Karma can mean many things to many people, but for Jessica Drake it has always meant an abundance of riches, charm, and success. Her beauty frames a provocative personality that's helped her develop one of the most robust and acclaimed careers in adult. It's a career that's rising to a new level of excellence this year, as she continues creating big budget features with Wicked's Brad Armstrong – she recently received 2009 Best Actress and Best DP Sex Scene mentions for their gothic fantasy "Fallen" – while branching out on her own as a writer/director with the playful vignette picture "What Girls Like." The first of several pictures she'll be directing across 2009, "What Girls Like" reveals Drake to be as gifted and compelling behind the camera as she is in front of it.

In light of these achievements, it's important to remember that even before she was an official member of Wicked's creative team, Jessica had appeared in some of the company's best known productions, including Armstrong's "Dream Quest" and "Falling From Grace," and Jonathan Morgan's "About A Woman," for which she received an AVN nom for Best Supporting Actress. Prior to this, she'd received many other AVN noms, including Best New Starlet in 2000, Best Tease Performance in 2001 (which she won), and both Best Girl/Girl Scene and Best Group Scene in 2002. It was obvious to Wicked from these early performances that Jessica was a unique find. Since inking her deal in 2003, she has appeared in such AVN-heralded titles as Morgan's sci-fi spectacular "Space Nuts," Armstrong's "The Collector" and "Sold," and Michael Raven's "Perfect Life." Jessica also starred in Armstrong's "Fluff & Fold," an acclaimed AVN Editor's Choice which earned her a much deserved 2005 AVN Award for Best Actress. During the 2006 AVN Awards season, she received a wealth of nominations, including Best Actress for Armstrong's "One Man's Obsession" and Best Supporting Actress for both Armstrong's "Eternity" and Morgan's "Camp Cuddly Pines Power Tool Massacre." On January 13th 2007, her career reached yet another pinnacle of success, as the blonde superstar supplemented her duties as the host of the 2007 AVN Awards by taking home trophies for Best Actress - Film (for director Brad Armstrong's bounty hunter epic "Manhunters") and Best All-Girl Sex Scene - Film (for Armstrong's elegant vignette film FUCK). Her 2008 AVN Nominations included Best Actress - Video for Michael Raven's "Delilah," Best Supporting Actress - Video for "Love Always" (for which she also penned the screenplay), and three sex scene noms for her work in Armstrong's cinematic fable "The Craving."

Even a glance at her track record reveals this actress to be one of adult's most precious assets. After all, this is the woman who has spent time in Sacramento, California meeting with state legislators as a part of the Free Speech Coalition's Celebrate Free Speech Lobbying Days. And it's the same woman who graced a photo essay commissioned by the U.N. in 2005. Her wit and beauty have made her a well-known face in the mainstream. Jessica has appeared in Premiere, Chord, and Stuff magazines, been profiled on HBO's "Pornucopia," done radio interviews with metal legends Anthrax, danced on-stage with Kid Rock, worked on the FOX TV series "Skin," appeared on Maxim Radio and G4's "Attack Of The Show," walked the red carpet at the Grammy Awards, worked with charities like "Cuties For Canines," and been featured on Late Night with David Letterman. Other TV appearances include interviews on AMC's "Sunday Morning Shootout," "The Tyra Banks Show," and "Criss Angel's Mind Freak."

As a director, Jessica will follow up "What Girls Like" with more movies in 2009. It's a path she prepared for by assistant directing such Armstrong shows as "Coming Home," "Last Night," and "Just Between Us," and writing the screenplays for "Love Always," "Just Between Us," and "Dating 101." As a performer, she will continue to thrill fans in 2009 with such titles as "Seduction," "Always & Forever," and "Mobster's Ball 2."

THE DISCONNECT IN TEXT MESSAGING

by Amy Warren, LMHC

It's 8:30 p.m. on a Saturday night. Susan is sitting by the phone hoping to hear from her boyfriend Mark, whom she expected to be dining with at this moment. She anxiously grabs the phone when she hears the alert of a new text message. She reads "Think we should just be friends...Talk 2 U later." It's the latest version of a Dear Jane letter (the female equivalent of a Dear John letter), but even worse. Break-up by text message is a curt, impersonal, disrespectful and cowardly way to end a relationship, and it happens more often than you think. Believe it or not, it's adult relationships that are ending by text. The rejected party is left feeling dismissed, devalued, and as if the relationship never mattered to the texter. In fact, it's only one of many ways in which texting is more and more frequently causing damage in relationships. An ever-increasing amount of counseling sessions are spent on this very subject.

