10. EXERCISE & YOUR LIBIDO

If your sex drive isn't what it used to be, don't be so quick to blame it on your age. The answer to a low libido may be as simple as putting on exercise shoes and moving your body more.

14. TEXT MESSAGING DISCONNECT

Today's relationships are being affected by text messaging, and often in negative ways. Break-ups and arguments by text are only two of the ways texting leads to disconnectedness in relationships. This article explores how texting can negatively impact relationships and suggests how to text in ways that nourish relationships instead.

16. JESSE JANE

A superstar in her own right, Jesse Jane® is an all-American blonde, green eyed, sultry girl originally from Ft. Worth, TX. In three short years she ascended from Hooters® manager to Hawaiian Tropic® pageant winner to international fame with a Digital Playground contract.

32. DESIRED CARS

Everyone dreams of owning an exotic car, we will show you the best to drool over.

38. SAVE YOURSELF

You don't need to be a financial expert to realize that the economy is in dire straits at the moment. This isn't just something that is confined to one country – economies all over the world have to deal with this global recession after years of growth.

NIKE AIR RATE GOLF SHOE

Not everyone's golf game is cut out for the country club scene, so why wear country club-style shoes while you're on the course? The Nike Air Rate Golf Shoe ($110) is a more sporty option for the weekend duffer, featuring molded spikes for stability, laser-cut perforations and mesh lining for superior breathability, a granite and green color scheme, and, of course, Nike Air cushioning in the heel.

RICHARD MILLE RM 027 NADAL WATCH

It would be pretty tough to own the clay like Rafael Nadal, but at least now you can tell time the same way. The Richard Mille RM 027 Nadal Watch ($525,000) is the swingin' Spaniard's new signature timepiece. It features a movement made from titanium and LITAL alloy, a high lithium content alloy containing aluminium, copper, magnesium and zirconium — which you can also find in the Airbus A380 — a free-sprung balance to stay reliable despite shocks, a hand-drawn upper face, a 48-hour power reserve, and an ultra-light polycarbonate strap.

DODOCASE

Protect your iPad from extinction with the DODOcase ($50). Handmade in San Francisco, the DODO features a precision carved tray to securely hold your iPad while allowing for access to ports and controls, and a Moleskine-style design made from faux leather using traditional book binding techniques that protects your screen when closed, folds back to double as a stand, and uses an elastic strap to keep things closed when you're on the move.

USB FLASH DRIVE CUFFLINKS

Carry your important documents, photographs, or corporation-robbing viruses on you in subdued fashion with these USB Flash Drive Cufflinks ($200). Each cufflink houses a mini flash drive with 2GB of storage, giving you 4GB of wristready space to store whatever data you need. Available in polished, gunmetal, or rap star/music mogul-approved gold finishes.

COACH TRANSATLANTIC CARRY-ON

Globe trot in style with the Coach Transatlantic Carry-On ($650). Made from premium glove-tanned leather that will gain patina and character with age, this well heeled bag features two inner pockets and one outer pocket, fabric lining on the interior, a zip-top closure, sturdy leather double handles, an adjustable, removable shoulder strap, and polished nickel-finished hardware.

BAXTER 45TH ANNIVERSARY RAZOR

If you haven't noticed, we dig black around here. So it's no surprise that we're enchanted by the Baxter 45th Anniversary Razor ($345). Produced in a limited run, this commemorative cut throat razor features a handmade, blackened Hart Steel blade, a special black Horse Butt Leather sleeve from Makr Carry Goods, and a black handle to round out the darkness, which is broken up only by the 14k gold inlay "45" on the spine.

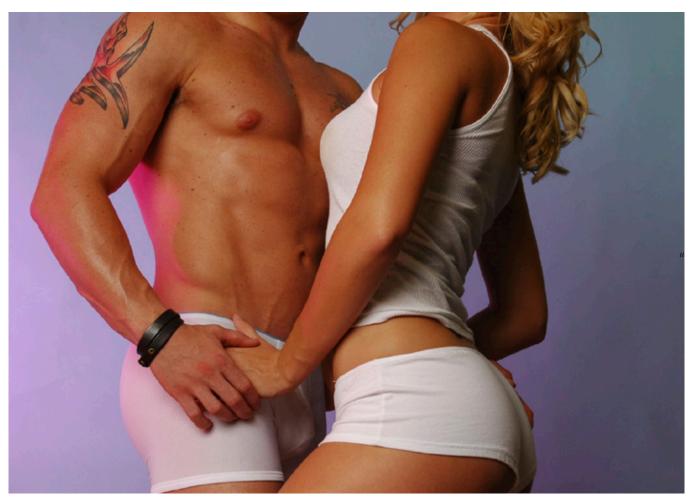

SPY DIRTY MO SUNGLASSES

Before he hops in his National Guard/Amp/Sponsor of the Week Chevy to hopefully run 600 miles around the track at Charlotte on Sunday, Dale Jr. will be signing autographs, doing interviews, and generally milling about in his Spy Dirty Mo Sunglasses ($100). Built to Junior's specifications, these signature shades are a tobaccocolored bronze, with Toric ARC lenses, tapered stems, and silver accents. Remember: it's not where you finish, it's how you look doing it.

WHY DOES EXERCISE INCREASE LIBIDO?

f your sex drive isn't what it used to be, don't be so quick to blame it on your age. The answer to a low libido may be as simple as putting on exercise shoes and moving your body more. It appears that exercise may be a simple, all-natural way to increase libido. Not only can it increase desire, there's some evidence that the increased blood flow associated with exercise can help with erectile dysfunction in men.

