Zwierlein, Otto

Die Ovid- und Vergil-Revision in tiberischer Zeit

Prolegomena

1999. 23 x 15,5 cm.

• ISBN 3-11-016635-6
(Untersuchungen zur antiken
Literatur und Geschichte 57)

Virgil's texts are regarded as being the best preserved of any Latin poet's. However, the earliest extant manuscripts were produced at least 400 years after the originals, and tell us very little about the history of the texts in the generation following the death of the greatest Roman poet. Otto Zwierlein demonstrates the existence of a complete edition produced around 20–25 AD which, in addition to Virgil's works – extended by textual insertions – also included the alleged poems from his youth which we can now read in the Appendix Virgiliana.

The edition shall encompass 4 volumes.

Euripides: Philoktet

Testimonien und Fragmente

Edited, translated and with a commentary by Carl Werner Müller

This volume presents the first comprehensive commented collection of the fragments and testimonies of Euripides' play, and provides a new basis for approaching the lost Philoctetes. Particular importance is given to Dion Chrysostom's 52nd and 59th speeches, both of which are presented in a new critical edition. Thus it is possible to reconstruct the argument, action and a considerable proportion of the contents of the tragedy. In addition, it is now possible to give a more accurate account of the intertextual relationship between Sophocles' and Euripides' plays. The introduction deals with methodological and editorial questions and with the history of the reception of the work; it also gives a survey of research to date.

Greek and Roman Political Thought

Edited by Christopher Rowe
and Malcolm Schofield

'It would be hard to think how this superb collection of essays about Greek and Roman political thought could be improved. ... There could be no better introduction than this collection of well-written, scholarly and absorbing essays.' Literary Review

This is the first general and comprehensive treatment of the political thought of ancient Greece and Rome to be published in English. It covers Plato and Aristotle at length, but also a host of other thinkers, from Thucydides and the Greek dramatists to Cicero and early Christian writers.

New in Greek History and Culture

Alexander the Great in Fact and Fiction

Edited by A. B. Bosworth and E. J. Baynham

Professor Bosworth and Dr Baynham have collected together ten contributions by leading scholars in the field of Alexander studies which represent the most advanced scholarship in this area. The contributions cover subjects of central importance, such as imperial ideology, conspiracy and its political manipulation, and panhellenism. The essays address issues of historiography and historical interpretation, and advance challenging new hypotheses.

Law and Social Status in Classical Athens

Edited by Virginia Hunter and Jonathan Edmondson

The subject of this collection is the articulation of law and social status in classical Athens. More particularly, the work concentrates on the way in which the law of Athens constructed and sustained social status by enshrining privileges for some citizens and disabilities for metics and slaves. As a whole, it reinforces the reality of three juridically defined status groups whose role in society and whose personal lives were deeply affected by their place in the prevailing hierarchy.

Hypereides: The Forensic Speeches

Introduction, Translation and Commentary by David Whitehead

Professor Whitehead has provided a new translation of the five surviving forensic speeches of the Athenian lawyer-politician Hypereides (390/89-322 BC). Hypereides' importance lies not only in his speeches, but also in his centrality in the political life of ancient Athens, as a contemporary of Demosthenes, and one of the canonical Ten Attic Orators. This book, which includes a general introduction and lavish historical and literary commentary, represents the first complete collection of Hypereides' works in any language.

Divinity and History

The Religion of Herodotus

Thomas Harrison

This book is a study of the religious beliefs of the ancient Greek historian Herodotus - his beliefs in divine retribution, in oracles and divination, in miracles or in fate. It seeks to show not only how such beliefs were central to his work, but also how they were compatible with lived experience.

New Medieval History Studies from Oxford

Suicide in the Middle Ages Volume 2: The Curse on Self-Murder

ALEXANDER MURRAY

"history can sometimes be hard work, like hacking and sweating one's way through the dense undergrowth of a dark, crowded wood. Guided by Alexander Murray, an immensely knowledgeable historian and consummate story-teller, the reader canter through rolling park land, enjoying broad vistas and well-spaced stands of timber".

Ralph Houlbrooke

The second volume of Alexander Murray's major study of suicide in the Middle Ages focuses on suicide law in the context of European social and legal customs, and the medieval legal doctrines of Greece, Rome, Islam, and Egypt.

