CLOSED CIRCUIT.

Fifth network ■ Los Angeles group will soon announce formation of new radio network, Republic Broadcasting System, to provide 24-hour news, music and sports service nationwide at no cost to stations. Affiliates will be asked to guarantee clearance of at least four hours of network service per day. They'll get 90 seconds in each quarter-hour for local sale. Network will get its revenue from national spots in program segments.

New network will be headed by Dave Cornelius, who's been program director and newsman on Southern California stations. One backer is Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood actor who plays Joe Palooka role. RBS will be budgeted at $5 million—$2.5 million for lines, $1 million for staff, $1.5 million for administration and promotion. Los Angeles will be origination point.

Post-'48 prices ■ Distributors of major studio post-'48 movies are trying strenuously to make network deals. They usually are asking networks to pick 26 features before quoting prices. But one index to price structure is that one major distributor of post-'48 movies gave networks right to pick 26 features from its supply and quoted $200,000 per picture, or total price of $5.2 million, for single network presentation.

Nielsen deal ■ That "irreconcilable conflict" between NBS-CBS and Nielsen over rates for renewal of Nielsen tv rating service (CLOSED CIRCUIT, July 18) has been resolved—and in usual way: by compromise. Both CBS and NBC had wanted rates no higher than those charged ABC, but ABC's contract by its own terms assures ABC of price advantages. In coming to terms, Nielsen yielded some and so did CBS and NBC, apparently with no party getting all it had wanted. New agreements have no terminal dates but are subject to cancellation by either side on approximately one year's notice.

Biggest immediate effect of CBS and NBC signing with Nielsen is decision of American Research Bureau to shelve its plans for daily Arbitron national ratings reports. This even though its overnight nationals during political conventions generally impressed networks with their apparent accuracy as well as obvious speed. But without network support, ARB says it will forget daily nationals at least for year, will continue its seven-city daily reports (to which networks do subscribe) and will do national ratings about seven times per year.

Aiming for depth ■ The Pulse Inc.'s monthly tv network rating reports on Top 20 shows are headed for oblivion, but "biographical" audience surveys are planned as replacement. Change will take place around end of year. New studies will measure viewing and buying habits of viewers, will examine make-up of audience in terms of job, income, rent expenditure, etc.

Debate flareback ■ Chagrined Democrats, who wanted Nixon-Kennedy tv debates to run right up to election, lost out in negotiations with GOP but they're promising high-level repercussions. They say many legislators voted for Sec. 315 suspension in anticipation of debate schedule that would include final campaign days. GOP, they argue, refused to allow any debate after Oct. 21. As result several legislators plan to attack GOP attitude on ground they were deceived and would not have gone along with Sec. 315 suspension.

While agreement reached with Nixon and Kennedy groups on Great Debates (story page 44) precludes sponsorship by any organization for this series, it was tacitly understood at last Wednesday's meeting that this would not be construed as policy which would preclude sponsorship of public service or news interview programs, whatever their nature. No-sponsorship proviso, it was agreed, applies only to face-to-face presidential and vice presidential debates for this election. Carrying ball on clarification was NBC, through Vice President William R. McAndrew. It's understood NBC already has aligned series of seven one-hour programs Saturday evenings, beginning Sept. 17, for use of candidates themselves, to be handled by Huntley-Brinkley team on depth-interview basis.

Still hung up ■ Congressional approval last week of omnibus bill (S 1898) doesn't necessarily mean automatic renewal of some 600 temporary licenses issued by FCC since its rigid interpretation last March of sponsor identification provision on payola. Most stations will get renewals where violations were unintentional. But in more extreme cases of under-table payments and of station payola, as opposed to failure to identify recordings, FCC may take its time and even conduct further inquiries.

TIO campaign ■ Television Information Office is preparing full-page ads, its first, to run next month in four magazines (Atlantic, Harper's Saturday Review, Reporter) that appeal to opinion leaders. Ads will call attention to Nixon-Kennedy tv debates—and to television industry's initiative in making them possible.

Pay tv problems ■ With FCC formally reconvened, one of first orders of business will be what to do about application of General Teleradio for pay tv experiment in Hartford via its recently acquired WHCT-TV (ch. 18). Teleradio wants en banc hearing to expedite action while opposition, including Theatre Owners of America, has pitched for routine hearing before examiner, to be followed by proposed findings and oral arguments—process that could take two or three years.

Skiatron pay tv is being talked up again by Matty Fox, New York promoter, recently embroiled in SEC proceedings. He was in Texas last week trying to raise funds for proposed wire pay tv installations in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Mentioned in Houston was figure of $10 million, of which $8.5 million purportedly had been raised. There's talk of IBM and AT&T cooperation in project. Before wire pay tv can be introduced, California public service commission must approve it. Past pleas to commission have failed.

Holes in dike ■ Two soft spots in new NAB Radio Code structure—lack of restraint on participating commercial spots and weak rules governing station promotions and contests—are permitting flagrant violations of good broadcasting, according to one prestige station. Code should be amended to halt gross overcommercialism, station contends. First roll-call of code enrollees under new pay-as-you-go plan shows one-seventh of radio stations have joined (story page 68).

Broadcasters only ■ Print newsmen, through press associations, are trying to horn in on Great Debate series but so far have gotten nowhere. Network position is that their own news staffs are competent to handle interviews with presidential and vice presidential candidates and that since networks are donating their time, print news organizations have no basis on which to intercede. Moreover, they point out that precedent is being created by hooking up of networks for head-to-head debate series, which heretofore has been done only for President's appearances.

ONE WORKABLE WAY TO EARN A RAISE

The only economically sound way that wages can be increased is through increased productivity.

There are several ways to increase productivity. One is by the installation of new, more efficient machines, which management is free to do whenever it is economically possible.

However, when improved machines are introduced, the employee has the responsibility to use the new equipment to its best advantage. If this is done, the employee may then deserve a share, certainly not all, of the results of the increased productivity.

Why a share? Because it should be remembered that without shareholders' investment of their money to buy the new machines, the employee would not even have the opportunity to earn a share of the benefits. Shareholders, too, earn their share.

REPUBLIC STEEL

CLEVELAND 1, OHIO

Republic Steel uses
improved equipment
to increase efficiency

Wherever and whenever possible, the installation of new, improved machines to help increase the efficiency of employees, is a basic policy of Republic Steel.

One evidence of this is the present use of the most highly efficient machines available to produce the many types and sizes of Republic ELECTRUNITE® Tubing. This amazingly versatile product—the steel tube—is the strongest structural form, per pound, that man can build.

As boiler tubes and hydraulic fluid line tubing, this electrically welded steel tubing is used to withstand internal pressure. For mechanical applications, millions and millions of feet go into everything from furniture to automobile drive shafts and rear axle housings. It is easily shaped—expanded, reduced, turned, flared, flattened, flanged, depressed, and specially formed in innumerable ways for practically endless uses.

As raceways for electrical wiring, it is vital to the building industry.

Republic Steel is one of the world's largest suppliers of electrically welded steel tubing.

WEEK IN BRIEF

MR. MOGGE

How radio boosts sales for Seven-Up ■ What does a regional advertiser do to make a significant sales impact with a budget that obviously couldn't spread effectively across all media? Dominance in a single medium—radio—has been the successful strategy for the Seven-Up Bottling Co. of Los Angeles. Food marketing expert Norton W. Mogge, president, Atherton Mogge Privett Inc., Los Angeles, relates the details in this week's MONDAY MEMO. Page 20.

Networks plan ahead ■ A full year ahead of the 1961-62 season finds networks, producers and some agencies deep in the process of planning its prime-time programming. Page 27.

Rundown on casualties ■ Only 15 network shows new in the 1959-60 season will find their way back this fall, according to a McCann-Erickson summary. Page 28.

Cranberry comeback trail ■ The U.S. cranberry grower is depending on a $1 million tv campaign to recapture his primary market (more than half of cranberry sales are made in the holiday periods). Page 30.

KYA tests commercial upgrading ■ Bartell's San Francisco station will take on the role of a test station for the radio industry, starting with adoption of a 16-point commercial policy including a single rate. Page 34.

Now for action ■ Labor Day's here and the "Great Debates" schedule has been arranged; so the two major parties are getting down to serious campaigning. Timebuying plans and network schedules will soon take shape. Page 44.

The successful 'egghead' ■ Robert Saudek, who has proved that cultural programming with entertainment values can be profitable, is preparing for the busiest season of his career, with 33 hour-long or 90-minute network productions on the drawing board. Page 54.

Tv's revenues and profits at new high ■ Television's financial data for 1959 released by the FCC; total revenues reach a new high of $1.1 billion—up 13% over 1958. Profits, before federal tax, also move up—$222.3 million, a 29.3% boost over the previous year. Page 60.

Canon 35 ignored ■ American Bar Assn. fails to do anything about its anti-broadcast rule at its annual convention but gives gavel awards to four tv and two radio stations for promoting understanding of law and justice. Page 66.

The adult audience ■ A new RAB study claims that radio surpasses tv in reaching the daytime adult audience, which the bureau characterizes as the "important" audience for most advertisers. Page 72.

Nine-tenths have tv ■ A U.S. Census Bureau sample survey shows 46.5 million homes have more than one tv set. Saturation of 88% is 2% above the tv home saturation of a year ago. Multi-set tv homes are increasing too. Page 74.

Legislative success ■ 86th Congress had progressive second session with enactment of payola bill, Sec. 315 suspension and NARBA ratification. Page 76.

Watchdog money denied ■ Senate refuses to okay $150,000 for subcommittee to monitor political broadcasts in last official business of 86th Congress. Page 78.

Senate group plans political monitoring

Senate Watchdog Subcommittee won't discard idea of monitoring political broadcasts on tv and radio stations—even though Senate last week (page 78) failed to approve $150,000 asked for that purpose—if Joe Bailey Humphrey, majority counsel, has his way.

Mr. Humphrey said Friday he plans to ask politically-interested contacts throughout country to make audio tapes, on non-paid voluntary basis, of political broadcasts where they suspect station bias and furnish them to subcommittee. He said he hoped he and Walter Boehm, minority counsel, could solicit volunteer monitors on bipartisan basis, though he thought each counsel could work faster getting monitors from members of own party.

Mr. Humphrey said he hasn't submitted plan yet to subcommittee members and no date has been set for meeting, but he feels they'll approve it as being in keeping with mandate of resolution creating subcommittee and setting out its functions.

He said he believes enough volunteers from both parties will participate so that there'll be average of half-dozen for each state, with concentration in centers of population. They'll be persons with "trained ear" in political field, he said. He thought plan would furnish "adequate" and "reliable" information for Senate unit.

Commenting on argument by Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) that such monitoring activity by congressional committee would be necessarily partisan, Mr. Bailey said tapes would be adequately documented and that such "demonstrable" evidence speaks for itself.

He emphasized that monitoring plan would not be "entrapment," but record of "what actually happens" on stations during election campaign.

RCA elects Watts

Election of W. Walters Watts, board chairman-president of RCA Sales Corp., to RCA's board of directors announced Sept. 2 following meeting of board. He succeeds Dr. Charles B. Joliffe, vice president and technical director of RCA, who reached retirement age last year but continues to serve RCA on special assignments. Board also issued quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on common stock of RCA, payable Oct. 24, 1960 and dividend of 87½ cents per share on first preferred stock for period Oct. 1, 1960-Dec. 31, 1960, payable Jan. 3, 1961.

Rotation plan set for election debates

CBS will handle pool coverage of first Nixon-Kennedy joint radio-tv appearance (see page 44), NBC the second and ABC one or two others (two if Oct. 8 date, now tentative, becomes firm), according to network sources who said rotation system was determined by lot Friday afternoon (Sept. 2).

Plans for eight hour-long political specials, tentatively titled The Campaign & the Candidates, to be sponsored by Longines-Wittnauer Watch Co. and presented on NBC-TV Saturdays at 9:30 p.m. NYT starting Sept. 17 are being announced today (Sept. 5) by William R. McAndrew, vp in charge of NBC News.

Film group named

Joseph L. Floyd, KELO-TV Sioux Falls, S. D., named chairman of NAB Television Committee, conducting continuing study of developments in tv film area. Other members: A.J. Fletcher, WRAL-TV Raleigh, N. C.; William Goetze, KFSD-TV San Diego, Calif.; A. Louis Read, WDSU-TV New Orleans; Frederick S. Houwink, WMAL-TV Washington, and Leonard J. Patricelli, WTIC-TV Hartford, Conn.

Cities over 25,000

List of 673 cities of 25,000 or more inhabitants, based on preliminary 1960 census count, was made available Sept. 2 by U. S. Census Bureau. In 1950 there were 483 cities in this size group, according to bureau, increase of 190 during decade. Five cities that dropped out of 25,000-and-over group were La Grange, Ga.; Morgantown, W. Va.; New Kensington, Pa.; Washington, Pa., and Winona, Minn. (Full population data on cities over 50,000 appeared in BROADCASTING June 27 and Aug. 8.)

King, Bicks to get recess appointments

White House said Friday President intends to make new recess appointments of Charles H. King to FCC and Robert A. Bicks as assistant attorney general in charge of Justice Dept. anti-trust division within 30-day time limit after Senate's adjournment.

Senate failed to confirm two nominations made earlier in year when it recessed in July for political conventions. Though Senate passed resolution before convention recess giving all nominations status quo until it reconvened Aug. 15, there was legal question on whether resolution took precedence over statute letting nominations expire after 30 days of recess and also question of whether Messrs. King and Bicks could be paid.

President accordingly made recess appointments and sent renominations to Senate last Wednesday, day before adjournment. Since Senate also failed to act on new nominations, President will give them new recess appointments and they'll have to be sworn in again.

Also failing confirmation by Senate was nomination of Federal Trade Commission Chairman Earl W. Kintner to new term. Mr. Kintner's present term does not expire until Sept. 26 and President can give him recess appointment to serve through next session of Congress unless successor is nominated and confirmed. King and Kintner nominations failed to clear Senate Commerce Committee and Bicks nomination never got out of Judiciary Committee.

Radio-tv convention coverage defended

Some newspapers "made much" of completeness of their coverage of national political conventions, yet denounce tv-radio broadcasters for "doing what they do—and better," Samuel Sharkey, NBC news editor, said in talk to Assn. for Education in Journalism meeting at Pennsylvania State U.

Mr. Sharkey said newspaper editorials and tv-radio columns have been "unstinting in attacks on broadcasting for devoting as many as 60 hours to the two conventions. Is it too much to ask the press and the public to put up with the open functioning of the Democratic process for 0.7% of one year in every four?" he asked.

He charged newspapers with criticiz-

They're holding their annual late-summer session Wednesday and Thursday at Kauai Surf Hotel, Kauai, Island, Hawaii. One business item will be to elect new chairman to succeed William B. Quar-ton of WMT-TV Cedar Rapids, Iowa, whose term expires this year. Network delegation is expected to be led by President James T. Aubrey Jr.

ing broadcasting for product mentions and describing them as plugola; yet, he said, newspapers give columns of plugola for cameras, foods, fashions, etc., and call it "editorial support."

Charge that tv-radio, newspapers and other educational processes yield to "mass opinion" was made by Ralph McGill, publisher of Atlanta Constitution (WSB-AM-TV). "Mass opinion wants Gunsmoke instead of political conventions, Wagon Train instead of a program on the Congo," he said.

Criticism that tv has greater effect on youngsters than have parents, religious and ethical advisors and teachers was challenged by David Manning White of Boston U. "We are going to use the technical advancements in communications to enrich the cultural life of the majority of our people," he said.

Applications filed for vhf boosters

First applications for vhf television repeaters reached FCC last week and were announced Friday. Of first 11 applications, one group of four was for New Castle, Wyo., to pick up and re-broadcast on vhf channels signals of KFBC-TV Cheyenne and KTWO-TV Casper, both Wyoming; KOTA-TV Rapid City, S.D., and KDUH-TV Hay Springs, Neb.

Other seven applications represented single channel pickups for: Trail City-Glencross-Timber Lake-Firesteel, S.D., to relay KFYY-TV Bismarck, N.D.; Claremont, N.H., to relay WMUR-TV Manchester, N.H.; Ouray, Colo., to relay KREX-TV Grand Junction, Colo.; Union County, N.M., to relay KGNC-TV Amarillo, Tex.; Eagle Butte, S.D., to relay KPLO-TV Reliance, S.D.;

Loma, Mont., to relay KFBB-TV Great Falls, Mont., and Afton, Wyo. (relay station not identified).

FCC authorized low-powered, vhf repeaters at end of July following several years of controversy (BROADCASTING, Aug. 1).

Scott, Sugg slated for NBC board

Election of Walter D. Scott, NBC-TV executive vice president, and P. A. Sugg, executive vice president for owned stations and spot sales, to NBC board of directors is expected to be announced this week. Mr. Scott, who joined NBC sales department in 1938, was named eastern sales manager in 1949, national sales manager, radio, in 1951. He became administrative sales manager, radio and television, in 1952; vice president and national sales manager, television, 1955; vice president, television network sales, 1958, and executive vice president in February 1959. Mr. Sugg joined company as vice president, owned stations and spot sales, in 1958, and became executive vice president five months later.

TvB expansion plan

Television Bureau of Advertising plans to expand and expedite flow of sales aids and other services to members. William B. Colvin, who resigned as station relations director about two years ago and is now advertising and sales promotion manager of Westinghouse's WBZ-TV Boston, reportedly is slated to return to bureau for important role in this enlarged member-service program.

100 radio stations file power comments

Almost 100 local radio stations have filed comments with FCC on proposal to permit existing Class IV radio stations to raise power from present 250 w limitation up to 1 kw. All urged commission to enact rule so that pending 400-odd applications for this power boost may be granted.

Earlier in week more than 25 comments were filed (see page 81), and on Friday, almost 70 additional documents were reported in.

Proposal, issued August 2, would permit power boosts without hearing regardless of interference caused by increase. New ruling would apply solely to existing local stations; applicants for new Class IV outlets would have to follow present rule which requires hearing where interference is involved.

Only two comments opposed proposed ruling. These were by J.G. Rountree, Austin, Tex., consulting engineer, and Ward Broadcasting Co., applicant for Class IV am at Sonora, Tex.

Deadline for comments was Sept. 1; for replies it is Sept. 15.

Business briefly

Massey looking ■ Massey Ferguson Inc. (U. S. Industrial Div., Toronto, farm machinery), which past year-and-half spent estimated $3 million in radio-tv, is losing its Jubilee USA on ABC-TV Saturday evenings for 1960-61 season because of network's newly-acquired Gillette fight series. Company, which had been gratified with Red Foley Show, is shopping elsewhere and is understood close to completing details for new farm tv property on another network. Agency: Needham, Louis & Brorby.

Agency named ■ Remington Rand System Inc. (office equipment), New York, names Guild, Bascom & Bonfigli, New York, as agency, effective immediately. Account formerly was at Gardner Adv., New York, and billing has been about $500,000. Media for account are to be evaluated and plans will be announced shortly.

Lark series ■ Studebaker-Packard Corp., South Bend, Ind., has bought Wilbur and Mr. Ed, half-hour comedy show about married couple and their "talking" horse as exclusive property for sponsorship by Studebaker-Lark dealers in more than 120 markets, starting in January. Agency, D'Arcy Adv., St. Louis.

Media matching

What's good about tv rating data if figures can't be compared with competitive media? Station competitors WJXT (TV) and WFGA-TV, both Jacksonville, Fla., will know in next two weeks how they stack up against newspaper readership figures in that city. Stations commissioned business research firm of Daniel Starch & Staff, New York, for readership study of Jacksonville Times-Union Journal. Local paper is not included in Starch's sporadic surveys of seven newspapers in four cities, it's reported.

MONDAY MEMO

How radio boosts sales for Seven-Up

All advertising media are good.

I say that quite often and I firmly believe it, although I sometimes have trouble convincing media people that I do, especially when I've just rejected a proposal that a particular medium is just what the doctor ordered for each and every one of our agency's accounts.

But, while all media are good, how good they are for an individual product or service depends on how carefully they are selected to do the job the advertiser wants done and how effectively they are used. Buy them all and you scatter your shots too widely to ever create a strong selling impression anywhere.

Be Dominant ■ That's true even for most national advertisers and it's doubly true for the regional advertiser with a comparatively modest budget. For him, the best strategy is to be big and dominant in one medium and to let the others go by the boards.

Take one of our clients, the Seven-Up Bottling Co. of Los Angeles. In its market area, Los Angeles and Orange counties in Southern California, surveys show Seven-Up the beverage found in most homes. Distribution is excellent. A hard-hitting driver-sales force covers the trade most effectively from one end of the territory to the other.

