] Chicago, WCET [TV] Cincinnati, KUHT [TV] Houston and WHA-TV Madison, Wis.) reduced telecasting hours.

The outstanding change in 1958 etv, ETRC found, was a large increase of programming for in-school classroom work. This amounted to 18.8% of total program hours, compared to 5.3% last year. Also, the survey uncovered, 17 stations offered telecourses for which viewers received course credit, compared to 10 last year.

WTTW (TV) Raises Record Sum

WTTW (TV) Chicago has raised $272,031 in its 1957-58 fund drive, to be applied to operating costs and studio expansion.

This represents an increase of $50,000 over the sum collected in last year's community fund drive, according to Edward L. Ryerson, president of the licensee Chicago Educational Television Assn. He pointed out that, while WTTW's budget has been increased, viewers were asked to contribute less in the recent campaign. The station is deriving additional funds from contracts for national distribution of programs, tv college courses, closed-circuit production and use of its kinescope facilities by outside organizations and agencies.

Educational Video Projects Start on WPIX (TV) New York

The New York State Board of Education's tv project started Sept. 22 with 5 hours and 20 minutes of programs broadcast on WPIX (TV) New York to schools and homes in the area. Programs ranged from a Spanish lesson for elementary school pupils to a mathematics course for teachers and included lessons in science, music and physics. The programs are broadcast weekday mornings and afternoons.

WPIX became the second city channel in two months to begin telecasting language courses with a new series produced by Metropolitan Educational Television Assn. (META) titled French Through Television. The META course is telecast Mon.-Fri., 12:30-1 p.m. and consists of two lessons a week (Mon. and Tues.) which are repeated the next two days and then reviewed Fridays. A self-help pocket textbook, French Through Pictures, is available at 35 cents at newsstands; it is published by Pocket Books Inc. In August, WRCA-TV New York kicked off an early-bird English series for the growing Puerto Rican population.

New York Starts C-C in Schools

New York State has launched operation of its first permanent closed-circuit tv teaching system at Cortland, N.Y. The system began this month feeding Spanish lessons from a headquarters classroom to 32 receivers in classrooms of eight schools in three adjacent districts. Two-way audio circuits permit class questions and answers. Some 800 grade school students are participating initially with tv classes to include also spelling, geography, chemistry, art, English, reading and music.

KUAT (TV) Aiming for December

The U. of Arizona's noncommercial-educational ch. 6 KUAT (TV) Tucson has set Dec. 1 as target date to begin operations. With a $40,000 grant from the Fund for Adult Education, White Plains, N. Y., the university will add to the equipment with which it has been conducting closed-circuit classes for two years.

Educational Networking Essayed

In what was reported as a pioneering step toward educational fm-radio networking, WHYY-FM Philadelphia relayed a piano recital to WNYC New York, WGBH-FM Cambridge, Mass., and educational radio stations in Albany, N. New AFTRA Proposals Submitted to Networks

American Federation of Television & Radio Artists submitted its contract proposals to CBS, NBC, ABC and Mutual last week, seeking a basic 10% wage increase for performers in radio-tv.

It was understood the increase would go beyond 10% on an overall basis, since AFTRA also has proposed reducing the number of rehearsal hours, added payment for extra rehearsal and increasing rate of overtime pay.

Negotiations on videotape, which had begun in mid-summer, now will be merged with current discussions.

Present contract expires on Nov. 15. Networks are expected to make counter-proposals this week.

Network sources were reported to be "most disturbed" by demands relative to rehearsal restrictions. It is believed that these demands, in the long run, may exceed cost-wise the 10% wage request.

Other demands by AFTRA include one that would require networks not to feed any programs to affiliated stations which are having labor problems with AFTRA. A network official said this is not a new AFTRA demand but one dating back to the heyday of radio. He noted, however, that the networks never have acceded to this proposal.

Another AFTRA demand covering videotape is one considered by networks as "far-reaching in its implications." This proposal would call upon networks to telecast an AFTRA union label at the end of video programs, whether or not the program was AFTRA-produced. Though AFTRA has jurisdiction at the networks, outside program packagers—primarily those engaged in film—use Screen Actors Guild personnel. This demand could lead to network difficulty with SAG.

AFTRA also is seeking to reach a clear understanding with the networks on the sale of kinescoped or taped shows abroad. In the past, networks have considered stations as part of the network, granting foreign outlets affiliation status. In its contract proposal, AFTRA defines a network as consisting of two or more stations in the U. S. only, and thereby opening the way for payment on sale of taped programs abroad.

Musicians Hearing Delayed

Hearings on charges of dual unionism against approximately 100 members of AFM Local 47 in Hollywood that were to have started Tuesday [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Sept. 22] have been postponed at least until this week. On complaint of five of the accused musicians, Judge Bayard Rhone of Los Angeles Superior Court issued a temporary restraining order enjoining AFM from suspending or expelling the musicians, interfering in anyway with their employment opportunities or conducting any hearings against them. An order to show cause is to be argued today (Sept. 29) before Judge Rhone when the plaintiffs will seek to have the restraining order continued until their suit can be tried and decided in the court.

