BE HIS LOVER NOT HIS MOTHER

By Amy Warren, LMHC

You might as well face it. Sooner or later, the man in your life is going to react to you as a mother instead of a lover. There are three ways in which this image may enter into your relationship: his mother, your mother, and your own maternal instincts. Counteracting this image and resuming your persona as lover is necessary for healthy intimacy.

Your partner may have subconsciously chosen you because you embody some of the same qualities he adored in his own mother. Yet, he will chiefly be fearful that you will manifest her negative qualities. He isn't going to be thinking how wonderful it is that he found a woman who is as loyal as his mother. He is going to be scared to death that you will try to control him like his mother. Even wanting him to do the simplest thing may spark his adolescent rebellion.

Furthermore, your man will be comparing you to your own mother. It is common knowledge that men scrutinize women's mothers to gauge how their loved one will look and act as they age. Men accusing women of acting "just like your mother" is a resounding retort in marital arguments.

And finally, when women become mothers, they all too often forget how to be lovers. Nurturing qualities get transferred to the child. Attire may even become matronly. Lives become encompassed in the maternal role focusing on the raising of children, often leaving the man behind in the dust – feeling abandoned and overlooked. Even the maternal attention given the family pet can rouse a partner's feeling of neglect.

How do you make an effort in your relationship to transform the image in your man's head from mother to lover? Listen to whatever your partner reveals about what his mother did that was hurtful to him. Become aware of any tendencies you may have to do the same, and work hard to change those actions. Likewise, don't forget about those ways you said you would never become like your own mother.

Another key factor is becoming conscious of how you speak. Many men complain that women speak to them like a child. Don't talk down to your man; speak to him as your equal. Never, ever tell the man in your life what he should do. If he asks you for advice, give it and brace yourself for his possible rejection of it. If you are with a man who you can't help but feel compelled to tell how to live his life differently, then you are probably with a man who isn't making mature decisions. Instead of telling him what to do, step back and evaluate if you are with someone who is acting responsibly and whether or not he is a good choice for you.

"Many men complain that women speak to them like a child. Don't talk down to your man; speak to him as your equal."

Stop trying to change him. I've heard countless women admit they can't wait to change the way their man dresses. How motherly does that sound? If he invites your input, great! If not, remember that you chose him as he is.

Most of us are nurturing caretakers by nature. It's a good quality, yet it carries with it all the maternal connotations. So while it's good to treat your man to special loving gestures, it's not okay to emasculate him by doing things he would rather do himself. Go ahead; straighten his collar as he's on his way out the door to a business meeting, if you like. But when you do, rub against him in a way that his mother never would. Voilà, the image is negated and he's reminded of why he wants to come home to you at the end of the day.

Another tip is to take the same special care in your appearance as you did when you were single. All too often when women marry, weight is gained or clothing style changes. You don't have to cook dinner in stilettos or take the kids to soccer with a plunging neckline, but do dress sexy on a regular basis, whether it's for date night or bedtime.

Act as you did when you were dating and give your relationship the same priority; it's why he chose you. Put the same energy into keeping your man as you did into getting him. Be seductive in both your words and your actions. Write love notes, show appreciation, express tender feelings, create surprises, and wow him with unpredictable sex. Take great care in your relationship to assume the role of lover and partner rather than mother. You will reap the benefits as the man in your life responds to you in kind.

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a red bikini, is lying on her back on a bright yellow, shiny sheet. She is smiling and looking towards the camera. Her legs are raised and bent at the knees. The background is a warm, golden-yellow color. The entire advertisement is framed by an ornate, dark brown border with decorative scrollwork at the corners.

When people describe an encounter with adult film legend Julia Ann, they often express sentiments to the effect of, "She is simply one of the most beautiful, nicest people I've ever met," as if someone of such iconic importance couldn't also be down-to-earth, personable, and approachable. People with such a mystique and reputation aren't typically like Julia Ann. In fact, there is no one else quite like her.

ROLAND DT-HD1 DRUM TRAINER

Reading music is hard work so the guitar hero / Rock band games introduced a much simplified method of displaying musical notation on the screen. Roland have now adopted that approach in their training software – the practical upshot of this is that people who get interested in the drums through the video games (and there will be quite a few of those) will feel right at home when they transition to a grown-up kit. The software also offers a more traditional musical notation and has a range of options including jamming with a backing track.