At the national level, Seven-Up is advertised by the parent company (headquartered in St. Louis) with outdoor posters, television (mostly participations in well known national shows), magazines and certain other special publications. All of this advertising has a heavy circulation in the Southern California area.

Spots and Sports ■ For the local effort, Seven-Up Bottling Co. of Los Angeles concentrates on radio, mostly 10-second and 30-second spots, but with some programs, chiefly special sports events. Seven-Up Bottling has sponsored the Rams-Redskins Times charity football game in August of each year, as well as the All-Star Pro Bowl game in January, also a charity event, on Los Angeles radio stations.

These radio sportscasts tie in with another sports activity of the company, the Seven-Up Youth Foundation, which provides uniforms and equipment for boys' junior baseball teams. More than 650 teams of the Little League, Pony League, Babe Ruth and Park & Recreation circuits benefit from this program. And the youth foundation work has led to more radio for Seven-Up in local broadcasts of Little League games.

But chiefly, Seven-Up goes in for spots, some as long as 60-seconds, but the trend is strongly to 10-second commercials. These are placed by our media director, Jane Leider, on leading Los Angeles area radio stations in conjunction with news and weather reports, sports commentaries (Bob Kelley's Parade of Sports has carried Seven-Up spots since 1957) and programs of various kinds, including John McShane's after-midnight On Til Dawn show.

In the last year radio spots have been used on a greater scale than previously. Again, it is our aim to dominate with many short messages. The number of spots now runs, on the average, between 150 and 300 a week. Add sports programs, news broadcasts and time signals and it is easy to see that radio is the dominant medium in the Seven-Up plan of advertising.

Agency veteran "Nort" Mogge is known as a food marketing specialist. For 13 years he has been president of Atherton Mogge Privett Inc. and its predecessor, Mogge-Privett Inc. Before that he spent 13 years with J. Walter Thompson Co. in Seattle and Los Angeles, first having worked for four years with Lord & Thomas in San Francisco. After graduation from Michigan State U., Mr. Mogge worked for Sunkist Growers, Northwestern Fruit Exchange, Meredith Pub. Co. and California Prune Industry before entering agency field.

Good Neighbor Policy ■ Dominance is not the only advantage radio has to offer. Radio is a personal medium, an all-the-time medium. It goes with the listener from room to room at home and away from home in the car, at the beach and practically every place else. And it gives the advertiser a chance not merely to be a fellow traveler but a friendly, helpful companion. To a product like Seven-Up, whose consuming public includes virtually every individual of all ages, both sexes and every size and shape, this is a great advantage.

During the late night hours, Seven-Up has been encouraging wakeful listeners to John McShane to pay back a helpful neighbor by nominating him—or more probably her—as "Neighbor of the Month." Every month since March, a hi-fi set has been sent to some good Samaritan because of a letter about his good deeds sent to John McShane. Each month the writer of the winning letter also has received a hi-fi set. The five Good Neighbor runners-up (the five letter writers) were each presented with five cases of Seven-Up each month.

Get Out & Vote ■ After six months the Good Neighbor mail is starting to slack off, so we're switching to another tack and launching a "Be sure to vote" drive. Radio permits a sponsor like Seven-Up to show good citizenship as well as neighborliness in a way that people appreciate and at a cost such an advertiser can afford.

I wish I had some glowing tale of how a single radio announcement or program sold a million cases of Seven-Up overnight. But I haven't. We don't go in for radio specials that would make it possible to segregate sales produced by radio from those of other media used to advertise this bottled beverage, whose packaging does not lend itself to box-top offers.

What we have done, as I hope I've made plain by now, is to use radio to remind people as many times a day as the budget will permit that Seven-Up is a good soft drink and that if they try it they'll probably like it.

We in the agency, as in top management of the Seven-Up Bottling Co. of Los Angeles, believe that the policy of making radio the dominant medium for Seven-Up has achieved the desired results. And the year-by-year increase in Seven-Up sales in Los Angeles and Orange counties since we began majoring in radio is pretty convincing evidence that we're right.

Die Zeit ist
mein Vermächtniß,
Mein Acker ist die Zeit*... Goethe

Time is the universal property. Man shares it alike with the animate and the inanimate. It is a dimension in which he participates only, and the measure of his effectiveness is history.

As a medium of communication, that portion of Time which we share most immediately with our community is of particular import to us. From Baltimore, WBAL-TV shares daily in the Time of some 2,570,500 men, women and children who constitute the Maryland Market. From Baltimore, WBAL-TV participates in the same Time dimension as nearly 700,000 television households that exist at this Time within our coverage area. From Baltimore, WBAL-TV makes it possible for more members of our community to experience more in, of and from Time, more immediately, with more people, than any other medium of communication.

"Time is my estate . . ." the philosopher says. It is yours, too, and ours. In Baltimore, you can participate in Time wisely through the facilities of WBAL Television 11. The history of our sales success is the measure of our effectiveness.

No opera at 4 a.m.

EDITOR: If possible, would you please send me 20 reprints of your article reporting on my study of the Los Angeles broadcast schedules? The article ["So you can't get opera at 4 a.m."] appears on page 60 of your issue of Aug. 15 . . . —James A. Brown, S.J., U. of Detroit, Detroit.

End of the 'soaps'

EDITOR: Your article ("Era ends as soaps leave radio," page 27, Aug. 22) re the photo at the bottom of the page which shows Frank and Anne Hummert. Isn't one of the "unidentified" men (second from left) actually Karl Swenson who in those hey days of the soaps played Lord Henry Brentthrop on Our Gal Sunday (CBS) and the title role on Lorenzo Jones (NBC) and has since left the radio circles of New York to appear in the movies out here in Hollywood?

I enjoyed that story very much and recall nearly all of those 45 or so soap operas that were on the air back in 1940. I think it should be mentioned also that Chicago was the "soap opera city," in that the majority of the daytime serials originated from the windy city.—Doug Cramer, Cramer Productions, Los Angeles.

NOW SHAPING UP: 1961-62 SEASON

1960-61 schedules haven't begun but tv networks are already blocking out shows to be seen a year from now

The first important network decisions and plans for 1961-62 programming are under way a full year ahead of the season's start, promising some—but no major—changes in regularly scheduled tv program fare a year from now.

Networks and producers, and in some cases the major agencies, are already engaged in the preliminary process of screening properties and ideas and earmarking those that appear to hold promise.

Each of the networks is planning far in advance of the point reached at this time a year ago. All are working hard on 1961-62 planning, even though the 1960-61 season has not yet begun.

The main impetus for this stepped-up planning is the increasing competition among the networks for the most desirable production talent and ideas available. Into this scramble has been injected the rising trend toward more pilot financing by the networks. This pressure has served to activate program executives' travel to and from Los Angeles, heart of tv film making.

Major production companies—including such firms as Screen Gems, Four Star Television, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, MCA-Revue, Desilu, Ziv-United Artists Tv, Warner Bros. and 20th Century Fox, which together are responsible for most tv film packaging—are reported to be in the active stage in preparing material for the 1961-62 season.

Finished Pilots ■ Some pilots already have been made. Four Star has a pilot on a new series, The Freshman, that stars Gertrude Berg. Screen Gems has completed a pilot on Trouble at his Heels, featuring Robert Sterling, and has several series in the works, as has Four Star.

An executive for one of the major tv film houses, who only last week returned to New York after a lengthy stay in Hollywood, reported that "network teams" were scouting all producers, learning what production talent is available and what is exclusively tied to individual companies. This information is necessary to network decisions on pilot financing.

Most executives agree that the buying season for 1961-62 will lag behind program preparation. But product should be well worked out—and in many cases with a working agreement among network, producer and advertiser—once the buying season does begin.

A cross-section of major agencies was checked by BROADCASTING last week on the status of 1961-62 season planning. These included J. Walter Thompson, Young & Rubicam, McCann-Erickson, N.W. Ayer, Grey Adv. and Cunningham & Walsh.

The agency consensus: For the 1961-62 season, programming will be assembled much earlier than ever before. Some of the agencies appeared to be closer to working deals than were others. The agencies agreed, however, that clients cannot buy this early, that most do not buy from scripts, and a few agency executives felt emphatically that the buying season will continue to fall within the "normal" February-April period.

More of Same ■ On the whole, program planners among the networks, agencies and production firms do not anticipate a radical shift in program popularity in 1960-61. Here's how prevailing opinion runs among the program experts:

There'll be a reversal in position of action-adventure to westerns. Action-adventure shows should take the lead, with westerns showing a slight decline but

What holdovers from this year to next?

How many of the programs in the television networks' upcoming fall nighttime schedule will be around a year from now?

If the past year's experience is any clue, about 40% won't be. And about 60% of this fall's 46 new series will not see a second season.

The relationship of survivors to casualties is the subject of an internal study by McCann-Erickson's M-E Productions, made available to BROADCASTING last week.

Fifteen new programs—programs that were new last season—are being held over. Of these, nine appear in a Top 40 ratings list based on Nielsen reports for the period June 6-Aug. 7 (McCann-Erickson says the summer months' viewing statistics usually average out proportionately to about what they are during the January-February period of more intensive viewing).

Twelve shows that were new in 1959-60 made this Top 40 list. Of these, the three that will not be renewed—Mr. Lucky and Tightrope on CBS and Alaskans on ABC—are felt to have benefitted from strong time periods to which they did not bring enough audience appeal of their own. The only other Top 40 show not renewed, the veteran Father Knows Best, was dropped because star Robert Young left the program.

The 15 new-in-1959 programs renewed for this fall are the nine in the June-July Top 40—Untouchables, Detectives, Twilight Zone, Hennessey, June Allyson Show, Rebel, Adventures in Paradise, Dobie Gillis and Dennis the Menace, listing in order of June-July ratings—and Hawaiian Eye, Deputy, Bonanza, Laramie, Riverboat and Take a Good Look.

Other renewals for 1960-61 include 21 oldtimers in the Top 40 list and 25 other programs which were off the air for the summer—including Jack Benny, Red Skelton, Garry Moore, Perry Como and Dinah Shore—or for other reasons did not make that Top 40. In all, 61 programs were renewed, 41 were dropped.

It was pointed out that 1959-60's "new" programs fared slightly better than new programs in prior years. The 15 that survived from 1959-60 to 1960-61 compared with 12 new entries held over the year before and 10 the year before that. Of the top-rated 36 shows renewed this fall, 21 have been on the air at least three seasons.

firmly in second place. Situation comedy ought to run a very strong third but the point is being reached where only the very strong shows in this category will make it.

This is the way some of the leading network, agency and production officials capsuled their views:

At ABC-TV ■ Current planning has an estimated 16 shows in various forms of development, some 10 of these to be carried through to pilot and 6 or 7 of the 16 expected to obtain a berth in the 1961-62 schedule.

Thomas W. Moore, vice president in charge of tv network programming and talent, compares advance planning to the staging of a bomb run—modifications in the plan are made while the attack is in progress. At present, the network is "talking to everybody in the business;" some commitments already have been made and in general pilots should be turned out earlier than in past experience.

ABC-TV expects some "turnover"; in Warner Bros. shows by 1961-62 and already is in agreement with the studio on "program developments." There are also commitments on pilots with Desilu Productions, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, 20th Century Fox and Four Star Television, and the network expects a few more this month. ABC-TV anticipates a programming commitment with Walt Disney Productions, indicating that the Disney-NBC-TV talks will not entail exclusivity. From experience, it's assumed three-fourths of the pilots committed will be given a production go-ahead.

It's too early, in Mr. Moore's opinion, to detect absolute 1961-62 trends in program types, though some new straws in the wind include consideration of cartoon series of the calibre of Flintstones (Screen Gems' entry on ABC-TV next season) and possible concentration on the one-hour situation comedy. He sees no radical changes, noting that program trends are gradual. "Creativity is a slow process, one that takes time."

ABC-TV officially announced last winter that it is developing a tv series—a half-hour weekly program with a working title of The Great Barnum.

At CBS-TV ■ It is estimated that a third of the 25 projects CBS has in various stages of development for the 1961-62 season will be committed for pilot production. The projected programs fall in a broad range of types, the weeding-out process to take place as the upcoming 1960-61 season gets underway and trends are analyzed.

These projects—in outline or script form—include both hour-long and half-hour formats, according to Oscar Katz, CBS-TV's programming vice president. Staff and outside producers are at work on outlines, the network retaining the right to go to script or to drop the project.

CBS-TV already has "assembled" material with Screen Gems, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Four Star Television. Commented Mr. Katz: network program executives have been traveling coast-to-coast "for months."

At NBC-TV ■ David Levy, vice president in charge of programs and talent, estimated NBC-TV has about 10-12 properties "going into script" for the 1961-62 season. Half of these may be brought along to pilot stage.

As yet none is being produced, but NBC-TV has several properties for which pilots were made in the 1960-61 season and are available for 61-62. Among them: Three Wishes, a half-hour comedy (Diane Jergens, Gustavo Rojo and Wallace Ford are the stars; Robert Welch is the producer and Andrew McCullough directed the pilot); The Avenger, a half-hour western (starring Vic Morrow and developed by Frank Telford, an NBC program development executive); The Blue and the Gray, a Civil War piece of an hour length and starring Darryl Hickman and Dick Davalos (also Mr. Telford's development); One Happy Family, a situation comedy; Port of Entry, an action-adventure series, and Barbarians, a period adventure of an hour's length.

The network also has announced a few properties for '61-62. Among them: six classics (four already announced are "Camille," "Nana," "Jane Eyre" and "Intermezzo") which will be 90 to 120 minute dramatic colorcasts; New York Ledger, an hour-long drama series created by NBC's Ross Donaldson (creative services) and Panama, also an hour-long action-adventure series filmed in color in Central America and the Caribbean. There's been a report of a pending Walt Disney deal with NBC to take effect in the '61-62 season.

Mr. Levy said that it had become a "tortuous path" in programming with decisions which formerly were made four or five months before the season's start now being made some nine months in advance. But it's become necessary, he thought, to gain "more time" and thus enhance quality.

The NBC-TV program chief believes that the networks must break from the pattern of action-adventure and even situation comedy to a degree, and he expects this trend will have begun by 1961-62. This is the area of "credibility" toward, which, he said, the networks have been reaching. Mr. Levy said Outlaws, a new entry on NBC-TV in the upcoming season, was "rooted in credibility." He thought westerns would continue as a staple form. There's room, he added, for shows which do not "look artificial with synthetic people" but deal with real people.

At Screen Gems ■ William Dozier, vice president in charge of west coast activities, Screen Gems, said: "We do not plan to submit our pilots earlier for the '61-62 season than we have done in the past. It so happens, however, that we are producing pilots early. The reason is that we have these projects ready and so we go ahead with them. For instance, we have just completed a pilot of a new series, Trouble at his Heels, starring Robert Sterling."

Mr. Dozier indicated that pilots will be submitted, as is usual at Screen Gems, during October, November and December. He reported that SG executives have had some discussions with agency and network officials about the '61-62 season.

Screen Gems has about 15 or 20 program series in various stages of development at this point, Mr. Dozier said. One series already has been sold but he would not reveal the buyer.

Mr. Dozier indicated he does not believe in the early showing of pilots. He observed: "You can be too early with a pilot and when it's around a while, its value is diminished."

With respect to programming trends, Mr. Dozier would say only that there would be "fewer westerns" in 1961-62. He would not elaborate on other areas. It is known that Screen Gems has several adventure series under consideration, including two with the working titles of Tangiers and Macao.

At Four Star ■ Thomas J. McDermott, executive vice president of Four Star Television, reported his company already is developing 10-12 series for the '61-62 season and that in time probably would add three or four more. But pilots will not be made of all.

Asked if he'd be showing the Gertrude Berg pilot which he acknowledged that Four Star had completed, Mr. McDermott said the firm probably would hold off until the end of February in most cases in which a pilot has been filmed early.

Mr. McDermott, who formerly was a Benton & Bowles executive, emphasized the buying season can be advanced only so far. "Few sponsors can make deals when the product is not there to see." It also is difficult for advertisers to commit monies a year in advance of the new fiscal period. He thought the buying season as usual would come after Jan. 1, the bulk of it in March, April and May.

Preliminary talks are now under way for new programming in the 1961-62 season among networks, agencies and producers, Mr. McDermott noted, with the aim two-fold: to become as knowledgeable as fast as possible and to get a "first crack"—an option or an understanding.

CRANBERRY HOPES PINNED TO TV

Aim of a record budget: to wipe out '59 cancer-scare setback

The cranberry industry has picked television for the top role in its effort to reinstate cranberries as popular dinner fare during the Thanksgiving-Christmas period.

An estimated 60% of the season's crop is sold in the October-December period. In these three months this year, Ocean Spray Cranberries Inc. will spend an estimated $1 million in a record tv push. The sum represents two-thirds of the approximate total advertising BBDO, New York, will bill on Ocean Spray in the cranberry season.

Television plans encompass:

- A spot campaign that will run in flights in the nation's top 50 markets.

- An "experimental" special hour it will sponsor on NBC-TV: "Story of a Family" in the 7:30-8:30 p.m. period on Nov. 17 in the pre-Thanksgiving week.

The cranberry growers' campaign will put tv to a unique test because that medium has been selected to carry the brunt of advertising designed to recapture the product's primary market.

At one time, Ocean Spray, assured of its sales niche at Thanksgiving time, had advertised to broaden the purchase of canned sauce the year round. But this was before the fall of 1959, when in the middle of the peak selling season a government report nipped potential sales in the bud.

Wiped Clean ■ That report cited laboratory tests indicating a weed killer used by some growers was a possible source of cancer in rats. Result was circulation of the report in the nation's news media serving to wipe cranberries off dinner plates as restaurants deleted the food from menus and stores took cans off shelves.

Ocean Spray is a marketing organization that represents 75% of the U.S. growers who make up an estimated $40 million a year business. This year cranberry bogs are expected to bring in a bumper crop. Advertising funds are pinned to an arbitrary assessment on each barrel depending on anticipated sales.

But the record outlay this season includes additional monies placed in the coffer because of the unusual circumstances in a life-and-death struggle of an industry.

The comeback trail was staked out first in print advertising in the spring when a less ambitious four-week spring campaign touted the food as a dinner product at Easter. From this nibble at public attitudes has come the big tv bite for the fall.

An unusual history of advertising precedes the tv plunge. Ocean Spray in the 1958-59 season had been in the top 30 markets via spot television before the debacle of 1959. (The return to the grower fell from $11-12 to $7-8 per barrel, with the government forced to buttress the cranberry farmer with an estimated $10 million in grants-in-aid). The cooperative also had enjoyed a short-lived cranberry juice radio regional test designed to implant a new cranberry product on grocers' shelves and in the home. This was tested even further in television, the company then adopting a premise that tv would appear to be the cheapest, most effective and long lasting medium.

Tv Roots ■ The tentative conclusion received permanency when the cranberry people and the agency in looking at past sales found that it was precisely in the top 30 markets in which cranberries were advertised on television in 1958-59 that sales stood up the best in the ugly period last year. This underscored the "lasting" or "carry over" effects of tv.

Cranberry advertising by Ocean Spray traditionally follows a two-ply approach: foremost the promotion of cranberry sauce as a desirable food, and secondly Ocean Spray as a brand.

The media planning considers spot tv as the basic advertising vehicle backed by some print. The advertising is in two parts and there will be a set of commercials for each: (1) the sales of fresh cranberries, and (2) of canned sauces.

continue to dominate the program field. This is mainly because of the networks' financing role. The hour-long program, especially, is in the domain of the network. But many agencies now are searching diligently for new program ideas or properties for 1961-62, mostly in the half-hour form. There's a tendency for advertisers to seek an early first option on sponsorship of a show irrespective of licensing. Some agencies, however, manage to achieve the same thing through a mutual understanding with the network and the producer.

There's undercurrent talk in agency ranks of a building trend by advertisers to finance pilots not for the control or ownership of the program but for that "first option" on the series. (Should they decline the option, losses seldom are more than nominal and often fully recouped in the sales of the program to some other advertiser or to a network.)

There were some hints of speedy action by agencies on behalf of clients to wrap up properties well in advance of the general timetable. There were these comments:

Said one executive: "We are more than several months ahead in our program planning. We will see our first pilots within the next 10 days, and expect to have seen most before Jan. 1."

Another agency executive: "Our thinking on programs began before buying ended on the other (1960-61) season. We have seen 50-60 scripts for '61-62, the bulk from producers. We are at least one or two months ahead of last year's pace."

Another agencyman said: "I've seen 12 series, six in detailed synopsis with another three or four episodes outlined; another six had scripts for about two episodes."

Two Big Buyers ■ N.W. Ayer and McCann-Erickson reported they have read dozens of scripts. C. Terence Clyne of McCann-Erickson noted his agency had "ideas" which amounted to perhaps a half-dozen projects of interest for '61-62, predicted a return to more live drama and musicals, less violence and more dramatic formats within filmed series and a decline in situation comedy output (after the 1960-61 season he thought the number would be cut in half).