The suit, in effect, is a test of the legality of an AFM by-law prohibiting dual unionism on penalty of loss of membership. Since AFM has "closed shop" agreements in most areas of musical employment, except at the major film studios which have signed an agreement with Musicians Guild of America [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Sept. 1], the dual unionism rule would prevent any musician who accepts employment in motion pictures from working in any other field, the plaintiffs allege.

AFM Head Rattles Sabre Against 'Unfair' Employers

The possibility that the American Federation of Musicians will call for a consumer boycott against "unfair movies, unfair records or the sponsors of unfair television or radio shows" was raised Sept. 21 by Herman D. Kenin, president of the American Federation of Musicians.

Mr. Kenin sounded this warning in his first formal speech since he succeeded James C. Petrillo as AFM president. He told the New York Conference of Musicians in Newburgh, N. Y., that the "unfair employer" is one who "chooses cheap music over legitimate union music." Mr. Kenin earlier had attacked the practice by some employers of using "canned music," thereby displacing union musicians.

Without singling out any particular segment of the entertainment industry, Mr. Kenin asserted that the Federation will strike employers "who employ our members only where there is no alternative and who readily cast them aside for an inferior product at an inferior cost."

N. Y. SAG to Vote on Request For Merger of SAG, AFTRA

A resolution to be offered at a special meeting of the New York branch of the Screen Actors Guild on Wednesday (Oct. 1) calls on SAG to take "immediate steps" to implement a merger between SAG and the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists.

In the past, SAG has repeatedly rejected offers to consolidate with AFTRA [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Sept. 22]. The resolution, submitted by Carl Frank, a member of the New York local, adds that if the Council or Board of directors of SAG decides against a merger, "this matter should be submitted to a referendum of the entire membership of the Guild."

The agenda of the meeting also will include a discussion on AFTRA's petition to the National Labor Relations Board to hold an election among performers to select a single union to represent them in videotape. SAG has gone on record in opposition to the petition. A hearing on the petition will be held before an NLRB examiner in New York tomorrow (Sept. 30).

RADIO REPORTS REVENUE UPSWING

Radio stations look for business to be better for the last half of this year than in the same period of 1957—the highest billing year in history.

A Radio Advertising Bureau survey released Thursday by John F. Hardesty, RAB vice president and general manager, showed 87% of the stations responding to the poll expect their gross sales to be up from the totals they recorded in the last half of 1957.

The study, made public at RAB's Radio Management Conference at St. Clair, Mich., reflected greatest optimism among stations in medium-size markets. In these markets 91.7% of the stations looked for gains. Large-market stations ranked second with 90.9% of them expecting increases, while 83.3% of the small-market outlets predicted increases.

As between network affiliates and independents, the former were more optimistic: 94.9% of the affiliates said they expected gains, as compared to 82.8% of the independent stations reporting revenue gains.

As in the case of overall optimism, medium-sized markets led the others in amount of gains expected. In these markets the stations looking for any gains at all predicted they'd get a 10.5% increase, on the average, while the independents expected an average 13.9% rise.

Small-market independents predicted gains of 12.2%, small-market affiliates 4.8%. Large-market independents thought their billings would be up 10.6%; large market affiliates, 9.8%.

RAB officials expressed confidence in the survey, pointing out that stations replied under RAB assurances that neither their identities nor their estimates would be disclosed.

The Sept. 25-26 management conference at St. Clair was the sixth of seven being held by RAB this month. The last will be held today and tomorrow (Sept. 29-30) at Princeton, N. J.

Tv Classes Enter Second Week For Little Rock H.S. Students

Classes for students of four Little Rock, Ark., high schools start for the second week today (Sept. 29) on stations KARK-TV, KATV (TV) and KTHV (TV), all Little Rock [STATIONS, Sept. 22]. Each station plans to continue the educational service until the schools reopen or other arrangements are provided.

After Dr. Dale Alford, school board member, suggested the televised classwork plan, the three commercial tv stations offered their facilities. Within a week classes were scheduled and telecast on a regular week-day basis. Four 30-minute periods of instruction in English, mathematics, history and science are presented in two-hour daily sessions. Nearly all of the students have textbooks and are using them in conjunction with the tv lectures. Fifteen white teachers are instructing more than 3,000 white and Negro students in the integrated television classrooms.

The total of six hours of live and filmed instruction begins at 7 a.m. on KTHV for 11th grade students, and on KARK-TV for 12th graders. Tenth grade pupils turn their classes on at 9 a.m. over KATV. Supt. Virgil Blossom heads the program and Louis Henderson, supervisor of secondary education, plans the educational content. KTHV uses two classroom sets alternating classes between the sets. Each teacher spends approximately 30 minutes with the director and production manager before each tele-

Twentieth century scholars tracing the origin of writing believe that the ancient Egyptian word-sign for hank was the forerunner of our modern letter H.

PHOENICIAN

The people of Tyre squared off the form and used it to represent the first sound of cheth (fence). It was so written on the famous Moabite Stone dating back to the ninth century B. C.

GREEK

When sea-rovers carried their writing to the shores of Greece, the Hellenes adopted the sign and used it to represent their vowel eta.

ROMAN

In the city of seven hills, the H was altered somewhat. But since the Romans used the Greek E to represent the eta vowel sound, they gave H the sound we employ today.