Why does exercise increase libido? The reasons exercise can give your sex life a boost is probably multi-factorial. Exercise gets the heart pumping and increases blood flow to all parts of the body including sexual organs which can enhance desire while enabling better sexual performance. Exercise also promotes weight loss and studies have shown that obesity is associated with a higher incidence of erectile dysfunction in men.

When you exercise, certain hormonal changes take place that can indirectly increase libido. When you swing into a fast paced exercise routine your sympathetic nervous system kicks out higher levels of adrenaline, a hormone which pumps you up and heightens your sense of awareness. This helps to fuel a more powerful sex drive. Exercise also increases the release of the "feel good" hormones known as endorphins which can promote relaxation and reduce performance anxiety. Both of these powerful body chemicals can help to increase libido and enhance sexual performance.

Another way exercise increases libido is by fostering a greater sense of self confidence. When you exercise you become more aware of your body as well as more self confident about your appearance. This can cause you to be less inhibited and self conscious and more secure in your relationship.

An article published in American Fitness in 2004 showed that testosterone levels in men increase within an hour after working out. Women also produce low levels of testosterone and get a boost in testosterone production after a vigorous workout. Higher testosterone levels are associated with higher sexual desire.

One of the best ways to increase libido and enhance your sex life is to start an exercise program with your partner. Working out together can be a sensual, relationship strengthening experience. Choose something that both of you enjoy. Biking, jogging, and hiking are good ways to strengthen your heart while pumping out hormones that will enhance your sex drive. Lifting weights as a twosome can also bring you closer together while increasing testosterone levels. You can even find special workout videos designed specifically for couples by doing a search online.

Exercise is a safe and natural way to increase libido while doing something healthy for your body and your mind. If your sex life could use a little boost, why not do it the healthy natural way?

▼ LOST: THE COMPLETE COLLECTION

Relive the exploits of Jack, Hurley, Kate, Sawyer, Sayid, Locke, and the rest of the crew over and over again with Lost: The Complete Collection ($230-$280). Containing every episode from all six seasons of the show, this definitive set also includes over 30 hours of bonus materials taken from each season's individual release, a full disc of exclusive bonus material including new featurettes, documentaries, and cast-driven tours of Oahu, and collectibles including a "Senet" game, a custom island replica, an episode guide, an Ankh, and a black light pendant.

JAMES BOND'S 1964 ASTON MARTIN DB5

We're not sure whether we'd call it the "World's Most Famous Car" — we'd think that might go to something more universal, like the Mirthmobile — we'd still be more than happy to drive around in James Bond's 1964 Aston Martin DB5 ($5 million). Hitting the auction block this October at the Automobiles of London event, this classic sports car is one of only two featured on screen during Goldfinger and Thunderball, complete with Bond's machine guns, a bullet-proof shield, revolving number plates, a removable roof panel, and smoke screen, all controlled via toggles mounted in the arm rest. Chilled bottle of Dom Perignon '53 not included.

There's streamlined, and there's the Strand Craft 122 Yacht ($TBA). This amazingly futuristic super yacht sports a gorgeous exterior, a posh art deco-inspired interior with niceties like 52-inch LED TVs, Bang Olufsen sound systems, four staterooms, and salon areas, over 14,000 horsepower capable of driving the craft to speed over 50 knots, and an included handcrafted supercar with a 880hp twin turbo V12 engine. If only it included a beach house and a stately countryside mansion, it'd be the ultimate "lotto winner goes apeshit" package.

XBOX 360 (SLIM)

Time to ditch your aging, power brick-tethered 360 and replace it with the new, slimmer, quieter Xbox 360 ($300). In addition to a gorgeous, angular new case, the new 360 features a whisper-quiet design, built-in 802.11n Wi-Fi, a 250GB hard drive, and an included wireless controller and headset.

₹ PANASONIC PRO TWIN-LENS 3D CAMERA

Sure, you've seen it before, but that doesn't make it any less amazing. (This official announcement does, however, make it a little less illegal.) Taking a huge leap from the past three iterations, iPhone 4 ($200-$300) makes up for the past six months of killer Android releases with features like an Apple A4 processor, app multitasking, 7 hours of talk time, a backlit 5-megapixel camera with an LED flash and 720p video recording (and iMovie), a front-facing camera for FaceTime video calls, an eye-popping 960 x 640 Retina display, an all glass and stainless steel body, and a profile that's skinnier than the latest winner of America's Next Top Model.

It sure as hell took them long enough, but Gran Turismo 5 is really, finally coming to the PS3 — and you can celebrate the occasion with the Gran Turismo 5 Collector's Edition ($100). It includes a copy of the 3D-capable game, a 1:43 scale diecast 2009 Nissan GT-R Spec V, a GT keychain, a voucher for five downloadable high-end cars, a 300-page guide covering everything from car history to driving techniques. November can't get here fast enough.

▼ BACON EXPLOSION

No, that's not a euphemism for your expanding, bacon-filled waistline, nor a pork-fueled early morning blowout on the porcelain. Instead, the Bacon Explosion ($30) is something much worse — yet so much better at the same time. Simply put, it's a bacon-stuffed, bacon-wrapped Italian sausage, covered in Kansas City-style barbecue sauce and rub, and cooked to perfection before being shipped straight to your door. If that sounds like too little work for you, full instructions are available online, that call for no less than four pounds of pig. Enjoy.