Mr. Clyne expected to see a half-dozen pilots before the first of the year and thought the pre-seasonal activity would reach a peak in March or April.

Tom Calhoun, who heads program production at N.W. Ayer, said his department had read nearly 50 scripts or synopses and by the time Warren Warner of his unit arrives in Hollywood early this month to discuss some of the more promising ones with producers, he will have studied nearly 100. Mr. Calhoun, and Joe Rines of his department, only last week returned from a trip abroad where they boned up on what's available abroad. His prognostication: pilot films will reach the market as early as November 1960 whereas in the past "it has been early February."

Fresh cranberries have never been advertised before. It'll be done this year because of the unusual drive for turnover, because of a bumper crop and a short season.

Test Panel ■ BBDO has been test paneling three different commercials for canned sauce. It's expected one of these commercials will be selected as the heavy campaigner. The three: a commercial concerned with the historical background of cranberry eating, another pointing up the product's eating as all-American, and a third (and probably the commercial to be used) which musically associates the product with freshness and wholesomeness. All advertising will make use of the Good Housekeeping seal, to emphasize in general that the product is wholesome.

In the NBC-TV special—it's to be produced and directed by Joseph Krumboltz under the supervision of Irving F. Gitlin, executive producer, creative projects for NBC news and public affairs—Ocean Spray plans for an association with a program that's new and different to tv. The show is designed to make use of a "reporting" technique to tell a story of a typical American family through periods of both trouble and fortune. Actress Jane Wyatt has been signed as narrator for the series that also will touch on Thanksgiving as a family festival.

In that program, Ocean Spray intends to place 2 two-minute commercials and a pair of one-minute messages, the former commercials with "low-key sell". (Among the plans: a commercial that will use still pictures of lithographs and prints of the Thanksgiving holiday).

Pulling wool out of water ■ When a commercial calls for a waterfall, and there's not one readily available in New York, build one. Or at least, that's what Daniel & Charles decided on as a solution to a problem posed by client Woolite Inc., Los Angeles. A filmed commercial was desired that would point up the cold water rinse magical quality of soap product Woolite, a cleaner for woolen sweaters and blouses.

The agency's Lincoln Diamant, vice president in charge of tv-radio, and production firm Elliot, Unger & Elliot in New York, went to work on the problem. Finally the EU&E director Larry Goldwasser and designer Pete Johnke constructed a home-made waterfall in their studio. It included a curtain of water that on cue pulled aside on curtain traverses (at left in photo), a garment mounted on invisible glass and a continuous cascade of Woolite suds pumped through piping and down another sheet of glass.

The Woolite spot starts Sept. 12 in a 10-week crosscountry campaign that will call for saturation placement in 14 top markets. It's the first major use of spot tv by the client.

Agency App'tments

■ Campbell Soup Co., Camden, N.J., appoints Leo Burnett Co., to handle advertising for its Swanson frozen foods and heat-processed products (about $1.5 million billings), terminating its relationship with Tatham-Laird. Burnett already handles Campbell's tomato juice, frozen soups and Franco-American products. (Other Campbell agencies remain unchanged: BBDO for heat-processed soups; Needham, Louis & Brorby for pork & beans and V-8 Cocktail vegetable juices.)

■ Sweet-Orr & Co., N.Y. (Work clothes, industrial uniforms and boys pants), by mutual agreement has terminated relationship with Kastor Hilton Chesley Clifford & Atherton Inc., N.Y., effective Sept. 1. Move was taken to allow agency to solicit competitive account, which had not been named as of last Friday.

■ H.F. Ritchie Co., a subsidiary of the Beecham Group Ltd., of England, appoints Kenyon & Eckhardt, N.Y., to handle marketing of Macleans toothpaste in the U.S.

■ General Foods Ltd names Young & Rubicam Inc., Toronto, for Canadian advertising of Gaines Gravy Train dog food, which will be introduced in Canada this fall.

■ Wilson Sporting Goods Co., Chicago, appoints Campbell-Mithun, that city, to handle its advertising effective Nov. 1. Roche, Rickard & Cleary, which handled account, will continue to service Wilson's Ideal dog food, Wilson's B-V and other products. Campbell-Mithun was also named to handle Wilson hams, bacon, sausage, canned meats, Menu-Pak and portion-controlled meat products.

■ Veri-Kleen Products, Garden Grove, Calif., has appointed Adams & Keyes, Los Angeles, as agency for the company's line of carpet cleaners, spot removers and other household products. A Southern California tv campaign is planned for fall.

■ Admiral Corp., Chicago, appoints Henri, Hurst & McDonald, that city, to handle its commercial electronics account. Agency already handles the company's consumer and international advertising.

■ Four more Pepsi-Cola bottling companies have named BBDO as their agency. This makes a total of 16 bottlers announced as having appointed BBDO after the initial Pepsi-Cola Co. switch from Kenyon & Eckhardt to BBDO. The four companies are located in Atlantic City, Jamestown (N.Y.), Hickory (N.C.) and Wilmington, Del.

CAN RADIO MAKE PURITY PAY?

KYA volunteers as laboratory for survival test of ethics

KYA San Francisco is offering itself to the radio business as a test vehicle for a number of commercial practices advocated by industry leaders and/or critics. Effective Sept. 15, that Bartell Group station will institute a new 16-point policy designed to try in everyday practice points covering such things as a single rate, elimination of multiple spotting and an end to all barter, per inquiry and percentage business.

The new policy, guaranteed at the outset to last at least six months, is the brainchild of Mort Wagner, executive vice president of the Bartell Group and general manager of KYA. It carries the blessing of Bartell management as an experiment but not endorsement as a recommended policy for either other Bartell stations or other broadcasters.

Besides adopting the initial 16-point policy, KYA is trying to set up a panel of industry leaders who would analyze commercial practices and recommend adoption of other ideas. Any new idea so recommended would be guaranteed a trial of at least 120 days on the station, with a full report on the test made available to other stations. KYA plans a report on the effectiveness of its 16-point plan after six months, which it will distribute to all radio stations.

The experiment is restricted only to commercial or administrative practices, and will not involve programming. KYA is primarily a news and popular music station.

These are the 16 points going into effect Sept. 15:

1. One rate card effective no later than Dec. 15, 1960. Prior to that date a 20% deduction of Card #8 will be allowed Bay Area retail businesses with three or fewer outlets. This is in line with the recent Station Representative Assn.'s stand for a single rate (BROADCASTING, Aug. 15), except that in the interim period before the single rate goes into effect KYA will allow discounts to firms with three or fewer outlets.

2. One sales message between musical selections.

3. A maximum of 18 commercial units per hour, consisting of 14 minutes, two 10-second spots and two 20- or 30-second spots.

4. Twenty-minute protection and a maximum two sponsorships per hour for the same advertiser, unless all parties are notified and approve to the contrary. Mr. Wagner feels that two commercials per hour are enough for an advertiser to achieve saturation, and that any more than that is trying to the listener. Exceptions to this policy might be made during certain seasons—the car buying season in the fall, for example—if all advertisers concurred in the exception.

5. Time signals and temperature reports under 10 seconds in length and newscasts under 4½ minutes are not available for sale. Tacking a commercial mention onto the simple announcement of the time is an imbalance of the commercial over the service provided, Mr. Wagner feels.

6. All announcements may be fixed at the outset within a half hour. If fixed, three days' notice of change will be given if involving a plan, and one week's notice if a category purchase (AA, A, etc.). If notice to move is given, the client has 24 hours, if under a plan, and 48 hours otherwise to firm his position and pay accordingly. Mr. Wagner says this policy will combat the growing inability of advertisers to buy any but run-off-schedule positions, and still allow "plan" purchases. Under the policy, an advertiser who buys one spot in A time with another spot to go in A time if available, or to be moved into B time if not available, would be given definite positions within a half hour period. If another advertiser came along and offered to pay the full rate for the A time, the first advertiser would have 24 hours to decide either to drop to the B time or pay the full rate and retain the A position.

MORT WAGNER

7. No per inquiry, percentage or barter business will be accepted, nor will orders be accepted for resale purposes.

8. No continuity designed to elicit a "call right now" response will be permitted without special approval. Approval also will be necessary to include phone numbers in continuity and to include addresses if the clients ask for an immediate "write now" response. KYA's address may never be used. All these points are being adopted to discourage "pitch" advertising.

9. KYA reserves the right to approve and/or request a change of continuity at any time.

10. Commercials may not exceed one minute or be less than 10 seconds in length.

11. All national business emanating outside the San Francisco area must be placed through both agency and national representative. This does not mean that an agency cannot actually place the business directly with the station, but that even if it does the rep will still get his commission.

12. Any addition to schedules during the protection period will carry the current rather than the protected rate

moves copper ore—

75 TONS AT A TIME!

A far cry from the miner's mule of the '80s, this new mammoth ore truck performs Herculean tasks in Anaconda's Berkeley Pit at Butte, Montana. Still in the experimental stage, the gigantic vehicle hauls ore up-grade out of the pit, 75 or more tons at a time. Designed to replace Diesel trucks with less than half the capacity, it operates electrically on special trolley wires and each of its four outsized wheels can deliver 400 horsepower, a total of 1600 horsepower—making it the most powerful truck in the world. Without a load, it can leave its trolley wires and operate on 350 horsepower supplied by its own Diesel generator.

Huge as it is, Anaconda's new truck is in proportion with the vast Butte operation. One of the richest mineral areas ever discovered, Butte has supplied industry with more than three billion dollars in mineral wealth. Up to 1959, more than 7 million tons of copper had been mined at "the richest hill on earth"—which has also been a bountiful source of zinc, manganese, lead, silver and gold.

Current production at Butte continues to set king-sized standards, and the new king-sized ore truck is part of a system which moves more than 28,000 tons of ore a day at the Berkeley Pit. This is just one reason why the Company's ore production is consistently on the increase. Not only with new and highly efficient equipment, but through continuing exploration and constant development of new copper sources, such as the new El Salvador Mine recently opened in Chile, Anaconda meets the growing needs of industry for more and better products in the entire nonferrous metal field.

AIR EXPRESS...
FIRST ON, FIRST OFF
... FIRST CHOICE
NATIONWIDE!

AIR EXPRESS goes where the jets go. It has ever since the first commercial jetliner roared skyward. But 600 mph speed is just one more reason progressive businesses hail AIR EXPRESS as America's modern way of doing business; there are others:

Like the sure knowledge that AIR EXPRESS gets first priority treatment on all 35 of the nation's scheduled airlines. It's always first on, first off—with new loading systems tailored to the jet age, and kid-glove handling every mile of the way.

Other reasons? Dependable overnight delivery to more than 20,000 communities. Prompt pickup and delivery service by the AIR EXPRESS fleet of trucks — many radio-dispatched for maximum speed. Immediate confirmation of delivery, too, via the giant AIR EXPRESS-operated teletype network. And, in some areas, helicopter service links small airfields with major terminals.

That's why, more than ever, it pays to think fast, think AIR EXPRESS first. One phone call is all it takes to enlist the skills of thousands of AIR EXPRESS specialists — and speed your product FIRST TO MARKET... FIRST TO SELL!

except where the station has accepted an annual blanket order. KYA regards extension of schedules as actually new business, and will insist on treating it so during protection periods.

13. Sound effects will not be accepted in live announcements. KYA is taking this step to insure quality of its commercials. It feels that if sound effects are to be integrated properly, without danger of slips, the commercials should be planned and produced on tape in advance.

14. Newscasts and announcement purchases may not be combined frequency discounts. This practice, fairly common in the industry, prevents an advertiser from getting a more favorable rate for the high-priced newscast purchase by buying a number of lower-priced regular spots.

15. KYA has AFTRA and IBEW contracts and will assess production costs accordingly.

16. Live copy may not exceed 135 words for a 1-minute commercial, 60 words for a 30-second commercial, 40 words for a 20-second commercial and 15 words for a 10-second commercial.

In addition to the 16 enumerated policies, the station notes that all programming must conform to laws of the U.S. and California, regulations of the FCC and Federal Trade Commission and the Radio Code of the NAB. KYA also reserves the customary right to preempt any advertiser's programming for important public messages or announcements, or if it is determined the best interest of the public is not being served.

Mr. Wagner notes that KYA does not decry any policies which run contrary to the ones it is adopting for the experiment, but simply wants to give new policies a chance for a practical test. Whether or not any of the 16 points will be maintained at KYA beyond the six-month test period will depend on "acceptance," Mr. Wagner says. If they prove economically sound, they'll stay. If they don't, KYA says it won't be because they weren't given a chance.

KM&G opens Houston office for Gulf Oil

Ketchum, MacLeod & Grove, Pittsburgh, last Thursday (Sept. 1) opened a new office in Houston to continue advertising and related service to Gulf Oil Corp. which is moving its marketing operations to the Texas city. Last year Gulf Oil spent more than $2.6 million in radio-tv spot and network television.

George Ketchum, agency president, also announced that executives transferring from Pittsburgh to Houston are Donald A. Colvin, who will head advertising operations; Stanley Kail, advertising account executive; H. Dale Henderson, who will be in charge of public relations activity in Houston, and W. Kerr Wilson, public relations account executive.

The Houston operation—at 1205 Holman Ave.—is the third new office opened by KM&G in the past four years. Others are in New York and Washington. The 37-year-old agency also reported that its 1959 billings in all media were $29.9 million.

Business briefly

Alpha and Omega ■ ABC-TV last week announced sponsorships of pre-game and post-game shows to be seen this fall with telecasts of NCAA football. General Mills Inc. (Knox Reeves) and Bristol-Myers Co. (Doherty, Clifford, Steers & Shenfield), starting Sept. 17, will sponsor College Football Scoreboard, which will be presented immediately following conclusion of each Saturday afternoon game. Sports broadcasters Jim Simpson and Bob Wolff, both of Washington, D. C., will give summaries of college football games with scores and highlights. Union Carbide (William Esty) and Willard Storage Battery (Meldrum & Fewsmith), starting Sept. 24, will back College Football Time, a series of 12 football features immediately preceding NCAA telecasts. Sports broadcaster Chris Schenkel will m. c. the 15-minute programs, on 11 Saturdays, Sept. 24-Dec. 3 and on Thursday Nov. 24.

Throws to Rizzuto ■ Mennen Co. (men's grooming toiletries and baby care products), Morristown, N.J., purchased sponsorship of CBS Radio's Sports Time with Phil Rizzuto (Mon.-Sat. 6:55-7 p.m. EDT) for 65 weeks beginning today (Sept. 5). The long-term buy is a key play in Mennen's extensive advertising and promotion plans involving the former New York Yankee shortstop. Agency: Warwick & Legler, N. Y.

This week ■ Miles Labs (for Alka Seltzer and other products), Elkhart, Ind.,

Steel scenes ■ Two new U. S. Steel Corp. institutional tv commercials will make their premiere on the U. S. Steel Hour (CBS-TV) in September, one on the use of steel in school construction (Sept. 7) and the other on specially designed pipe for aqueducts in supplying communities with water (Sept. 21). Both commercials have this in common: they run 2½ minutes long, were filmed outdoors by Transfilm-Caravel via agency BBDO. The school message (picture at right) tells viewers, "More and more schools like these are being built. They are practical and efficient, as well as beautiful." The commercial will be placed on the season opener U. S. Steel Hour (CBS-TV) on Sept. 7, an institutional message by the steel company that salutes school openings while pointing out the use of steel in school construction. In the second institutional commercial, (picture at left) a crane lowers aqueduct pipe in place (in pipe trench). The commercial explains that the pipe is specially designed and of high strength weighing over eight tons. When the pipe is cement mortared and coated, the sectional weight is increased to some 21 tons, it is further explained.

WRBL-TV will soon beam to its prime Southeastern market from a new tower more than twice its current height above average terrain. At the same time WRBL-TV will switch from channel 4 to channel 3*. The combination of the new tower and new channel will boost WRBL-TV's total Grade B audience to more than 193,895 television homes in 55 counties of Georgia and Alabama! And when you consider that the Columbus Metropolitan Area alone is Georgia's second largest market with the highest per family income in the state, it's easy to see why Columbus and WRBL-TV are "sound buys" in the marketing plans of more and more top companies!

DEBATES SET; TIMEBUYING BEGINS

Campaign buying will be built around four free network hours

Purchases of political radio and tv time, stalled by pre-Labor Day uncertainty, will get under way this week at Democratic and GOP campaign headquarters in Washington.

Two factors that had delayed planning are now out of the way.

First, a schedule of "Great Debates" between Nixon and Kennedy has been agreed on by the parties and networks.

Second, formal opening of intensive mass-influencing efforts had awaited passing of Labor Day.

Timebuying officials at Democratic headquarters (Guild, Bascom & Bonfigli) and at the GOP Washington offices (Campaign Assoc.) had long since completed preliminary strategy and had been sitting on their hands awaiting the debate schedule announced Aug. 31.

Now the professional agency executives can get on with their booking, with the slide rules and charts due for a heavy workout.

GOP Strategy ■ Republicans will start working on a schedule of night-time half-hours of paid network time. This slate will speed up as the campaign progresses. Buying of five-minute day and night segments at the tail-end of network features will speed up but the plans for spot tv are still uncertain. Democratic officials were reluctant to discuss specifics, insisting they couldn't set up definite buys until the debate schedule was settled.

A tipoff on the heat of the campaign planning came Sept. 1 when Herb Klein, Vice President Nixon's news secretary, announced the GOP candidate would leave his hospital bed Sept. 12 to visit four widely-separated cities in one day, and then continue to travel 9,000 miles through 14 states coast-to-coast before Sept. 17, end of the first campaign week.

The jet schedule includes Baltimore, Indianapolis, Dallas and San Francisco the first day. The Sept. 14 itinerary, for example, will start at Milwaukee and move to Atlantic City, N.J., Roanoke, Va., and Omaha, Neb.

The GOP will send an advance crew to all cities to help radio and tv stations arrange coverage, if they desire. When the GOP candidate visited Atlanta Aug. 26, for example, a WLWA (TV) pooled pickup was made available to a special network that was said to have reached a heavy percentage of the state's radio and tv homes.

Similarly Democratic headquarters is working on arrangements for Sen. Jack Kennedy and his teammate, Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

At the moment there is no central source of information on time buys by the numerous local and special groups supporting the separate presidential candidates.

The Debates ■ An important feature of the Great Debate schedule is that it will include only two face-to-face debates, judging by planning at the week-end. These will take place in Chicago, Sept. 26, and New York, Oct. 21.

Question was raised over the fact the Oct. 21 debate will occur two weeks before election day. Democrats had indicated they would accept dates closer to the election. Informal Republican comment suggested the party planners wanted to use broadcast time during the final fortnight under their own rules. The GOP appeared to be placing importance on an election eve broadcast by President Eisenhower.

An Oct. 13 Nixon-Kennedy appearance will be of a panel nature, with possible use of a split screen. Oct. 8 is tentatively the fourth date for a debate-panel broadcast. Here an important factor is ABC-TV's commitment to the Washington-Stanford football game, starting at 4:45 p.m., New York time. It was anticipated an effort would be made to advance game time for a Nixon-Kennedy panel.

All joint appearances of the candidates will be radio-tv simulcasts on all three tv and all four radio networks. Pooling arrangements will be worked out as well as production plans, probably by drawing lots. Networks have informally indicated willingness to permit feeds to non-affiliate stations at normal pickup points.

The Price of Service ■ What will all this cost the networks? It was anybody's guess at the time the schedule was approved. One guess was $1.5 million. CBS tentatively placed an estimate of $450,000 on its out-of-pocket loss in time and pre-emptions. ABC gave a figure of $625,000. NBC hadn't supplied a figure by Sept. 1.

An important phase of the debates is the non-sponsorship angle. The networks agreed not to sell the time to advertisers but they made it quite clear this is only an exception. They insist on the right to make public-service programs available to sponsors.

The debate programs will run without interruption, even for station breaks. Hence there will be no opportunity, under the agreed-upon format, for affiliates to sell time between the start and windup of the programs.

Special Coverage ■ Network planning for separate campaign features is making some progress. NBC-TV is scheduling eight special Huntley-Brinkley reports on Saturdays, 9:30-10:30 p.m. These definitely will be sponsored. NBC-TV and Longines-Wittnauer Watch Co. were putting final touches, it was reported, on plans for the series,

Already plenty of political exposure

A total of 36.9 million or 81.6% of all U.S. television homes watched the Republican national convention on tv at some time during the four-day sessions, July 25-28, A.C. Nielsen Co. reported last week. The average viewing home watched the proceedings for 7 hours 32 minutes. During any minute of the 17 hours of coverage, an average of 12.9 million homes was tuned in.

