STATEMENT OF EDITORIAL POLICY

Classical Philology welcomes both longer articles and short notes or discussions that make a significant contribution to the study of Greek and Roman antiquity. Any field of classical studies may be treated, separately or in relation to other disciplines, ancient or modern. In particular, we invite studies that illuminate aspects of the languages, literatures, history, art, philosophy, social life, and religion of ancient Greece and Rome. Innovative approaches and originality are encouraged as a necessary part of good scholarship. Illustrations may be used as appropriate. Book reviews are published by invitation only.

NOTE TO CONTRIBUTORS

Please address all correspondence to the Editor, Classical Philology, Box I Faculty Exchange, The University of Chicago, Chicago, Illinois 60637. Submissions should be double-spaced, paginated, with ample margins, and with footnotes gathered at the end of the paper. Please submit three copies. All submissions are refereed anonymously. Therefore no indication of the author's identity should appear on the typescript; references to the author's own work should take the same form as references to the work of others; acknowledgments or other remarks that could reveal the author's identity should be withheld until the paper has been accepted. A detailed set of revised guidelines, which will go into effect July 1994, is available from the Editor.