THE DISCONNECT IN TEXT MESSAGING

by Amy Warren, LMHC

It's 8:30 p.m. on a Saturday night. Susan is sitting by the phone hoping to hear from her boyfriend Mark, whom she expected to be dining with at this moment. She anxiously grabs the phone when she hears the alert of a new text message. She reads, "Think we should just be friends...Talk 2 U later." It's the latest version of a Dear Jane letter (the female equivalent of a Dear John letter), but even worse. Break-up by text message is a curt, impersonal, disrespectful and cowardly way to end a relationship, and it happens more often than you think. Believe it or not, it's adult relationships that are ending by text. The rejected party is left feeling dismissed, de-valued, and as if the relationship never mattered to the texter. In fact, it's only one of many ways in which texting is more and more frequently causing damage in relationships. An ever-increasing amount of counseling sessions are spent on this very

Arguments are frequently launched by a misinterpreted text message. As with email, tones can not be heard so statements made in a joking or otherwise congenial manner are often translated differently than intended... and then the heat is on. Texting creates havoc as people have entire arguments, ferociously typing messages back and forth, without ever actually speaking to one another. If this behavior applies to you, realize that you are basically having a one-way conversation because the only person you are really listening to is you. Don't fool yourself into thinking that the person on the other end is really listening to you either. Like you, they are primarily interested in their own retort. It is highly unlikely that any relationship problem will ever be resolved in this manner, and I have never known anyone to feel closer to the other person afterwards.

Another way in which texting creates problems in relationship is when people opt to text because they don't want to hear the person's response. For example, instead of calling to say, "Honey, I'll be late for dinner" and hearing the disappointment or anger in his wife's voice, a husband may text the message instead. He doesn't have to suffer the repercussions, but his wife does. In this way, accountability is forsaken and feelings are disregarded.

On a similar note, unfaithful spouses text their spouse so as not to interrupt their liaison or upset the other man or woman. People who believe their current relationship is on the brinks sometimes initiate sporadic text messages to a potential love interest, just to make sure they've got someone waiting in the wings. And finally, text messages are used to test the waters of receptivity of a relationship. It demonstrates a tad of interest while minimizing the prospect of rejection, and has been known to be the impetus of extramarital affairs. Gauging interest in this manner can also mean that a relationship between two well-matched singles never begins because the interested party doesn't put forth enough effort

When partners are tediously typing when they could be talking to each other, the reason is often because at least one partner doesn't really want to talk to the other. It can be like purposely calling a person when you know they aren't home so you're sure to get the answering machine. While on many levels our high tech society facilitates communications on a grander scale, there are also ways it can lead to emotional disconnection from others – voicemail, email and now texting. It creates separateness and diminishes heart-to-heart, person-to-person connections. Don't let it happen to you. If you have teenagers who are caught up in the texting craze, talk to them about the potential consequences. Our culture is setting up the next generation to be increasingly disconnected, leading to superficial relationships which lack the depth of true intimacy.

The person on the other end of a text message often wants to talk voice-to-voice, but is not speaking up about their desire and ends up joining their partner in what I think of as disengaged engagement. Before you start pressing keys, remember that you are basically having a one-way conversation and pause to consider the consequences. Ask yourself, how might the person with whom you are in relationship feel reading the text. Is there any possibility that what you text could be misinterpreted? Could the overall outcome as opposed to the short-term relief be negative? Could the text possibly be a self-absorbed maneuver to get out what you want to say without having to listen to your partner's response? Are you in any way being disloyal to your partner? Are you texting about your failure to be able to follow through with something that is expected of you? If you answer "Yes" to any of these questions, then use your voice to tell your partner instead.

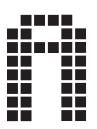

Always exercise caution when texting. It's better to be safe than sorry. There are times when it is appropriate to text, such as to send loving sentiments. An "I Luv U." or "Can't Wait 2 Get Home 2 U." will brighten your loved ones day. A seductive text is great foreplay, but only if the message isn't interpreted as crude and if your partner is feeling loving towards you. A good guideline is to text partners only when the message will

BEST MADE POCKET AXE

Clocking in at nearly a foot long, the Best Made Pocket Axe ($95) isn't actually going to fit in your pocket, but it is a lot more portable than some of the company's other offerings. It features a steel head with a branded hickory handle, leather wrist strap, and hand painted end. Perfect for areas in which nonchalantly carrying around an axe will win you admiration instead of weapons charges.

SPYDER III PRO ARCTIC SERIES LASER

Not satisfied with the world-dominating green beam of the Spyder II GX Laser, Wicked Lasers has upped the ante with the new Spyder III Pro Arctic Series Laser ($200). Billed as "the world's first 445nm direct blue diode laser," this new portable menace boasts almost a full 1W of power — compared to just 200-300mW for the II GX — a battery life of two hours from a single charge of the Lithium Ion cell, an aircraft-grade aluminum body, and included safety goggles, which you'll need when operating "the most dangerous laser ever created." Take that, Death Star.

BHEESTIE

We try to be careful with our gadgets, but even the most diligent protectors can be thwarted by a slip from the shoulder while relieving themselves, or by an errant step on a lake- or riverside camping trip. Consider Bheestie ($20) your backup plan. This moisture-absorbing stuff comes in a handy, resealable bag that lets you toss your soaked silicon in and retrieve a dry, hopefully functional device. Unfortunately, it can't un-trigger a moisture sensor, so you'd best hope that iPod or iPhone didn't get too drenched.

LEATHERMAN STYLE CS

Meet the iPod shuffle of multi-tools. The Leatherman Style CS ($20) is a pocket-friendly (or clip-on) multi-tool offering a ton of utility in a tiny package. Tools include scissors, a knife, nail file, flat/phillips screwdriver, tweezers, and a handy carabiner clip that doubles as a bottle opener. No silly proprietary charging/sync cable required.

STUD 4 SURE

The C.H. Hanson Stud 4 Sure ($12) is the first we've used that consistently works, time after time. It requires no battery power or calibration, instead using über-powerful rare earth magnets to pinpoint the location of screws or nails in the stud — so powerful, in fact, that it will hang hands-free on the wall — leaving no doubt as to where you should be hammering or drilling. Beware searching Google for it, however, lest you find "drilling" of a whole other kind.

