How to cook a Thanksgiving Turkey

hile there is no actual evidence that turkey was served at the Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving dinner, it has been a holiday tradition for families all over North America. Some speculate that the root of the turkey tradition is founded in a letter authored by William Bradford twenty two years after the event. The "History of the Plymouth Plantation", a letter to another pilgrim, detailed a governor sending four men out to hunt for fowl, returning with geese, duck, and turkey. The document was purportedly stolen by the British and rediscovered in the mid 1800's, when turkey became a popular dinner item. Since then turkey has been gracing the tables of North American families during the season of thanks. Cooking methods have evolved in the last 200 years; however few techniques rival the taste and texture of a traditionally baked turkey.

Thawing Turkey – Avoid Shortcuts!

Thawing a completely frozen turkey takes time. In order to prevent harmful bacterial growth on the skin of the turkey, always thaw turkey (or any other frozen meat) at temperatures below 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Allow about 24 hours for every five pounds of turkey to thaw in a refrigerator. Never attempt to thaw frozen meat on a countertop or anywhere else above this critical temperature. While the center of the meat may still be frozen, harmful bacteria are growing in any layer of meat that rises above the 40 degree "safe zone" for thawing meats.

Remove Innards –Save Them for Later Once the bird has been given ample time to thaw, the innards should be removed. Most store bought turkeys will contain a bag of "giblets" in the chest cavity. Other turkeys may contain the parts without a bag. Either way, removing the innards is important. Since the chest cavity contains the neck, liver, and other organs, failing to remove them can cause an undesirable taste that infiltrates the meat during the cooking process. Don't throw them away, however, as they are great ingredients for other traditional Thanksgiving recipes like giblet gravy, stuffing, and dressing.

Ingredients:

Frozen Turkey (10 lbs)
Butter or Margarine (2 Sticks)
Sliced Pineapple (Canned)
Whole Cherries (Can or Jar)
Onion (1, quartered)
Celery (2 stalks, sliced)
Salt (1 tbsp or To Taste)
Pepper (1 tbsp or To Taste)
Poultry Seasoning (2 tbsp or To Taste)
Parsley
2 Garlic Cloves, sliced
Olive Oil
Oven\Baking Bag*

Spicing and Marinating – For the Deli Sliced Look and Taste

When properly seasoned and cooked, a great turkey breast looks like deli sliced meat from a local butcher. More over, the taste of that slice should be faceted with both the taste of light meat and subtle flavors of spice. Add to this just a little crispiness from the skin of the turkey and we have mastered the perfect baked turkey. (For those that wish to remove the skin of the turkey, try a glaze to accomplish this effect.) This doesn't happen on its own, however. Much of the effect comes from what is done before the cooking process begins. Consider getting "hands-on" by rubbing spices and seasoning into the skin of the turkey. (Be sure to wash hands with an anti-bacterial soap for 60 seconds after touching raw meats.) This step should be done at least three hours and up to twelve hours prior to baking the turkey.

Instructions:

- Before applying spices, make small incisions in the skin of the turkey (don't slice the meat of the turkey) and insert sliced butter or margarine pieces on the upper portions of the bird between the skin and the meat.
- 2. Stuff the chest cavity, if preferred, with a favorite mixture of plain croutons, fruits, and spices.
- 3. Rub the skin of the turkey with 2 tbsp of olive oil
- 4. Rub all other ground spices and seasonings onto the skin of the turkey.
- 5. Arrange an oven bag inside an uncovered broiler pan, leaving the bag wide open.
- 6. Pour 1 cup of cold water or cold turkey\ chicken stock into the bag.
- 7. Arrange one half of pineapples, cherries, sliced celery and garlic in the bottom of the baa.
- 8. Place remaining ingredients inside the turkey, if no stuffing is present. Otherwise, place them around the base of the bird.
- Place seasoned turkey in the bag.
- 10. Tightly twist and fasten the opening of the oven bag.
- 11. Place the turkey in a refrigerator for up to twelve hours.
- 12. Pre-heat oven to 325 degrees F.
- 13. Remove from refrigerator and place in over, directly.
- 14. Bake the turkey at 325 degrees for 20 minutes per pound.

Marinating a turkey is about more than just basting once the bird is in the oven. Allowing seasoning to rest on and in the top layers meat before baking will bring out subtle nuances of flavor for which traditionally baked turkey is best known. Once the bag is sealed, do not open it.

This will protect the moisture that will self-inject into the turkey as it bakes.