Arguments are frequently launched by a misinterpreted text message. As with email, tones can not be heard so statements made in a joking or otherwise congenial manner are often translated differently than intended... and then the heat is on. Texting creates havoc as people have entire arguments, ferociously typing messages back and forth, without ever actually speaking to one another. If this behavior applies to you, realize that you are basically having a one-way conversation because the only person you are really listening to is you. Don't fool yourself into thinking that the person on the other end is really listening to you either. Like you, they are primarily interested in their own retort. It is highly unlikely that any relationship problem will ever be resolved in this manner, and I have never known anyone to feel closer to the other person afterwards.

Another way in which texting creates problems in relationship is when people opt to text because they don't want to hear the person's response. For example, instead of calling to say "Honey, I'll be late for dinner," and hearing the disappointment or anger in his wife's voice, a husband may text the message instead. He doesn't have to suffer the repercussions, but his wife does. In this way, accountability is forsaken and feelings are disregarded.

On a similar note, unfaithful spouses text their spouse so as not to interrupt their liaison or upset the other man or woman. People who believe their current relationship is on the brink sometimes initiate sporadic text messages to a potential love interest, just to make sure they've got someone waiting in the wings.

And finally, text messages are used to test the waters of receptivity of a relationship. It demonstrates a tad of interest while minimizing the prospect of rejection, and has been known to be the impetus of extramarital affairs. Gauging interest in this manner can also mean that a relationship between two well-matched singles never begins because the interested party doesn't put forth enough effort

When partners are tediously typing when they could be talking to each other, the reason is often because at least one partner doesn't really want to talk to the other. It can be like purposely calling a person when you know they aren't home so you're sure to get the answering machine. While on many levels our high tech society facilitates communications on a grander scale, there are also ways it can lead to emotional disconnection from others – voicemail, email and now texting. It creates separateness and diminishes heart-to-heart, person-to-person connections. Don't let it happen to you. If you have teenagers who are caught up in the texting craze, talk to them about the potential consequences. Our culture is setting up the next generation to be increasingly disconnected, leading to superficial relationships which lack the depth of true intimacy.

"Break-up by text message is a curt, impersonal, disrespectful and cowardly way to end a relationship, and it happens more often than you think."

The person on the other end of a text message often wants to talk voice-to-voice, but is not speaking up about their desire and ends up joining their partner in what I think of as disengaged engagement. Before you start pressing keys, remember that you are basically having a one-way conversation and pause to consider the consequences. Ask yourself, how might the person with whom you are in relationship feel reading the text. Is there any possibility that what you text could be misinterpreted? Could the overall outcome as opposed to the short-term relief be negative? Could the text possibly be a self-absorbed maneuver to get out what you want to say without having to listen to your partner's response? Are you in any way being disloyal to your partner? Are you texting about your failure to be able to follow through with something that is expected of you? If you answer "Yes" to any of these questions, then use your voice to tell your partner instead.

Always exercise caution when texting. It's better to be safe than sorry. There are times when it is appropriate to text, such as to send loving sentiments. An "I Luv U," or "Can't Wait 2 Get Home 2 U," will brighten your loved ones day. A seductive text is great foreplay, but only if the message isn't interpreted as crude and if your partner is feeling loving towards you. A good guideline is to text partners only when the message will facilitate closeness. Otherwise...texters be wary!

ASK HER

My girlfriend swears she never farts. She's lying, right? Why do women refuse to admit they get gas?

Of course she's lying! Although I do have friends who I've known for five years or more and still have never caught letting one go (and two were college roommates). Holding in farts is just a normal, if challenging, part of female existence. Your girlfriend is probably afraid that if you knew she could work up a stink that could peel the paint off the walls, you'd find her less attractive. So would you?

I'm Considering growing a beard but wouldn't want it to get in the way of meeting girls. What kind of hair do women like the most?