JOHN DEERE GATOR XUV 8251

Haul ass all across your (or your neighbor's) property aboard the John Deere Gator XUV 825i ($TBD). Proclaimed the fastest, most powerful Gator ever built, the 825i sports a 50 hp, 815cc inline 3-cylinder engine good for speeds up to 44 mph, all-new front and rear independent suspension systems, 1,500 lbs. of towing capacity and 1,400 lbs. of payload capacity, with a 16.4 cubic foot cargo box featuring 20 integrated tie downs — perfect for getting rid of that irritating lawn gnome once and for all.

HUSQVARNA 355FX FORESTRY SAW

You mostly see people in movies clearing their way through the forest with a machete or some other longish blade, but if you have more than just a subtle path to clear, it's time to call in some professional-strength tools. Like the Husqvarna 355FX Forestry Saw ($1,200). Using ergonomically-angled bicycle handlebars for control, the 355FX clears away even the densest of brush with a meaty X-Torq engine, a 22-tooth wood cutting blade that's angled for more effective trimming, thumb-operated throttle, and a jetpack-like Balance XT harness to make sure you stay in control at all times

HOW CAN I TELL IF SHE LOVES ME OR JUST LOVES THE ATTENTION?

What has she done for you lately? When a woman is falling for a guy, she can hardly stop herself from baking his favorite desserts or reading up on the topics he never stops talking about. No matter how busy she may be, the urge to please the object of her affection takes over. If this girl soaks up your time and energy but isn't giving much back, she probably isn't smitten.

WHY DOES SHE DRESS SEXILY FOR WORK BUT NOT FOR ME?

It isn't unusual. Clothes are serious business for women at work. From designer heels to trendy accessories, the more put together we are, the more professional we appear. And in today's culture, looking good is synonymous with looking hot (female CEOs seldom wear sack dresses or Naturalizer flats). Of course she isn't going to go to all that trouble at home. Would you put on a suit just to hang out on the couch with her?

MY GIRLFRIEND'S FRIEND IS HITTING ON ME. SHOULD I SAY SOMETHING?

God, no. In keeping with her duplicitous personality, she'll probably swear that it was you who hit on her. (Rent the movie Vanilla Sky if you need to be reminded just how vindictive a scorned woman can be.) Your safest option is to scramble. When she slithers into a room, walk to the other side. And, if you get trapped talking to her, make sure the only words that pass from your lips to her ears are "I'm not interested." Without your attention, it shouldn't be long before she grows bored and starts working someone else's man.

THE GIRL I'M SEEING HAS SUDDENLY GOTTEN MOODY AND DIFFICULT FOR NO REAL REASON. WHAT'S UP?

I know exactly what you're talking about, and it drives me nuts, too – even when I do it myself. You'll be happy to know that it's just a test. She wants to see if you'll be able not just to put up with her, but to actually love her when she's at her worst. And she's probably not even conscious she's doing it. It's definitely an immature, self-defeating maneuver. But if you know why she's doing it, maybe it'll be easier for you to tune out the tantrums the next time around.

MY GIRLFRIEND SAYS I'M THE BEST SHE'S EVER HAD IN BED. HOW DO I KNOW IT'S TRUE?

Look, my boyfriend tells me I'm the most beautiful girl in the world. I seriously doubt that. But of all the faces on the planet, he prefers mine, because I'm the one who regularly listens to his problems and makes him plates of nachos with two layers of chips and cheese. The reward center in his brain lights up more for me than when he's watching Evangeline Lilly slither through the jungle in a sweat-soaked tank top. Even if you're not the best she's ever had (but maybe you are!), you're absolutely the one she most enjoys making love to. And that's even better.

ALLURE TAMPA'S ONLY UPSCALE MODELING ESTABLISHMENT

CHALLENGER SRT-8 COMPRESSOR BY O.CT

How to change a cylinder capacity monster into a fighting jet? By putting in a turbine! With this the project was born for the O.CT Oberscheider Tuning team. O.CT Tuning adopted the project and mounted a compressor-kit into the Dodge Challenger SRT-8 for ventilatory assistance.

With skillful interventions into the motor control unit – adapted to the installation of the compressor-kit (incl. intercooler system) – it was possible to get fantastic 550 hp and 682 Newton meters from the 6.1 liter Hemi. The forwards push starts with a noticeable pressure into the seat. This pressure transforms into brute elemental force already at low speed – comparable to the start of a jet. The unleashed power is supported by a ingenious sound coming out of the compressor.

Outwards the power becomes obvious through an optimized O.CTTuning stainless steel exhaust system. At low speed this system allows pleasant traveling.

However if you press the gas pedal the exhaust system screams everything out of the four pipes to show who is the champion of all cylinder capacity classes.

Through this O.CT Tuning reaches driving values from the top league. This makes a modification from the original AMI-suspension to a KW-coil over suspension necessary. The coil over suspension has a positive effect on the driving behavior and the deceleration from airspeed.

To keep the Retro Design Look and the surprising effect on the motorway O.CT Tuning abstained from optical actions like rims, facings, etc. specifically.

The Chrysler 300C Hemi SRT-8 is the opposite, even though the modification is possible in the same size of course. However the optic was set up to a "Show-Car" and upgraded through O.CT rims with the dimension 10x22". The spraying in black-mate gives the car a unique touch.

2010 GTA SPANO

"There was a time without time, where the moon shone high in the sky. One night, absent-mindedly, she approached the Earth and got caught in the branches of a tree.

From the Darkness, a wolf appeared, projecting its Majestic shadow on to the hill. Howls and moonlight were witnesses of their relationship. But all stories come to an end, and the wolf returned to the wood while the Moon climbed back up into the sky".