A 10 lbs turkey will require at least 3.5 hours (200 minutes). Because an oven bag is utilized, no basting or maintenance is necessary during the cooking process. For crispy skin, remove the turkey 20 minutes early and open the oven bag. Set a timer and return the turkey to oven for the remainder of the cooking time. When the time goes off, remove the turkey and cover with foil until serving time.

RIOvalentine

The stunning and exotic Rio Valentine is Digital Playground's new girl on the block. At 19-years-old, 5'6" tall, and 115 lbs, the all-natural, tanned goddess looks like she stepped off a steamy Brazilian beach. With enchanting eyes, thick lips, and a flawless complexion, this gorgeous babe is ready to take the entertainment world by storm...a hurricane of sexual energy named Rio Valentine.

Rio Valentine is a Libra, a sign indicative of her sensual, flirtatious nature. The luscious flirt loves to dance with random strangers. While she is a fan of all styles of music, songs with a special place in Rio's heart are ones which make her hips sway and her fine booty shake. Besides dancing, the hottie is turned on by domination and confidence, but she frowns on inauthenticity. Rio is a submissive girl who wants nothing more than to be thrown down and ravished by guys and girls. Most of Rio's hobbies tend to lead back to sex, as she is ruled by her kinky fantasies and illicit thoughts. An online chat with new friends can quickly turn to dirty talking, her bikini conveniently floats away while swimming, and an afternoon of rollerblading transforms into a deviant romp behind some bushes. These nymphomaniac tendencies made entering the adult industry a natural path for Rio.

RIOvalentine

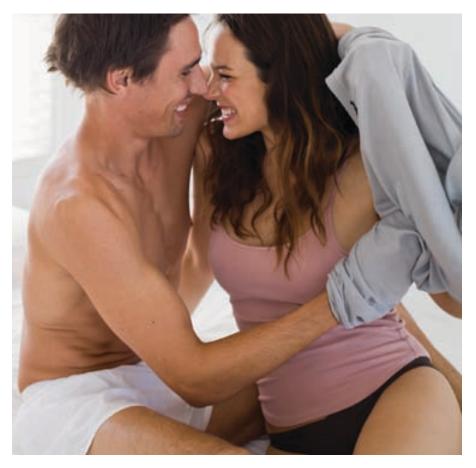

With a taste for fame fueling her, Rio saw an incredible opportunity to position herself at AVN's 2009 Adult Entertainment Expo. Sure enough, it was there Rio's unique look caught the eye of Joone, Digital Playground's Founder. Always interested in new experiences and rarely traveled paths, Rio jumped at the chance to work in adult entertainment as an exclusive contract performer for the company noted for blockbuster movie series like "Pirates" and "Island Fever".

Immediately accessible, the enticing Rio entered into a contract with Digital Playground in June of 2009. Wanting to capture her playful, exotic disposition, Joone chose the name Rio–Spanish for "river". Valentine describes the passion burning beneath her flesh, causing perpetual orgasms to ripple through Rio's body from the mere thought of filming her next scene.

To Rio Valentine, being a sex symbol is a dream job—one she takes very seriously. The constant stimulation is rewarding, but Rio also relishes the chance to leave a positive impression on the world by interacting daily with fans in person and online. In Rio's immediate future are magazine covers, best selling movies, and stardom, however Rio is taking her calling one step at a time and relishing every moment.

Rio Valentine's first movie, "Whore It Up" will release in the second half of 2009.

Falling in Love? Blame Your Nose

upid, take heed! You might want to revamp your image and replace the big red heart with another body part - the nose. There's evidence to suggest the schnoz might have more to do with initial physical attraction than does the scarlet pumper. Apparently, body fragrance is a major contributor to that heady, euphoric feeling we get when we fall in love.

We tend to think of fragrance as a personal preference, but before we can even develop a preference, that decision has already been influenced by physiology. Olfactory, or smellcells, are located high up in the nose and are stimulated by odor. When aroused, they transmit messages to the part of the brain that is connected to our emotions. Nature intended it this way as a sort of innate detective; an odor can certainly warn you when it's time to make a hasty exit, or know when a stranger has entered your space; but most often, it's those smellgood perfumes and colognes that promote an instant lure.

Fragrance doesn't always promote attraction; sometimes it repels. Take, for instance, the skunk; when his personal space has been invaded, he arms his defensive aroma trigger and instantly, all living, breathing, rational species will quickly get the heck out of his way. Thankfully, humans are a tad more discretionary about their spatial considerations. Most women wouldn't even consider dating a man who let off a round of fragrance from his posterior every time he thought they got a little too close.