These figures lagged behind the all-time record set during the July 11-15 Democratic convention. The Democratic sessions, which lasted five days and covered more hours per day, attracted 38.7 million different homes (86% of all U.S. tv homes) which averaged 9 hours 38 minutes of convention viewing during this week.

Republican convention telecasts ranged from 27.7 million to 29.9 million different homes per day. High audience point was nominee Richard M. Nixon's acceptance speech on July 28, which was seen in 17.2 million homes (Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy's acceptance speech was seen in 17.6 million). President Eisenhower's July 26 address, with 16.7 million homes, had the second largest tv audience of the GOP convention. Average nightly tune-in represented 29% of all U.S. tv homes at any given minute.

Nielsen's figures for both Republican and Democratic conventions reflected continental U.S. audiences only, excluding Alaska and Hawaii.

BEAMED TO BUYERS!

People buy what they see, and they see it on KTBS-TV in Shreveport. What these people see are pictures of the finest quality. What they hear are sounds of truest tone. What's more, close-up of KTBS-TV power reveals a big broad coverage over four states (1,361,300* people and still growing) that brings sales (they spent $1,337,264,000* in 1959). No wonder time buyers look to KTBS-TV where people buy. It's the bright spot for spots in the Southwest.

starting Sept. 17 and continuing through Nov. 5.

Four would be moderated by the Huntley-Brinkley team and four by Frank McGee, NBC newsmen. The first and final episodes, moderated by Mr. McGee, would offer reviews of the campaigns to date and use live, tape and film reports. Huntley-Brinkley would put the spotlight on views and activities of the candidates. Longines-Wittnauer's agency is Victor A. Bennett Co., New York.

Westinghouse Electric Corp., as part of its big convention-election package on CBS-TV, will sponsor nine half-hour campaign reports titled Presidential Countdown. These will feature CBS newsmen with Walter Cronkite in charge. The first eight will be Mondays, 10:30-11 p.m., starting Sept. 12. The last will occur Friday, Nov. 4, 9:30-10 p.m. Travelers Insurance is sponsoring an entertainment series, Actuality Review, of prior presidential campaigns. This feature is slated Oct. 24, 8:30-9:30 p.m.

ABC-TV is scheduling eight Campaign Roundup programs. Candidates Kennedy, Nixon, Johnson and Lodge have been invited to appear individually for interviews with ABC newsmen. On programs without candidates, ABC will offer reviews of preceding week's developments, regional reports, film clips of speeches and similar material, with Bill Shadell as anchor man. Other ABC newsmen to appear will be Quincy Howe, Edward P. Morgan, John Rolfson, Paul Harvey, Al Mann and William Winter. Dates now slated are Sept. 17, 24 and Oct. 1, 7:30-8 p.m.; Oct. 8, 8-8:30 p.m.; Oct. 15, 7-7:30 p.m.; Oct. 20, 10:30-11 p.m.; Oct. 28, 8-8:30 p.m.; Nov. 3, 2:30-3 p.m. The network is negotiating for a series sponsor.

Mutual's World Tonight (Mon.-Fri., 8:05-8:30 p.m.) is devoting each Friday broadcast, starting with the conventions and continuing through post-election Friday, to a documentary wrapping up the week's political developments. This is part of the convention election package bought by Oasis cigarettes.

Debate Dates ■ The joint network announcement Aug. 31 on the debates said it was agreed the two presidential candidates will appear jointly on all tv and radio networks Sept. 26, Oct. 13 and Oct. 21, with "tentative consideration" being given to Oct. 8 as a fourth date.

It noted the opener Sept. 26 will be a face-to-face meeting originating in Chicago, 9:30-10:30 p.m. (EDT), with domestic policy as the topic. The final program on the series on Oct. 21 will deal with foreign policy, the candidates meeting face-to-face in a New York studio.

"The remaining two programs will be in a news panel discussion format," it was explained but no details had been worked out at the time.

"It was agreed that the programs will have no sponsoring organizations," the statement said, adding that the programs will originate in network studios without studio audiences.

Network representatives at the Wednesday conference were John Daly, for ABC; Sig Mickelson, for CBS; William R. McAndrew, for NBC, and Steve McCormick, for MBS. Taking part on behalf of Sen. Kennedy were J. Leonard Reinsch, Kennedy-Johnson communications advisor, and Ted Sorenson, Sen. Kennedy's legislative assistant. Vice President Nixon's representatives were Fred Scribner, Jr., undersecretary of the Treasury; Ted Rogers, tv-radio consultant-producer, and Herbert Klein, news secretary.

The Great Debate idea first began to assume definite shape last May when the networks testified before a Senate Commerce subcommittee considering legislation to seize eight hours of prime time from networks for use of candidates. The legislation, of course, died quickly (BROADCASTING, May 23).

At the time the networks themselves made separate proposals. David C. Adams, NBC senior executive vice president, offered eight one-hour Meet the Press broadcasts in prime Saturday evening time, six to include appearances by Democratic and Republican nominees. Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS Inc. president, offered eight exclusive one-hour telecasts in prime time for debates and discussions. Oliver Treyz, ABC-TV president, suggested each major network offer three prime periods with largest audiences on a rotating basis for nine weeks for use by two major candidates.

■ Political sidelights

■ One of the first independent stations to ask coverage rights to the great debate series was WMGM New York. Arthur M. Tolchin, executive vice president-director, wired the presidential candidates the station would like to carry the series.

■ KEX Portland, Ore., Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. outlet, invited the candidates for six national and local offices to appear in a series of face-to-face radio debates. The broadcasts would be unsponsored. Dr. Charles M. White, of Portland State College, would serve as moderator. Invitations were sent by Herbert L. Bachman, KEX general manager.

■ WKCW Warrenton, Va., is taking a private presidential poll, offering listeners a $100 cash award for selecting the winner. Ties will be broken on a vote basis.

■ Nat Welch, Alabama businessman, has been named special representative for the 1960 Dollars for Democrats Drive. He will contact state chairmen around the nation. Mr. Welch for six years was vice president in charge of sales at Orr Industries, tape manufacturer now part of Ampex Corp.

■ WJPS Evansville, Ind., has asked 30 Indiana radio and tv stations to join in a verbal vote survey. Verne Paule, general manager, said the poll will begin Sept. 22 and stations will interview voters by tape recording. The weekly composite will be sent to Mr. Paule for statewide tabulation. First results will be announced Oct. 3. Tabulations will reflect percentages for presidential and gubernatorial candidates. WJPS has used the technique in past campaigns.

■ Leonard H. Marks, Washington communications lawyer, has taken leave of absence from his firm, Cohn & Marks, to devote full time working on the staff of Democratic vice presidential candidate Lyndon B. Johnson. Mr. Marks, before he entered private practice, was an assistant general counsel of the FCC. Mr. Marks worked for Sen. Johnson's nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate before the Los Angeles convention in July.

■ WJIM-TV Lansing, Mich., invited opposing candidates for governor and U.S. senator to appear in a series of debates in the three weeks immediately preceding the election. Harold Gross, president, proposed to set aside three half-hour periods of prime time for each set of candidates.

■ Four-minute beeper phone reports and air-mail tape reports on addresses to be delivered by Vice President Nixon and Sen. Kennedy in Atlantic City, N.J., Sept. 15 and Sept. 21, respectively, will be supplied to stations wishing them by Resort Radio Productions, Atlantic City. Mr. Nixon will address the National Federation of Republican Women and Sen. Kennedy will speak to the Steelworkers' Union.

■ Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), vice president and one-third owner of WKNX-AM-TV Saginaw, Mich., won the Republican nomination for the Senate in the Michigan primaries. His Democratic opponent in the November election will be incumbent Patrick V. McNamara. WKNX-AM-TV also has been granted ch. 9 at Alpena, Mich., on a conditional basis (BROADCASTING, Aug. 1) and is an applicant for an am station at Houston, Tex., on 1070 kc with 10 kw.

NOW IT'S OLD NEWSREELS

Three 5-minute series meet with success
as popularity of information shows rises

The current demand for informational-type programming on tv is sparking an interest in daily five-minute shows edited from newsreels of yesterday. Three distinct program series of this type already are on the market, and more than 110 sales have been completed to date.

This programming trend started to take shape early this year when Richard B. Morros Inc., New York producer, in association with Hearst Metrotone News, created and produced Almanac Newsreel, which now is sold in more than 87 markets. Several months later, the Sherman Grinberg Film Libraries Inc., New York, which has access to footage from several newsreel organizations, fashioned Greatest Headlines of the Century, which has been bought in 56 markets. Earlier this summer, Pathe News Productions, New York, created Milestones of the Century, and the series is scheduled to be aired in 21 markets, starting in early September.

Both Almanac and Greatest Headlines are being distributed by Official Films, New York, while Milestones is handled by Cinema-Vue Corp., New York. Programming is designed for showing 365 days a year.

Richard B. Morros, who produces Almanac and is credited with conceiving the notion of editing old newsreels for use into tv programming fare on a regular basis, attributes their popularity largely to "the present climate for programs of information, which can help explain the events of today." He noted that stations buying five-minute newsreel programs on a library basis may be interested in scheduling them as public service efforts, but are finding they are suitable for sponsorship, particularly by institutional-type advertisers. Reports filtering back to Mr. Morros from stations indicate that banks and other financial institutions and local gasoline companies are active advertisers.

Greatest Headlines and Milestones both treat one significant news story in a five-minute episode. Almanac devotes each segment to one outstanding news event of a specific date—Pearl Harbor, on Dec. 7, for example. The series are offered to stations on a library basis for unlimited use. Stations tend to slot them before or after their regular newscasts, though Mr. Morros indicated that some stations reported they are reducing their feature film time by five minutes to accommodate Almanac in late afternoon or late evening time. He added that some stations run the program as many as four times a day, starting with early morning through late evening.

A reprieve

The "soap opera" programs aren't dead—not yet. Charles Michelson Inc., N.Y., producer-distributor of radio shows, announced last week he has acquired U.S. rights to Portia Faces Life and Life Can Be Beautiful, from their owners. CBS Radio sounded the death knell to its "soapers" several weeks ago (LEAD STORY, Aug. 22). Mr. Michelson noted that he has held the foreign rights to these series and others, and regards the present time as "propitious" for their distribution to local stations. He reported he has received more than 35 inquiries from stations. Mr. Michelson said he has acquired scripts and is having the programs produced in Australia. In addition, he is preparing for U.S. distribution of other radio serials including The Clock, Famous Jury Trials, The Hidden Truth, Squad Room, Official Detective and Sherlock Holmes.

Olympics coverage is complicated by variety

Seventeen foreign tv and radio companies from 58 nations are on the scene of the XVII Olympic Games in Rome feeding immediate reports of the athletic events back to their respective countries.

Theodore Trancu, Rome correspondent for Wide World Information Services, New York, last week described such seemingly complicated operations as (1) the Eurovision Network which links 20 million tv sets in 18 European nations; (2) the Japanese "photogram" system, separate telephoto picture transmission with a dubbed-in sound track and (3) CBS-TV which must convert from its video tapes the 625 line Italian image into the 525 line American image, jet the tapes to the U.S., and install them on mobile video tape units for same day showing.

RAI-TV (the Italian state-owned tv company) will telecast all 95 hours of sporting events; Eurovision will telecast 60 hours and CBS 20 hours with an option to pick up special events not broadcast by either RAI-TV or the Eurovision Network.

Other statistics: 350 correspondents and commentators speaking 15 different languages; 400 Italian technicians, and 8,000 athletes.

"The Big Three" ■ This sequence from Almanac Newsreel catches the three leaders—Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill—at the Yalta conference.

PRACTICAL EGGHEAD

With his knack of making culture pay,
Saudek's starting his biggest tv season

Though its beginning is still several weeks away, the 1960-61 season of network television has already been marked as the year live television died.

It may be true that more network programming will come out of film cans than ever before, but it is also true that for one of live television's chief apostles 1960-61 will be the biggest year of his career. Robert Saudek, head of Robert Saudek Assoc., has 33 shows in work—all to be live or taped in live technique. Last season he did 17 shows, the year before 15.

Mr. Saudek is running against the television stream in more ways than one. Critics have deplored the new season's promise of a glut of bread-and-butter programming and a dearth of cultural fare. Yet it will be in 1960-61 that Mr. Saudek's Omnibus, which has presented everything from Greek tragedy to the ultra-modern dance, returns to television after a year of homelessness.

Mr. Saudek's contemporaries in television program production often call him the egghead of their craft. If he is an egghead, he is also hard-boiled. No one in television has been more adept at mixing art with commerce, to the advantage of both.

"If we have proved anything," Mr. Saudek said, in contemplating his 1960-61 workload, "it is that you can make money reproducing quality shows without compromising standards."

He is aware that this principle has not been universally embraced. "For years industry leaders have pontificated about television's potential as the greatest mass medium of all time," he said, "but television isn't anywhere near its potential yet."

"It's the networks that have to be the catalysts for upgrading programming. They make the critical decisions. They decide which programs are going on the air."

The Saudek Schedule ■ So far Mr. Saudek has succeeded in persuading the networks to decide in favor of all but seven of the 33 hour and 90-minute shows that Robert Saudek Assoc. has in rehearsal or on the drawing board for 1960-61.

Nine shows of The Dow Hour of Great Mysteries, sponsored by Dow Chemical Co., have been scheduled on NBC-TV Tuesdays at 10-11 p.m., starting with "The Datchet Diamonds" starring Rex Harrison and Tammy Grimes Sept. 20. Four 90-minute programs of Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic under sponsorship of Ford Motor Co. will be presented on CBS-TV (dates not set). Thirteen Omnibus hours will be shown on NBC-TV Sundays at 5-6 p.m.; of these, seven have been bought by Aluminium Ltd. which will also sponsor the same telecasts on the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. The only Saudek project that still is seeking network time is 7 Wonders of the World, seven hour programs being prepared for New York's new Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. It is Mr. Saudek's hope that this series will get network exposure this winter.

In some of these cases, Mr. Saudek simplified the networks' decision-making process by delivering sponsors as well as shows. He is credited with the sale of his mystery hours to Dow Chemical and the seven Omnibus productions to Aluminium, which was an Omnibus sponsor in earlier seasons.

Two Different Jobs ■ Mr. Saudek's background has fitted him to perform the dissimilar jobs of salesmanship and creative production.

He was born (in Pittsburgh, June 11, 1911) to parents who were both musicians. His father was an orchestra conductor and musical director of KDKA. His mother was a violinist. At the age that other toddlers are taken to the zoo, Mr. Saudek was taken to the theatre and concert hall.

By the time he reached college he had developed an insatiable taste for culture, but he had become familiar enough with commercial radio, through his father's connection with KDKA, to understand that culture must be paid for. At Harvard, while studying for a bachelor's degree in government, he worked as an announcer at WBZ Boston. After getting his degree and a Phi Beta Kappa key in 1932, he returned to Pittsburgh and joined KDKA as a continuity editor.

At night he studied law at Duquesne U., but his course was still incomplete when, in 1938, he went to New York to become assistant to the sales manager of NBC. In 1942, when NBC's Blue Network evolved into ABC, he joined it as assistant to Edgar Kobak, executive vice president (afterward president of Mutual and now a business consultant). Except for wartime service in Armed Forces Radio in Europe Mr. Saudek was with ABC until the fall of 1951. He was vice president in charge of public affairs, publicity, continuity and research and had collected three Peabody Awards for his radio productions of Hiroshima, Communism—U.S. Brand and Clear and Present Danger when he left ABC to head the Tv-Radio Workshop of the Ford Foundation.

Ideal Marriage ■ The Workshop was a job that might have been created for him. The Ford Foundation wanted to develop cultural television programs that attracted big enough audiences to be commercial vehicles. Losses were underwritten by foundation funds.

The Workshop's Omnibus was tv's first 90-minute program. In its seven years on the air Omnibus received 75 awards, including three Peabodies. Mr. Saudek produced more than 150 Omnibus shows, containing 500 different features and running through the widest range of subject matter any television program has attempted.

In the spring of 1957 the Foundation withdrew its support having concluded that Omnibus had served its purpose of proving that quality television could support itself. For a secret price Mr. Saudek bought the rights to the Omnibus programs and to the name, and he established Robert Saudek Assoc.

Robert Saudek Assoc. was a new name for the same kind of organization that Mr. Saudek had run at the Tv-Radio Workshop. RSA consists of a small, permanent staff including Mr. Saudek; Allistair Cooke, former U.S. correspondent for England's Manchester Guardian and Omnibus host; Jack Perlis, information consultant (Harvard graduate); David J. Oppenheim, associate producer (Eastman School of Music and Julliard); Mary V. Ahearn, feature editor (Radcliffe); Henry May, production designer (Yale); George M.

Benson, vice president for business affairs (Princeton, Phi Beta Kappa); Walter Kerr, drama consultant (former professor at Catholic U., Washington, D.C., and drama critic for the New York Herald-Tribune); Richard Thomas, production controller (U. of North Carolina); Michael Ritchie, assistant to Mr. Saudek (Harvard); and a work force of secretaries and clerks who speak and dress with the kind of assured casualness that exclusive women's colleges cultivate. "We seem," said a Saudek associate, "to attract girls from Wellesley, Radcliffe, Bryn Mawr and Vassar."

Range in Reading ■ The atmosphere to which these girls are drawn may be described by listing the reading material that is laid out in the RSA reception room. In addition to the usual selection of broadcasting and show business publications available in New York radio-television offices, Robert Saudek Assoc. provides waiting visitors with the latest

Star attraction ■ Robert Saudek has a knack of persuading performers and personalities from other media and professions to try tv. Leonard Bernstein (at right in picture above), has done several shows for Saudek enterprises, will do four hour-long productions of Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic this year. When Boston attorney Joseph Welch was asked why he stooped to appear on television, he replied: "If it's good enough for Bob Saudek, it's good enough for me."

Saudek formula ■ The Omnibus production of "Boswell's Life of Samuel Johnson" was among the "most exciting" shows Mr. Saudek thinks he has done. It featured Peter Ustinov (1) and Kenneth Haigh. Mr. Saudek says the objective of his programming is to be "ideational in orientation but nevertheless entertaining." He believes "in art, not artiness." The idea of quality programming is not enough, he says. The execution of the idea will determine its success. You can't be stuffy," says Mr. Saudek.

Our Altruism Backfired

Now that the smoke of the political conventions in Los Angeles and Chicago has cleared away—and our local television reporting crews have returned to their home bases—we wish to report a statistic:

Our stations were 100% successful in selling coverage of both conventions in every Corinthian market.

We fielded a 14-man team—complementing CBS's superb national coverage—to achieve local and regional coverage, to tell an intensive story of our respective state delegations, and to view national events with local eyes. We did this with our eyes open, hardly daring to hope for extensive sponsorship, fully prepared to underwrite the expense in the interest of service. The fact that we didn't have to is a tribute to the enlightened local, regional and national sponsors who saw the prestige—and commercial—value of our local coverage.

Among the comments:

"Countless compliments attest that convention programs gave us a prestige vehicle for primarily institutional messages. We feel that other advertisers throughout the country should watch this sort of thing carefully and evaluate its possible future value to themselves."

—Texas National Bank (Agency: Goodwin-Dannenbaum) on KHOU-TV, Houston.

"Purchase of both conventions gave complete saturation of our market . . . KOTV spending lot of money and effort bringing local angle to our public. Excellent opportunity for advertising."

—Safeway Stores (Agency: Perry Ward Associates), co-sponsor with Conoco Gasoline (Benton & Bowles), on KOTV, Tulsa.

"Corinthian's convention coverage gave us saturation with dominance, intense audience interest—and lots of family audience per dollar."

—Bonsib, Inc., agency for meat packer Peter Eckrich & Son, on WANE-TV, Ft. Wayne.

"Through KXTV's locally oriented convention coverage with Shell's regular newscaster, Hank Thornley, people of Sacramento area will continue to associate Shell with important news presentation. This is an ideal combination of audience service and commercial impact."

—Shell Oil Co. (J. Walter Thompson, San Francisco) on KXTV, Sacramento.

It is heartening to prove that good public affairs programming is also good business. Each Corinthian station will continue to explore opportunities to bring such programming to the attention of sponsors who recognize that service and commercial effectiveness go hand in hand.

Mr. Saudek's life is wrapped up in his work and his family. He is married to the former Elizabeth Koch of Pittsburgh and they have five children—Richard, 20, a Harvard student who has worked this summer as a copy boy for the New York Times; Christopher, 18; Robert Eliot, 15; Mary Elizabeth, 12, and Stephen, 7. They live in Bronxville, N.Y.