As legend has it on this magical night, the wolf caught the shining of the moon in its eyes, and the moon stole the wolf's shadow to be dressed at night. Since that time, the wolf howls at the Moon for it to return his shadow."

Following the example of the large automobile industry companies, an animal figure was chosen as the GTA symbol, in this case the wolf being a symbol of light which represents the qualities of strength and courage. Besides, this animal happens to be the symbol of the coat of arms of the founder's and company owner's surname, Domingo Ochoa. Of aquitano origin, the surname Ochoa comes from Otxoa, and from the word Otxoa, meaning wolf. The logotype also depicts a red and white chequered flag, these being the distinguishing marks of GTA Motor with more than 15 years' motorsport competition behind it.

With the Spano´s construction, GTA Motor intented to go down in history in Spain and around the world, by following with the legend of sports cars manufactured by other Spanish mythical makes. Nowadays they are considered masterpieces, and are very much appreciated by collectors and at times, are of an incalculable value. Spano was born as the fastest and most powerful automobile ever built in Spain for commercial purposes. In short, it is the car that will mark an era.

» 1935-1936 Mercedes-Benz 150 Sports Roadster

n February 1935 the then Daimler-Benz AG presented the Mercedes-Benz 150 Sports Roadster (W 30 series) at the International Automobile and Motorcycle Show (IAMA) in Berlin. The new car was positioned in the model range as a compact sports car with the potential for a bigger series – but in the end only a very few examples were actually built. The exact number is unknown.

The 150 was one of a succession of distinctive Mercedes-Benz vehicles in the early 1930's. Against the backdrop of the generally difficult economic situation at the time they were created with the intention of completing the lower end of the product portfolio. At the same time they are examples of the consistent implementation of innovative vehicle concepts throughout the long history of Daimler AG.

In 1934 the four-seater Mercedes-Benz 130 (W 23), the first series-produced car of the brand with a rear-mounted engine, appeared. In that same year the two-seater 150 model with mid-engine was built as a so-called Sports Saloon – today we would call this a coupé or sports coupé – especially for the "2000 Kilometres Across Germany" long-distance rally. In 1936 the four-seater Mercedes-Benz 170 H (W 28), with rear-mounted engine, debuted as the successor to the 130.

The two-seater Mercedes-Benz 150 Sports Roadster presented in 1935 is based on the engineering of the 150 Sports Saloon. It also has a midengine: to improve axle load distribution the drive unit engine-cum-transmission is rotated through 180 degrees; the engine is in front of the rear axle, the transmission behind it. Compressed air cooling enables the use of a smaller radiator since an engine-driven, encapsulated fan forces the cooling air through the radiator. The small rectangular radiator is located behind the engine, over the rear axle.

The engine can be regarded as a high-performance unit: with a displacement of 1.5 litres it produces an output of 40 kW – a very remarkable figure for the time, which even many a bigger-displacement engine could not deliver. The top speed of the Mercedes-Benz 150 Sports Roadster is put at 125 km/h, which is unusually fast for the 1930's.

A sales brochure praises the vehicle as a "spirited sports car" and emphasises the qualities of the sports engine and the excellent power-to-weight ratio. "One horsepower carries the burden of only 19 kg! This explains why the 150 has an acceleration in all gears that is almost a match for that of a supercharged car." The Mercedes-Benz 150 Sports Roadster remained in the official sales line-up until 1936.

2010 PROJECT KAHN LR FREELANDER RS200

Following on from the hugely successful Project Kahn Range Rover Sport RS600 and the Project Kahn RS300 powered by Cosworth, it was an inevitable progression that the prestige automotive design house, Project Kahn would eventually place their signature stamp on the Land Rover Freelander.

The Freelander as the junior member of the 4x4's most aristocrat family; Land Rover, continues to be the nations favourite SUV with its combination of car-like dynamics and smart styling explaining their popularity.

Taking inspiration from the Project Kahn Range Rover Sport RS600, the Freelander RS200 has received an extensive makeover from the king of aesthetic conversions Afzal Kahn.

The Freelander RS200 modifications include features which are unrivalled in today's market, including to the exterior; Kahn 20" RS wheels and tyres, matt black signature bonnet stripe, silver door handles, door mirror caps, front bumper vents, body coloured style vents, side sills, front grille surround and smoked side repeater's.

Climb aboard the RS200 and you'll find modifications including black quilted leather interior with contrasting white stitching complete with RS200 logo's, steering wheel with white contrast stitching and Kahn red and white speedo and rev counter.

As with all Project Kahn cars, the RS200 accessories are available as standalone pieces. Afzal Kahn; the CEO of Project Kahn comments: "Customising your existing car, is a great alternative, cost effective way for owners to upgrade".

2010 RZ ULTIMA CONCEPT BY RACER X DESIGN

Sub 10 seconds runs up the strip, quickest acceleration from 0 to 100 mph, quickest deceleration from 100mph to 0. We all know the Ultima GTR. Performance that makes any production car trail behind where it counts: Around a track!

The RZ Ultima concept is intended for those who want all the performance that the GTR offers but with a more refined look. Even if this is still in design phase, we believe it has the potential to be the ultimate supercar.

Based on top of the GTR existing chassis, the styling was designed to leave the chassis and running gear untouched. This is what Racer X Design thinks a supercar should be. Extremely quick, stylish, and unique. The RZ Ultima promises all these qualities and mor

ABOUT RACER X DESIGN

Racer X Design is a company that has designed and built some of the best show cars in the business. >>2011 Porsche 911 GT2 RS he future top GT model marking the absolute climax in the 911 range is the fastest and most powerful road-going sports car ever built in the history of Dr. Ing. h.c. F. Porsche AG, Stuttgart. With power up by 90 hp and weight down by 70 kilograms or 154 lb in comparison with the 911 GT2, the new 911 GT2 RS has a power-to-weight ratio of just 2.21 kilos or 4.9 lb per horsepower, by far the best power/weight ratio in its class. Obviously, these are the ideal ingredients for an ultra-high-performance sports car with supreme agility, truly blistering performance on the road, and of course exemplary Porsche Intelligent Performance. For despite this extra power and performance, fuel consumption and CO2 emissions versus the 911 GT2 are down by approximately 5 per cent to 11.9 ltr/100 km (equal to 23.7 mpg imp) and 284 g/km.