BEO VISION 7

Watching movies should be an event – get the family together, dim the lights, turn the screen with your Beo5 or Beo4 remote control, and enjoy the theatre-like surround sound from your BeoLab speakers. BeoVision 7 is a complete entertainment system specially created to give you a sound and picture experience that will exceed your expectations. With the choice of 32 or 40 inch LCD screen, a built-in DVD player and advanced surround sound module, it can be the centrepiece of home entertainment. Yet for all its capabilities, it is still a discreet and beautiful Bang & Olufsen TV. You will not feel like you live in a Cinema until a single press of a button makes BeoVision 7 spring to life and turn towards the best seats in the house – yours.

SONY MHS-CM1

Sony introduced two colorful characters to the world of Internet video today. The Sony MHS-CM1 and Sony MHS-PM1 (gallery) are highly compact and come in colors that would make Willy Wonka proud. We were crazy over the new "Eggplant" color, though Orange is quite enticing in its own right. Both the Sony MHS-CM1 and Sony MHS-PM1 record high-definition MPEG-4 video and can capture 5-megapixel still images.

VAIO P SERIES

With a screen measuring of about 8 inches, the VAIO P is one of the smallest (dare I say it) netbooks on the market as it can fit in a jacket pocket, handbag, or even a business envelope. Even though the screen may be small, it is wide enough to display the width of an entire website without any horizontal scrolling. The VAIO P is definitely one of the lightest of portable PCs, weighing in at about 1.4 pounds. The VAIO P has a built-in GPS device for navigation that requires no internet connection. It is also Bluetooth compatible, and it comes with a Media Bar so the user can access their favorite audio and video files in the corner of a screen with a quick click.

PALM PRE

Meet Palm Pre, a phone that's always thinking ahead to make your life easier. Pre pulls your different online calendars into one view, bringing you the information you want without having to search for it. Pre links your contacts from different sources, giving you one place to find what you need. And Pre delivers incoming messages and notifications in an intuitively subtle way, letting you react or respond however you want. People, events, information that matters. With Palm Pre, it'll come to you.

CHINA VISION BREATHYLIZER KEYCHAIN

Super low priced Breathalyzer BAC Level Tester with a built in flashlight and real-time clock with additional countdown and stopwatch functions. This is a handy little gadget to have with you when you are going out for a night on the town. Just attach it to your keychain, and when you want to know if you have had too much, simply blow on the Alcohol tester. Readings are easy for anybody to read as green is safe, yellow is caution, and red means danger.

SUNBRITE SB-3220HD 32 INCH OUTDOOR LCD TV

Now you can enjoy watching the big game on TV while enjoying the comfort of your own deck or patio. This 32 inch LCD Outdoor TV - HDTV compatible - features an all-weather enclosure that protects the components from rain, dirt, and it comes with an anti-glare, scratch-resistant front panel that enhances contrast to aid in outdoor viewing. Even the cables and remote are designed to stay watertight.

NOKIA N97

It is the first touch-enabled Nseries device and has a horizontal tilt-slide form factor. It transforms from a touch slate to a landscape QWERTY device. The device, which has an Internet and entertainment focus, runs on S60 5th Edition, has a customisable, widget-based, home screen and full support for Ovi services.

It features a 3.5 inch (360 x 640 resolution) touchscreen with haptic feedback, 5 megapixel camera (with Carl Zeiss optics and dual LED flash), A-GPS and compass sensors, comprehensive connectivity options (WiFi, tri-band HSDPA, Bluetooth and USB), and 32GB of internal flash memory. Read on for more. The N97 is the most feature packed Nseries device to date and, by adding touch, it moves Nokia's high end Nseries into direct competition with touch devices such as the Samsung Omnia, LG Renoir, Apple iPhone and G1 Android Phone.

Here are first few hand-ons impressions: In the hand the N97 feels pleasingly solid, with an extremely impressive slide mechanism - it is obvious a lot of testing has gone into the hinge mechanism. In slide closed mode it is equally solid, with no give. The keyboard, while limited by design constraints, feels good, though as ever it's difficult to come to any final conclusions with prototypes. Subjectively, the 'feel' and the design of the handset screams high end with materials that can not be fully appreciated in pictures (it has that caress-ability x-factor).