Two Oklahoma City Stations Use Cameras in Appeals Court

Two Oklahoma City tv stations—WKY-TV and KWTV—covered sessions of the Oklahoma Criminal Court of Appeals last week, a precedent made possible by the court's Sept. 3, decision holding that broadcast media are entitled to equal rights with the press [LEAD STORY, Sept. 8].

The two tv stations picked up court sessions Sept. 24-25, using silent Auricon cameras and available light. WKY-TV telecast a 30-minute documentary Sept. 25, 9-9:30 p.m., tracing the history of the important judicial decision. The program showed how courts have been covered in Oklahoma for the last four years. It included comments by the three judges of the Oklahoma criminal tribunal and NAB President Harold E. Fellows.

Weeks Denies Excesses In Radio Commercials

A statement designed to pull teeth from accusations made by irked advertising agency spokesmen who have decried so-called "overcommercialization" in radio has been released by Paul R. Weeks, vice president and partner, H-R Representatives, station representative firm.

Mr. Weeks noted that in radio, a knowledgeable announcer "finds it easy and natural to break up a commercial sequence with a bit of straight entertainment. A time check, a station ID jingle, a diverting ad lib or topical joke, and a potential triple spot is nipped in the bud."

He said that unlike tv, radio networks take little of a station's time and option time does not impinge on peak hours. "Network breaks," he reminded, "are a full minute and since the great majority of radio commercials are minute spots, the necessity for triple-spotting seldom if ever occurs even on network stations."

He thought it rare for a radio station to place three spots back-to-back without spacing the spots with a newscast, a record or a weather forecast.

Chief point of Mr. Weeks' statement was that overcommercialization is not easily defined, and there's no proof that there's anything wrong with what is described as a "heavy commercial load" on radio station programming.

CONELRAD CONFUSION

A Conelrad weather bureau radio test in metropolitan New York backfired Thursday (Sept. 25) when an engineer at WRCA New York pushed the wrong button. The weather bureau from 17 Battery Place in New York midway through the afternoon teletyped a test emergency weather forecast under "Conelrad procedures." The bureau "announcement" warned of a frigid blast of air moving into New York and vicinity from Canada and bringing with it heavy snows, a drop in temperature to 10 degrees and high winds—conditions "likely to produce one of the worst blizzards in many years."

The wire was rushed to an announcer who read the message into what he thought was a microphone set up for a closed-circuit test. Instead, the announcement went over the air. More than 1,000 calls came into WRCA, NBC Radio's owned and operated station, and 17 Battery Place similarly had a lit up switchboard. At the time, temperatures in New York were about 80 degrees. The true weather forecast—fair and warm.

agencies offered support. They will endeavor to make time available on their serviced programs. Individual station owners such as J. S. (Dody) Sinclair of WJAR-AM-TV Providence, R. I., are urging their colleagues to back the U. N. The Providence station is adding the U. N. logo to its letterhead [OPEN MIKE, Sept. 8].

Support will be given by Advertising Council, which is sending to 3,100 radio and 525 tv stations special kits containing word of U. N. Day.

Newsorthy News Coverage by Radio and Tv

LOS ANGELES—Twenty minutes after actor Marlon Brando's wife discovered her Japanese maid drowned in the family swimming pool on Sept. 11 KTLA (TV) Los Angeles was on the air with picture and sound from the scene with its flying television station, the KTLA Telecopter. Viewers saw the body being removed from the pool and carried to an ambulance. KTLA twice interrupted its programming for the Telecopter reports.

HOUSTON—The newsroom at KILT Houston, Tex., was activated to full staff Sept. 4 as hurricane "Ella" threatened to ruffle her skirts along the Texas Gulf Coast. News director Joe Long and newsman Bill Gill left to report weather conditions from the Gulf of Mexico. During the period of the hurricane's approach from 6 a.m. through midnight, Sept. 5, KILT broadcast a total of 49 on-the-spot reports from the New Orleans Weather Bureau, the Coast Guard, Civil Defense offices, the Red Cross and from reporters located at strategic coastal points. During the storm coverage period KILT received 27 long-distance requests for tapes from 19 other stations.

TWIN CITIES—When WCCO-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul signed on the air at 7 a.m. Aug. 28, viewers saw the first films of the burning wreckage of a Northwest Airlines plane which had crashed on take-off from Minneapolis' Wold Chamberlain Field at 3:30 a.m. The DC-6B airliner, carrying 56 passengers and four crew members, en route from Washington, D. C., to Seattle, Wash., crashed and burned at the end of the runway, but with no loss of life or serious injuries. Within 45 minutes of the crash, WCCO-TV cameramen and reporters were on the scene as well as at hospitals to interview the survivors. By sign-on time the station had processed and edited more than 2,000 feet of film. Five special crash telecasts, with sound-on-film interviews, were presented between 7 and 9 a.m.

KIMO, KFOX Announce 30% Cut For Set Manufacturing Clients

To get radio set advertising "back where it belongs," the Major Market Group stations KIMO Independence, Mo., and KFOX Long Beach, Calif., are offering an extra 30% discount to all set manufacturers or retailers buying spots to advertise radios.

"The most effective medium for selling radio sets is clearly radio," the KFOX-KIMO announcement stated. "On radio the set manufacturer or retailer reaches the market that uses and buys radios. There's absolutely no waste. But too few manufacturers are doing any kind of a job to sell sets in any medium, much less in radio."

