Short Course on Two-phase Flow and Heat Transfer

18–22 March, 1985, Zurich, Switzerland

THE COURSE is hosted by the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (ETH) and features a coordinated, comprehensive series of lectures by experts in this field. The course is of interest to practicing engineers and to researchers in the nuclear, chemical, petroleum, cryogenics, power, and other industries.

Second Conference of European Rheologists

17–20 June, 1986, Prague, Czechoslovakia

ORGANIZED by the Group of Rheology of the Czechoslovak Chemical Society, Institute of Hydrodynamics, Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences.

Scope of the conference

The Conference will be concerned with the results in the following subject areas :

- Theory
- Transport phenomena in rheological systems
- Rheometry
- Solids and composites
- Rubber
- Suspensions
- Polymers
- Polymer processing
- Biorheology and medical applications
- Food rheology and processing
- Tribology
- General.

International Scientific Advisory Board

The following distinguished rheologists have agreed to participate and to act as members of the International Scientific Advisory Board :

(in alphabetical order)

J. V. Aleman (Spain)
G. Astarita (Italy)