VALENTINE'S DAY SURVIVAL GUIDE

By Bruno Somerset

Valentine's Day is fast approaching, and it's a good bet that most guys have done nothing to prepare. This is understandable, since the BIG GAME just ended and college basketball is starting to really heat up heading into March Madness. After all, how many things is a man supposed to focus on at once? But we've reached the point that February 14th can no longer be ignored, and a great many men need help making sure the day isn't a total disaster.

First, presentation is key throughout the day. You may think you're being unbelievably romantic by showing up at the end of the day with a dozen long-stem red roses, but you are wrong. By the time you get home from work or to your sweetheart's place with the roses, twenty of her co-workers will have already received the same dozen roses at work. Your wife or girlfriend (hopefully you don't have both) will have been forced to sit all day with an empty desk, while her friends gave her glances that fell somewhere between pity and triumph. After all, their man remembered to send flowers for maximum effect. By noon, she probably threw away the picture of you that had been on her desk. So send the flowers to the office. And send 18 instead of a dozen.

Taking her to an expensive restaurant will always score points, but in spite of the price the food isn't always good, which takes away from the evening. You also spent a bundle on 18 roses because you waited until the 13th to order them and had to pay a premium to get them delivered on time. So, if you have any culinary ability at all, try making dinner for her, complete with dim lighting and candles and Led Zeppelin on the stereo. Actually, better try something like a good Grover Washington sax album instead. I recommend Winelight. A nice Italian dish always works well, and most are easy with a little prep time. As far as wine, don't skimp; nothing kills Valentine's Day like a wine bottle with a screw cap.

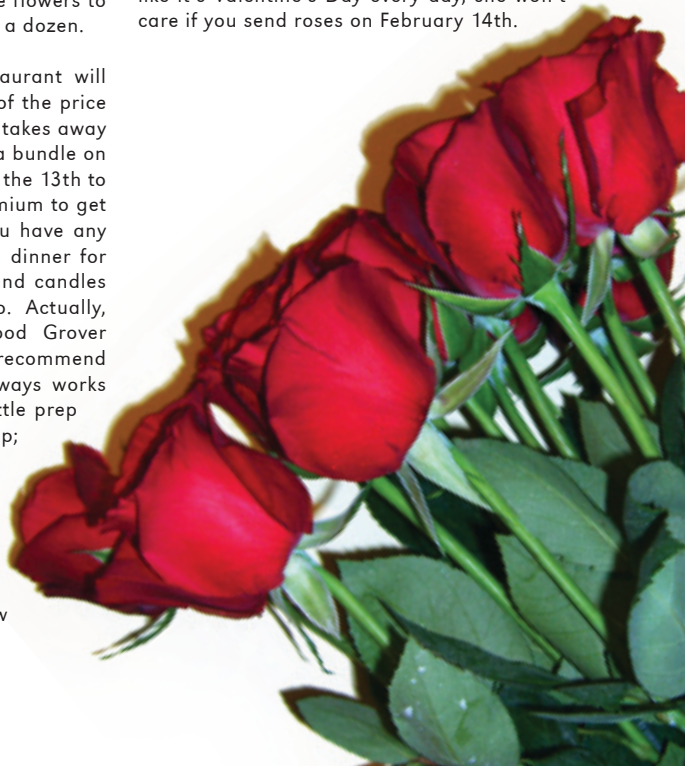

There is an added benefit to making dinner for her, assuming she doesn't have a heart attack over the fact that you actually know where the pots and pans are located. You can transition nicely from dinner to a movie on DVD, where you will further astound her by picking a chick flick in honor of Valentine's Day. This shows your both your considerate side and sensitive side at the same time, something I will venture you've never accomplished before.

You need to choose carefully here, because to get credit for watching the chick flick (and building up action movie credit with her), you have to make it through the whole thing. Stay away from anything with Bette Midler or Barbra Streisand. Go with a John Cusack film if possible; most women like him and his films are funny. I recommend Serendipity, because it has that whole "love conquers all" thing your girl will like, and it has Kate Beckinsale. Do your best not to comment on how beautiful Kate is, as this may hurt your cause later in the evening. No suggestions about later in the evening here; I'll assume you can handle that without my help.

I hope these few suggestions will help you survive what can be one of the most brutal holidays of the year. Be sweet, be sappy, and be on time. But remember this: if you treat her like it's Valentine's Day every day, she won't care if you send roses on February 14th.