Noting that "our stations and all radio stations have a stake in the sale of more radio sets," the MMG announcement continued: "Through this incentive, we hope to induce more manufacturers and retailers to awaken to the huge opportunities in the radio set field."

The MMG research department estimated that in 1957 more than 720,000 radio sets were purchased in the Los Angeles and Kansas City markets covered by the two stations, "the largest number of units of any appliances sold in those markets, although almost the least promoted item in the appliance or electric housewares field."

CHEERS from several thousand Texans greeted McLendon radio stations' endurance pilots Jim Heth and Bill Burkhart as their Cessna 172, "The Old Scotchman," landed at Dallas-Garland airport Sept. 21, after completing a record-setting 1,200 hours of continuous flight. The old record, 1124 hours, was set in 1949. The new record holders flew for 50 days and nights over Texas and Louisiana cities where McLendon stations are located. Supplies were picked up daily at the Dallas airport in the manner pictured. Co-pilot Jim Heth leans out as Mr. Burkhart swoops the plane low over the speeding supply truck. Among the greeters at the airport welcome were representatives of KLIF Dallas, major sponsor of the flight. Other McLendon stations participating were KILT Houston, KTSA San Antonio and KEEL Shreveport.

ATV of England Purchases Australia Radio-Tv Interests

Associated TeleVision Ltd. (ATV), London, England, has announced the purchase of Broadcasting Associates Pty. Ltd., Sydney, Australia. Purchase price was not divulged, but the transaction was described as the largest in Australian broadcasting history. Properties, formerly owned by the London Daily Mirror and Sunday Pictorial Newspapers, include a substantial interest in a tv station in Sydney and ownership of radio stations in Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, Canaberra, Wollongong and Young, as well as a partnership in the MacQuarie Network, largest in Australia.

Also included in the transaction were the studio facilities of Artransa Radio Transcription Service, recently modernized and equipped at an expenditure of more than $1.5 million for the production of film programs and film and radio commercials, reportedly giving ATV a dominant position in that field as well. Although ATV in July joined forces with the Jack Wrather Organization of Beverly Hills, Calif., to form Independent Television Corp., $12.5 million international tv distributing, sales, financing and production organization [FILM, July 14] which has also acquired Television Programs of America for an additional $11.35 million [LEAD STORY, Sept. 22], neither Wrather nor ITC is involved in the Australian purchase of ATV.

John Patience of Sydney, board chairman of Broadcasting Assoc. Pty. for several years, will remain in that capacity as operating head of the Australian properties.

ANOTHER RED LAUNCHING

The Soviet Union is reported to be ready to start color television in 1959, according to Russian claims. Radio Liberation, a private American agency which beams broadcasts to the U.S.S.R., last week circulated a report carried by the Soviet European service, which stated that Moscow tv stations will commence the first transmissions of tv color the beginning of 1959. Several months ago, the news service said, tests in color television by Russian engineers were shown to members of the International Congress on color television and the presentations were called "extremely successful."

You get better pictures with Du Pont film

KBET's chief cameraman Paul Meeks filming a commercial on Du Pont Type 930 film. At the desk is news director Hank Thornley.

"930 and 931 give us high speed with no loss of quality"

reports Paul Meeks, chief cameraman at KBET-TV, Sacramento, California

"The exceptional latitude and speed of Du Pont Rapid Reversal Film are the main reasons why we've used it since we went on the air in 1955," Mr. Meeks tells us. "And quality is never sacrificed; in fact, we prefer the quality of Du Pont 930 and 931—both picture and sound—over other films."

Station KBET-TV must give newsreel coverage to political events, court and legislative hearings where special lighting is barred. "Often we haven't time to take a meter reading," says Mr. Meeks. "We count on the speed and exposure latitude of Du Pont film. It hasn't let us down yet. Proof of the film's quality," he concludes, "came on a recent assignment when we finished shooting at 4:45, rush-processed the film for the evening news show at 5:30. Even with fast processing, a single 16 mm frame was good enough to blow up to 4 x 5 for the newspapers the next morning."

If you need speed and latitude for your motion pictures, and can't afford to lose quality, there's a Du Pont film for you. Contact the nearest Du Pont Sales Office, or write for more information to Du Pont Photo Products Department, 2420-2 Nemours Building, Wilmington 98, Delaware.

New Series Initiated on Cruise

World premiere promotion of the new Yancy Derringer series slated to start on CBS-TV Oct. 2 was held in New Orleans Sept. 18-20 by Needham, Louis & Brorby Inc. on behalf of the program's sponsor and agency client, S. C. Johnson & Son. (Johnson's wax).

The premiere, held in New Orleans because of the program's setting in that city, was attended by civic officials, newspaper tv columnists and executives from S. C. Featured stars (Jock Mahoney, Frances Bergen, others) took part in the civic welcome and reception, visits to historical sites and local radio-tv interview shows.

The series will be carried by CBS-TV Thursdays, 8:30-9 p.m. EST.

NBC-TV Expands 'Today' Coverage

NBC-TV's Today program (Mon.-Fri., 7-9 a.m.) will implement several changes in format, starting Oct. 6, and including an expansion in its news coverage, the introduction of regular "columns" on sports, fashion, food and home decorating, and the launching of a talent showcase for young professionals. Charles Van Doren, tv quiz winner, joins Today on Oct. 6 as news feature editor, and his column will deal with interviews with "unusual people" and reports on scientific and educational developments.