Don't do it, man. By far, women prefer the clean-shaven look. Not only does a smooth mug show you groom yourself on a regular basis but it's 100 times more pleasant to make out with.

Mustaches make us wonder if you're gay or just horrifically out of touch with current fashion, goatees make us think you're a slacker or a meathead, and beards make us wonder what kind of face you're hiding under all that hair. One thing women do love, though, is a sexy, stubbly five o'clock shadow. I wouldn't recommend trying to maintain that look permanently—too Miami Vice. But after work or on weekends, it looks extremely hot.

How can I hit on a girl I want to sleep with without giving her the false impression I want a relationship?

Plenty of women are up for no-strings-attached action, so why not just skip the song and dance and make an old-fashioned pass? If she's clearly shown signs that she's hot for you, do your best Russell Crowe: Look her in the eye and say, "God, you are so attractive. I'm not looking for anything serious right now, but I'd love to hang out with you on a night when you're free." Honesty (combined with a little Hollywood confidence) is more of a turn-on than you know.

She flirts with me like crazy, but when I try something, she says she just wants to be friends. What the hell is she doing to me?

Jerking you around like you're some kind of half-man, half-slinky, if you ask me (and you did). Here's the thing: Flirting is a game, not a promise; so don't go trying to collect on it. As I'm sure you already know, we women love to flirt simply for the sake of flirting. It's not always because we're interested. And even if we are interested, we don't always want to do something about it. If she backs off when you come strong, take it to mean that she really just wants friendship, and leave it at that. Maybe she doesn't know what she wants yet...so giving her some space will also help her make up her mind. Ironically, the second you stop trying to get into her pants, she'll probably start trying to get into yours—but that isn't exactly a problem, now is it?

Do women notice what a guy is drinking? Do some drinks send a more positive message than others?

Most women do notice and make a few on-the-spot assumptions about you based on your beverage choice. In general, here's what the average bar babe is thinking:

Martini:

Martini-drinking males come off as conservative and egotistical, but also sophisticated. It's the classic choice for successful corporate types who are under a lot of pressure and want to take the edge off fast.

Mojito or Caipirinha:

Trendy international drinks make a man seem hip, discriminating, cultured, showy, and hard to please.

Vodka tonic or scotch on the rocks:

These and other manly bar standards say professional and appealing down-to-earth—you've got taste, but don't need to prove anything.

Beer: Expensive and/or obscure import beers get the same reaction as trendy international drinks. But your average domestic or popular import gives you a laid-back, relaxed vibe that most women love.

Daiquiri, pina colada, or kamikaze:

Concoctions typically found on a bar menu in Cancun make us think you're either underage or gay.

O'Doul's:

Bad news. You're either an A.A. member (too much baggage) or a teetotaler (too uptight). Unless... you have a pile of keys in front of you, which means you're the designated driver—and the kind of caring, responsible guy most chicks are looking for.

Digital Playground's newest girl on the scene is Riley Steele™, and she's a force to be reckoned with. On the outside it's easy to see why Riley earned an exclusive contract with the production powerhouse. She's an all-natural, athletic beauty with looks to kill, but they say it's what's in the inside that counts, and this girl has it going on there, too. She has an amazing, effervescent personality, and she is a perfectionist. She is bubbly, excited, enthusiastic, and full of life, and these amazing qualities shine through the moment you meet Riley.

A self-proclaimed lover of sex, Riley took the traditional route and lost her virginity to a long time boyfriend, but this true bisexual beauty had her first sexual experiences in the form of regular make-out sessions with a girlfriend.

Born and raised in San Diego, California, Riley Steele spent her days either on the beach or in an ice rink practicing her love of figure skating. Her dedication paid off, resulting in a toned and conditioned body that would eventually make her porn star dream job possible.

A purveyor of classy adult entertainment and a huge fan of Jesse Jane®, this cute and rebellious girl's ultimate dream was to follow her footsteps and become an internationally acclaimed sex symbol. She thought she would take that first step when she went to Hustler Hollywood to meet her idol Jesse during an appearance to promote the release of Pirates. Taken by her wholesome good looks and killer body, Jesse Jane told her that she had everything it takes to be a porn star. Riley took a business card and continued to ponder making her fantasies realities.