The 3.6 litre six-cylinder boxer engine boosted by two turbochargers with variable turbine geometry exclusive to Porsche in its combination with a gasoline engine drives the rear wheels via a six-speed manual gearbox. Developed especially for the 911 GT2 RS, sports tyres measuring 325/30 ZR 19 convert this massive power into equally massive performance and acceleration on the road: 0 to 100 km/h in 3.5 seconds, 0 to 200 km/h in just 9.8 seconds, and 0 to 300 km/h in 28.9 seconds. Top speed is 330 km/h.

Equally supreme stopping power on this ultra-high-performance sports car comes from PCCB composite ceramic brakes. Appropriate longitudinal and crosswise dynamics are ensured by the sporting RS set-up of the springs, PASM Porsche Adaptive Suspension Management, anti-roll bars, as well as the engine mounts and PSM Porsche Stability Management.

In its looks the new 911 GT2 RS stands out clearly from the 911 GT2 above all through the lavish use of carbon-fibre-reinforced (CFR) components in matt-black surface finish, even wider wheels and flared wheel arches at the front, new 911 GT2 light-alloy wheels with central locking, as well as "GT2 RS" model designations on the doors and rear lid. The upgraded front spoiler lip and the rear spoiler lip made of CFR and now 10 millimetres or almost 0.4 inches higher, again in surface carbon finish, ensure the right aerodynamic precision as well as extra downforce.

The interior also exudes the flair of sporting performance in virtually every detail, featuring lightweight bucket seats made of carbon-fibre-reinforced plastic in carbon surface finish and lightweight door panels with door opening straps. The basic interior colour is black, contrasting attractively with features such as the seat centre sections and the roof lining as well as segments on the steering wheel rim. The gearshift and handbrake lever are both finished in red alcantara.

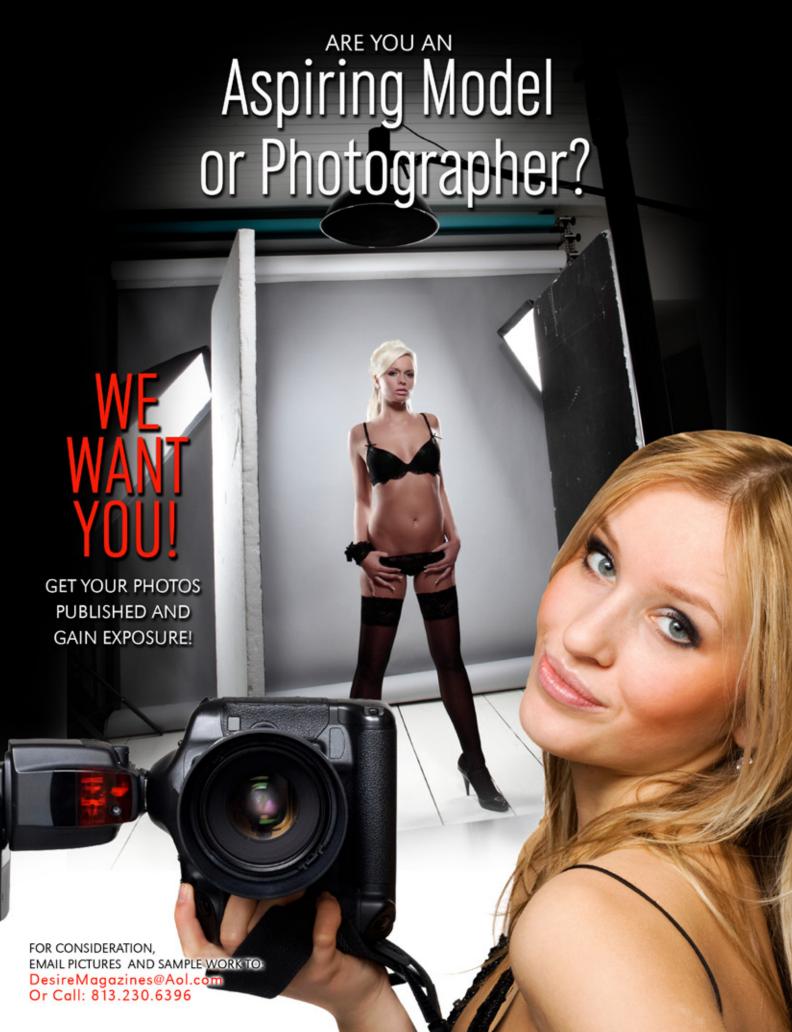

Limited to just 500 units, the 911 GT2 RS will be available in Europe from September 2010, in the USA from October 2010. The Euro base price is 199,500.-Euro. Including VAT and national specifications/equipment the new 911 GT2 RS will retail in Germany at a price of 237,578 Euro ou don't need to be a financial expert to realize that the economy is in dire straits at the moment. This isn't just something that is confined to one country — economies all over the world have to deal with this global recession after years of growth. But, what does this actually mean for you? Well, the chances are you've spent years spending and no time saving which could leave you in an uncomfortable position. If you fall victim to the recession and have no savings to fall back on then you could be in for a stressful time unless you take action.

The majority of people at the moment have at least some concerns about the negative effects that the recession might have on their lives. Some worry about being laid off, some have concerns that their employer might go out of business, some worry about being able to meet their mortgage commitments and others simply worry generally that they may not be able to cope financially.