Ah, but fragrance isn't the only culprit influencing our coupling inclinations. There is another motivator at work manipulating our sexual behaviors. This covert little cupid is a complex chemical substance known as a pheromone, and he's coded within our own personal DNA. Before the advent of artificial fragrance, nature apparently thought we might need a little help getting past some of "an odor can certainly warn you when it's time to make a hasty exit, or know when a stranger has entered your space; but most often, it's those smell-good perfumes and colognes that promote an instant lure."

the body's not-so-pleasant-aromas in order to procreate and populate the earth. Pheromones, chemicals excreted by humans and animals, and undetectable by the naked nose, appear to be linked to coupling; certain pheromones are highly attracted to each other. They are excreted in sweat, and depending upon the chemical reaction in the body to the sweat, the skin can produce its own aromatic fragrance. Humans, blessed or cursed with many bodily aromas, have sought for centuries to cover their individual fragrance; thus, the perfume industry was born.

In recent years, the industry has taken significant steps in identifying the male and female pheromones by reproducing them in laboratories and including them in their fragrances. They've tapped into the human's need to connect and therefore, they've managed, to some extent, to motivate our sexual behavior.

It's a fact: The sense of smell does affect our behavior. The next time you find yourself undeniably attracted to someone, tip your nose and notice the aroma. Is there one? If there is, their natural attraction is probably being enhanced by a trigger ingredient in a perfumed product. If you can find no aroma, well, then Cupid Pheromone is doing his work incognito.

9 SIGNS You're About to Be Fired

t will happen to everyone during their lifetime. The job you were going to have for the rest of your life is suddenly not yours anymore; it belongs to the new hire standing by your desk, waiting for you to take your stapler and leave. It may be a shock to find out you lost your job, but in hindsight there are often signs that the end was near. Here are the nine signs to look for; if several of them apply to you, it may be time to pull out those job listings.

1. Your company is undergoing a merge or reorganization.

This is a surefire sign that your job may be in jeopardy. When a company is undergoing swift and sudden changes, pink slips are soon to follow. If you hear that your department is going to be reorganized, and if your boss is let go, be ready for the fallout.

2. Your boss communicates with you by writing only.

Your boss used to have conversations with you, but these days he barely says one word to you. Instead of meeting with you to evaluate your progress or assign new tasks, he sends you memos and e-mails. And instead of praising you in the memos, he only criticizes your work performance. He is leaving a paper trail; your boss may use all of this documentation to make a case for your dismissal.

3. Your superiors have changed your job description.

Your bosses have reassigned all of your projects to your coworkers. Now you are stuck with those dead-end jobs that serve no larger purpose, or those dull and boring jobs no one else wants to tackle. Or your bosses need you to create a report detailing the current status of all of your projects: they will use this report to brief the new hire once you have left the company.

4. The tasks you are being assigned are impossible to accomplish.

Your bosses ask you to complete the work of twelve people without any help at all. Or they need you to complete a monumental task in one day. Your bosses are not just trying to challenge you; they may be setting you up for failure. If they need a reason to fire you, your failure to compete these tasks may be all the ammunition they need.

5. Your boss doesn't seem to trust you.

She questions every decision you make. She wants you to report back to her with any and all progress that you make on an assignment. She assigns you menial tasks and simple chores. All of this means that your boss no longer thinks you are capable of doing your job.

6. Co-workers are avoiding you.

In the same way that no one knows what to say at a funeral, no one knows what to say to someone about to get the axe. If coworkers stop their conversations when you enter the room, or if they refuse to look you in the eye when you are talking to them, there is usually a reason.

7. You were given a bad performance review.

Your bosses piled on the criticisms and ignored all of the good work you have done during the past few months. You've had a performance review every month, while other coworkers have had one every six months. If your bosses give you a warning during your review, they may be ready to fire you.

8. You're being left out of meetings.

You used to voice your opinions in meetings, but now no one even invites you. Instead, you watch the conference room meeting from your desk. Your coworkers are not keeping you up-to-date on current projects, and you have no news about future projects.

9. You hear rumors . . .

Often, rumors are more than just fodder for the water-cooler. If you hear rumors that layoffs are imminent, or that your bosses are about to fire someone, start dusting off those resumes. The truth is that no one is guaranteed a job for life. You may not be able to control how long you stay at a job. However, you can choose how you leave that job. If these warning signs apply to you, take action. Start looking for your dream job. Apply for a position with a company you have always wanted to work for, or change careers altogether. Don't wait to be fired from your current position; leave on your own terms.