When Riley Steele went home she thought about making a life-changing leap, but that didn't stop her from continuing to enjoy life—dating, shopping, trips to the beach, working out, ice skating, venturing to the desert and river and enjoying typical comfort food. This all-American girl wears her DVS skateboard shoes by day, but isn't afraid to slip on some sexy, black stilettos when the California sun sets. Riley is always up for a good time, but she doesn't drink or do drugs. She does have one weakness—coffee. She's a self-proclaimed caffeine addict which led to her working as a barista at a local Starbucks. While she genuinely enjoyed serving java to the masses, she still had a craving for the bright lights of Los Angeles. Finally, she decided was ready to go for it and Riley pulled out the business card she had been safeguarding since the Pirates signing, and called Digital Playground's founder, Joone.

With fresh ink on an exclusive contract with the most prestigious adult entertainment company in the world, Riley Steele™ had the pleasure of meeting Jesse Jane® again. This time, it was on the set of the highly anticipated Pirates II: Stagnetti's Revenge, where they are co-stars. With Digital Playground behind her all the way, Riley launched her career at the very top. Appearing in a swashbuckling three-way, she delivered a scorching performance while remaining comfortable, poised and professional the entire time she was on set. Fans of Riley and the original Pirates will be blown away by her decadent debut. But this sexy fairy tale is far from over...

Riley's much talked about debut was in July's best selling movie Naked Aces 5, followed by a screen stealing scene in Pirates II: Stagnetti's Revenge. In 2009, look for Riley in the anticipated films Nurses, Riley Steele: Scream, and Jack's Teen America 23. Her immediate goals include taking home the AVN Award for "Best New Starlet," and working intimately with her fellow Digital Playground stars.

Riley wakes up every day with the stars still in her eyes even though she has achieved that long-time fantasy of becoming a Digital Playground contract girl, and according to her, that excitement will never end.

Don't tell Riley Steele dreams don't come true!

2008 LAMBORGHINI ESTOQUE CONCEPT

It is a Lamborghini like no other before it: a four-door sports car that sticks resolutely to its creed. The Lamborghini Estoque concept has everything that defines a Lamborghini: extreme, uncompromising and unmistakably Italian, it brings a whole new versatility to the brand's DNA – with its four seats and ample luggage space, this “everyday sports car” is a perfect fit for an equally versatile lifestyle.

Estoque is a study, a concept created specifically for the 2008 Salon d'Automobiles in Paris. From the very first glance there can be no doubt that this is a Lamborghini – a car with compelling presence, both unique and unmistakable. The long wheelbase, the low profile, the broad track, the mighty, accentuated wheels, the clean surfaces and razor-sharp definition – every single line breathes the spirit of the Lamborghini brand.

The Estoque is an entirely new interpretation of the Sant'Agata design ethic: it is a concept that provides a clear indication of the future. This applies to the new, elegant self-confidence of the lines themselves, but even more to the concept of the vehicle. The Estoque is the first sedan in the history of Automobili Lamborghini, although “sedan” is more a reference to the number of doors than any other characteristics. Even sports sedan is an inadequate classification: the Estoque establishes a new category of super sports sedans. With a powerful front mid-engine, permanent all-wheel drive and a sophisticated, precision-tuned chassis, the Estoque boasts a unique technology package.

2009 VOLKSWAGEN CC GOLD COAST EDITION

The CC Gold Coast builds upon the luxury sports coupe that debuted at the 2008 North American International Auto Show with luxury and performance extras like tri-coat paint, high-end interior appointments, and ground effects that enhance the sportiness of Volkswagen's newest sedan.

The unmistakable Volkswagen front-end, with two cross-struts and a centrally placed Volkswagen logo between trapezoidal headlamps is highlighted by the ground effects on the CC Gold Coast. The CC Gold Coast features DuPont's Pepe Pepper, which compliments the car's design characteristic with a rich mix of gold, brown and silver tones.

The rear end of the coupé is also marked by large-surface dual taillights that produce an unmistakable visual image day and night. A spoiler with additional rear-end ground effects helps further enhance the vehicle's sporty nature. The CC Gold Coast sits on 19-inch Lugano polished propeller style wheels, which provide a combination of sharp style and improved curb appeal. Volkswagen's attention to detail is shown off in the interior of the CC Gold Coast with four ergonomically formed sport seats wrapped in luxurious leather, a combination of Latte Macchiato, Cornsilk with Bronze Piping on the seats with matching accents on the dash and door trim.