Work takes up the bigger part of Mr. Saudek's schedule, at times claiming 18 hours per day. He reads omnivorously in search of subjects for television production. As one acquaintance said the other day: "Those bags under his eyes are from bouts with books, not bottles."

His search for material and talent sometimes turns up both in unexpected places. While on a visit at Harvard last spring he looked in on a college play with the improbable title, "Oh, Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I Am Feeling So Sad." Mr. Saudek decided that television wasn't ready for this production, but he was impressed with the direction of the show. He hired Michael Ritchie, the director, to be his assistant after graduation last June.

In his frequent travels, Mr. Saudek encounters businessmen from other fields and has become disturbed by what he detects as a growing attitude of tolerant amusement, if not contempt, toward television.

"We start to talk about the business we're in," he recalled last week, "and when I say, 'I'm in television,' there's always a giggle or a snicker. It's as if I had said I was a bookie."

"I think those of us working in television ought to raise our sights continually so the image we present to outsiders will be one they can respect, even admire."

AFM wins back pay

The American Federation of Musicians announced last week that a settlement has been reached with NBC under which 20 NBC staff musicians and eight or 10 extra sidemen will receive up to about $2,000 per man for work they performed on The Perry Como Show three years ago.

AFM officials said that the program was shown in England three years ago without compensation to the musicians who performed for the shows. The union and the network, they said, have been negotiating the issue for three years and last week agreed on a settlement in excess of $50,000. AFM said that each musician, staff or extra, will receive a share in proportion to the number of programs for which he played. Since February 1959 this contingency has been covered by union contract stipulation between NBC and the AFM.

POST-48 FILMS

Warner Canadian sale shrouded in mystery

The status of the sales of 122 Warner Bros. post-48 features to Creative Telefilm & Artists Corp., Toronto, scheduled for consummation last Thursday (Sept. 1) but complicated by an injunction application, remained a hush-hush affair at week's end.

Spokesmen for Warner Bros. and Creative Telefilm would not discuss the project and would not indicate if the contract had been signed or the date delayed. Several months ago, Warner and Creative Telefilm announced they had reached an agreement under which the latter would acquire tv rights to the features for $11 million and a commitment to pay Warner additional funds, depending on tv revenues.

Several weeks ago the American Federation of Musicians asked the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York for an injunction to halt the sale on the ground that under the terms of a contract with the AFM, Warner was required to obtain the consent of the union before it could release the features (containing music) to tv. Judge William B. Herlands had not issued a decision by last Thursday, although AFM had urged him to reach a verdict by that date.

In a hearing before Judge Herlands earlier in the week, Warner contended that the AFM cannot enforce its contract because AFM is no longer the bargaining agent for musicians at Warner Bros. (the Musicians Guild of America now has jurisdiction at motion picture studios). Warner also argued that the injunction should not be issued because the AFM has adequate remedy at law in a suit for damages.

AFM insisted that it was the bargaining agent at the time the 122 motion pictures were produced. Union spokesmen said they are attempting to obtain re-use payment for musicians who performed for the films.

'Oscar's' moving to ABC next year

At a cost of $561,000 per year, and "subject to formalization" of contract, ABC has been awarded, on an exclusive basis for the next five years, all radio-tv broadcast rights in the U.S. and Canada, to the annual Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences "Oscar" award ceremonies, starting with the April 1961 event.

Under the agreement jointly announced last week (Aug. 29) by B.B. Kahane, academy president and Thomas W. Moore, ABC-TV vice-president in charge of programming, the academy will put on the 90 minute broadcast and also have "reasonable" approval of the advertiser who will sponsor the event annually. There will be no local station break announcements. The academy will underwrite all program costs, with ABC participating in specified production costs such as lighting and also promotion, according to Mr. Kahane. The deal also includes a provision for flexibility of format should the 90 minute program run overtime.

NBC has had the annual show for the past eight years, initially sponsored commercially, but the last three years sponsored by the film industry itself. ABC's sealed bid topped NBC by an undisclosed margin this year. CBS' low bid was eliminated a few weeks ago (BROADCASTING, Aug. 29) and the network did not resubmit a new one.

■ Program notes

Powers pick-up ■ Radio Liberation, propaganda station with powerful transmitters in Munich, Germany, and on the island of Formosa, has received permission of WBT Charlotte, N.C., to rebroadcast the two-hour excerpt of the spy trial of Francis Powers that WBT had picked up and recorded from Radio Moscow. In making the request Radio Liberation explained that its receiving monitors in New York had been unable to tape the Moscow broadcast at that time. WBT makes it a regular practice to pick up Russian short-wave propaganda programs in English for its series called Radio Moscow. The series is syndicated and currently heard on more than 20 radio stations. The Moscow line is rebroadcast with commentary and analysis by WBT staffers. The station was particularly on the alert for the Powers trial excerpts.

Station-to-station ■ A popular daily exercise program featuring John Hills, health director of KDKA-TV Pittsburgh, will be syndicated to WSAZ-TV Charleston-Huntington, W. Va.

Violence revisited ■ Recalling the mid-30's, called the "violent years" by some American historians, and the flood of gangster pictures produced then, with such rising new stars as Edward G. Robinson, Humphrey Bogart and James Cagney, KHJ-TV Los Angeles has set aside late Saturday evening for a new series of theatrical movies and called the sequence The Violent Years. Series began Aug. 20 with "Marked Woman," starring Humphrey Bogart, has such pictures as "Hatchet Man" and "Tiger Shark," both with Edward G. Robinson, and another Bogart starrer, "Racket Busters," scheduled for the weeks ahead.

Comeback trail ■ Featuring interviews with such guests as Roy Campanella, injured baseball player who now is host of a tv series, Comeback is a public service program of WMAR-TV Baltimore shared with three other stations. The taped program is exchanged with those of other coordinating stations "as a joint public service endeavor to further enhance the industry's prime image and purpose," according to WMAR-TV. Participating are WOR-TV New York, WSB-TV Atlanta and WHAS-TV Louisville. The Baltimore station presents the program on alternate Wednesdays, 5:15-5:30 p.m.

TV REVENUE-PROFIT HITS NEW HIGH

FCC reports total time sales top billion dollar mark in 1959

Running counter to the prevailing experience of American industry, tv's 1959 financial revenues and profits continued their upward spiral in both categories.

Based on FCC's official release last week, total tv revenues for 1959 soared to a new high of $1.163 billion—13% over 1958's $1.03 billion. Revenues include all income from the sale of time, talent and program material.

Tv's profits, before federal income tax, also reached a new high—$222.3 million, up 29.3% over 1958's $171.9 million.

The general pattern of American business in the last few years has been a continued climb in total revenues, but with profits down because of hiked expenses. These stem mainly from the increasing cost of raw material and labor.

In tv for 1959, expenses climbed, but remained relatively stable in relation to income. Total expenses increased 9.7% over 1958—$941.6 million compared to $858.1 million. The number of employees remained fairly constant—40,270 in 1959 compared to 39,382 in 1958.

Other highlights of the 1959 tv financial report:

- Twelve tv stations reported revenues of over $7.5 million. Average expenses totaled $6.3 million—$1.5 million for salaries and wages. $1.6 million for film, $350,000 for talent, $250,000 for depreciation and $2.6 million for all other costs.

- Total revenues from the sale of network time went up 5% to $445.8 million. Revenues from time sales to national and regional advertisers rose 22.9% to $424.2 million, and to local advertisers up 10.6% to $200.6 million. Total time sales amounted to $1,070.6 million. This was an increase of 12.6% over the 1958 figures.

- The sale of time only was divided as follows: network time to national advertisers, 41.6%; national and regional spot, 39.6%, and local advertisers, 18.8%. This is roughly the same division as in 1958.

- The three tv networks reported total revenues of $576.1 million, up 11.5%, and total profits, before federal income tax, of $87.9 million, up 14.2%. These figures include revenues from the network's 17 owned and operated stations as well as from network operation.

Network owned stations accounted for only 23.9% of total revenues, but 63.6% of the profits.

- Of the 496 tv stations reporting a full year's earnings, 74.6% reported a profit; 25.4% a loss. Only 8.4% of the 107 pre-freeze vhf stations reported a loss; 25.9% of all post-freeze stations reported a loss.

There were 69 uhf stations operating for the full year; 35 reported a profit, and 34 a loss.

- Total revenues of the 77 uhf stations were $28 million up from $26.1 million reported by 79 uhf stations in 1958. Total loss for the 77 uhf outlets was $500,000, compared to a loss of $2.2 million for 79 stations in 1958, and of $3.5 million for 88 uhf stations in 1957.

Football tactics aren't discussed at these chalk talks. But there is the same team spirit: a desire to do better than the other guy, to make the finest broadcast equipment in the world. Collins team of creative engineers consistently leads the league.

in any future national emergency, the principal burden of transportation will fall upon the railroads (in World War II, 90% of all military freight moved by rail).

In everyone's interest, public policy should give the railroads the opportunity to compete with other forms of transportation on a fair and equal basis.

"some days a man can't make a plugged nickel"

Says MAJOR SELLINGFORCE (Ambrose W., at your service)

Ever get the feeling you're getting nowhere fast, old snake-killer?
I did... that's why I gave up Indian scouting and scooted back home to South Carolina to plan ahead.
Started with that 1,526-foot tower that gives WIS-TV the power to deliver the whole state (or pretty near) for one buy. Me, old Major Sellingforce, I planned the state so Columbia would be SOUTH CAROLINA'S BIGGEST METROPOLITAN AREA IN THE 1960 CENSUS... and that it is! Down here, population sales are jumping like a sausage on a pan. Join up with WIS-TV, old flint-dodger. It's a fighting outfit... MAJOR SELLING FORCE IN SOUTH CAROLINA... way ahead of whatever's in second place. Ask me for a folder that tells my whole life story, the good with the bad.

See for yourself the list of local accounts whose strategy is to use this station almost exclusively. It reads like who's who in many classifications—Foods and Financial Institutions, to name a couple.

See for yourself the new, tried and proved power concept of these companies of concentrating on one station. See for yourself how they use this station to get distribution and produce sales. The bold concept used by these companies discards the old strategy of a little here, a little there, a little some place else. Old strategy oftentimes results in a dissipation of efforts.

See for yourself why KRNT-TV regularly carries around 80% of the local business. See for yourself that this station is a big enough sales tool to win your sales battle if it's used in a big enough way.

Spot radio's pace

Radio spot advertising billings during the first six months of 1960 dipped almost imperceptibly under the total for the same period a year ago, according to estimates compiled by Station Representatives Assn. SRA's estimates: $85,909,000 as compared to $85,923,000 for the first six months of 1959. The figures are compiled for SRA by the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co. They represent gross billings, before commissions. They are subject to adjustment when FCC's official radio figures for 1959 become available later this year.

ABA MEET IGNORES CANON 35

Crime shows on tv subject of discussion Six radio-tv shows honored with awards

The American Bar Assn. brushed aside the matter of broadcast coverage in the courtroom at its annual convention, held last week in Washington. But, it gave six Gavel Awards to radio-tv stations for distinguished service in promoting understanding of law and justice.

Canon 35, anti-broadcast rule of the ABA, was slated for consideration before the House of Delegates but official ABA sources said the matter was not brought before the house.

Dozens of sectional meetings were held during the convention, including a panel at which crime portrayal by news media was discussed in blunt terms.

A last-minute addition to the agenda, announced Aug. 30, was a speech by Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in the 1952 and 1956 campaigns. He replaced Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who could not appear because of his illness. President Eisenhower spoke Aug. 29.

Honors ■ These gavel awards were presented for television programs:

KPIX-TV San Francisco, Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. station, "for fostering public understanding of the processes of criminal law through its documentary tv production, A Life in the Balance." Donald H. McGannon, WBC president, accepted the award.

WRC-TV Washington, NBC o&o station, "for increasing public understanding of the role of juvenile courts in the American judicial system." Joseph Goodfellow, vice president-general manager of WRC-TV, accepted the award.

Paisano Productions, Hollywood, "for dramatizing basic legal safeguards afforded to accused persons through the Perry Mason television program." Raymond Burr, star of the show, accepted the gavel.

Tulane Close-Up, Tulane U., New Orleans, "for the nationally televised program With Justice for All, explaining the functions of legal aid and defender services in aiding indigent persons." Dr. Herbert E. Longenecker, Loyola president, accepted the award.

Two radio awards were presented:

WRCV Philadelphia, NBC o&o station, "for contributing to public understanding of the administration of justice through the radio series Law in Action." Raymond W. Welpott, vice president-general manager, accepted the award.

WHAS Louisville "for increasing public understanding of the American system of law and justice through the radio series It's the Law," Victor Sholis, vice president, accepted the award.

Four newspaper gavel awards went to the Washington Post, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, Portland Oregonian and Lind- Kintner Speaks ■ The Federal Trade Commission's radio and tv advertising unit has reviewed 5,175 radio and tv continuities during the fiscal year 1960—from July 1, 1959 to June 30, 1960, FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner said in an address on food, drug and cosmetic law.

The work of the monitoring unit, Mr. Kintner said, extended also to a review of 142 magazines and 626 newspapers. All in all the FTC chairman said, the unit has looked over 203,841 advertisements in all three media.

In a discussion of the work of the unit, Mr. Kintner made it clear that despite its name the group scrutinizes all media. This has proved most economical, he said. He also disclosed that the monitoring unit maintains liaison with the Alcohol Tax Div., of the Internal Revenue Service and forwards to that agency radio and tv commercials for beer, wine and other alcoholic beverages. In the last 12 months, Mr. Kintner stated, 3,567 such advertisements were segregated and forwarded to the treasury unit.

ABA adopted a resolution urging federal regulatory agencies to amend their rules of practice so only attorneys appearing on behalf of parties directly involved would be heard during top-level review of examiners' recommendations. The resolution was offered by Mr. Kintner. He said the rule would relieve members of Congress of "making speeches on behalf of their constituents" before regulatory agencies.

Critical Moderator ■ In approaching the problem of crime portrayal in public media, the ABA named William B.

McKesson, district attorney of Los Angeles County and chairman of ABA's crime-media committee, to moderate a panel.

Mr. McKesson opened with a half-hour castigation of radio-tv and newspapers, citing familiar anti-broadcast statements but ignoring pro-broadcast studies and statements. His onesided presentation moved Charles H. Tower, NAB tv vice president and panel member, to say, "Our moderator's opening statement sounded to me more like a criminal complaint than a description of the subject to be discussed. This, I suppose, is a pardonable offense for one who has so ably and conscientiously devoted his time and talents to the vital role of public prosecutor."

Also taking sharp issue with Mr. McKesson was Charles Fletcher-Cooke, of London, Member of Parliament, who contended publication and broadcasting of crime news is desirable, with the alternative of no publicity much

NAB's Radio Code: On the road to prosperity

NAB's pay-as-you-go Radio Code, a grown-up version of the old standards of practice, has passed the 600-mark in subscribers.

Once a non-paying honor system document with statements of ethical requirements, the code now is operating on a basis parallel with the NAB Tv Code. Although the new code setup has just gotten off the ground, its subscriber list promises continued growth.

The next step will be appointment of a fulltime director to administer the code. The director will operate under supervision of John F. Meagher, NAB radio vice president.

When the code was overhauled July 1, its rolls were opened for the first time to non-NAB stations. The enforcing agency is headed by Cliff Gill, KEZY Anaheim, Calif., who presided at a code board meeting held Aug. 28 in Washington.

NAB's campaign to explain code benefits will be operated through state broadcasters associations, supported by the NAB station relations staff, headed by William Carlisle. A complete radio code presentation is planned at the series of eight Fall Conferences starting Oct. 13 in Atlanta (see conference schedule, page 18).

The new director will aid in preparing a monitoring program to check on enforcement of code provisions. An audio symbol for broadcast use by subscribers is being worked out.

Merrill Lindsay, WSOY-AM-FM Decatur, Ill., member of the NAB Policy Committee, took part in the Aug. 28 code meeting. Also representing NAB, besides Mr. Meagher, were Everett E. Revercomb, acting administrator and secretary-treasurer; John M. Couric, public relations manager; Douglas A. Anello, chief counsel, and John Degnan, assistant to Mr. Meagher.

WHEN DID THEY FIND TIME FOR WORK?

In agency "X", a real togetherness outfit, there is extensive exchange of birthday cards every year. Each executive sends one to all other executives, one to every worker and, naturally, one to the president. Each worker sends one to each executive (there are no secrets), one to all other workers, and one to the president, naturally. There are, naturally, twice as many executives as workers. Nine hundred cards are sent in a year's time.

How many workers in agency "X"?

The correct answer will win you a copy of Dover Publications' "Amusements in Mathematics"—plus one birthday card next time you're thirty-nine.* Oldtimers need not despair. There are different prizes for repeat winners.

worse. "A small minority in England seizes crime programming as a stick to beat United States broadcasting," he said, adding no connection between tv crime programs and the increase in crime has been proved.

"There is no increase in the carrying of guns," he said in defending television. "There is no evidence that a normal child is in any way induced to crime. Our children regard westerns as remote costume pieces, drawing a sharp distinction between fiction and documentary fact."

In England ■ Mr. Fletcher-Cooke said many people in his country regard the Independent Television Authority as weak and possessed of few but critical sanctions. "Suspension of a station is like the hydrogen bomb—too flagrant to be used except in exceptional cases," he said.

The competition of the ITA tv stations in Great Britain "has been extremely good for the BBC," he said, adding, "I would view with great alarm any reversal of that trend." He argued parental authority "is more important than all the mass media in the world."

Crime portrayal in media is a basic sociological and psychological problem, not a media problem, Mr. Tower contended. Those who don't like what most people like on television constitute "a small but presumably chosen band of people who believe that America is going to hell in a television picture tube," he said.

Mr. Tower cited an NAB analysis of a typical programming week in Washington, with variety-comedy, drama and adventure constituting 38% of time, westerns 9%, cultural and interview, 9%, and down to private detective 3%, police 3%, courtroom 3% and mysteries 1½%. He reminded that in terms of popular selection "Matt Dillon will beat Bill Shakespeare to the draw every time, and by a wide margin. Broadcasters will continue to serve up some Shakespeare, perhaps not enough for those who want no Dillon and all Shakespeare, but still a significant amount." He analyzed the basis for the popularity of crime and adventure programs.

Tv and J.D. ■ "There are to my knowledge no studies showing a causal relation between television and juvenile delinquency," Mr. Tower said. He said broadcasters will continue to program to the best of their ability and "resist the deceptively easy course of government directive because we believe that a free society in today's world rests more importantly than many people realize on a free system of broadcasting." He said self-regulation through the NAB Tv Code is bringing improved standards.

Ashbrook Bryant, of the FCC network study office, said tv crime programs aren't likely to affect a normal child but might have an impact on a frustrated, emotionally disturbed child. He argued criticism of broadcast programming "isn't thought up by dissidents merely to embarrass broadcasters." He said Sec. 326 of the Communications Act and the First Amendment properly forbid the FCC from censoring programs or penalizing program material it thinks is bad, aside from obscenity and related material.

Tom Cameron, Los Angeles Times crime reporter, said newspapers can't change the community image. He said there were 105,227 major crimes in Los Angeles last year, but only a small percentage were reported in the newspapers. He said newspapers have raised the standards of crime portrayal.

In a pre-convention ABA panel, several attorneys clashed on the ethics of lawyer participation in tv programs portraying trials. Herman F. Selvin, Los Angeles attorney, said tv shows are incompatible with legal ethics because their first requirement is audience appeal. Arguing in favor of trial programs were Richard F. Hayden and Quenton C. Ogren, Los Angeles lawyers, and Gilbert Giordano, Washington. They took the position it was better to have the programs conducted with supervision of lawyers and emphasized creation of greater public understanding of the judicial process and function of lawyers.

In a pre-convention copyright session Joseph A. McDonald, communications attorney, served as chairman of a panel. Application of copyright to electronic media was reviewed. Vincent T. Wasilewski, NAB vice president, participated in the discussion.

MORE EARS THAN EYES IN DAY?

RAB says radio outdraws tv in daytime

The Radio Advertising Bureau last week unveiled a new study which asserts that radio's penetration of the adult consumer audience is "consistently greater" than television's during the daytime hours when "most buying takes place."

RAB President Kevin B. Sweeney, outlining the results of the study, told a news conference in New York last Wednesday (Aug. 31) that the bureau was aiming at daytime tv's advertising billing. He estimated that daytime tv is grossing about the same as daytime radio—approximately $550 million annually.

The study makes two main points: (1) daytime radio outranks daytime tv in adult audience and (2) adults are the only important audience for most advertisers.

RAB's conclusions regarding the size of the adult audience during daytime hours (defined as before 6 p.m.) are based on research conducted for the bureau by The Pulse Inc. in 27 metropolitan markets during the winter of 1960. RAB supports its claim that adults (over 18 years old) are the only important audience for most advertisers by citing published research on buying habits in groceries and supermarkets, department stores and drug stores.