09 MERCEDES-BENZ SLR MCLAREN STIRLING MOSS

Mercedes-Benz and McLaren are adding the crowning glory to the model family of their highly successful SLR super sports car with a new, uncompromisingly spectacular car. There is neither a roof nor a wind-screen to separate the driver and passenger from the outside world; they enjoy unadulterated high-speed excitement with all the attributes of a speedster. The new SLR Stirling Moss is also characterised by the most sophisticated technology and a breathtaking design which reinterprets the SLR legend. With 478 kW/650 hp the SLR Stirling Moss accelerates its V8 supercharged engine from standstill to 100 km/h in less than 3.5 seconds, and has a top speed of 350 km/h - no other series-production car is at the same time so open and so fast. This extreme concept makes the new high-performance sports car a legitimate bearer of the name of the British motor racing legend and Mille Miglia record-holder Stirling Moss, who drove the legendary Mercedes-Benz SLR racing cars from victory to victory in 1955. The exclusive SLR Stirling Moss rounds off the current SLR family and is limited to 75 units. It is priced at 750,000 euros.

Three letters are all it takes to make car fans hearts beat faster: SLR. In the 1950s the Mercedes-Benz SLR 300 celebrated victory after victory. It won the Mille Miglia, the Eifel race, the Targa Florio as well as the Tourist Trophy. It was driven by the stars of the time: Juan Manuel Fangio and Karl Kling - and, first and foremost, by the British racing driver Stirling Moss. At ten hours, seven minutes and 48 seconds he still holds the Mille Miglia record. This is why the modern-day version of the legendary SLR carries the additional words Stirling Moss in its name.

2009 BENTLEY CONTINENTAL GTC SPEED

The 200 mph GTC Speed is Bentley's most powerful convertible ever. The latest GTC range is refined and extended with two new models. The new GTC delivers enhanced style, comfort and choice.

Now, the introduction of the new GTC range builds on this success with a subtle evolution of its distinctive style and a range of technical and feature enhancements benefiting comfort and customer choice. The appeal of the GTC is further strengthened by the addition of the new 600bhp (610PS) GTC Speed model. It is Bentley's most powerful convertible ever and inspired by Bentley's legendary 'Speed Models' from the 1920s.

The new GTC models share a fresh frontal appearance. The radiator grille is more upright with a more pronounced square edge, accentuating the Bentley profile, and bolder lower air intake. These latest models are further distinguished by chrome headlamp bezels, the availability of two new exterior paints and a new colour hide.

For the standard GTC, new low-friction dampers provide improved ride comfort. In addition, two significant new options may be specified on both GTC models: lightweight, fade-resistant, carbon-ceramic brakes, the largest production passenger car brakes in the world, and a sophisticated follow-to-stop Adaptive Cruise Control system with long-range radar sensor that monitors traffic ahead and manages throttle and brakes to maintain a driver-selected time gap.

2009 NISSAN GT-R SPECV

Developed around the multi-dimensional Nissan GT-R sports car, which was introduced just more than one year ago to universal global acclaim, the new SpecV model builds on the original's "ultimate supercar that anyone can enjoy driving anywhere, at anytime" philosophy - taking it to an entirely new level of "oneness between man and machine." The SpecV model includes unique body, interior and performance equipment and modifications, raising the GT-R's unmatched performance to even higher levels.

The GT-R SpecV's new exterior features include a carbon fiber rear spoiler, a carbon fiber grille, and carbon fiber brake ducts. The SpecV is available exclusively in Ultimate Black Opal (RP) body color. Inside, the SpecV's unique two-seat interior (non-SpecV GT-R models also include a two-place rear seat) offers special Recaro carbon fiber bucket seats, while carbon fiber insets embellish the rear center storage box, instrument panel and other trim areas.

Performance is enhanced with a new high gear boost control device, which momentarily increases boost of the engine's twin turbochargers for greater torque in the intermediate-to-high speed ranges to provide a more powerful feeling of acceleration, while also allowing the engine to operate at a lower speed for improved fuel economy. Other modifications include a titanium-coated exhaust system and carbon-ceramic brakes that provide powerful stopping performance.