DFS DESIGNATION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

ENCO GLADIATOR 700 PORSCHE CAYENNE

Up until the year 2002, it was completely unthinkable to most people in Germany, and especially to sports car fans, that Porsche would at some point in time make a sports utility vehicle. The name Porsche has always been synonymous with thoroughbred sports cars, in most cases rear or mid-engined. However, the Cayenne proved to have the recipe for success. In the 2003/2004 financial year it moved almost 40,000 units and was by far the most popular Porsche model.

The "Zuffenhausen Bull" also quickly became popular with tuners, as it offered, both visually and technically, an outstanding basis for monumental show and performance projects. Less well-known than the market leaders, Chemnitz-based ENCO Exklusive have produced probably one of the best Cayenne interpretations with their ENCO Gladiator.

What is not immediately obvious is the ENCO front apron right underneath the car with its huge air intake and its integrated rows of daytime running lights, another set of which can be found on the diffuser apron at the rear which has distinctive fins and a central opening for the exhaust pipe. The bonnet with incorporated air intakes is crafted out of carbon. Even less obvious is the roof spoiler with air flow openings and the widened side panels with recessed air vents which, along with the side skirts, make the Porsche appear more muscular and broad. Only Cayenne experts can really spot the aerodynamic styling just a few centimetres under the skirting-line at first glance. It's "well hidden", but forms a significant part of the dynamic performance of the ENCO Porsche. The two-tone black and Bordeaux red paintwork is also very classy.

BRABUS MERCEDES-BENZ E-CLASS COUPE

Making the new Mercedes E-Class coupe even sportier and more exclusive is the goal of the extensive tuning program from BRABUS (www.brabus.com). The pinnacle of the available performance tuning is the BRABUS 6.1 displacement engine. It has a rated power output of 462 hp (456 bhp) / 340 kW and propels the E 500 (US: E550) to an impressive top speed of 315 km/h (196 mph). Also on offer is an aerodynamic-enhancement program that was developed in the wind tunnel. Further highlights are custom-tailored wheels up to 20 inches in diameter, sporty yet comfortable suspension solutions and exclusive interior options.

A rated power output of 462 hp (456 bhp) / 340 kW and a peak torque of 615 Nm (453 lbft) at just 3,100 rpm are the result of the displacement increase of the four-valve V8 engine from 5.5 to 6.1 liters. 0 - 100 km/h (62 mph) in 4.7 seconds and a top speed of 315 km/h (196 mph): The BRABUS 6.1 displacement engine turns the E 500 Coupe (US: E550) into a true high-performance automobile.

The displacement increase of the eight-cylinder engine sells for 29,000 Euros. It is facilitated by the installation of a billet-steel crankshaft with longer stroke and larger pistons. Furthermore the four-valve cylinder heads are precision-machined and fitted with custom camshafts. The BRABUS sport exhaust system with high-performance metal catalysts also contributes to the impressive power output as do specially programmed engine electronics.

More driving fun with the turbodiesel models is available with the BRABUS ECO PowerXtra kits. For the E 250 CDI BlueEFFICIENCY BRABUS offers its D4 tuning kit. For just 1,390 Euros power output of the common-rail four-cylinder engine jumps from standard 204 hp (201 bhp) / 150 kW to 235 hp (232 bhp) / 173 kW. Peak torque grows to 560 Nm (413 lb-ft).

The V6 turbodiesel engine of the E 350 CDI BlueEFFICIENCY equipped with BRABUS ECO PowerXtra D6 (III) module produces 272 hp (268 bhp) / 200 kW and a peak torque of 590 Nm (435 lb-ft).

All engines are lubricated with ARAL high-performance motor oil and like all BRABUS components they are backed by the one-of-a-kind BRABUS Tuning Warranty! of three years, up to 100,000 kilometers or 62,000 miles (see BRABUS warranty conditions as of November 2006).

2010 ZAGATO PERANA Z-ONE

The sports car Perana Z-One signals the first collaboration of the Milanese Coachbuilders with a South African Vehicle Manufacturer: Perana Performance Group.

The Perana project is the result of Zagato's 90 year-long expertise in constructing fully functional running concepts. Virtual reality development has been integrated from inception, effectively eliminating the need for the traditional styling model and enabling the prototype to be completed in less than 4 months by the South African team.

As the latest descendant of the Zagato sports car family, Z-one is designed with full blooded Zagato form language.

