

Winner of the 1993 National Magazine Award

IEEE SPECTRUM Magazine Reporting Category:

“Seeking Nuclear Safeguards”

“IEEE Spectrum, the flagship publication of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, beat out titans like Vanity Fair, Sports Illustrated, Money, and The New Yorker in the reporting category. It won for its two-part report “Seeking Nuclear Safeguards,” about how Iraq came chillingly close to building an atomic bomb.... It was the magazine’s fourth award and its 11th time as a finalist in the last 16 years.”

— The New York Times, April 22, 1993

“One of Spectrum’s specialties is detailed examinations of emerging technology issues, like the future of telecommunications, or important events, like the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant. Each of those reports led to a National Magazine Award, the magazine industry’s equivalent of the Pulitzer Prize in newspaper journalism.”