2010 FORD SHELBY GT500

The 2010 Shelby GT500 is the most-robust design and most-distinctive model of the new 2010 Mustang lineup. "The design we chose was a 'flush' hood where the fascia defines the entire front of the vehicle," Hameedi said. "That's very hard to execute from an engineering standpoint, but it really sets the Shelby off as very, very different from the base Mustang."

Another obvious difference for the Shelby is the addition of racing stripes, which also will now be available on the convertible. "Racing stripes made their mark on 1960s-era Ford performance vehicles," Hameedi notes. "That's something we feel is a key part of the Shelby performance DNA - maybe more so than some of our competition."

Rounding out the Shelby's exterior modifications are the unique signature coiled Cobra badges on the front grille and front fenders, a more aggressive front splitter and lower-drag rear spoiler, which added to improved aerodynamic features, round out the exterior modifications. "We wanted the spoiler raked back aggressively to minimize drag, but we also have an integrated Gurney Flap that provides the downforce," Saridakis said.

The all-new interior of the 2010 Shelby GT500 features genuine leather in all seats, genuine aluminum on the instrument panel and Alcantara inserts on the seats. The racing stripe theme is carried through on the seats.

2009 AUDI R8

After the rally successes achieved by the revolutionary Audi quattro and its triumphs in touring car racing, Audi has now begun to write a new chapter in motor sport history with the R8 racing car. Five wins in the Le Mans 24-hour race have made the R8 the most successful sport prototype ever to compete there. In a total of 80 further starts at races all over the world, this top performer has emerged victorious on 63 occasions.

This multiple champion was the perfect platform for the new Audi production sports car. Together with the R8 name, its genes were transmitted to the road model. The mid-engine concept is part of its heritage, like the high-revving V8 engine with FSI direct gasoline injection and the R tronic sequential shift gearbox. Racing rules prohibit the use of quattro all-wheel drive for race cars, but the production R8 features it as standard, hence its superior road dynamics and safety.

There are design parallels too, not just in the functional objective of managing the aerodynamics supremely even at very high speeds. The design team that shaped the race car continued its good work when the design of the road car had to be finalized. Of course such aerodynamic features as the Le Mans cars' mighty wing had to be abandoned – instead, the R8 expresses its sporty competence with a body that displays typical Audi elegance in every line.

The R8's stance on the road is broad-based and stable, with powerful proportions, emphatic wheel arches and air inlets of ample size all demonstrating its performance potential. This is an Audi such as has never been seen before. Determining the clear proportions of this mid-engine car are the cabin positioned well forward with the engine immediately behind.

2008 GUMPERT APOLLO SPORT

It is one of only a handful of super sport cars and after its debut at Geneva's international Motor Show in 2006 it was clear: the Apollo is a synthesis of dynamic and design with pure driving pleasure and unique performance. On the road it speeds like a god and on the race track it cries out to be challenged by an opponent that can match its breathtaking acceleration and incomparable handling. Now, it is due to get a worthy competitor out of its own stable. At the 77th Geneva Motor Show, the Gumpert Sportwagenmanufaktur will present the Apollo Sport to the wide public.

The Apollo Sport is the rebel amongst the super sport cars. Its bodywork combines sexy curves with potent edges and angles and aims for uncompromising aerodynamics. A clear demonstration of the principle "form follows function". Its challenging sporting design derives from the requirement to build a street legal racing car, whose number one priority is to provide extraordinary performance on the circuit, but at the same time embodying a vehicle suitable for daily use.

The highest importance was attached to safety: the tubular space frame in chrome-molybdenum steel with integrated safety monocoque fabricated in carbon-fiber passes all crash-tests regulations, while a cashbox offers additional protection. The gaping air intake stub over the roof and on the rear signals power, dynamics and superiority. The eight cylinder, bi-turbo mid-engine with up to 800 horsepower is capable of catapulting this 1200 kg missile from 0-100 km/h in only 3 seconds.

2009 SSC ULTIMATE AERO

After holding the "World's Fastest Production Car" title for the past year, the Shelby SuperCars' Ultimate Aero is receiving several refinements for the 2009 model year. The SSC engineering team equipped the 2009 Ultimate Aero with a 15% increase in horsepower, a revamped front fascia design, and an array of important interior upgrades. The most substantial change is an SSC-designed, 1-piece billet aluminum engine block. A milestone for the limited-production automobile manufacturer, the new block improves structural integrity and oiling capabilities allowing SSC to boost the power output to 1287 horsepower while improving durability.