The study shows that radio's adult audience surpasses tv's in every hour from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. (see chart). RAB noted that a comparable study conducted in the winter of 1958 showed that radio had a "substantial edge" over tv in daytime adult audience penetration, but added that the winter 1960 figures indicate that radio has increased the edge by 6.5% in the average hour between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The study points out that the proportion of adults in radio's audience in 1960 has held steady or gained since 1958, while in tv, it has decreased. For example, RAB said, the daytime audience in radio averaged out to 87% adult in 1958 and 88% in 1960, while tv's averaged out to 62% in 1958 and 61% in 1960.

To bolster its contention that adults are the significant audience for most advertisers, RAB offers statistics gleaned from various marketing studies which claim, for example, that 98.2% of food and grocery buyers are adult; 85% of all department store traffic is adult and 95% of all drug and toiletry purchases are made by adults. RAB asserts that children have "very little influence" on brand choice, even for products traditionally considered "children's" products. In this connection, the study points to research data that indicates that for purchases of ice cream and sherbet, peanut butter, bread and chocolate milk, children have "little influence" on brand decisions.

RAB officials will be showing the study to leading advertisers and agencies and copies will be distributed to more than 3,000 agencies and advertisers. RAB member stations will be making presentations, based on the study, to local advertisers.

Advice from WXYZ-TV

WXYZ-TV Detroit has formed an advisory committee on commercial productions to serve as consultants to advertising agencies. The council will provide information on new techniques in the creation of tv commercials, and will answer technical questions, solve production problems and advise on matters of staging, continuity, engineering and direction. The station's president, John F. Pival, drew the group of experts from WXYZ-TV's graphic arts, video tape recording, direction, scenery, continuity direction and staging departments. Mr. Pival commented that he feels that since it is difficult even for people directly involved in the broadcasting industry to keep abreast of rapid developments, the council will aid advertisers to realize the possibilities of the medium.

Media reports

KBLA sued ■ Charging breach of contract, Lisa Robinson, disc jockey and self-styled "high priestess of jazz" last week filed a $2,015,000 damage suit against KBLA Burbank, in Los Angeles Superior Court. She charges that KBLA sold her midnight to 5 a.m. station time and seven days later cancelled her show.

Car pools ■ WIP Philadelphia last Thursday (Sept. 1) instituted a special car pool telephone service, arranging to bring together riders and drivers during the Pennsylvania Railroad strike. On Thursday, the first day of the strike, calls came from drivers as far away as Cape May, N.J., and Wilmington, Del., WIP General Manager Harvey Glascock reported. He said the service would continue as long as the need exists.

Official consultant ■ Broadcasters Promotion Assn. will serve as official radio-tv consultant for Junior Achievement's national headquarters in New York. Working through education and professional standards committee, BPA has prepared announcements for public service broadcasts and distributed them to local JA franchises. Among commitments thus far are NBC-TV's Dave Garroway Show and CBS-TV's General Electric Theatre, plus "star" endorsements by certain tv personalities.

Local talent ■ WINF, good music sta-

The project was developed by John Gruber, who conducts a classical-music program on WINF and is music critic of the Manchester Evening Herald, co-sponsor. Mr. Gruber invited people who had once played musical instruments fairly well to apply even though they might be out of practice. He offered to lead the orchestra. The local board of education has supplied practice space and the group intends to give a series of concerts beginning next spring.

CBS-TV workshop ■ Applications are being accepted for the second annual seminar, CBS Television Workshop, for new writers and directors, starting Sept. 19. Workshop telecasts this season begin Sunday, Oct. 2 (noon-1:30 p.m. EDT), but subsequent shows will be in the Sunday, noon to 12:55 p.m., period. Writer and director applicants may send samples or summaries of their work to The McCleery Unit, Room 500, CBS-TV Network Production Center, 524 W. 57th St., New York 19, N.Y.

Keystone adds ■ Fifteen stations have joined the roster of Keystone Broadcasting System: KCLF Clifton, KZOW Globe and KGLU Safford, all Arizona; KRCK Ridgecrest, Calif.; WIRV Irvine, Ky.; KMIS Portageville, Mo.; KVAS Astoria and KWVR Enterprise, both Oregon; WFIS Fountain Inn, S.C.; WBNT Oneida, Tenn.; KMCO Conroe and KLUE Longview, both Texas; WFLS Fredericksburg, Va.; WBOY Clarksburg, W.Va., and WXMT Merrill, Wis.

Vtr roundup ■ WNBQ (TV) Chicago last week rounded out its video tape recording installation with the acquisition of new kinescope transfer equipment. The system makes it possible for clients to make black-and-white film copies of programs or commercials to use on stations not yet equipped with video tape playback facilities. Additionally, WNBQ can make direct kinescopes. WNBQ's vtr equipment is adaptable for both color and black-and-white and includes four machines, editing facilities and the new transfer system.

Closed circuit etv ■ The Chicago Board of Education has taken these actions involving closed circuit tv: (1) approved a contract with the Chicago Educational Television Assn. (WTTW) for $180,000 for the fifth straight year of junior college courses (some 1,500 half-hours) September 1960-June 1961; (2) announced a $59,997 contract with Motorola Communications & Electronics Co. for experimental installation of a closed circuit etv system at a Chicago elementary school (Richard E. Byrd). Facilities would include $91,227 in equipment and $10,000 in engineering services for installation, with the sum above the Motorola contract to be underwritten as a gift by its president, Robert W. Galvin.

Unanimous ■ A proposal to amend the bylaws of the California Broadcasters Assn. to include associate memberships for individuals and firms in broadcasting-connected activities was unanimously approved by the CBA board at a meeting in San Francisco Aug. 12. The amendment will be submitted to the full CBA membership at the annual meeting, to be held Nov. 18 in Fresno.

High gross ■ Total motion picture theater gross may attain an all-time high of $1.5 billion in 1960, Albert Sindlinger, president of Sindlinger Co., Norwood, Pa. reports. He noted that although attendance at theatres was down 6.5% in the first seven months of 1960 from 1959 levels, the gross is keeping pace with the peak year of 1946. He explained this apparent paradox by pointing out that the average admission price has risen to 69 cents from 60 cents in 1959. He said the motion picture public is becoming more selective each year.

TV HOMES: NEARING SATURATION

New U.S. Census figures are bigger than industry estimates

More than 46.5 million homes have one or more tv sets, according to a May study by the U.S. Census Bureau.

In one of a series of semi-annual sample surveys conducted for Advertising Research Foundation, the bureau found that 88% of the 52.6 million homes had tv receivers in the month of May.

The figure surpasses estimates made last winter by A.C. Nielsen Co. (45.2 million tv homes, 87% saturation, without Alaska and Hawaii) and American Research Bureau (46 million tv homes, 88% saturation).

The Census Bureau's 88% compares with 86% in May 1959, 83% in January 1958 and 12% in April 1950.

Same Rate ■ "This increase of two percentage points (in saturation) since May 1959 is at substantially the same annual rate as the increase during the preceding 16 months, although below earlier rates of increase," the bureau said, recalling that only 12% of households had tv when the 1950 census was conducted.

A city-by-city and county-by-county count of tv sets was conducted last April when the 1960 decennial census was conducted but the circulation data will not be available before early 1961. (County circulation figures compiled by Nielsen and ARB were published in BROADCASTING, last June 20.)

"Another indication of the continued popularity of television is the increase in the proportion of households with more than one set," the bureau stated. The multi-set saturation rose from 8% in May 1959 to 11% in May 1960.

"One house out of eight with television had two sets or more," according to the bureau. "This was the first period in this series of surveys in which there was some evidence that households acquiring an additional set exceeded the number that obtained their first set, although this might reasonably be expected for a product whose potential market for first sets has declined to 12% of all households."

Urban Vs Rural ■ As in past Census Bureau sample studies, tv saturation is higher inside large cities (standard metropolitan statistical areas). Tv saturation in cities is 91%, unchanged from a year ago. Outside these cities the saturation rose from 80% to 82%.

Growth of tv was larger, in general, in rural nonfarm homes. This table of tv had previously lagged, especially in rural non-farm homes. This table shows households with tv sets by urban and rural residence and size of place:

Urban and rural residence and size of place	Percent with sets
	May 1960	May 1959	January 1958
United States	88	86	83
Urban	89	89	87
In urbanized areas	90	90	89
Areas of 3 million or more	91	90	89
Areas of 1-3 million	91	91	91
Areas of 250,000 to 1 million	88	89	88
Areas under 250,000	88	89	88
Not in urbanized areas	86	85	81
Places of 10,000 or more	88	86	82
Places under 10,000	84	82	79
Rural nonfarm	88	86	80
Rural farm	76	73	68

Tv saturation is equalizing around the country as the South acquires more tv households. A gain of 6% was noted in the East South Central states. Pacific figures didn't gain in the last year, which the Census Bureau traces to the inclusion of Alaska and Hawaii in that division.

Geographically Speaking ■ Following is a geographical breakdown of tv households:

Region and division	Percent with sets
	May 1960	May 1959	January 1958
United States	88	86	83
Northeast	92	92	90
New England	83	92	90
Middle Atlantic	92	92	90
North Central	89	88	87

West North Central	87	85	82
South	82	79	74
South Atlantic	84	82	77

West South Central	81	80	75

The Census Bureau figures were obtained as part of regular monthly population sample surveys. The sample was spread over 333 areas with usable information obtained from 26,000 households.

Political worksheet

NAB has sent all broadcasters, members and non-members, a sample worksheet designed to aid in keeping score on the upcoming political campaign—so they can properly answer the FCC's request for information. The FCC questionnaire was sent to all broadcasters three weeks ago, requiring licensees to keep records on appearances by political candidates and political programs during the period Sept. 1 to Nov. 8 (AT DEADLINE, Aug. 15).

An explanatory memorandum by NAB government affairs vice president Vincent T. Wasilewski accompanied the trade association aid. The worksheet is confined to non-network programs, since radio-tv networks will provide detailed information to affiliates on their own programs. It also provides space to list the political candidate, office sought, party affiliation of candidate, length of program, and whether it is sustaining, sponsored by candidate or commercial sponsor.

once associated with tv quiz shows 21 and Tic-Tac-Dough. The FCC early this year raised serious questions concerning Mr. Enright's "character qualifications . . . to own and operate a broadcast facility" (BROADCASTING, Jan. 25) following charges that their tv shows were tainted with quiz-rigging. In their application to the FCC for sale approval they stated that they recognized the possibility that the commission may order "a long, expensive and time-consuming hearing" of WGMA's license renewal. The station is a 1 kw daytimer on 1320 kc.

Vices sell products journalist group told

America's mass communications media are "creatures of their audience," according to Martin Mayer, author of Madison Avenue, U.S.A. In a luncheon address last week before the annual convention of the Assn. for Education in Journalism at Pennsylvania State U., Mr. Mayer said "there is extremely little" the media can do to change the situation.

Advertising, he said, does not really manipulate mankind. It only influences the American housewife to do something without thinking. Its effect, he contended, is not important as "what you do is not really important, but rather what you are."

By a process of redefinition, Mr. Mayer said, advertising is using what used to be vices to sell products. These vices, or basic motivations, he said are lust, sloth, greed and pride.

Lust, Mr. Mayer contended, has been translated by advertising into a desire to be sexually attractive. Sloth is now the desire for recreation. Greed is the desire to enjoy the good things of the world. And pride is now the desire for social status.

Train Radio-Tv Newsmen ■ Broadcasters and journalism schools should encourage young people to take specialized training for careers in news broadcasting, Clair R. McCollough, Steinman Stations, told the association.

News broadcast courses would enable journalism schools to place their graduates in jobs that are satisfying and productive, he said, and help broadcasters meet "an existing and critical need for professional assistance."

Mr. McCollough, chairman of the NAB Policy Committee, said NAB studies show that despite a sharp increase in news broadcast programming in recent years, a relatively low percentage of employees involved in news operations of radio and tv stations had previous journalism school training or newspaper experience.

86th CONGRESS WASN'T JUST TALK

Sympathetic ear to radio-tv shown in three definitive actions

The 86th Congress adjourned its second session last week with three major accomplishments to its credit in the field of broadcasting, a performance that set it apart from the talk-much-but-do-nothing Congresses of recent years.

The legislative record shows that while there were many indignant and threatening sounds from Capitol Hill about the tv quiz and payola scandals and skulduggery and inefficiency at the FCC—and some that were irrational and punitive—congressmen and senators in general lent a sympathetic ear to broadcasters and their problems.

On the books last week—and made possible only because broadcasters went to extra efforts to let Congress know what they believe to be in the best interests of the industry and the public—were these accomplishments:

- A new law which deals with payola, free plugs and tv quiz abuses; gives the FCC intermediate sanctions to bring misbehaving broadcasters into line; makes the public interest more secure in hearings before the FCC; and substitutes a pre-grant procedure for the time-consuming protest procedure which has frustrated the FCC since it was enacted in 1952.

- Suspension of Sec. 315 of the Communications Act as it applies to presidential and vice presidential candidates, for this campaign year, to give the networks a chance to make good their offers of free time to major party candidates without being hampered by splinter and minority party demands for equal time.

- Senate ratification, at long last of the North American Regional Broadcasting Agreement and the U.S.-Mexico Treaty of 1957.

Other broadcast legislation passed by Congress in the second session legalized vhf tv boosters and authorized FCC members whose terms expire to continue in office until successors qualify. Congress also, in approving the FCC budget for fiscal 1961, authorized a two-year, $2 million FCC study of uhf propagation in New York City, and handed the commission $150,000 to organize a monitoring unit to watch for broadcaster violations of statutes and FCC rules and other abuses, specifying that the project must not get into program censorship.

Legislation on which hearings were held, but which didn't make it through Congress, included measures to allocate federal funds to educational tv stations

(passed by Senate and reported by House Commerce Committee, but shelved in House Rules Committee); to bring community antenna systems under FCC regulation (failed by one vote during Senate debate and was sent back to the Senate Commerce Committee for further study next year); to set up a code of ethics at the FCC and laws covering off-the-record contacts in hearing cases (died on the House calendar); to extend the hours of daytime-only am stations (died in House Commerce Committee); to exempt certain station personnel in small towns and cities from overtime provisions of federal wage and hour laws (Senate and House failed to reach agreement); to authorize minor league baseball teams to black out telecasts of majors' games in the minors' home cities (recommitted by Senate).

Appointee Juggling ■ The second session of the 86th also brought the resignation of John C. Doerfer, FCC chairman, in March after he was questioned by the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee about the propriety of his acceptance of hospitality from broadcaster George B. Storer. FCC Commissioner Frederick W. Ford was elevated to chairman after Mr. Doerfer's resigna-

And there are still storm warnings ahead as . . .

The biggest trouble spots ahead on Capitol Hill for broadcasters as Congress adjourned last week were in political broadcasting, proposed FCC regulation of the networks and various investigations of broadcast rating services.

The most immediate is the sharp congressional lookout for broadcaster favoritism among political candidates or parties under (1) exemptions of news and panel shows from equal time provisions governing presentation of candidates, granted by statute last year; (2) suspension of the equal time provisions for this year in the case of presidential and vice presidential candidates.

Both the Senate and House have expressed concern over possible abuse of the newly-conferred discretion and the Senate has appointed a Freedom of Information (Watchdog) Subcommittee, headed by Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) to conduct a running investigation during the campaign and report back to Congress next year. The Senate unit was given $35,000 for its operations, but was denied its request last week for an additional $150,000 to engage a monitoring service to spot check station political programs and follow up complaints. Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Commerce Committee has said his group also will watch for favoritism by stations, but no separate unit has been set up for this purpose.

The Perennial on Network Control ■ The threat of legislation for FCC regulation of the networks has been posed in the Senate for several years, but emphasis will shift to the House next year. The House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee last February issued an interim report recommending network regulation following its hearings on the tv quiz scandals the previous fall.

Bills were introduced both to regulate and to license networks and the FCC recommended regulation, the milder proposal, last May in comments to the House Commerce Committee.

Most criticism against the networks has centered on programming and Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.), ranking member of the House committee has been the most vocal. When the House Commerce Committee failed to report network regulation or licensing legislation to the House floor for vote, Rep. Bennett tried to add such provisions as a floor amendment, but they were voted down.

Rep. Harris, chairman of the committee, has said the question will be aired before his Communications & Power Subcommittee next year.

Other criticism, treating the monopoly aspects, has come from Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the House Antitrust Subcommittee, who has threatened to hold hearings tion.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Robert E. Lee to serve a second seven-year term on the FCC, but failed to confirm another Republican nominee, Edward K. Mills Jr. Mr. Mills withdrew his name from nomination because of questions about his family stock ownership in Westinghouse and General Electric.

The Senate also failed to confirm the subsequent nominee, Charles H. King, also a Republican, and Mr. King was given a recess appointment by the President when the Senate recessed in July for the political conventions. Democrats, who control the Senate, hope they can name a Democrat to the FCC spot next year if the party's nominee wins the presidency this year.

The House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) held a series of hearings on payola practices, with ABC-TV star Dick Clark winding up testimony. The hearings were well-publicized by the press, but did not have the drawing power of the tv quiz scandal hearings the previous fall.

Mr. Harris and other congressmen had some unhappy moments themselves with publication of stories in the Knight Newspapers and Life magazine charging congressional abuses of public expense accounts.

Spectre of Stiff Penalties ■ It was in the heat of publicity over the congressional expense accounts that the House approved stiff forfeitures provisions and license suspensions in the payola bill, over some opposition. The Senate Commerce Subcommittee headed by Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) held hearings, after broadcaster protests, and eliminated suspensions and modified the forfeitures provisions of the House version and the House agreed to the Senate amendments. Parts of the payola bill covering Sec. 317 and other subjects had been drafted by the House Commerce Committee with help from broadcasters.

The payola bill was grafted onto a Senate-passed bill setting up an FCC pre-grant procedure and several of the amendments added by the House Commerce Committee were contained in recommendations made in February by the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, also headed by Rep. Harris. The final payola provisions were designed to give the FCC wide latitude in determining Sec. 317 applications after broadcasters had objected strongly to narrow FCC interpretation of Sec. 317.

The Pastore subcommittee drafted the Sec. 315 suspension resolution after hearing objections, from broadcasters, networks, political leaders and others, to a proposal to require networks to furnish free time to candidates. The networks said they'd furnish tv-radio time free for debates by presidential and vice presidential candidates of major parties if the splinter party equal time hazard were removed and the resolution, as passed by both Senate and House, accepted the principle.

... Congress watches radio-tv on the proposed multi-million station exchange transaction among NBC, RKO General and others.

The most recent criticism of network programming came from Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) during Senate debate on the payola bill last month and he withdrew a proposed network regulation rider to the bill after Sen. Pastore promised his communications subcommittee would hold hearings on the proposal if the House doesn't.

Ratings to Be Rated ■ Broadcast ratings have been criticized in both the Senate and House as being responsible for mediocre network programming and the situations leading to the tv quiz deceptions.

As a follow-up to the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee's hearings last fall on the tv quiz scandals, Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) in April engaged a three-man group of statisticians (Technical Committee on Broadcast Ratings, under the aegis of the American Statistical Assn.) to examine the validity of statistical methods on which ratings services base their findings. No results have yet been released.

In the Senate, Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, (D-Wash.) of the Senate Commerce Committee in May revealed that the Federal Trade Commission also is investigating ratings. No announcement has come from the FTC on the progress of its investigation. Sen. Magnuson said he has turned over other data in committee files on ratings to the FCC.

Sen. Magnuson also has set in motion another study that would examine the whole structure and operation of the federal regulatory agencies under his committee's jurisdiction. Described as a kind of "Hoover Commission" study, the long-range project will cover the FCC and other federal agencies and will seek solutions of the "regulatory lag" problem among the agencies.

Watchdog monitoring funds fail test

The Senate effectively killed a resolution asking an additional $150,000 for its Freedom of Information (Watchdog) Subcommittee to monitor the political programs of tv and radio stations before adjourning at 11:51 p.m. last Thursday till next year. The House had adjourned hours earlier.

The resolution (S Res 374), the last business taken up by the Senate, was withdrawn by Watchdog Chairman Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) shortly before adjournment after it became obvious a "freeze" was on by opponents of the measure to debate it right up to the midnight deadline previously set by the Senate to shut down for this year.

The debate was marked by stormy exchanges between Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) of the watchdog group's parent Senate Commerce Committee, who favored the resolution, and Sens. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) and Frank Lausche (D-Ohio), both members of the committee, and Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), minority leader, all of whom opposed it.