With an eye on performance the CC Gold Coast edition features the 3.6L FSI, rated at 280 horsepower and 265lbs.-ft of torque, with the innovative DSG double-clutch 6-speed automatic transmission with Tiptronic®. The front brakes have been upgraded to the R8 Ceramic brakes and the vehicle rides on a KW coil over suspension.

2009 PAGANI ZONDA R

A Pagani Zonda is never shy of a drive at the racetrack, a fact that was undermined numerous times in the past with records for production vehicles at the Nurburgring Nordschleife. With the input of its avid track focused customers, the Pagani team has created the Zonda R using bespoke engineering solutions to meet the performance demands for a trackday version of the highly popular Zonda F.

The central monocoque is made of a Carbon-Titanium composite, increasing rigidity while reducing significantly the weight. Bolted directly to the chassis is the Mercedes AMG 6.0 litre race derived V12 engine, with 750 hp and 710 Nm of torque. A direct throttle actuation via mechanical cable ensures immediate throttle response.

The interior has been designed to offer a perfect environment for the driver. The controls are limited to the indispensable, but the quality finish reflects the usual demanding Pagani standards. The bespoke Toora seats are FIA homologated and comply to latest HANS standards, five-point safety belts and a CrMo roll-cage assure the occupants' safety.

The lucky owners of the Zonda R will experience a level of performance on the track, that is simply not possible on the road. A power-to-weight ratio of 701 hp-per-ton will catapult them from 0 to 60 mph in less than 2.7 seconds, the Brembo carbon ceramic brakes ensure the car comes to a standstill even quicker.

The Zonda R is built in a limited production run and sold at a price of 1.460.000 Euro plus taxes, a performance machine, a track toy, a collectors item, a masterpiece signed by Horacio Pagani.

2010 PORSCHE 911 GT3

The 911 GT3 offers an even higher standard above all in two key areas: performance and driving dynamics. Now the proven six-cylinder naturally-aspirated power unit develops maximum output of 435 bhp (320 kW), up 20 bhp over its predecessor. This results first and foremost from an increase in engine capacity by 200 cc to 3.8 litres and from the improved gas cycle: now not only the intake, but for the first time also the exhaust camshafts are adjusted by VarioCam.

A further important point is that, through its upgraded power and performance, the boxer engine also offers a significant increase in torque at medium engine speeds, a benefit of particular significance in everyday motoring. Clearly, this also means a further improvement in performance, the new GT3 accelerating from a standstill to 100 km/h in 4.1 seconds and reaching 160 km/h in 8.2 seconds. Top speed is 312 km/h or 194 mph.

The second highlight in developing the 911 GT3 to an even higher standard was to further improve the car's driving dynamics: For the first time the 911 GT3 comes with a particularly sporting variant of PSM Porsche Stability Management, offering the option to deactivate both Stability Control (SC) and Traction Control (TC) in separate steps.

The new GT3 offers even better grip and stability also at high speeds, specific modifications of the car's aerodynamics increasing down-forces both front and rear to such an extent that the overall pressure pushing down the car is more than twice as great as on the former model.

2010 ASTON MARTIN V12 VANTAGE

Aston Martin will present the most potent production sports car in the marque's 95-year history at the Geneva motor show on 3 March. Based on the hugely successful V8 Vantage, the V12 Vantage will feature a 6.0-litre V12 engine producing 510 bhp (380 kW / 517 PS), and 570 Nm (420 lb ft) of torque with a top speed of 190 mph (305 km/h) and 0-62 mph (0-100 kph) time of 4.2 seconds.

The latest incarnation of the Vantage family has been designed to provide a unique character, appealing to different driver tastes and complementing the other models in the current Aston Martin line-up.

The original V12 Vantage concept was unveiled to guests at the opening of the Aston Martin Design Studio in December 2007. Continuing the marque's impressive record of bringing concepts through to production, Aston Martin engineers have brought the V12 Vantage to market in an incredible 12 months.

