

Publisher's announcement

It is both a pleasure and a privilege to acknowledge warmly the contribution to the International Journal of Heat and Mass Transfer of Professor W. J. Minkowycz. A full appreciation of his professional and personal contributions to the field appears in this issue, written by those best placed to offer these insights. I commend it to your attention. Professor Minkowycz is one of many editors of the journal whose service can be reckoned in decades, and it is a salutary thought that his own association with it extends through no less a period than three-quarters of its publishing history.

It is also a great pleasure to take this opportunity of announcing the appointment of Professor J. W. Rose as an editor of the International Journal of Heat and Mass Transfer. He has previously served the journal as a member of its Honorary Editorial Advisory Board, and I join with the other editors in welcoming him to his new position.

Keith Lambert
Elsevier Science Ltd