Armed with the more powerful new engine, the '09 Ultimate Aero will be able to reach world-record speeds of 270 MPH, raising the benchmark for supercars and pushing the limits of current production car technology. In order to accommodate the '09 Ultimate Aero's unique fuel system requirements, SSC turned to American company Aeromotive to develop a flawless system. The aggressive nose is redesigned with enhanced aerodynamics to accommodate the 2009 Ultimate Aero's higher top speed, and carbon fiber louvers on the side intakes draw in an additional 20% of air into the radiators for improved cooling. The improvement in overall performance will widen the already sizeable gap between the Ultimate Aero and its competitors. The '09 Ultimate Aero also introduces the AeroBrake™ a rear spoiler system that deploys under braking situations. Finished in carbon fiber, the rear spoilers actuate up an additional 8" when the brake pedal is depressed. The speed of the spoiler actuation is set by the amount of brake pedal pressure. The complete AeroBrake™ system can be disabled by the push of a button, for town driving or situations where braking and downforce assistance are not necessary.

Rounding out the '09 Ultimate Aero's improvements is a revamped interior. A redesigned dash prominently displays sleek, exposed carbon fiber dash halves and inset air vents. Carbon fiber accents run along the doorsills, surround the new gauge cluster, and continue onto a revised steering column, which includes an analog speedometer and tachometer with a sequential shift light integrated into the tachometer needle. The new center console incorporates a digital temperature control unit and tire pressure monitor along with an Azentek PC base Infotainment unit. The revolutionary Azentek unit offers all the capabilities of a PC and processes SSC's onboard diagnostic software.

STOYATM SINFULLY SEXYTM

After a brief stint in Hollywood, California, Stoya moved back to East Coast skyscrapers, preferring the brash, concrete reality of the East, to the 24/7 sand and glam of the West Coast. Confederate Renaissance FIGHTER

Text and photography: Jack Criswell AdPix.Biz - adpix.biz/calendars

Think you can handle the most horsepower, the best brakes, the quickest steering,... how about the most exclusive unobtainable exotic? This $110,000 Confederate Renaissance Fighter, found exclusively in the 2009 Neiman-Marcus Christmas book, is limited to just 45. It's the brilliant exhibition of the absolute beyond-the-knife-edge-best in motoring technology: a girder-style front multi-link suspension, high-intensity LED headlights built in to the aerodynamic vertical fins, a longitudinal titanium frame with billet aluminum bukheads, 4-piston brake calipers and carbon fiber rims, 120ci 45-degree air-cooled v-twin motor, forged lightweight pistons...yet without knowing any of that, in fact, without even knowing much about any bikes at all, just by looking at it you know this is something out of this world in a class of its own. The geometric angles and exotic materials blend with the bike's motor so seamlessly that the entire Fighter looks like one machine, rendering other bikes mere clumsy kits with their motors bolted-on-to-a-frame - Ha! that's so 20th-Century!

Confederate claims a top speed of 190 miles per hour, and they should know, they just came back from Bonneville with a new land-speed record of 166 mph for their Wraith model (shown there in back). Confederate describes it best: "The aesthetic is fresh, industrial, sculptural, holistic and honest." <http://www.confederate.com>

CAPRICORN: DECEMBER 22- JAN 19

This is a happy and cooperative time for family or career matters. You develop strong feelings of concern for anyone or anything that needs your support or direction. You will find it easier to handle both taking care of your family and gaining control of personal and business affairs. Other people may admire and count on your dependability and loyalty and you enjoy the attention you receive from helping others at this time. This is a good period for entertaining and playful times with family members. If you have children, you may notice that you are less strict with them just now and should use this time to boost their self-esteem.

AQUARIUS: JAN 20- FEB 18

You may be given a chance to rectify problems in your close relationships and make changes where necessary. This period urges you to reach new levels of understanding and emotional awareness as to your individual needs for love and affection. A mate, partner, or someone wise to your particular circumstances can greatly assist you with genuine offers of guidance and acceptance. You may come out of this period with new perspectives, attitudes, and values with regard to love and intimacy.