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

1. One hard copy of an article or shorter note will suffice at initial submission; it may be sent to either editor. Initial submission by computer disk, e-mail, or fax is not acceptable. Receipt will be acknowledged. Contributors should retain their own copy, as the editors may wish to annotate a submission and furthermore cannot take responsibility for any loss.

2. The editors' decision whether to publish a submission regularly involves the consultation of one or more referees. This process is of unpredictable length but is completed as quickly as possible; contributors should wait three to four months before enquiring.

Contributors are informed when publication is offered. An offer is sometimes dependent upon revision, and fresh hard copy will then be requested. All successful contributors are also asked to supply, if possible, a computer disk of their article or note; a printed form will request details of software used and any special features of the copy, such as drawings or plans, and a word-count; and contributors will be asked to offer an e-mail or fax address for publication.

A submission which the editors decline will be returned if possible, especially if the contributor so requests at the start.

3. Both articles and shorter notes should be typed in double spacing on A4 or US letter-size paper and on one side of the paper only. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively, and typed either as such or as endnotes on separate sheets. Greek quotations need not be typed, but every letter must be clear and legible; especial care should be taken over accents and breathings.

4. Quotations should be put in single inverted commas. A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Short passages of Latin and other self-contained phrases (such as coup de grâce or fait accompli) should be underlined or italicized.

5. Brief text-references should normally be given in the main text, but lists of references and bibliographical details in the footnotes, in the following form:

BOOKS

R. Syme, The Roman Revolution (Oxford, 1939), 78–9.

E. Norden, *Die antike Kunstprosa*³ 1.164–81.

Fraenkel on Agamemnon 1314 (pp. 611–13).

Authors' initials should be stated, at least at their first mention. Abbreviations may be assigned to books that will be generally familiar (e.g. *OCD*³, LSJ, CHCL, FGrH, IG, RE omitting full points). 'Op. cit.' should be avoided; instead write (e.g.) 'Vlastos (n. 9), 245ff.' or '... (n. 9) at 249'; alternatively works repeatedly cited may be listed at the beginning or end of the article, and names (with dates or short titles, if necessary) used in the notes.

ARTICLES

R. P. Winnington-Ingram, 'The Danaid trilogy', JHS 81 (1961), 141–52, at 143 or '... (1961), 143'.

T. C. W. Stinton, "'Si credere dignum est": some expressions of disbelief in Euripides and others', in id., Collected Papers on Greek Tragedy (Oxford, 1985), 236–64.

Both year and volume number (in Arabic numerals) should be given.

Abbreviations may follow the style of Marouzeau's L'Année philologique.

ANCIENT AUTHORITIES

Aristophanes, Birds 135; Homer, Od. 1.1 (not a 1); Lucr. De Rerum Nat. 1.47, Cic. Phil. 2.20 (not 2.8 or 2.8.20); Plin. N.H. 9.176 (not 9.83.176 or 9.83); Quint. 10.1.46; Soph. O.C. 225 (retain full points; do not use l. or ll., but, where necessary, line or lines).

B.C. (or B.C.E.) should appear after, A.D. (or C.E.) before, the number of the year. Write 'nineteenth century' rather than '19th Century'. The following should not be italicized: loc. cit., cf., ibid., s.v.

6. It is a condition of publication in the Journal that authors assign copyright to Oxford University Press. This ensures that requests from third parties to reproduce articles are handled efficiently and consistently and will also allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible. In assigning copyright, authors may use their own materials in other publications provided that the Journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication, and Oxford University Press is notified in writing and in advance.

THE CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

The main aims of the Classical Association are to promote and sustain interest in classical studies, to maintain their rightful position in universities and schools, and to give scholars and teachers opportunities of meeting and discussing their problems. It organizes an annual conference, lasting four or five days, in a university centre, and sponsors twenty-nine branches, most of which hold Greek and Latin Reading Competitions for Schools. Its activities are fully reported in its annual Proceedings, issued free to all members.

The present membership of the Association is approximately 4,400. Membership is open to both individuals and to institutions at an annual subscription of £5.00 (life composition for individual members, £105.00). Members may obtain The Classical Review, The Classical Quarterly, and Greece & Rome at greatly reduced prices. Application for membership should be addressed to the Hon. Treasurer, c/o The Classical Association, School of Advanced Studies, University of London, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU.