Reflecting this pure passion from this brand new sports car specialist, the proportion and volume of Z-one is even tighter than usual sports car styling, accentuated by couple of long and dynamic curves with keen edge which visually integrate some important design features like the air outlets. Surfaces defined by those cutting edges are even more sculptured maintaining the modern Zagato line which we have been developing for a decade.

Following in the footsteps of Zagatols long tradition of masterfully designed cars, the Perana Z-One is no mere dream car, but a thoroughly practical and feasible production proposition that is expected to be available for sale to discerning European buyers by July 2009.

The Zagato Design Centre has styled the Perana Z-one to ensure it is built as a limited series production car. Sales will be limited to 999 cars per annum within Europe to assure exclusivity and to commemorate the 90 years of Zagato design.

2009 ASI FERRARI F430

ASI proudly announces the culmination of our first major project outside of the Bentley Continental series: the ASI Ferrari F430 body kit and performance line-up. Applying expert Japanese technical analysis, careful testing and a truly imaginative and spirited design is not only our business, it's our passion. Thoroughly tested both around the city and around the track, we are confident that we are releasing what will quickly become the tuning world's most important Ferrari F430 body kit.

Comprised of front bumper, side skirts and rear bumper, ASI's Ferrari F430 body kit offers aerodynamic performance identical to Ferrari stock parts but at a 27kg weight reduction, not to mention the easily distinguishable new ASI flare. Our rear bumper is compatible both with the F430's stock exhaust and ASI's new exhaust system, which will offer further performance enhancements via "Scuderia-style" centered exhaust tips.

The Chevrolet Corvette C6 Coupe belongs to the fastest production cars in the world. Just compare Corvette C6 performance with other premium class front engined coupes, like Alfa Romeo 8C, Aston Martin Vantage, Audi R8, BMW 650, Jaguar XKR, Mercedes SL 500 or SL 600, Ferrrari California - you name it, regardless the pricel INNOTECH makes the C6 even faster, lighter and more desirable.

SHELBY COBRA DAYTONA COUPE MKII CSX9000

The new CSX 9000 Shelby Cobra Daytona Coupe will replace the SPF Daytona Coupe and this famous marque will in future only be marketed as a Shelby product, I says Lance Stander, President of Shelby Distribution USA of Irvine, CA.

The new models are available with a fiber glass body or aluminum-body.

Every CSX 9000 series Shelby Cobra Daytona Coupe will be listed in the Shelby World Registry, making this new addition to Carroll Shelby's stable of sports cars a collector's dream. The new Coupe will feature Shelby signature door handles and seat covers, and the stopping power for the powerful Coupe will be provided by Shelby branded brakes.

Asked how the Coupe had had progressed from a Shelby-approved replica of the original World famous Shelby Cobra Daytona CSX2000 series Coupe, that in 1965 won the World Manufacturers Championship, Stander said market requirements had demanded that the new model be upgraded and improved in a manner that would make it worthy of the Shelby appellate.

A sports car with the heritage and image of the Coupe begged for improvements and new features to make it a worthy contender in the market in which it already is one of the most sought after contenders. This awareness led to the development of the CSX 9000 series, - says Stander.

In order to increase the clearance between the driver's head and the roof as well as between the driver's left hand and the A-post, the seats were repositioned and the steering wheel moved over to the right. This created a much more comfortable seating environment.

New external door handles do not mar the sleek look of the coachwork and facilitates entry without the use of a remote key, and the doors are fitted with electric windows.

The side air intakes behind the doors now form part of the rear panel behind the B-pillars with an added quarter vent style window. In addition to improved interior air flow, visibility has been significantly improved.

Gear heads will be delighted with the improved front and rear independent suspension. This development includes the replacement of the rose joints with ball joints, and the new design facilitates the adjustment of camber, caster and toe adjustment up front, as well as easy camber and toe adjustment at the rear.

2010 MANSORY PORSCHE PANAMERA

MANSORY Switzerland enhances the Porsche Panamera. The specialist for exclusive refinement of premium automobiles turns the four-door Gran Turismo into a power pack which is even more dynamic and exclusive and most of all has a significantly more distinct appearance.

Originally, the company owner Kourosh Mansory solely focused on British luxury cars, but meanwhile he has also proven his talent for Italian brands such as the Ferrari 599 GTB Fiorano and automobiles like the Mercedes-Benz SLR McLaren. After the Chopster Cayenne, the Panamera is already the second Porsche which is given the honour to become entirely modified by MANSORY.