Although some people have already experienced some of these events, for most this is now a waiting game. At this stage in the recession nobody is quite sure just what might happen to them nor are they quite sure what to do. This often leads to a lack of action when a better solution would be to do something proactively to protect themselves in the event that something untoward does happen.

The primary thing to remember is that anything that happens to you in a recession can be weathered a lot more easily if you have some cash behind you. Experts recommend that individuals look to set up easy to access savings that will cover them for a specific period in case they do get laid off, for example. Recommendations vary here from expert to expert but you should be looking at a minimum of three months salary to be on the safe side.

Great as this sounds in principle, it's a lot harder to put into practice. Over the years where we only experienced economic growth, we learned that spending was good and credit was all too easy to arrange. For a long time we had the mind-set that the future will take care of itself. The problem is the future is now here and it needs help! For many people, all over the world, this means reduced incomes, tightened budgets and no real savings to fall back on.

But, the good news is that this is not a situation without hope. Virtually anybody can learn how to start saving again. Take a look at five simple steps that could ease the pressure:

Assess your financial situation: Your first job is to work out exactly how much money you have to spend each month. For most people this will simply be their salary. If you do have any other regular income then include that too.

Assess your current essential expenses: We all have certain things that we have to pay for. This might include your mortgage or rent, utility bills, food costs, vehicle running costs and so on. Add all of these expenses together.

Assess how much you have to spare: If you subtract the amount that you worked out in Step Two from that of Step One then you will be left with your 'spending money'. This figure is the one you will be concentrating on to try and save money.

Assess where your money goes: Think hard about how you spend your money and where. The majority of people can make quite significant savings here simply because they do not realize how much money they waste. For example, buying a coffee on your way to the office every morning may not seem like much more than small change. Try adding it up on a weekly and monthly basis! If you even make a few small savings here then your cash will soon mount up. money rather than spending it.

So, set up a savings account and, once you've worked out how much you can save every month, have that amount automatically transferred into it. You can always access it in an emergency, most importantly, you can't waste it if it is not easily accessible.

Assess what you have spare: You need to start regularly saving

The most important thing to remember here is that starting to save now, even if you feel secure, might well save you a lot of stress later. Changing from a spender into a saver could be the best move you ever made.

Over half of the hospitals in the largest 65 Metropolitan areas in the U.S. have reported that they offer alcohol beverage service to their patients.

Alcohol does not destroy brain cells. Moderate consumption of alcohol is associated with improved cognitive functioning.

Choosing not to continue drinking anymore may be a bit hard at a gathering. However, you can choose a number of beverages that look like alcoholic drinks. They include tomato juice, lemonade, iced tea, water and ice cubes, club soda with orange juice, tonic water with a twist or wedge of lime, and either orange juice or 7-Up with grenadine. Let's toast!

High protein foods help slow the absorption of alcohol into the body. They include cheese, peanut butter, peanuts or any kind of red meat.

Elected officials in Mexico's Oaxaca state receive one free case of tequila every month for the duration of their terms.

Here's a tip if you'll be driving after drinking. Know that the alcohol's effect can be limited by not drinking more than 1 drink each hour.

Alcohol abstinence leads to increase risk of heart diseases. Simply put, not drinking any alcohol increases a person's chances of suffering heart diseases.

Moderate consumption of alcohol does not appear to contribute to weight gain.

Many of the health benefits of alcohol consumption are lost if it is not consumed on a regular basis.

The original purpose of mint juleps appears to have been medicinal.

In the United States Pharmacopoeia, alcohol is listed as medicinal.

Almost 2.5 times more teenagers in the US were current consumers of alcohol in 1979 than in 1997 (50 % vs. 21 %).

A mixed drink containing carbonated beverage is absorbed into the body more quickly than straight shots.

In medical research literature, long term heavy drinking mothers will result in Fetal Alcohol Syndrome.

The signature mixed drink served on board the Hindenburg was called the "Flaming

All 13 minerals necessary for human life can be found in alcohol beverages.

Some present day Germans eat a breakfast of red meat and bananas to help cure a hangover.

Nearly a dozen states with a .08 BAC level have proposed reducing this level to .06 or lower. Washington State has proposed to make even .02 illegal.

CAPRICORN: DECEMBER 22- JAN 19

Emotional and intense confrontations may arise within your family or personal life. Contain your need to control the people you love and care for. You may feel an urgency to shelter and protect these individuals, but circumstances occur now that threaten the security you deem necessary. For example, one of these people may force you to alter your current living situation by leaving home, or you may find love relationships breaking up due to jealousy and control issues. There may be a disagreement regarding the discipline and rearing of children in the household, which further aggravates an already tense situation. On the other hand, transforming experiences can occur now, such as your dealing with grief and sorrow and letting go of loved ones or of your most cherished ideas and desires.

AQUARIUS: JAN 20- FEB 18

You are more prone to delusion and deception in your work environment at this time. You may be putting in a great deal of time and effort toward a specific task, only to discover you might not receive any compensation or rewards for your labor. Circumstances can arise that cause misunderstandings or misconceptions about the work you are attempting to accomplish. For example, a boss or one of your peers may give instructions for a project or undertaking where you might be unable to clearly define or understand what is required. Or conditions prevail where you must sacrifice your ideals and personal concerns in order to hold the job. Even if you become overly engrossed in your work, you should still make every attempt to remain attentive to your intimate relationships; otherwise, your indifference will be quite disappointing to your loved ones.