PISCES: FEBRUARY 19- MARCH 20

You are inclined to engage in interests, activities, and relationships which make you feel good about yourself. You may disregard the more conventional side of your nature in order to pursue something which is new, stimulating, or different. There is a tendency to resist being pushed too far in the direction of doing what others want you to do. Similarly, at some point you may have to deal with other people's grievances or anger directed toward you, or you may have to strongly defend your position on an important issue. You may have a significant encounter with an individual who aggravates you yet teaches you a valuable lesson or provides you with a healing experience at this time.

ARIES: MARCH 21-APRIL 20

Your work and responsibilities may engage much of your attention at this time. Keeping up-to-date on business correspondence, filing, and telephone communications is favored now. Your mind is centered on productivity and devoting yourself to doing the best job possible. You should take advantage of this opportunity to improve upon your writing and comprehension skills, as this time period may allow you to quickly process information and effectively broadcast your thoughts and ideas.

TAURUS: APRIL 21-MAY 20

Personal relationships should take on new depths at this time. Being available to your partner and feeling totally natural in their presence promises you a comfortable relationship now. There will be mutual recognition of each other's worth and integrity and you will not have to change your personality to suit your mates desires. There is more tolerance, honesty and faith in your relationship, leading to opportunities for greater commitment and pledges of love for each other. Pleasures, entertainment, and social activities shared with loved ones are highly favorable.

GEMINI: MAY 21- JUNE 21

You seesaw between optimism and impatience, between faith that everything is working out and a restless desire to take immediate action. Philosophical discussions are apt to become heated. Avoid pompousness, arrogance, and intolerance. You will neither win freedom nor influence people that way! Proselytizing or self promotion can lead to estrangement now. A lack of caution and over-enthusiasm are pitfalls for you at present.

CANCER: JUNE 22- JULY 22

You are very bold and adventurous right now and you cannot tolerate delays, restrictions, or any form of authority that prevents you from behaving exactly as you please. Your drive for personal freedom and insistence on your rights is pressing, and a confrontation in which you have to stand up for yourself is likely. Rashness, sudden acts of anger or violence, and a tendency to try to do too much too fast are tendencies you need to carefully monitor at this time.

LEO: JULY 23- AUGUST 23

Open communication with a lover, friend, or relative may help relieve your worries or concerns at this time. Your close, healthy, and meaningful relationships can provide you with invaluable insight and new perspectives on resolving fears and inhibitions. This is a good time to let go of any hurt or guilt associated with your past or patch up any differences that occur between you and another individual. You may also feel more inclined to look into ways to improve your personal health and well-being, especially if you have been undergoing recent stress or a minor health setback.

VIRGO: AUGUST 23-SEPTEMBER 23

Your friendly concern for others and your willingness to meet people half way benefits your career, reputation, or public image at this time. This is a favorable time to socialize with people you have professional ties with since the positive feelings you generate now are likely to be an aid to you in the future. Beautifying the place where you meet the public and an increased concern about your own physical appearance are also brought out now.

LIBRA: SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Minor pressures can interfere with romantic, social, or financial plans during this time. There are times and circumstances where you may attempt to steer clear of disputes or disruptive influences in your life, especially if your thinking is cloudy regarding personal issues and close relationships. You may take a less direct approach to romantic encounters or creative projects, as you tend to feel more self-conscious than usual in these areas. You might need to reassess a long-standing relationship or contemplate your values and perspectives on partnership issues. You will have to focus a great deal of attention on getting to the root of problems or blocks in your romantic or creative world so that you can start things running as smoothly as possible again.

SCORPIO: OCTOBER 23- NOVEMBER 21

This is a good time to launch your personal goals and put your inspirations into motion. You consider yourself capable of hard work and are unafraid of challenges or obstacles in your path. Similarly, you enjoy taking risks and finding new ways to beat insurmountable odds or no-win situations. Your energy and enthusiasm guides you to try things which you have never experienced before, breaking free from old fears that previously kept you from taking action.

SAGITTARIUS: NOVEMBER 23- DECEMBER 21

You are willfully resistant to any outside pressure, manipulation, or authority at this time. A fateful encounter with an adversary, one that can neither be avoided nor ignored, is indicated. You seesaw between taking forthright, direct action and using more covert, subtle methods. A desire to break down, destroy, or overthrow existing conditions is also a part of the picture. Be careful with sharp instruments or glass.

A woman with dark hair and light skin is posing for a nude advertisement. She is looking towards the camera with a slight smile. The lighting is soft and focused on her body.