Also, the new Porsche will receive an individual design language according to the MANSORY tradition. Its engineers produce the new aerodynamics components in high-strength polyurethane (PU-RIM) and Prepreg-Autoclav-Carbon, the characteristic material for MANSORY. As the car is lowered by 35 millimetres and equipped with new wheels measuring 9,5x21 and 11,5x21 inches as well as a sport exhaust system, the new personality of the Panamera becomes significantly more visual and audible.

In order to provide the driver directly with the experience of an automobile refined by MANSORY, the engineers included extensive refinements. A wide-spread leather interior can be individually matched with the most precious woods, finest varnish or dynamic carbon. The pedals made of brushed aluminium perfect the interior equipment. With the newly designed sports steering wheel, the driver can feel the elegance of the refined Porsche straight in his hands.

MANSORY Switzerland bestows an individual appearance to the Porsche Panamera. The complex refinement turns a sports car for journeys into a characteristic personality! after all a real MANSORY.

DREMEL 4000

Whether you're sanding, carving, engraving, cutting, polishing, or cleaning, you're going to want the Dremel 4000 ($80-$150). As Dremel's new top-of-the-line model, the 4000 is the company's best rotary tool yet, sporting a variable speed range of 5,000 to 35,000 rotations per minute, compatibility with all Dremel accessories, new motor technology to provide more feel with less effort, electronic feedback control to ensure consistent power, a 360-degree grip zone with pencil-grip nose cap, a separate on/off switch and speed dial, and more.

YETI COOLERS

If you need a cooler that can withstand damn near anything — including a run-in with a wild grizzly bear — look no farther. Yeti Coolers ($160-$1,100) are made using the same rotational-molding method used to make whitewater kayaks, and feature unbreakable hinges, ATV-tested rubber T latches, handles made from marine-grade nylon with a ribbed rubber grip, screw-in, gasketed, leak-proof drain plugs, and integrated padlock ports on both corners. Our 25-quart Yeti Roadie cooler has been the perfect size, and has gotten a ton of use (and abuse) this summer. One word-hardcore.

CUB CADET Z FORCE S

Whether you're a lawn care professional or just a guy with a big yard, you can get it cut quickly and greenly with the Cub Cadet Z Force S ($5,500-$6,500; 2010). As the first zero-turn riding mower with a steering wheel instead of lap bars, the Z Force S' wheel controls both the front wheels and the independently controlled back wheels for greater maneuverability, and boasts features like 48- or 60-inch triple-blade fabricated heavy duty decks, a dual hydrostatic transmission, and an optional liquid propane version.

DYMO LABELWRITER 450 TWIN TURBO

Take your labeling and mailing efficiency to the next level with the Dymo LabelWriter 450 Twin Turbo ($190). Sporting a dual-roll design, the 450 can hold both address and postage label rolls, automatically switching in between as needed, or can hold two of the same roll, switching to the second when the first runs out. With its blazing-fast 71 labels per minute speed, you'll be flying through those payroll checks or promo mailings in no time.

B&D POWER MONITOR

Looking for a way to monitor your energy usage and cut down on power bills during the economic crunch? Check out the Black & Decker Power Monitor ($100). This easy-to-use device provides real-time electricity use, cost, and out-door temperature readings, thanks to a wireless sensor that attaches to your electricity meter. Offering an Appliance Mode that isolates the cost of individual appliances or gadgets, it could save you up to 20% each month on your power bill — meaning it should pay for itself in no time.

MICROSOFT EXPLORER MINI MOUSE

Make sure your mouse will work anywhere your netbook or laptop can take you with the Microsoft Explorer Mini Mouse ($40). Boasting Microsoft's BlueTrack technology, the Mini works on surfaces that will give traditional optical and laser models fits, such as granite, carpet, and rough wood, and also features a four-way scroll wheel, customizable buttons, and a mini receiver that snaps in on the bottom for superior portability.

KA-BAR BECKER TACTOOL

If you can only carry one tool for personal defense/burglary, make it the Ka-Bar Becker TacTool ($140). The result of a collaboration between John Benner of the Tactical Defense Institute and Ethan Becker of Becker Knife and Tool, the TacTool offers a 7.75-inch blade, and works for prying open doors or windows, cutting, bashing out windows, lifting nails and hinge pins, and more

IS THERE ANY RIGHT WAY TO TELL A WOMAN THAT THE SEX WASN'T GOOD FOR ME?

