

EDITORIAL

As we move into Volume 4 of Glycoconjugate Journal we see no major changes in policy. We shall continue to publish quarterly, at least throughout 1987, although the gradual increase in the number of acceptable papers should result in larger issues. Bimonthly publication is the goal for 1988.

During this year we intend to publish a number of minireview articles. These should be structured to give a comprehensive review of a rather specialised area of interest, or else be an update of recent progress on a larger topic. Suggestions are welcome!