The resolution was brought up in mid-afternoon, but became deadlocked right up to the time of adjournment when Sen. Lausche offered a motion to table the watchdog funds measure. The watchdog unit thus is left with a $35,000 fund previously allocated and has been ordered to investigate and report early next year on any abuses by broadcasters of newly-conferred discretions given them to present major-party candidates without being answerable to equal time demands

SEN. YARBOROUGH
Complaints are being received from splinter and minority party candidates.

Usurps Executive ■ Sens. Thurmond, Lausche and Dirksen held that monitoring by the subcommittee would usurp a function which should be performed by the FCC as a part of the Executive Department; that the subcommittee would be partisan simply because members and staffers are, by necessity, partisan; and because monitoring amounts to intimidation of broadcasters.

Sen. Magnuson countered that the FCC is an arm of Congress, not the Executive Department; that having the FCC do the monitoring would be "like leaving a fox to watch the henhouse." "I know of instances where fairness hasn't been used" in political broadcasts, he said.

Sen. Yarborough, who said complaints on political coverage already are being received by his group, explained that the $150,000 would have been used by the staff and for contracts with private monitoring services for a total 240 hours of monitoring at $72,000; travel, $27,860; rental of monitoring equipment (two units per state average), $12,500; contingencies, $29,218; two investigators, $5,978.

Broadcasters could be next FTC targets

Broadcasters must avoid violations of Federal Trade Commission rules governing false or illegal advertising or they will be the next targets of this powerful government agency.

This warning was issued Sept. 2 to the West Virginia Broadcasters Assn., meeting at White Sulphur Springs, by Bernard B. Smyth, of the law firm of Dow, Lohnes & Albertson.

In a study of "the anatomy and habits of the sometimes carnivorous FTC," Mr. Smyth suggested broadcasters are lucky because the commission has been shooting at advertisers rather than at the broadcast medium.

He warned of the FTC's eager interest in advertising and media, calling it "another federal agency in a position where its paternal, public-interest inspired, loving concern with your affairs can demolish you with one bear-like smack."

He said FTC "is primarily a policing agency while FCC is an industry regulating agency." Its interests include unfair practices of disguised commercial activity such as payola: deceptive claims for quality or terms of procuring a product, and unlawful business arrangements between a broadcaster and others (special time-display deals with a chain store, for example).

FTC for many years has ignored broadcasters and other media if they act "merely as conduits of faulty advertising," Mr. Smyth said. He added, "Even if the FTC does not name broadcasters as respondents, the continued broadcasting by station licensees of advertising material found to be faulty by FTC would, in the words of FCC 'raise serious questions as to whether such stations are operating in the public interest'."

Act modernized

A bill to amend the Communications Act to revise language which could be used but never has been to discriminate against broadcast networks has been approved by both Houses of Congress and is awaiting President Eisenhower's signature.

The legislation (S 1740) forbids common carriers to discriminate in charges or services furnished for chain broadcasting or radio communications of any kind (BROADCASTING, August 29). The provision, already contained in Sec. 202 (b) of the Act refers only to the use of common carrier "wires". Since common carriers now use microwave relays as well as cables for interconnection purposes, the amendment will bring the Communications Act up to date.

KOBY charges KABL before court, FCC

Charging "malicious intent to injure and deception of the public," Gordon Broadcasting Co. (KOBY San Francisco) filed a $1,328,000 damage suit against McLendon-Pacific Corp. (KABL Oakland) in Alameda County Superior Court last Thursday (Sept. 1).

KOBY also filed a complaint with the FCC charging KABL with fraudulent advertising and lack of responsibility. KOBY had planned to change its call letters to KQBY as of Sept. 12 with teaser campaigns on bus cards, signboards and newspapers using the letters "IQ" as a teaser. It was said that since Aug. 30, KABL has been using on the air spots to the effect that "intelligent quality programming" will be on KABL as of Sept. 12, date of the KOBY call letter change.

PAYOLA, QUIZ-RIGGING KAYOED

House accepts Senate-passed amendments

The payola bill (S 1898) was sent to the White House last week after the House agreed to Senate amendments knocking out the license suspension provision and modifying the forfeiture section (BROADCASTING, Aug. 29).

The bill passed the House with no trouble despite objections by Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.), ranking republican on the House Commerce Committee, that the measure should also provide for FCC regulation or licensing of the networks. Rep. Bennett attempted in vain to add an amendment on the floor providing for network regulation when the House originally passed the bill in June.

Rep. Bennett entered in the Congressional Record during the House debate last week a staff memorandum from Robert Lishman, chief counsel of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, setting forth the reasons for the subcommittee's recommendations for FCC licensing of networks in its report last February. The lengthy memorandum cited several sources, including recommendations by the Attorney General, the FCC, the Barrow FCC network study report and testimony from network executives and others before congressional committees.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Commerce Committee, who explained the Senate amendments last week, said the amended bill is an improvement in some respects over the House version and "I think [the forfeitures provision] will reach the problem."

To Rep. Bennett's insistence that the bill places no legal responsibility on the networks to present programs "in the public interest," Rep. Harris replied that the bill's criminal penalty provisions against payola and free plugs and rigged quiz shows does place responsibility on the networks. "The producers and the networks cannot turn their backs and close their eyes any more on these practices without being subject to the penalty of the law," he said.

The Lishman memorandum, addressed to Rep. Harris but prepared at Rep. Bennett's request, said the network licensing provision was not in the Oversight group's original recommendations, but was added at Rep. Harris' direction.

As finally approved, the bill provides for forfeiture of $1,000 a day for violations, with a maximum forfeiture of $10,000. A section which would suspend station licenses was eliminated by the Senate.

Satisfaction with the newly-enacted legislation was expressed last week by Clair R. McCollough, Steinman Stations, chairman of NAB's policy committee. "The original legislation went too far," he said, and "NAB is happy that Congress removed from the legislation a proposal to permit the FCC to suspend station licenses." He said that while NAB "believes that fines are unnecessary, it is pleased that the legislation enacted contains provision for appeal to the courts and other safeguards."

Triangle asks court to reverse FCC

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington was asked to reverse the FCC in its refusal to permit ch. 8 WNHC-TV New Haven, Conn., to change the location of its transmitter.

Triangle Publications Inc., licensee of the ch. 8 ABC-affiliated New Haven outlet, filed its appeal against the FCC's Aug. 2 decision last Thursday.

It charged that the FCC was arbitrary and capricious in upholding the protest submitted by ch. 22 WWLP (TV) Springfield, Mass., three years ago. The protest followed a grant without hearing of WNHC-TV's application to move its transmitter site from Gaylord Mt. to Mt. Higby, 20 miles northeast of New Haven and 38.7 miles from Springfield. WWLP charged that it would suffer economic injury from the move. An examiner's initial decision in 1958 recommended that the commission affirm its 1957 grant of the New Haven move.

Triangle charged that the commission violated due process by holding the New Haven-Springfield area was unique and that the change of antenna site would "upset the delicate balance of allocations" in the area. This means, Triangle stated, that the commission amended its rules in an adjudicatory proceeding "in total disregard of all pertinent statutory provisions. . ."

The commission also erred. Triangle said, when it concluded that the change in WNHC-TV's transmitter site would "impair the ability of the uhf stations in the Connecticut Valley to compete effectively. . ." There are four other uhf stations all closer to New Haven, Triangle said, and none protested.

Triangle also asked the court to reverse the FCC's ruling denying its petition that the commission take notice of WWLP's application to acquire one-third interest in WHNB-TV New Britain, Conn., and its acquisition of WWOR-TV Worcester, Mass.

WBZ 'PAYOLA' DISPUTE AIRED

Oversight group reviews testimony

The manager of Westinghouse's WBZ Boston and a former disc jockey for the station who presented conflicting testimony during the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee's payola hearings last February appeared before that group again last week.

And subcommittee members hinted darkly that WBZ Manager Paul O'Friel's request to rebut testimony given by former WBZ disc jockey Norman Prescott might have been motivated more by station license renewal troubles than by a simple desire to set the record straight.

Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.) and Robert Lishman, subcommittee chief counsel, thought it unusual that Mr. O'Friel waited three months after Mr. Prescott's secret testimony was released publicly before asking to appear again before the House group. Mr. O'Friel noted that he sent a statement to the subcommittee on May 11 taking issue with Mr. Prescott's testimony given Feb. 8 and released Feb. 17. Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.)

said this statement was not accepted for the record because the group's "normal" practice is not to accept such statements unless it has an opportunity for questioning.

Mr. O'Friel last week denied Mr. Prescott's testimony that he was aware of payola activities at WBZ. Mr. Prescott, he said, did not leave WBZ voluntarily as he testified; the station declined to renew his contract at his above-union salary and would have fired him for his "disinterest and patronizing manner" even if he had chosen to stay on at a lower salary.

Mr. Prescott's ratings were sliding in July 1959 and WBZ settled its contract with him (running to Sept. 5, 1959) for $3,000, he said. He denied Mr. Prescott was "ordered" to plug certain records to promote movie advertising on the stations or that the station asked the disc jockey to solicit free albums from record companies to award as prizes in station promotion contests. He said WBZ made no promises in asking record companies for some thousand free albums of standard, established hits to restock its library and that the records could have been bought for less than $1,000, anyway. He denied urging two disc jockeys under suspicion of payola to fabricate stories that they received payments from record companies for services other than on-air exposure of records. He termed as a misunderstanding subcommittee investigators' charges he withheld information from them concerning meetings with disc jockeys and record companies.

Prescott's Reply ■ Mr. Prescott, denying Mr. O'Friel's statements, said he left of his own accord for another job, but negotiated contract a settlement because he thought "morally" he should get the whole year's pay. He denied his ratings were slipping and said Mr. O'Friel should have noted that Nielsen listed his show as No. 1, while Mr. O'Friel cited a lower rating issued by Pulse. He said he refused to sign a no-payola affidavit sent him by WBZ because he was no longer an employee. He reiterated earlier charges he was ordered to plug records promoting movies and repeated testimony that station promotion people asked him to solicit free albums as promotion prizes.

He charged Mr. O'Friel "ordered" him to go to New York to solicit the thousand records to restock the WBZ library and that the trip "humiliated" him. He didn't think WBZ could have bought the records for less than $1,000; otherwise, he said, the expenses WBZ paid for his trip wouldn't have been worth the difference.

'Drop-in' rulemaking deadline extended

A fourth extension of the deadline for comments on its rulemaking to "drop-in" additional vhf channels in selected cities through reduced mileage separations was granted by the FCC last week. The Assn. of Federal Communications Consulting Engineers had petitioned the commission for the time extension (BROADCASTING, Aug. 29).

The new deadline for comments is Sept. 30. The commission also extended the time for reply comments from Sept. 16 to Oct. 14.

In comments on the proposed rulemaking filed last week, the Washington State Grange supported the position taken earlier by the National Grange in stating that the drop-in plan at reduced mileage separation would impair tv service in the Nation's rural areas. WTTW (TV) (ch. 11) Chicago, an educational station, also filed comments in opposition to the proposal. The station stated that the rulemaking is premature and "can only muddle other studies now being undertaken."

extended the deadline for comments on a rulemaking affecting the tv table of assignments in Grand Rapids, Cadillac, Traverse City, and Alpena, all Michigan, and New Bedford, Mass.-Providence, R.I. Deadlines in this instance are the same as those listed above.

One of the commission's alternatives for amending the table of assignments in the Grand Rapids area concerns dropping in ch. 11. WTTW, in its comments concerning the "drop-in" study, asked that the commission not assign ch. 11 to Grand Rapids since it was felt that this would cause interference to the "only" etv service in the southwestern Michigan area.

Class IV power plan seen easing log jam

Twenty-six stations met the Sept. 1 deadline for filing comments concerning the FCC's proposed rulemaking to permit existing Class IV am stations to boost daytime power up to 1 kw. Only two comments went on the record against the commission's proposal.

Nearly all of the comments stated that the commission's proposal would expedite the processing of a backlog of 400 applications now pending for power boosts. Power increases by Class IV stations have always caused automatic hearings. The new ruling, if adopted, would relax requirements to eliminate the need for hearings.

J.G. Rountree, Austin, Tex., consulting engineer, claimed that each application for power increases should be considered individually. He was against the commission's proposal. The Ward Broadcasting Co., applicant for a Class IV am at Sonora, Tex., also turned thumbs down on the proposal (BROADCASTING, Aug. 29).

The commission has proposed the power boosts regardless of the extent of interference caused by the increase. The proposal would apply, however, only to existing Class IV stations and applicants for new stations would follow the present rule.

Anti pay-tv groups answer RKO's rebuttal

Hartford Phonevision Co., the RKO General group seeking a pay-tv grant from the FCC, had one of its questions answered by its critics last week.

Two organizations composed mainly of theatre owners, which had earlier asked the FCC to hold a full evidentiary hearing before an examiner in the case of Hartford's application for pay tv over WHCT (TV) Hartford, Conn., sent a letter to the FCC last week which answered some of the questions Hartford raised in its rebuttal to the hearing request (BROADCASTING, July 25).

The Joint Committee Against Toll Tv, a national organization, and the Connecticut Committee Against Pay Tv, told the commission that they have a recognizable interest in the case. Hartford contended that the groups did not have such an interest and, under commission procedures, did not qualify as a protestant.

The theatre owners pointed out in their answer that the Hartford operation and the theatre owners are in definite competition both for motion picture films and for audience. The two organizations claim that exhibition of films on pay tv could have an adverse effect on audiences and on "word of mouth" advertising since those films are generally produced for showing in theatres.

Consequently, the theatre owners claimed, the possible injury to them is immediate, specific and direct, and this gives them "standing" under the Communications Act to protest as an interested party.

School fm multiplex plan wins support

The FCC's proposed rulemaking to permit non-commercial educational fm stations to engage in non-commercial multiplex subsidiary operations got a nod of approval from two universities and the American Medical Assn. last week. Deadline for filing comments on the commission's proposal was Thursday (Sept. 1).

The AMA said it supported the proposal as a boon to many educational institutions. The U. of Michigan, licensee of WUOM (FM) Ann Arbor, Mich., said the plan would allow for the transmission of specialized educational programs to special audiences, such as meetings of professional groups. It further stated the proposal would make possible program relays between educational stations.

Michigan State U., licensee of WKAR-FM East Lansing, Mich., also supported the commission's proposal by saying that it would be of great advantage to schools and universities.

The commission's proposal is limited to the use of multiplex for strictly educational purposes. The National Assn. of Educational Broadcasters had asked for multiplex authority for background music, time signals and relaying broadcast material to other fm and standard commercial stations (BROADCASTING, July 11). The commission said this was inconsistent with the policy governing educational stations, which provides that non-commercial fm stations will transmit no commercial or sponsored programs.

Scissors session okayed by Ike

A conference to work out methods of cutting through the red tape of government regulatory agencies has the support of President Eisenhower.

The President said last week that he supports the idea of a conference to study ways to speed up the work of the federal administrative agencies.

He asked E. Barrett Prettyman, chief judge of the District of Columbia Circuit Court, to be temporary chairman and to arrange for the holding of the meeting. Judge Prettyman was in charge of the President's conference on administrative problems in 1953-55. This resulted in a report issued in March 1955.

The idea of a new conference was submitted to the President Aug. 25 by the heads of the six federal regulatory agencies—the FCC, the Federal Trade Commission, Federal Power Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board, Securities & Exchange Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The memorandum referred to a House Commerce Committee report last February which stated that a more comprehensive and permanent agency than the advisory council, which was set up by the congressional committee, was needed. The House's advisory council on regulatory agencies was established early this year following the exposure of behind-the-scenes influence in some agencies.

There have been suggestions that a special administrative court be established to handle the judicial functions of the regulatory agencies.

The agency heads recommended that the conference be called to determine whether a continuing meeting of such a group is desirable. They emphasized that the function of such a unit would be advisory only, but that through the exchange of ideas and suggestions benefits would accrue.

They said a conference was neces-

FTC quizzes

Officials of rating companies in New York have reported that investigators for the Federal Trade Commission have been questioning them on their methods of operations to gather general background and to ascertain if rating information can be misused or can be "influenced by outsiders." A spokesman for one company said the "influence" angle apparently is being explored to discover if there is a possibility that a service could give a superior rating to its subscribers in particular markets. FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner told the Senate Commerce Committee last May that the FTC was investigating rating services (BROADCASTING, May 9).

sary to study on a comprehensive scale the "cumbersome procedures, unnecessary expense and delays which have been steadily increasing in some of the procedures of the administrative agencies."

The conference would consist of representatives of the six regulatory agencies and cabinet rank departments, Civil Service Commission, National Labor Relations Board, Atomic Energy Commission, Federal Aviation Administration as well as a group representing lawyers who practice before the agencies.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) of the Senate Commerce Committee last week asked President Eisenhower that findings made by the newly reconstituted Administrative Procedures Conference be made available to his committee.

Sen. Magnuson noted his committee has inaugurated a "Hoover Commission" study of federal regulatory agencies (including the FCC) under his committee's jurisdiction to investigate the perennial "regulatory lag." Sen. Magnuson also heads the Senate Independent Offices Appropriations Subcommittee which hears appropriations budget requests from the regulatory agencies.

FCC must decide public interest: Ford

It is the commission, not the courts, which must decide where the public interest lies, FCC Chairman Frederick W. Ford told lawyers Friday at a meeting of the West Virginia Bar Assn. at White Sulphur Springs.

The chairman's remarks came at the end of his presentation of a lengthy survey of court rulings involving FCC cases.

Principal point made by Mr. Ford was that the courts generally have upheld the substance of FCC's decisions but have been extremely rough on the commission where procedural errors have been alleged.

In this latter area, Mr. Ford said, have been liberal interpretations of standing to protest. He also cited a number of cases where the courts have found that the commission erred in finding an applicant financially qualified; in expressing its determination on why one community should receive a first or additional radio service as against another market; and in similar matters. The courts have not overturned the commission on matters where its "expertise" has been utilized, Mr. Ford said.

Mr. Ford urged that administrative agencies must be permitted to be more flexible in judging their cases than is possible under procedures established for court cases.

Comments urge ch. 12 kept in Fresno as etv

The FCC was virtually inundated last week with over 200 comments on its proposed rulemaking to assign ch. 12 from Fresno, Calif., to Santa Maria, Lompoc-Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo or Santa Barbara, all California.

The comments came from individuals . . . educators, professional men, housewives, lawmakers . . . each asking that the commission keep ch. 12 in the Fresno-Visalia, Calif., area as an educational allotment. Typical of the comments, an elementary school teacher from Terra Bella, Calif., stated that etv is desperately needed in the area and can best be achieved by use of a vhf channel.

proposes to operate an etv in the area, urged that the commission reconsider and assign ch. 12 to either Fresno or Visalia and retain ch. 10 in Bakersfield, Calif., for educational purposes. The commission has proposed making Bakersfield all-uhf by deleting ch. 10.

Fresno was made an all-uhf market in July when the commission finalized rulemaking and deleted ch. 12 from that city (AT DEADLINE, July 11). Deadline for filing comments in the Bakersfield rulemaking is tomorrow (Sept. 6).

The call letter battle continues

Controversy over call letters continues to rage in two Southern cities. Two am stations in the Knoxville, Tenn., area and an am and a tv station in Augusta, Ga., all submitted comments to the FCC in their respective disputes (BROADCASTING, Aug. 29).

Last week, WRDW Augusta filed an opposition to an earlier petition by WRDW-TV asking the commission to issue a cease and desist order against the am station. WRDW-TV claimed in its petition that it had contractual rights to the use of the call. The am station, however, denied such a right. WRDW has used the call for over 30 years, the petition claimed, while the tv station has been using the call only since 1954.

Until February 1960, both stations were owned by Southeastern Newspapers. Since that date, however, the tv station has been owned by WPIT Inc. (Friendly Group) and the am was subsequently purchased from Southeastern Newspapers by Radio Augusta, Inc.

While WRDW admitted that two stations with separate ownership in the same metropolitan area could not continue to utilize the same identifying sign, the station contended that it is the commission's duty to decide which should retain the call.

Knoxville Dilemma ■ WATE Knoxville, in a new petition, reiterated its earlier argument against the use of its former call letter, WROL, by a station in neighboring Fountain City. WATE stated that the call had been used by the Knoxville outlet for years and it is still widely associated with the letters.

It stated that it does not believe that the commission should allow the reassignment of call letters within the same general metropolitan area, especially those call letters long used by another station. Such a policy, WATE contended, breeds confusion in the minds of the radio audience and contravenes the entire idea of call letters as a convenient and accurate manner by which a station might be identified.

In an earlier answer to the WATE petition, WROL stated that the Knoxville station had not used the letters since 1956 and that the present owner never operated the station when it was so known.