WCSC Distributes Market Study

The first copy of a new market study prepared by WCSC Charleston, S. C., entitled "Modern Charleston, South Carolina, Is Big," a four-color brochure being distributed to agency executives, advertisers and sales managers, has been presented by John M. Rivers owner of WCSC, to William McG. Morrison, Charleston's mayor. The study tells the story of Charleston's growth and history as a market for advertisers' goods.

MORNING REMINDER

RAB's cup runneth over, with reason. When 18 top marketing-advertising executives representing RCA, General Electric, Zenith, Motorola, Westinghouse and Philco opened their morning mail one day last week and found themselves the recipients of a white brassiere, it was no mixup. It was a deliberate plot hatched by Radio Advertising Bureau to convince these men to advertise their radio sets on radio.

Tucked between the folds of the bra, they found this note from RAB President Kevin Sweeney:

"You probably know someone who wears one of these contraptions. But a bra manufacturer with even a rudimentary idea of marketing strategy wouldn't direct his advertising to you. He'd aim it at the users—women. Doesn't it make equal sense for you to advertise your radio set line to the people who use radio sets, i.e. people who are radio listeners rather than those who get their news and entertainment from other media? Radio advertising is clearly the best way to reach the users and buyers of radio sets."

RAB explained its mailing of the brassieres (and disposable diapers a few days earlier) by saying it wanted to show—dramatically—"the absurdity of radio sets being advertised any other place than on radio."

WKRC-TV Schedules Drama Class

WKRC-TV Cincinnati will televise an earlybird college credit course in drama as a weekday feature starting Sept. 23.

Offered by Our Lady of Cincinnati College, the tv course, entitled Drama at Daybreak, will be conducted by Dr. Siegmund Betz, professor of English, at 7:30 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. The half-hour sessions will include dramas ranging from English morality plays to contemporary dramas. Three years ago WKRC-TV telecast a psychology course for credit given by the U. of Cincinnati at 9 a.m. on Saturdays. The station received national attention when its tv "class" received higher grades than a "pilot" class on campus, WKRC-TV reported.

75,000 Cars Bear KXYZ Emblem

Since KXYZ Houston, Tex., launched its "Safety Foremost" promotion June 16, safety stickers with the station's call letters have been affixed to more than 75,000 Houston automobiles, KXYZ announced. Motorists are requested to display the emblems on the rear windows of their cars.

Each KXYZ safety emblem carries a registration number which is entered on an entry blank, obtainable at more than 1,000 Foremost Dairies dealers or 184 Texaco service stations in the area. Ten times each day KXYZ calls out a lucky number for over $1,300 in prizes offered each day.

Motorists having the winning number are required to call Foremost Dairies before 4 p.m. the same day. A traffic violation during the previous 30 days disqualifies a winner.

KYW-FM Airs Salzburg Festival

KYW-FM Cleveland, Ohio, on Sept. 22, began programming each weekday evening from 8-10 p.m. concerts heard at Austria's Salzburg Music Festival, which was held from July 26 to Aug. 31. Special arrangements were made through the Broadcast Foundation of America in cooperation with Radio Salzburg to broadcast 15 separate concerts. Included in the series are the operas "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, Beethoven's "Fidelio," Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte" and Samuel Barber's new "Vanessa," with the original Metropolitan Opera premiere cast.

WBZ-FM Surveys Listeners

WBZ-FM Boston has announced the results of an audience survey of fm listening patterns. Results were obtained from 644 postcard replies to questionnaire sent to 966 persons who have previously participated in a special WBZ-FM merchandise offer. By correlating survey answers the station has defined its "average" listener as being 36 years old and in the upper-middle income bracket. The average listening time per day, according to the survey, is four hours. The average listener's home has 1.42 fm sets. 50.4% of listeners have components sets, 49.6% use package sets.

WLW 'Copter to Speed Traffic

Delays in morning and evening traffic rush hours may be avoided by Cincinnati, Ohio, motorists who listen to the helicopter reports of traffic conditions presented by WLW Cincinnati. The traffic report service was inaugurated Sept. 15, in cooperation with the Cincinnati Police Div. Broadcasts from the Bell 47H-1 helicopter are made in the 7:30-8:30 a.m. portion of WLW's Clockwatcher program, and from 4:45 to 5:45 p.m. on the Rollin' Along show. At least six reports are made in each period. WLW announced. The new public service feature is sponsored by the Shell Oil Co.

WWRL, WHOM Enter N. Y. Parade

WWRL Woodside, L. I., and WHOM New York, competitors for German and Spanish-Puerto Rican audiences in New York, joined hands in a project on Sept. 20. The stations entered a float jointly in the first German-American Steuben parade in New York City. The float took the form of a rocket and was dedicated to rocket expert Werner Von Braun.

Would you call this fair play?

Hardly—yet you face the same kind of unfairness with some of your taxes

The referee in this picture is doing something no official in his right mind would do. He's tackling the ball-carrier, and thus giving an unfair advantage to the opposing team. In a similar way, federal laws give certain people an unfair tax advantage over you and most Americans. Here's how:

About 23 cents out of every dollar you pay for electricity goes for taxes. But under present tax laws, several million families and businesses escape paying most of the taxes in their electric bills that you pay in yours. They are people whose electricity comes from federal government electric systems.