PISCES: FEBRUARY 19-MARCH 20

You need freedom to act on your impulses at this time. You have a personal drive to be more assertive, competitive, pioneering and independent. You tend to take risks, break rules, and put untried plans and methods into operation. This can be an exciting period for taking decisive action; however, you are also prone to selfish behavior, mostly aimed at gratifying your own desires. You may face a crisis of loyalties in a romantic or professional partnership. Furthermore, you may also find a new perspective on sexuality, seeking more variety or novelty in your relationship. There is also a possibility that you will experience conflict or struggles with others, either by intentionally provoking an argument or by being on the receiving end of someone else's hostile or aggressive behavior. Positively, if a confrontation arises, you may be able to find a healthy way to release suppressed anger, stemming from unresolved past issues, or you may express your own aggressive tendencies in a more appropriate manner.

ARIES: MARCH 21-APRIL 20

Frustrations and obstacles in your relationships with others arise at this time. You feel like others do not really understand you and do not cooperate with you, and that to do anything right, you have to do it yourself. Weak points in your relationships to others reveal themselves, and you find out that others often are not there to help you when you need them most. Those few people that you do feel in rapport with now become even more important to you and become even closer friends.

TAURUS: APRIL 21-MAY 20

Underlying the changes that occur now is your need to break free from ingrained patterns in your life. You seek excitement and change rather than routine living. Relationships and patterns that have fallen into a comfortable niche are not enough for you now. Even if you are not aware of the need to make changes, they will occur anyway. An important relationship may break up, form, or undergo radical changes. You may change jobs or become part of a different circle of friends and acquaintances. This is certainly a time to experiment with anything new, but be careful about what you throw out because you can easily be gripped by the feeling of urgency in the moment, and later regret your decision.

GEMINI: MAY 21-JUNE 21

You will have to learn at this time to be more flexible and tolerant of your partner's individual needs. Friction and tension can develop in the relationship if you are not able to accept each other's own uniqueness. You must be able to let your mate express his or her personal goals, even if they cause changes or adjustments that are not to your liking. When problems arise, you should attempt to find solutions together instead of blaming the other for the situation. You may be well aware of your partner's hidden strengths and weaknesses, but you should avoid any attempt to manipulate or control their behavior.

CANCER: JUNE 22- JULY 22

There may be a lot of activity surrounding work and professional pursuits at this time. You may feel obsessed with getting some work accomplished; however, you may discover you only run around in circles and get very little done. Your daily work routine might need to be rearranged or reorganized because of petty inconveniences or obstacles during this period. Tension and minor disagreements with co-workers or close associates is also possible. Since most of your work efforts leave less time for your personal life, you can find yourself making excuses to loved ones, relatives, and friends who wish to connect with you. This is an excellent time to eliminate whatever is unnecessary and outworn in your life from clutter and disorder in your environment to an unhealthy relationship or even a long-held attitude or belief which keeps you from going after what you really want in life.

LEO: JULY 23- AUGUST 23

Differences in styles, personal tastes, aesthetic appreciation, or values is an issue in your life at this time. You may feel unloved or not valued due to differences in the way you and a significant other express affection. In social situations, you may well feel out of place, awkward, and ill at ease; perhaps you run into an old lover or are in a social setting which is distinctly different from the one you are familiar with. You are apt to be conciliatory and gracious about making adjustments and concessions, but you feel rather uncomfortable internally. Conversations, negotiations, meetings, responding to letters and phone calls, and communications of all kinds are important activities now. A significant discussion or exchange of information is likely. This is a good time to get the views of someone you respect.

VIRGO: AUGUST 23-SEPTEMBER 23

Inattentiveness, disinterest, or a sense that something is lacking in your romantic life or a current love affair may be indicated now. It is likely that interests, obligations, and involvements outside your relationship are fulfilling some of your needs now; therefore, difficult rifts and tension can occur between you and a lover or mate. There is a tendency to be indecisive or wavering in your commitment and reliability as far as love and romance is concerned now. This time period can coincide with a temporary break or separation from a loved one. It may be necessary to make a heartfelt effort to give more time, devotion, and appreciation to your relationships without sacrificing your own needs and desires in the process.

LIBRA: SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Mental, creative, and intuitive awareness is accented during this period. This is a favorable time to discover unique and unusual ideas and approaches for making improvements in your problem-solving, creative endeavors, or intellectual pursuits. Activities connected with friendships, groups, or social concerns can involve brainstorming sessions, networking, drawing up new plans and strategies, or linking up with others in a special interest, such as taking a class in art or business or in an academic or creative field. In your private life, loved ones and friends may be drawn to you for inspiration, guidance, and wisdom at this time.

SCORPIO: OCTOBER 23- NOVEMBER 21

Someone is likely to offer you a very promising opportunity at this time, or you may have an offer for someone else that you think will be mutually beneficial. The offer seems like a "deal" that can lead to tremendous growth and success, and yet you wonder if it is too good to be true. Because there are risks involved, it is impossible to know whether the offer will work out well, and you consequently are likely to feel uncertain what to do. In truth, there is definitely the potential for opening up new avenues for success and fulfillment, but there is also a tendency to overshoot the mark due to overoptimism and a willingness to gamble and speculate. The best course is usually to proceed with some kind of plan, but to thoroughly investigate all details as much as possible and to avoid wild speculation.

SAGITTARIUS: NOVEMBER 23 - DEC 21

This is a good time to distinguish yourself from others and make your abilities widely known to the people who count. Let others know of any new ideas or undertakings you have been contemplating. The favorable feedback you get from the people in your surroundings will give you more assurance and confidence. Take this time to reinforce your view of yourself and foster positive feelings in order to overcome any past insecurities or failures. Reflecting on and acknowledging your good qualities will help strengthen your self-esteem. A goal or vision you have been working toward comes into fruition now, or gains momentum and positive recognition from others. You feel expansive and inclined to take risks, and you may be overly extravagant now.