No. Most women are so self-conscious in bed that they can't even have an orgasm in the first place. Tell your partner that sex with her is only so-so and she may never recover. Since women become better in bed the more confident they feel, criticism is counterproductive to creating a sex kitten. Instead, passionately praise the one or two things she happens to do well, then offer soft-spoken, playful suggestions about the moves you'd like her to try. Take turns performing the same sexual favor on each other. Go first and show her what you like by example (or at least by approximate example). During sex, say things like, "Wow, that feels amazing. I bet it would feel crazy good if you did it a little softer/harder/faster/slower." But whatever you do, don't be negative--unless you want to see a naked woman cry.

I PREFER TEXTING. WHY ARE WOMEN SO INSISTENT ON A MAN CALLING?

As a primary form of communication, texting is a little lazy. I know what you're thinking: It's fast and efficient, the opposite of lazy. But women want a sense of how you're feeling at any given moment instead of trying to squeeze a drop of emotion from a few letters and numbers. We want intimacy. And texting makes it seem as if intimacy is something you might be trying to avoid

WHERE IS THE SEXIEST PLACE FOR A MAN TO HAVE A TATTOO?

The sexiest tattoo, in my mind, is the Red Hot Chili Peppers symbol that lead singer Anthony Kiedis has inked on the inside of his right forearm—a thick, boxy asterisk located by his wrist. A tattoo, especially an abstract one, on that part of the arm comes across as introspective and mysterious. It's as if he wants to remind himself of a commitment or ideal on a daily basis, rather than make an announcement to the rest of the world about his strength or character. To me, that's about as sexy as a tattoo can get.

HOW IMPORTANT IS IT TO A WOMAN FOR THE MAN SHES HAVING SEX WITH TO HAVE A NICE BODY?

When a woman opens her eyes during sex and sees a man's ripped abs in action, it's definitely hot. Seeing a large, doughy mass jiggling in all directions is decidedly not. But neither experience makes or breaks sex for a woman. When it comes to building a woman's arousal and bringing her to orgasm, it's the finesse with which a man kisses and touches, sucks and thrusts that counts. That said, excess flab will definitely detract from a woman's eagerness to rip off a man's clothes, whether she's a stranger in a bar or his wife of 10 years. And during sex, it's like an occasional spritz of water on her sexual fire: It cools it a bit, which is a bummer, but it by no means puts it out

LEAVING THE TOILET SEAT UP: REALLY, WHATS THE BIG DEAL?

The truth is that most women who make a fuss about whether the seat is up or down don't really care about the seat. (Any girl who sits without looking gets what she deserves.) It's just a symbolic gesture we use to gauge how considerate you are in general. If you take the time to lower the seat, you'll probably also take the time to call if you're going to be late, offer your jacket when it's cold, or run to the store at 3 a.m. when we're pregnant and hankering for butter pecan.

DESIRESCOPES

CAPRICORN: DECEMBER 22- JAN 19

Positive influences allow you to work through certain difficulties in a love relationship or personal matter. Healing and resolution of particular issues can begin by opening your heart to giving and receiving more love and acceptance in a relationship now. A current partner or someone special who comes into your life at this time can bring you new awareness and understanding of your innermost feelings and values. You tend to draw to yourself the aid and guidance needed to remove blocks in your mental, emotional, or spiritual life.

AQUARIUS: JAN 20- FEB 18

You might feel self-conscious or lack trust in expressing your creative and talented abilities. As a result, indecision or uncertainty can interfere with or hinder your progress on goals and objectives at this time. A weakly planned project or work activity can cause frustration or not reflect your true intentions, as mental confusion may cloud your good judgment. You might have difficulty in situations which require you to use tact, diplomacy, and patience. Try to respect your intuitive impressions, as they can help give warning of circumstances, people, or things you should avoid at this time.

PISCES: FEBRUARY 19- MARCH 20

You feel a little less ambitious and aggressive than usual, and your attention focuses more on global issues and philosophical topics. The little details of your life seem less important than the overall purpose of life and the ideals by which you live. You feel relaxed and somewhat detached from everyday activities as more abstract and idealistic concerns become more important to you. You are generous and compassionate and are likely to offer your services to charitable organizations. You may also donate money to those in need. There is a tendency to be lazy and lethargic. You can gain a lot of weight and get out of shape physically. If this occurs, you will find that an inspirational book or movie can motivate you.

ARIES: MARCH 21-APRIL 20

Your drive for personal power, achievement, or control over your life is very strong at this time. The tyrant in you emerges, and you can be excessively willful, domineering, or compulsive about doing what you want to. You battle anyone or anything that is an obstacle to your individual freedom of action, and ego conflicts or a furious power struggle may ensue. Also, you can be unmerciful with yourself and your own weaknesses. You are likely to push yourself much too hard.