And what's more, the taxes they escape have to be made up by other people—including you!

Most Americans think everyone should pay his own fair share of taxes. Don't you agree?

SUCCESS

STORIES

One of a series of salutes to successful TV stations across the nation . . . and to the Northwest School graduates who have contributed to their success.

WDAY

TELEVISION • RADIO

FARGO, NORTH DAKOTA

Tom Hofsommer joined WDAY-TV in May, 1956, as a film editor. His quick grasp of this job, along with his general knowledge of the other phases of television, paved the way for his present position in TV Sales-Service.

Ed Engelen is, at the present, a TV cameraman with WDAY-TV. His natural ability in the various technical aspects of studio operations has made him a valuable asset in local-live productions. Ed has been on the WDAY-TV staff since May, 1955.

WDAY Station Manager, Jack Dunn

WDAY-TV inherited one of the pioneer call letters in the world of broadcasting when it went on the air back in June 1953. WDAY-Radio, the oldest broadcasting station in the northwest, began its operation back in May, 1922.

WDAY-TV serves the fabulous Red River Valley from Fargo, North Dakota, and is affiliated with both NBC and ABC. In a few short months, WDAY-TV's coverage area will be doubled when its new 1206 ft. tower goes into operation. This increase in tower height plus the increase in power to the maximum 100,000 watts will give WDAY-TV a 60% increase in audience in the tri-state area of North Dakota, Minnesota, and South Dakota.

Station Manager Jack Dunn of WDAY-TV, says: "Our two Northwest Schools' graduates have proven to be excellent employees. Ed Engelen is a competent technician in several phases of studio operations; Tom Hofsommer, originally employed as a film director, has been promoted to an account executive in TV Sales and is doing an excellent job."

NOTICE TO EDITORS—For more than 30 years, Metropolitan Life has sponsored advertising messages on national health and safety. Because of public interest in the subject matter of these advertisements, Metropolitan offers all news editors (including radio news editors), free use of the text of each advertisement in this series.

The text may be used in regular health features, health columns or health reports with or without credit to Metropolitan. The Company gladly makes this material available to editors as one phase of its public-service advertising in behalf of the nation's health and safety.

A good school year often starts in the doctor's office

Your child will soon be off to school—with thirty-nine and one-half million other children—the largest enrollment in our country's history.

Naturally, you hope your child will stay well and do well throughout the school year. To help him do so, why not take him to your doctor now—before school opens—for a thorough health examination?

This is important for all children, but doubly so for the "beginner" who may be exposed for the first time to the communicable diseases. The child should be protected against whooping cough, polio, diphtheria, smallpox and tetanus.

If he has already had "shots" for these diseases, it may be time for "booster doses." These increase protection or hold it at such a level that the child is more able to resist the disease to which he is exposed.

A pre-school check-up may reveal unsuspected defects of the eyes or ears. A child who has impaired hearing or vision cannot do his best work at school. Besides getting low marks, he may become discouraged or at best have difficulty in making adjustments.

Your doctor can also advise you about improving your child's health habits to increase resistance to colds and other respiratory infections that keep so many children away from their classrooms.

What about older children—teen-agers especially? They, too, should have health examinations. The doctor's advice on physical development and emotional problems can ease many worries that beset adolescents.

When parents, doctors, and teachers work together, the school years can be made more healthful.

"Ad Age does a first-rate job for me..."

says MAXWELL DANE
Vice-President and General Manager
Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc.

"Advertising Age does a first-rate job in keeping me posted on what's happening in the field of advertising. Its news reporting is reliable as I have discovered on the occasions when I personally knew the facts—and its reporters are always digging for the whole story. And, of course, the Ad Age annual report on agency billings has become the bible of the business."

"The whole story"—on time—all the time—52 weeks a year! That's why admen rely on Advertising Age's fast delivery of the who, what, when, where, why and how of developments in the advertising-marketing world. What's more, they value the penetrating analyses of trends, and file (for repeated reference) the special roundups and surveys. Check on it: you'll find that the executives who influence as well as those who activate today's market and media decisions count on Ad Age's services of quantity, quality and timeliness.

Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc. is just one example from AA's nationwide audience. Ranking among the important agencies in broadcast, DDB placed $6,500,000* in radio-tv billings in 1957. Included in its accounts are such broadcast-minded advertisers as Chemstrand Corp., E. & J. Gallo Winery, Polaroid Corp. and Philip Morris Inc.

Every week 45 paid-subscription copies of Ad Age bring Boyle Dane Bernbach executives the news and developments affecting them. Further, every Monday, 23 paid-subscription copies reach the offices and homes of advertising and marketing professionals of the companies mentioned.

Add to this AA's more than 42,000 paid circulation, its tremendous penetration of advertising with a weekly paid circulation currently reaching over 12,500 agency people alone, its intense readership by top executives in national advertising companies—and you'll recognize in Ad Age a most influential medium for swinging broadcast decisions your way.

in Atlanta nothing gets RESULTS like the WSB radio service

Results of a recent "test run" by the Citizens & Southern Banks of Atlanta are revealing. A scenic booklet was offered listeners of 7 Atlanta radio stations.