Designed for the focused driver, every component of the V12 Vantage has been honed with pure driving enjoyment in mind. Benefitting from race-developed materials and components, and featuring lightweight carbon fibre; performance and agility have been tuned to perfection.

Visually enticing, the V12 Vantage expresses its performance potential through its purposeful stance created by enhanced aerodynamic and cooling aids optically widening the car, while retaining traditional understated Aston Martin design. Equally inviting, the cossetting interior permits the driver to extract maximum performance ability from the car while also enjoying customary levels of Aston Martin comfort on longer journeys. High levels of power and torque are available at all engine speeds making the V12 Vantage responsive and tractable in any driving situation.

WHY DOES EXERCISE INCREASE LIBIDO?

If your sex drive isn't what it used to be, don't be so quick to blame it on your age. The answer to a low libido may be as simple as putting on exercise shoes and moving your body more. It appears that exercise may be a simple, all-natural way to increase libido. Not only can it increase desire, there's some evidence that the increased blood flow associated with exercise can help with erectile dysfunction in men.

Why does exercise increase libido? The reasons exercise can give your sex life a boost is probably multi-factorial. Exercise gets the heart pumping and increases blood flow to all parts of the body including sexual organs which can enhance desire while enabling better sexual performance. Exercise also promotes weight loss and studies have shown that obesity is associated with a higher incidence of erectile dysfunction in men.

When you exercise, certain hormonal changes take place that can indirectly increase libido. When you swing into a face paced exercise routine your sympathetic nervous system kicks out higher levels of adrenaline, a hormone which pumps you up and heightens your sense of awareness. This helps to fuel a more powerful sex drive. Exercise also increases the release of the "feel good" hormones known as endorphins which can promote relaxation and reduce performance anxiety. Both of these powerful body chemicals can help to increase libido and enhance sexual performance.

Another way exercise increases libido is by fostering a greater sense of self confidence. When you exercise you become more aware of your body as well as more self confident about your appearance. This can cause you to be less inhibited and self conscious and more secure in your relationship.

An article published in American Fitness in 2004 showed that testosterone levels in men increase within an hour after working out. Women also produce low levels of testosterone and get a boost in testosterone production after a vigorous workout. Higher testosterone levels are associated with higher sexual desire.

One of the best ways to increase libido and enhance your sex life is to start an exercise program with your partner. Working out together can be a sensual, relationship strengthening experience. Choose something that both of you enjoy. Biking, jogging, and hiking are good ways to strengthen your heart while pumping out hormones that will enhance your sex drive. Lifting weights as a twosome can also bring you closer together while increasing testosterone levels. You can even find special workout videos designed specifically for couples by doing a search online.

Exercise is a safe and natural way to increase libido while doing something healthy for your body and your mind. If your sex life could use a little boost, why not do it the healthy natural way?

CAPRICORN: DECEMBER 22- JAN 19

This is a period when you can effectively carry out both your domestic and career obligations with productivity, growth, and practical decision making. The achievements you accomplish add to your self-acceptance and self-esteem. There will be an active interest in parental responsibilities and you are eager to prove to family members your loyalty and dedication. You have the capability to teach others the skills to be self-reliant, as well as provide them with the proper tools to succeed in the outside world.

AQUARIUS: JAN 20- FEB 18

This is a good time to work on personal as well as business matters. You may feel like doing something that stimulates your ego drives or get passionately involved in a special interest, project, or activity at this time. It is likely you will have enough energy and motivation to carry out your desires and ambitions. However, the urge to work independently or without much involvement with other people may be very strong now. Although this may be a productive period in which you can accomplish a great deal, it is still important to maintain close ties and relationships with others.

PISCES: FEBRUARY 19- MARCH 20

Your focus and mental concentration tends to be on your work or vocational pursuits. You may have a clearer picture of what is required of you, as well as how to achieve your objectives. Daily responsibilities can be successfully accomplished through increased dedication to your job. You can make some effective changes in your work environment as superiors and co-workers are more likely to accept your ideas and methods. Contracts and agreements are also favored now.

