

International Glycoconjugate Organization (IGO) award for 2015

Published online: 13 May 2014
© Springer Science+Business Media New York 2014

The International Glycoconjugate Organization (IGO) is accepting nominations of glycoscientists who have clearly advanced the field of glycoscience and show promise of continuing advancements. The award (US$4,000) will be presented at the XXIII International Symposium on Glycoconjugates (GLYCO 23) scheduled in Split, Croatia, from September 15–20, 2015. The awardee will present his/her accomplishments at GLYCO 23. Travel expenses of up to US$1,000 will be provided.

Nominations should preferably be submitted as a single PDF file electronically (or alternatively as six hard copies) and should include the curriculum vitae with bibliography and supporting letter summarising in detail the accomplishments of the nominee. Institutional or self-nominations will not be accepted.

Nominations must be submitted by Saturday 15th November, 2014 to the IGO President:

Jianxin Gu
Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology
Basic Medical College
Fudan University
Address: Mailbox 103, 138 Yixueyuan Road,
Xuhui District,
Shanghai, P.R.China. 200032
Email: jxgu@shmu.edu.cn

International Glycoconjugate Organization (IGO) Young Glycoscientist Award for 2015

The International Glycoconjugate Organization (IGO) is accepting applications from early career glycoscientists who have advanced the field of glycoscience and show promise of further achievements. One award (US$1,000) will be presented at the XXIII International Symposium on Glycoconjugates (GLYCO 23) scheduled in Split, Croatia, from September 15–20, 2015. The awardee will present his/her accomplishments at GLYCO 23. Travel expenses of up to US$1,000 will be provided.

Candidates should already have their PhD/DPhil, but may apply no later than 6 years after receiving their doctorate (in case of parental leave, this limit can be extended by up to 2 years per child). As a general guideline, candidates should have minimum of six papers as first, last or corresponding author in respected international journals.

Applications should preferably be submitted as a single PDF file electronically (or alternatively as six hard copies) and should include the curriculum vitae with list of publications, a letter summarising the accomplishments of the candidate and copies of his/her three most significant publications. A copy of the PhD/DPhil certificate and, if required, a certified statement regarding parental leave should also be included. In case of queries regarding eligibility, please also contact the IGO President.

Nominations must be submitted by Saturday 15th November, 2014 to the IGO President:

Jianxin Gu
Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology
Basic Medical College
Fudan University
Address: Mailbox 103, 138 Yixueyuan Road,
Xuhui District,
Shanghai, P.R.China. 200032
Email: jxgu@shmu.edu.cn