WSB Radio accounted for 43.5% of the total 7-station response. This was $2\frac{1}{2}$ times the return of the second station. WSB scored more requests per commercial minute—6 times as many as the second station. WSB's cost-per-request was the most economical—68% less than that on the second station.

Here again is proof that it pays advertisers to go first class in Atlanta. Certainly your advertising belongs on WSB Radio.

Use tv as a rifle, not a shotgun, to do business with the farm market

Television today is a half-awakened giant in the cornfield . . . yawning and stretching and wondering whether it can successfully sell Farmer Schultz of RFD, Turkeytown, Minnesota. This giant needs reassurance, guidance, and especially encouragement to persevere in programming towards farmers, and in selling advertisers on the opportunities created.

Its enthusiasts may be surprised that there is any question tv can sell farmers today. Of course it can! Like other consumers, farmers watch tv entertainment programming, both network and local. They respond to tv's cigarette, auto, and toothpaste advertising.

But we are on a different topic here. This is the strictly agricultural market. It is not small town, nor rural non-farm. Small town and farmer may have similar entertainment tastes and consumer purchasing patterns, but the farmer also buys in the capacity of producer. The non-farmer is zero market for combines, spreaders, hog feed and mastitis remedies.

Our area of analysis is thus narrowly defined: the farmer in the role of purchasing agent for his agricultural factory.

First, let's dispose of a possible misconception. The big problem facing advertisers who would use tv to reach farmers as producers seldom involves set circulation. Television set ownership by farmers has already reached formidable proportions in most areas. And nobody questions that the farmer really uses his tv set.

So, what's the problem?

The heart of it is tv's cost per 1,000 farmers reached. Waste coverage, defined as everybody who is not a farmer, is an enormous factor on most stations. Moreover, in any mixed agricultural area some farmers are always outside the market for a particular agricultural item. Even in a strong poultry area, the hybrid chick advertiser may waste some of his tv dollars on farmers who only milk or have orchards. The groundswell toward increasing specialization in agriculture tends to work away from mass media, including tv.

Advertisers whose product lines are partly agricultural and partly consumer and/or industrial are in less of a bind. They can use at least part of the non-farmer audience. For example, truck manufacturers might use farmer-directed tv with confidence that some of the non-farm audience—smalltown building contractors, etc.—also buy trucks. For companies whose product mix includes both agricultural and consumer products, farmer-directed tv can do double duty, because farmers are also consumers.

For the straight agricultural advertiser, however, waste coverage forces extremely selective buying, market by market, careful comparing of cost against number of farms (of the desired type) reached and anticipated results. Network programming for farm products is out, as are most big-city stations and many smaller-city stations beaming into marginal farming areas.

This ultra-selective approach now is being used by major advertisers of agricultural products. The trouble lies in its logical corollary: If tv's advertising umbrella can be profitably opened only in hand-picked markets, it seldom can be spread wide enough to provide complete coverage for any broad agricultural region such as the great corn-hog region in the Midwest. And, lacking the potential for complete coverage, major advertisers in farm lines tend to consider tv a supplementary medium to reinforce such media as general farm publications and radio.

But maybe tv stations have a liability here they can turn into an asset. After all, many agricultural products are heavy, bulky commodities like fertilizer, feed, etc. Their freight costs are substantial and tend to limit their effective competitive area. Many agricultural brands, therefore, remain local within a state, or perhaps cover parts of two to four states. For example, in the whole $3 billion formula feed industry there is only one national brand and probably not more than another dozen that are really multi-regional.

On the other hand, there are over 5,000 more or less local feed brands. Here may lie a big opportunity: where tv coverage maps coincide with limited distribution patterns. For medium and smaller feed manufacturers a single tv station, or perhaps a combination of a few stations, might provide complete coverage of their marketing area, without excessive waste.

This is theoretical. The operative question here is: to what extent are different sized advertisers really using tv to sell farmers?

A station survey we made earlier this year threw some light on this. Area surveyed covered the 12 North Central States—the traditional Corn Belt—with 131 commercial tv stations co-operating. Almost one-quarter reported no regular programming directed towards farmers. The other 76% reported an average of 1¾ hours farm programming per week, 38% sponsored. That is, only 3 out of 8 midwest farm programs were sponsored.

The significance of these figures is increased by the timing of this survey, which was during one of the important advertising seasons for many agricultural products.

Furthermore, the most frequently reported type of sponsor was in the animal health product classification. These are chiefly two national advertisers who also run heavy schedules in other farm media.

Let's conclude on a note of optimism. Stations surveyed were strongly bullish on future prospects for agricultural advertising. Many volunteered that 1957 agricultural advertising was well ahead of 1956. Among reasons offered were increased know-how on farm programming and availability of farm programs. It appears that the giant in the cornfield is really awakening! His problems may be greater than with consumer products, but the harvest is reported to look promising.

Leaning Over Backward

THE networks which gave Democrats equal time to "answer" Sherman Adams' resignation speech last week have invited trouble for themselves and other broadcasters. From now until the end of this political season, politicians will cite the incident as precedent for claims to free time.

Under the law, the networks were not obliged to grant Mr. Adams time in the first place. It made good sense, however, to do so. There was no bigger news story to be had than an announcement by Mr. Adams of his plans. The networks would have been fools to reject the opportunity to break it.