ARIES: MARCH 21-APRIL 20

This is a good time for relaxing recreation, a time to refresh and rejuvenate yourself and do the things you most enjoy doing. Good humor and optimism prevail now, and you are able to get a larger perspective on your life. This is also a good time to approach someone who is in a position to benefit you spiritually, intellectually, or materially. Loved ones may demand more attention from you now.

TAURUS: APRIL 21-MAY 20

Exciting developments in your career make this time period a very positive one. A jolt of enthusiasm and vitality into your work picks up your spirits and gives you much to be excited about. Now is the time to seek out more creative outlets, more exciting and interesting work. If your current work is boring and tedious, now is the time when you can break free from this inertia. The improvements may come in the form of promotions that provide greater freedom and creativity, transfers to a more liberal and progressive area, or a complete job change. Search out opportunities for more interesting and exciting work because the benefits do not always fall in your lap. Sometimes the opportunities can be very close at hand if you just avail yourself to them.

GEMINI: MAY 21- JUNE 21

Your mood is easygoing, agreeable, and tolerant at this time. In fact, you may feel downright lazy! Lounging around at home and relaxing or perhaps unwinding at the beach or lake appeals to you. If you are normally very high-strung, then take advantage of this time to recuperate, relax, and rejuvenate. If you normally tend to be lethargic, then try to maintain at least a modest activity level by going for walks or bicycling, for example, during this time period.

CANCER: JUNE 22- JULY 22

You tend to form relationships quickly and get sentimental about your love partners. Although you tend to go in for love affairs aplenty, you always feel dissatisfied; so does your partner if he/she can't understand you well. Use caution with new flames or you will forever burn out the one you care most for. The tyrant in you emerges, and you can be excessively willful, domineering, or compulsive about doing what you want to. You battle anyone or anything that is an obstacle to your individual freedom of action, and ego conflicts or a furious power struggle may ensue. Also, you can be unmerciful with yourself and your own weaknesses. You are compassionate, sympathetic, and highly emotional. You are impatient with people who honestly care for you the most and this is a hidden root that causes many of your problems. You feel more inhibited and uncommunicative, and you sense that others are not receptive.

LEO: JULY 23- AUGUST 23

This period brings about pleasant feelings between you and your mate. Your relationship will be emotionally satisfying to you, and there will be opportunities to grow closer to each other through expressing your deepest inner feelings. Although there is a protective quality about the relationship now, you can rely upon your partner to be trustworthy, devoted and appreciative toward you. You are attracted to the more traditional, committed style of companionship and may prefer to spend time with your mate in a secure and comfortable domestic environment.

VIRGO: AUGUST 23-SEPTEMBER 23

Attempting to pursue hobbies and interests that help you in your work and personal growth may be quite a challenge now. You may have difficulty applying your intelligence and will in situations which require clear thinking and productivity. Creative projects or analytical work is most likely impaired, perhaps through inadequate planning, or obstacles brought on by superiors or those in authority. You may need to develop a new method or system to achieve the results you desire at this time.

LIBRA: SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Your creative and mental insight is quite fertile during this period. You feel gifted, talented, imaginative, and inspired to expend your energies toward your goals. You easily receive help and cooperation through close associates, especially women, in fulfilling your creative visualizations. Your intuition can benefit you greatly, perhaps by an inner knowledge of the right time to approach others with your talents. Receiving an award or promotion for your efforts is possible.

SCORPIO: OCTOBER 23- NOVEMBER 21

You will have to work extra hard to achieve success in your career and creative aims. It is best to wait for a more opportune period to present your ideas and objectives to persons in positions of power or authority. If you are employed, you may have to modify or reorganize your current business affairs and responsibilities. There can be difficulties brought on by a heavy work load and an inability to perceive solutions to the challenges you encounter. This period may require adjustments to new conditions in your work environment. For example, a situation may demand that you step down from your position in the company, or a new executive joins the firm and designates added responsibilities and assignments to you.

SAGITTARIUS: NOVEMBER 23- DECEMBER 21

This is not a good time for fun-filled and exciting activities, so don't plan big parties and exciting events at this time. The mood is serious. A get-together with friends now is likely to end up being a serious discussion of work and responsibilities, which is not bad if this is what you want. However, too many entertainments at this time actually irritate you, as you are unable to forget about the pressures and concerns that need your attention. Try starting a new hobby or pursue a new interest.