Government briefs

Stay considered ■ San Francisco Federal Judge George B. Harris is considering the request of NBC, RKO General Inc. and KTVU (TV) San Francisco to stay the antitrust proceeding brought against them by KRON-TV San Francisco last June (BROADCASTING, July 4). The civil court action charged that NBC and RKO General were engaged in a conspiracy to reduce competition in San Francisco through their agreement to exchange stations (RKO's Boston outlets for NBC's Philadelphia stations) as well as through NBC's proposed purchase of KTVU in San Francisco. KRON-TV opposed the request for delay in proceeding in its antitrust suit.

Deadline extended ■ Deadline for replies to the petition of WHDH-TV Boston for reconsideration of the FCC's July 14 order has been extended from Aug. 28 to Sept. 12. The commission took the action last Wednesday (Aug. 31) on request of Massachusetts Bay Telecasters Inc., one of four Boston applicants. In July the commission order vacated its 1957 grant of ch. 5 to WHDH-Boston Herald-Traveler because of purported ex parte contacts made by WHDH principals and ordered a new proceeding in the case. WHDH filed a motion for reconsideration early last month.

Beamed at Cuba ■ Establishment of a "Radio Free Cuba" was recommended last week by Rep. Roman C. Pucinski (D-Ill.). Mr. Pucinski told the House that the American public should support such a "high powered" broadcast service, similar to the way it supports Radio Free Europe. The Cuban people would listen to such broadcasts, he said, and must be told how Castro is communizing the island republic. Mr. Pucinski suggested that transmitters be located on one of the islands between Cuba and Florida.

Tax relief ■ Manufacturers can now save a little on federal manufacturers excise tax payments when they pay for local advertising. Congress last week accepted a conference report which permits a manufacturer to deduct up to 5% from the sales price of his product when he pays for local advertising on tv, radio and in newspapers. The conference report on HR 12536 was submitted to both the House and Senate following passage of the bill by both houses earlier last month (BROADCASTING, Aug. 29, June 20).

Zenith wins patent battle, Admiral loses

Zenith Radio Corp. scored a legal victory over Admiral Corp. Wednesday (Aug. 31) in a court decision involving alleged patent infringements.

The ruling was handed down by Judge Ross Rizley in an Oklahoma City Federal District Court but still left unsettled the actual extent of damages. He ruled that Admiral had infringed on six Zenith patents. Zenith sought treble damages and an injunction against further use of the patents. Two of them involve its remote control device and circuit for locking pictures in poor reception areas.

Zenith originally filed the suit in 1958, charging that Admiral had copied the features. The latter filed a counter claim accusing Zenith of infringing its patent on a record player. The Admiral suit was denied by the Oklahoma City Court.

Technical topics

Tricky tube ■ A new vidicon tube sensitive in the near ultra-violet region with a photoconductive layer and construction permitting televising of underwater scenes with high efficiency has been developed by The Machlett Laboratories, a subsidiary of Raytheon Co. The tube is mechanically and electrically interchangeable with standard vidicon tubes. Both focusing and deflection are accomplished magnetically. Full specifications are available from the company at 1063 Hope St., Springdale, Conn.

Audio up ■ In reporting its best first-half in history, Audio Devices Inc., N.Y., announced last week that sales in the first six months of 1960 were $3,251,954 compared with $2,930,414 for the same period of 1959. The sales increase was attributable to a 22% rise in sales of magnetic recording tape, the company's chief product. Profits before taxes for the first half of 1960 were $283,012 as compared with a loss of $40,977 for 1959. The 1959 result was due to a loss of $259,931 in the Rectifier Div. for this period. On Jan. 15, 1960, the company disposed of this division. Net income after provision for Federal income taxes was $143,012 equal to 17¢ per share on the 828,119 shares outstanding at June 30, 1960. This compared with a loss of $14,677 for the first six months of 1959.

Tape sales ■ RCA reports these shipments of tv recording equipment: a monochrome recorder each to WAVE-

TV Louisville; KOAM-TV Pittsburg, Kan.; RCA International; WKJG-TV Fort Wayne; color units, two to NBC in Burbank, one to Television Bureau of Advertising in New York. Three color studio cameras were shipped to NBC in New York.

Bigger quarters ■ Bauer Electronics, manufacturer of broadcast transmitters, is moving from Burlingame, Calif., to new and larger quarters at 1661 Industrial Rd., San Carlos, Calif.

Merger voted ■ Stockholders of General Instrument Corp., Newark, N.J., and General Transistor Corp., Jamaica, N.Y., at separate meetings last Tuesday (Aug. 30), overwhelmingly approved the merging of the two electronic companies (with General Instrument as the surviving corporation) and elected three new directors to an expanded 15-man General Instrument board. The merger, which was agreed upon July 20 (BROADCASTING, July 25), became effective Aug. 31. The "new combined company" will have assets of approximately $37 million, with 15 plants and research centers, projected sales for 1960-61 of more than $80 million and will be full-line producer of semiconductors.

No more fringe?

An improvement in tv pictures in poor-reception areas may result from a new system that tests the "vision" of military radar sets. A. E. Abel, general manager of the radio division of the Bendix Corp., announced last week that his company has developed a system that solves some of the ailments that afflict radar, such as blind spots, blurred images and double images. He said the same techniques can be applied to tv.

Mr. Abel added that now it will be possible for commercial tv engineers to strengthen a station's signal in the direction of weak areas when they know precisely where the weak areas are. The system is said to involve a combination of electronic and optical gear, some elements of which are carried in an aircraft. Special equipment in the plane, he explained, receives the radar signal radiating from the ground station, compares it continuously with the plane's flight path and shows what the radar actually "sees" in graph form.

Open house success despite lightning

Does television reach the masses with "aggressive" showmanship? Yes, according to WTVW (TV) Evansville, Ind. The station marked its fourth anniversary Aug. 20-21 with extensive promotion including an open house, product giveaways, displays and other features.

Over 100,000 viewers passed through the WTVW studios during the two-day observance, despite a power failure that put the station off the air for three hours the first day when lightning struck the station. WTVW reported it held the open house, not to show off its facilities, but to promote its lineup of fall shows, including the ABC-TV slate. The response, it felt, was well worth the $3,500 promotion budget and was proof that any medium-or small-market station can do a similar job.

Most of the network shows were unknown by viewers in its claimed tri-state coverage area of Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, WTVW pointed out. Products identified with the various ABC-TV programs (viz., orchids, luau cookbooks, leis with The Islanders, fortune cookies with Hong Kong) were given out to visitors. Displays accompanied all the ABC-TV previews. Additionally, WTVW obtained costumes from returning network properties for the 1960-61 season.

Cooperating fully in the project were such diverse firms as Pan American and United Air Lines, 20th Century-Fox, Warner Bros., Screen Gems, Ziv-United Artists, Desilu, MCA, MacGregor and Wilson sporting goods, Purdue U., and others.

Except for stories carried by local newspapers, WTVW carried the brunt of promotion on its air schedules.

Big turnouts ■ End-of-the-summer picnics and outings drew huge crowds for sponsoring radio and television stations in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

WHK Cleveland, reports its second annual Appreciation Night at Geauga Lake Park doubled the attendance of last year's effort with an estimated 105,000 people in the audience. WHK personalities were hosts to 22 recording stars and groups headlined by teenage singer Fabian.

WIIC (TV) Pittsburgh, began its promotion of NBC fall programming with a day-long affair at the West View Amusement Park. The station claims an attendance of 15,000 for the event which offered 12,000 free rides and many valuable prizes. Each of the park's 21 rides were renamed to promote a new NBC show. (For example: the caterpillar was renamed the "Klondike Caterpillar" (see picture).

Highlight of the 11th annual picnic of WKRC-AM-TV Cincinnati was a boat race with park patrons helping WKRC personalities row across Le Sourdsville Lake.

'Dr.' Moore endorsed

A CBS Radio merchandising prescription delivered healthy results to a summer advertiser looking for specialized treatment.

A total of 1,984 entries were put in a fish bowl at CBS Radio Aug. 19. This was the date set for the drawing of three winners in a contest designed to show dealers' reactions to Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.'s sponsorship of the Garry Moore Show. Approximately 2,500 PPG dealers across the country were sent questionnaire cards on which dealers were to check one of four reasons why Garry Moore "is an ideal salesman for PPG Auto Glass installations." In an optional question, more than 1,000 entrants expressed their personal endorsement of Mr. Moore's salesmanship.

A second part of the mailing to dealers consisted of a package containing an apothecary jar filled with pill-like candies to be taken "as scheduled locally on CBS Radio . . . once each weekday during August" and intended to "cause panes of Pittsburgh Plate Glass to disappear from stock." Ross Fernow, advertising manager of PPG's Auto Glass Div., reports sales are up over the comparable period a year ago and that the radio buy—coupled with the dealer contest—brought PPG to the attention of consumers. First place winner received a 1961 Columbia High-Fidelity Stereo Console. Second and third place winners were awarded Columbia transistor portable radios. The contest was created by Arthur L. Hecht, CBS director of merchandising.

'Official appreciation'

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas expressed "official appreciation" for the cooperation the Texas Assn. of Broadcasters has given to the Governor's Highway Safety Commission.

The governor commented in particular about the "Drive Lighted and Live" campaign of the Fourth of July weekend. Texas radio stations urged drivers to drive with their headlights on during daylight hours as a sign that they were safe drivers. He cited an 18% reduction below predicted accidents as the "first major achievement of this kind in recent years on that particular holiday."

Riding on WICC

During holiday weekends, as on this Labor Day, WICC Bridgeport, Conn., has the most popular car on the road. The station's mobile unit swings into the stream of traffic on the 129-mile Connecticut Turnpike and at every toll station WICC pays the quarter fee for the motorist directly behind the news unit. The highway host calls the payment the price of safety. Turnpike toll collectors in New Haven and Fairfield Counties, who are familiar with WICC's safety program, refuse to take tolls from the trailing motorists. Instead, they say: "This one's on WICC. Drive safely, arrive safely, enjoy your trip." Preceding each long holiday weekend, WICC airs a saturation spot announcement campaign linking the "toll treat" with turnpike safety. WICC's traffic safety projects in 1959 earned an Alfred P. Sloan Award.

Costly fans

Mutual discovered last week that fan-mail requests (even those from managers and owners of affiliated stations) can become too costly. On Aug. 23, MBS presented on The World Today (8:05-8:30 p.m.) a 25-minute program dedicated to the late Oscar Hammerstein II. For a week thereafter, the network reported, station officials sent in congratulatory wires and asked for tapes of the program for their re-use at a later date. When the number of requests mounted to 180—or nearly half of the network's total complement of affiliates—MBS' accounting department stepped in, saying it was too costly for the network to produce the tapes. But Mutual offered a solution: last Tuesday (Aug. 30), the network replayed the program on closed circuit so that affiliated stations might record the show off the line.

and Negro neighborhoods a police department pamphlet that outlines precautions to take against muggers, burglars and molesters. With support through heavy on-air promotion, WWRL sends its mobile unit into the areas for interviews with women who have experienced any such ordeal, and to hand out the 4-page pamphlet.

Nose counting ■ WMAY Springfield, Ill., has been conducting a presidential preference poll in that city. Attractively-dressed girls with red-white-and-blue WMAY buttons and ballot boxes cover private homes, business offices and industrial plants asking each individual to name his choice for President and for governor of Illinois. In addition they are asked to list party affiliation.

Gold medal ■ Tele-Log, a monthly external house organ published by KRON-TV San Francisco, won a gold medal in its category of the press awards given by the California State Fair & Exposition. It has been published by the station since October 1956. The booklet gives a variety of information about significant events in the operation of KRON-TV and its affiliated network, NBC-TV. It is mailed monthly to a specialized group of 3,500 including employees, educators, PTA and government officials, business and civic leaders, agency executives and others interested in television.

OUR RESPECTS TO . . .

Clark Brower George

A story that made the rounds during World War II was recounted at a luncheon of the Chicago Broadcast Advertising Club by Clark George, vice president of CBS Tv Stations Division and general manager of WBBM-TV Chicago.

He told about the soldier and sailor who were comparing their respective services. "In the army," the sailor concluded, "you belly up to the beachhead and the enemy shoots at you personally, but in the navy he's just shooting at the ship."

Mr. George used the anecdote to point out that there's only one consolation in today's "state of war" by federal agencies, Congress and various critics against broadcasting and advertising in general: they're being fired on collectively instead of individually.

A Hoosier by birth and a veteran of CBS Inc. for 23 years, he practices and preaches a strong approach to news, public affairs and active participation in civic-community projects. He also has achieved an enviable record in sales and programming and has won recognition from industry and allied groups.

Tryout ■ Since last Jan. 4, Mr. George has had a good opportunity to test specialties as head of the network's owned-and-operated WBBM-TV. It was then that he succeeded H. Leslie Atlass, vice president in charge of WBBM-TV, in what might be called the divorce proceedings that split CBS Chicago into separate radio and tv operations.

Clark George (often confused, when he first came to Chicago, with NBC Radio Network Sales' George Clark) comes from Fort Wayne, Ind., and is an only child (born Feb. 18, 1919). He attended South Side High School, drove a creamery truck, worked in a local brewery, and indulged in athletics—"my one great interest—I was a broken-down athlete."

When his father went to California on business, he returned with a rosy picture of the U. of California's new campus (UCLA) and the Georges decided to settle their fates and fortunes on the West Coast. Mr. George's father wanted to open a new business and wanted Clark to attend school there.

Connections ■ Mr. George attended UCLA, continued his athletic pursuits (baseball, basketball, football) and, still lacking a definite ambition in life, drifted on. Then he got an offer from an old family friend, Donald Thornburgh, then vice president and general manager of KNX Los Angeles, to go into radio. The requisites were stringent (including a college education) but young Mr. George accepted—at $1 per show as usher in Hollywood's Radio City. To supplement this meagre income, he washed dishes at a sorority house and mowed the lawn at the campus athletic house, while majoring in English. He was graduated in 1941 and was promoted to the CBS mailroom.

World War II claimed Mr. George in December 1941 and he moved up from ensign to commander in the Navy while traveling all over the Pacific, to South America and other locales. Let out of service in January 1946, he rejoined CBS in the press information office of KNX, then was promoted to the sales staff. He moved to San Francisco in 1949 as California sales manager of Columbia Pacific Radio Network and was recalled into the Navy from July 1950 to December 1951, during the Korean conflict.

Back to CBS ■ Bill Shaw, at that time general manager of KNX, contacted Mr. George after his discharge and offered him a job as CPRN eastern representative for the station in radio spot sales. The following year Mr. George joined CBS Tv Spot Sales' New York office as an account executive at a time, he recalls, "when tv was starting to develop". He was elevated in 1954 to general manager.

In 1956 Mr. George returned to the west coast, succeeding James Aubrey (now president of CBS-TV) as general manager of KNXT (TV) Los Angeles and as head of the Columbia Television Pacific Network. KNXT, which had experienced good growth from its inception in May 1948, continued to move forward under Mr. George's leadership, gaining a reputation for frequent winning of awards (nearly 200 in 12 years, including the coveted duPont, Peabody, and the Ohio State U. Institute for Education by Radio-Television honors, plus one from the National Assn. for Better Radio and Television for most consistently contributing "to the educational, cultural and social significance of broadcasting"). With two of the awards, he set aside $1,000 each for two scholarships at UCLA. Mr. George was named vice president in charge of KNXT and CTPN in June 1959.

Chicago Style ■ Since coming to Chicago, Mr. George has established a reputation for participating in civic and community affairs and for capitalizing on the city's big appetite for news and public service shows ("local viewers seem to have a tremendous interest in this type program, as attested by the ratings, no matter what the hour"). As a consequence, WBBM-TV viewers are apt to get a still heavier diet of public service programming in the months ahead. Among recent examples: the two-part Anatomy of a Crisis series on the Congo crisis, aired in prime time; the primary election study, Beat the Drums; and Seminar 60, an educational series. Mr. George also feels that station newsmen ought to travel more, saying:

"It's part of our responsibility to the community. It's costly and time-consuming, but it pays untold rewards. A tv station is more than a business operation—it has a responsibility right down the line to the people, who in turn should become a part of the community. And because we are an o&o operation, that philosophy enables us to do the job." He adds that the same motivation—that of educating the people in civic and cultural pursuits—also applies for press critiques such as the alternate-week WBBM-TV Views the Press.

Mr. George married the former Carmen Lemper on April 13, 1941, and they have three children, Mary 17, Fred 13, and Robert 6. Mr. George's hobbies are swimming, volley ball and sports cars. He's also active in the Chicago Broadcast Advertising, Chicago Federated Advertising and Executives clubs and is radio-tv chairman of Chicago's Crusade of Mercy campaign.

Innocence by association

A LONG with other elements of the television business, the ratings services have been taking abuse. They have been criticized for everything from downright dishonesty to perpetrating a hoax by calculating national figures from samples of inadequate size.

At least two of these services, the American Research Bureau and A.C. Nielsen, must have taken a measure of cheer last week from a U.S. Census announcement. The Census found more television homes in this country than ARB and Nielsen had found. As reported elsewhere in this issue, the government counts 46.5 million U.S. homes with tv sets against ARB's 46 million and Nielsen's 45.2 million.

This certainly suggests that neither ARB nor Nielsen is sucking figures out of its thumb and that neither is being dishonest. In this case their errors (if they were errors) were on the conservative side. The comparison of the government estimates with those of the two companies speaks well for the private companies' motives and procedures.

Now some more laws

THE "Communications Act Amendments, 1960" is a phrase that will be fitted permanently into the broadcasting idiom. It is the brief title for the Pastore-Harris amendments enacted at the short session of Congress which wound up last week. These amendments to the Communications Act of 1934 will be cited often in FCC decisions and in pleadings and lawsuits that inevitably will arise over the FCC's newly acquired and infinitely broader authority over broadcasting.

There's a long title, too. It reads:

"An Act to promote the public interest by amending the Communications Act of 1934, to provide a pre-grant procedure in case of certain applications; to impose limitations on pay-offs between applicants; to require disclosure of payments made for the broadcasting of certain matter; to grant authority to impose forfeitures in the broadcast service; and to prohibit deceptive practices in contests of intellectual knowledge, skill or chance; and for other purposes."

It could have been much worse. The legislation began as S 1898 in the Senate and simply would have amended procedural and administrative aspects to make them more workable and less time-consuming. But the House Legislative Oversight Committee used the bill as a vehicle for its payola and quiz-rigging bans, and then proceeded to throw in other sanctions in the form of suspension and fine provisions that would have made life unbearable for the already harried broadcasters.

We said it could have been worse. Chairman Pastore (D-R.I.) of the Senate Communications Subcommittee, tossed out the 10-day suspension provision. The forfeiture proposal was scaled down substantially. We still feel fines are unnecessary because the FCC has ample power under existing cease and desist and revocation provisions to punish willful and persistent offenders.

These Senate changes didn't just happen. They came as a result of persistent opposition of broadcasters, organized through the NAB.

As is always the case in Washington, staff work is basic. In this instance, the essential staff level task was handled knowledgeably and expeditiously by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee's communications expert, Nicholas Zapple. It was a race against adjournment—and the Oversight Committee's steamroller.

Manhunt

THE NAB has been without a paid chief executive for six months—since the untimely passing last March of its dedicated chairman-president, Hal Fellows.

In that critical half-year, the NAB staff has carried on in exemplary fashion, under the policy direction of the volunteer three-man committee. Clair R. McCollough, the committee's chairman, has been in constant touch with Washington headquarters. He has traversed the 100 miles from his own headquarters in Lancaster, Pa., innumerable times to handle the thousand-and-one details of policy control. His associates—G. Richard Shafto, WIS Columbia, S.C., and Merrill Lindsay, WSOY, Decatur, Ill., have traveled to Washington whenever called upon.

Meanwhile, the selection committee hasn't been dawdling. An intensive search has been under way. A list of nominees has been screened and several important personages within and outside broadcasting have been interviewed.

Howard Lane, KOIN Portland, Ore., selection committee chairman, will call his eight-man group to Washington during the week of Sept. 19. Action is hoped for then. The policy committee cannot carry on indefinitely. This should not be asked of men who have their own duties to perform.

Broadcasters as well as those with whom they do business were mightily encouraged to learn that men of the calibre of Henry Cabot Lodge are under consideration. Mr. Lodge's identity became known (CLOSED CIRCUIT, Aug. 1) when the UN Ambassador was drafted for the Republican vice presidential nomination. That eliminated him from NAB consideration.

We think the selection committee is searching at the proper level. We believe, moreover, that the selection should be made prior to the November elections to avoid possible political implications. The man selected should be above partisan politics.

The Selection Committee, however, should not dismiss out of hand the possibility of appointment of an outstanding broadcaster to the NAB presidency. There are statesmen of commanding stature in broadcasting who would do credit to this assignment if only one could be induced to accept.