Under the same law, the networks were not obliged to give anyone equal time to comment upon Mr. Adams' appearance. The law requires equal treatment only for candidates. If there is anyone without the prospect of becoming a political candidate soon, it is Mr. Adams.

CBS and NBC gave equal time to Paul Butler, Democratic chairman, and ABC gave equal time to Rep. Oren Harris, whose committee created the Sherman Adams case, on grounds of fairness to both sides. Fairness in the presentation of rival views is a fundamental principle of good journalism. The trouble arose last week in the application of the principle.

It was not necessary to deliver a full 10 minutes on the facilities of three radio and television networks to Messrs. Butler and Harris to fulfill the ordinary journalistic mission of fairness. Neither had that much to say on the subject of Sherman Adams. Such news as there was in their reaction to Mr. Adams' speech could have been comfortably handled in regular newscasts.

In these times of incessant government investigation of networks, it is easy to understand why they should not be eager to rebuff either major party. But rebuff they must, on frequent occasion, if the air is not to be filled for the next six weeks with nothing but political oratory.

Beyond This, Affiant Sayeth Not

A few weeks ago [EDITORIALS, July 7] we doffed our editorial hat to Comr. Fred W. Ford for inducing the FCC to amend existing rules to end the plethora of "pay-offs" and strike applications in broadcasting, which amounted to shakedowns approaching blackmail.

Some lawyers objected to our position. Now comes the Federal Communications Bar Assn. with comments expressing "complete concurrence" in the FCC's objectives, but concluding it is going at it all wrong.

FCBA proposes that the FCC ask Congress to enact legislation to make it a felony for any one to prosecute an application for broadcast facilities without having a bona fide intention of constructing and operating such facilities, if authorized. It says this would accomplish the FCC's purpose, and then some, by eliminating all types of strike applications. Besides, it contends, the FCC has ample authority now to take appropriate action against applicants or others who abuse the Commission's processes.

We went along with Mr. Ford, and we go along with the FCBA, provided there is no undue delay. We're all interested in the same thing—prompt elimination of a loophole in the FCC's processes that has admitted a racket.

On Target

A SENATE labor subcommittee that has been probing the goings-on inside the teamsters union may take up a less dramatic problem later in the autumn—the secondary boycotts that have harassed broadcasters and the picketing designed to compel representation.

As small employers with relatively few customers, broadcasters are peculiarly vulnerable to the economic pressures applied by unions. Two recent cases brought unfavorable examiners' recommendations to the National Labor Relations Board. The officers ruled that the labor laws had not been violated by IBEW and AFTRA, respectively, in putting the squeeze on station sponsors who were in no way involved in the labor negotiations. And now the musicians' union is warning that it may call nationwide consumer boycotts against "unfair movies, unfair records or the sponsors of unfair television or radio shows."

Courts and the Labor Board have frequently condoned these pressures because of unintended weaknesses in the Taft-Hartley

Drawn for BROADCASTING by Sid Hix

"You expect me to believe the agency assigned all these men to work on one soap commercial?"

Act. They have interpreted the language in a manner not contemplated by framers of the legislation.

A move to correct these weaknesses (Sections 8b1 and 8b4) was beaten during the political shenanigans of the last session of Congress, which faced autumn elections. The common-law concept of secondary boycotts as unlawful and unfair, and the intent of Congress, are ignored in many official interpretations of the Taft-Hartley Act. Unions have been alert to capitalize on these interpretations.

If broadcasters wish to get themselves off the target of secondary boycotting, they must make their wishes known to the people with the power to change the situation—the members of Congress.

On Calling the Cops

THERE has developed lately the tendency by some broadcasters to rush to the FCC to complain about competition. Complaints range all the way from allegations of economic injury over the licensing of new stations in their areas to turning "state's evidence" against stations promoting their program ratings.

Neither should be the concern of the FCC, although the bureaucratic urge is always present to arrogate power that Congress never intended for that administrative agency. Certainly the indiscriminate licensing of new stations in smaller markets will affect the business of the existing station or stations serving that area. But that is the calculated risk in broadcasting or any other business operating under our competitive free enterprise system.

If the older stations cannot meet the competition of the new, they will go under, either because of inefficient management or failure to establish themselves in their community before the new competition entered. That is the meaning of free enterprise and the interplay of competition.

Those who complain to the FCC about allegedly unfair publicity or advertising likewise are losing sight of the Congressional intent of free enterprise. Besides, they are in the wrong forum. The FCC's function is to allocate and regulate the spectrum assigned to it and to see that the Congressional mandates are enforced. Programming, promotion or publicity are clearly not within its jurisdiction, although the FCC, improperly we contend, has impinged upon those forbidden areas in the past. To do so becomes censorship, and that is outlawed with particularity in the Communications Act. If any agency has jurisdiction over truth in advertising, it would be the Federal Trade Commission; but even the FTC's authority is far from being clearly defined. Palpably false and misleading advertising would be another thing.

Broadcasting, as to its non-technical aspects, is either free or it isn't. It cannot be half-free, half-slave. Broadcasters who are outraged because of what they regard as the transgressions of their competitors, ought to think twice before they call the cops. Historically, the sequel to regulation of competition is the limitation of earnings, otherwise known as the public utility concept.