TAURUS: APRIL 21-MAY 20

This is an excellent time for personal relationships and friendships. You are able to share feelings, interests, and concerns openly and honestly with others. You find that you can be more candid than usual without insulting or being rude to the other person. The reverse is also true; you are more willing and ready to receive suggestions from others. If there is a person you feel uncomfortable with, or with whom it is difficult to communicate, this is an excellent time to break the icy wall between you and clear away the confusion. Even if your relationship with spouse, family members, and close friends is already very open and loving, you will still find that this is a time when you can gain an even greater appreciation, love, and respect for them

GEMINI: MAY 21- JUNE 21

This is a positive and fortunate time for business pursuits and career goals. Your goals and ambitions are molded into concrete reality at this time, and you have a vehicle for reaching your destination. Assistance can take many forms, such as a pianist finally obtaining a new, better piano to replace the old one, an artist or craftsman moving into a house that provides a better studio or workshop, or an enterprising business person landing a contract to undertake a major project. In one way or another, this is a time when you find ways to implement your dreams. The benefits do not come to you on a silver platter. It is up to you to use the tools and materials that are made available to you. Now you have the chance to do more and advance. Take full advantage of the opportunity and apply yourself energetically. You can carve out a much better life for yourself at this time.

CANCER: JUNE 22- JULY 22

This time period is excellent for any kind of research or in-depth study. The nature of your studies depends on your personal interests, but whatever area you pursue, you pursue with intensity. You become fully engrossed in your mental pursuits now. Your concentration is strong and you can become so engrossed in your "detective work" that you cannot stop until you have found the information or answer that you seek. This astrological influence is especially good for specialized work; you deepen your understanding in a specific area that you already have some experience in rather than broaden out into new areas.

LEO: JULY 23- AUGUST 23

You may be considering a major overhaul or revision in your ambitions at this time. If you do not have a sense of meaningful purpose or a passionate commitment to anything, you will want to reassess where you are going and why. If you do have a clear goal, you can make significant progress and work with great satisfaction now. An opportunity to do what you really want to do is likely. Your vitality and self-confidence are high, and you can achieve your goals with much more ease than usual. You enjoy vigorous physical activities, competitive work or sports, and meeting challenges.

VIRGO: AUGUST 23-SEPTEMBER 23

Romantic involvements and social activities can be primary concerns for you at this time. You find pleasure and enjoyment when you are intensely and emotionally involved in something meaningful and fulfilling. Existing love relationships are benefited through faithfulness, warmth, and devotion. You may find a safe haven in the security of a love union to uplift or distract you from any unpleasant issues in your life. Also, your work can be a source of satisfaction to you as well. Job-related goals and financial activities are productive or promising at this time. If you are unattached or single, you may have an opportunity to mix business with pleasure or meet a suitable mate through your employment.

LIBRA: SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

You may need to make sacrifices and adjustments in your marriage or significant relationship. Since you are more apt to view your partnership in an unrealistic light, it will be difficult to make important decisions. But this is a time when you have to let go of the fantasies and illusions you have and make a more truthful evaluation of the current happenings in your partnership. If you have been overly dependent or leaning too heavily on your mate for reassurance, they may demand that you change your behavior. If you choose not to abandon the unhealthy conduct, either it will be forced upon you at this time, or you may set yourself up for deceit or disappointment in the relationship. Or if you sacrifice a great deal of your own personal needs for the sake of your companion, you may decide you have to be less passive and submissive now.

SCORPIO: OCTOBER 23- NOVEMBER 21

Your enthusiasm and knowledge can draw new people and experiences into your life now. Your most constructive efforts will most likely be successful when you join forces with others on a common goal, project, or creative interest. Communications with friends, relatives, and associates will provide motivation, insight, and encouragement toward the fulfillment of your plans and designs. In all of your talks and dealings with others, you are eager to impress them with your ideas and opinions. Someone who reaches out to guide or assist you now could prove to be invaluable.

SAGITTARIUS: NOVEMBER 23 - DEC 21

At this time, you will enjoy the comforts and protection of your marriage or intimate love relationship. There is a great deal of affection, care and devotion that you feel toward your mate and you will have plenty of opportunities now to express your satisfaction. Cooperation is easily obtained in the area of joint finances or assets. The desire for togetherness, unity and sharing pleasure is highlighted. If you are not married or in a committed partnership, then you will want to seek companionship now. Social activities can provide favorable circumstances for meeting a potential love interest. One-to-one relations and encounters may be very romantic and harmonious.
