A Four-Day Bash

Every year, I look forward to the International Builders' Show with the same competing emotions of excitement and dread. On one hand, it offers an incredible opportunity to dig into more new product introductions, events, press conferences, seminars and goings on than you get in this industry in any four-day (or four-month) span.

But I also dread the effort the show requires. At the end of the four days in Orlando, everyone leaves exhausted.

Before you leave, though, you have to stop by Professional Builder's Show Village. We're building three houses in the parking lot to demonstrate the needs of different generations. You'll see great products installed and have a chance to listen to roaring blues during our block parties in the afternoons.

We also team with the National Association of Home Builder's Design Committee to present the Best in American Living Awards. The best residential design work in the country will be recognized at the reception and award dinner to be held at Sea World. For more information and to order your tickets, go to www.ProBuilder.com/BALA.

I look forward to seeing everyone there.

“Our most successful neighborhoods are built with brick.”

— John Feezor,

President, Charlotte Division, John Wieland Homes & Neighborhoods

“John Wieland Homes has been building houses in the Southeast since 1970. We built our first home in Atlanta and we are nearly to the 30,000 benchmark. And this past year, Builder Magazine named us America’s Best Builder. With our experience, we have a very clear picture of what buyers want as a primary construction material, and that’s brick.

Why? I think there are several reasons. Buyers like to put their stamp on a home with the options you get from brick without added cost – color choice, size, and shape that really set one home apart from another. They associate brick with a higher degree of personal security as well as HVAC savings. We hear that all the time. And they understand that brick adds resale value if they decide to move. But to me, one thing sums it up best. Our buyers walk in the door already thinking that brick equals quality. And if you want to be profitable in the homebuilding business, you don’t argue with that.”

Contact a brick manufacturer or local distributor to learn more about improving your bottom line by using brick. Or, see www.brick.com/find_brick for a list of BIA manufacturers and distributors.

We don't just manage moisture, we micro-manage it.

To regulate moisture in wall cavities, MemBrain™ thinks small. Really small. Revolutionary MemBrain is a patented, advanced vapor retarder for use over unfaced fiber glass insulation in walls and ceilings. This smart vapor retarder automatically senses current humidity levels and then changes its permeability. MemBrain's invisible pores open under wet conditions and close under dry conditions, keeping moisture out of wall cavities and helping reduce the risk of mold and mildew. Now you can micro-manage moisture in a very big way.

Trimline® Ridge Vents Set Users Apart from Competition

*Quality Performance, Great Appearance
and Quick Installation*

Trimline® Ridge Vents provide superior ventilation by creating a balanced system that continuously releases hot, moist attic air while drawing fresh air through soffit vents. Creating a balanced, continuous ventilation system increases a home's total energy-efficiency while extending the life expectancy of its roof material – a great selling point for your customers.

Engineered from a unique corrugated plastic material, Trimline vents fit a variety of roof styles including shingle, cedar, tile and metal. Designed to vent at the ridge – the hottest point of the roof – the Trimline vent system has the added benefit of creating a smooth roofline, eliminating the unsightly louver vents commonly found on many homes.

Once a Builder Tries Trimline, They Never Stop Using It

Pat Woods, president of Cooper Mountain Roofing Inc in the Portland, Ore. area says Trimline's low profile originally attracted his team to the ridge vent system. "But we continue using Trimline because of the ease of installation." Cooper Mountain Roofing considers Trimline Ridge Vent a competitive advantage over other ridge vents. Woods says, "Roofing contractors have become more sophisticated in their presentations and adding Trimline Ridge Vents to the lineup can separate us from our competitors."

Trimline Adds Value to the Home

Woods says today's homes are being built tighter than ever. The installation of proper ventilation is critical to prevent damaging moisture build-up in the attic. Trimline Ridge Vents, placed at the roof's ridgeline, help move hot, moist air out of the attic. The builders who work with Woods know that Trimline Ridge Vents protect the owner's investment in the home and add value to the entire house.

Trimline is so confident that builders everywhere will be satisfied with its ridge vents; it offers a limited lifetime warranty. Trimline is the most certified product in the industry, meeting all building code certification requirements for Miami-Dade County, ICBO, ICC, BOCA, TDI, and UL Class A or C.

- When wood gets wet, Bora-Care stops wood decay until the wood has time to dry.

ELIMINATES FUMIGATION

City, Fla.-based Palm Harbor Homes that target Generation X and echo boomers.

Ready for retirement, baby boomers want a home with luxury, comfort and space all in one. Nationwide's research of baby boomers determined buyers of this generation want multi-functional rooms that can adapt to changing needs and large gathering spaces, such as the family room and kitchen.

Gen X buyers, on the other hand, are often overworked parents with two-career households; owners juggle children's activities while trying to maintain a balanced family life. Palm Harbor's floor plans make it easy for families to move around and to entertain. The Gen X model can be placed in any coastal environment, too.

Palm Harbor's townhouse models focus on the echo boomer generation. More than likely, these buyers are purchasing their first home and experiencing being on their own. Three townhouse units on display will have an urban, lofty feel to them.

Products in Action

One of the most exciting aspects about Show Village is being able to see products used within the model homes. Each Show Village Home incorporates products from the show floor, allowing visitors to see how products fit and work.

Survival of the Fittest

Handy tips for conquering the International Builders' Show

Sort of like military boot camp, the Builders' Show can seem like the longest four days of your life if you're not properly prepared. That's why editors at Professional Builder have compiled a list of tips, strategies and all-around good ideas for surviving your next trip to the International Builders' Show.

Protect your feet at all costs

In the military, the first rule of combat is to take care of your feet. Surviving the show is no different. Because you'll likely be walking or standing for upwards of 10 hours a day, you'll want to protect your feet.

Fear not. The following tips can help save those barking dogs:

- Bring an extra pair of shoes to keep in your bag. Switch out of the shoes every few hours. Your feet will thank you.
- Be careful when using gel inserts in your shoes. One editor had this to say: "They just scoot to the front of your shoe so they're even more uncomfortable." If you require a shoe insert, look for the kind that stick to the inside of your shoe.
- Consider Johnson & Johnson's Blister Band-Aids. Some of our sources swear by them.
- The second you step foot into your hotel room in the evening, take your shoes off. Bring comfortable socks or slippers to wear when you get back to your hotel room and keep them on until you have to leave your room.
- Take advantage of the booths offering foot massages or be prepared to rub your own feet at night.
- Women: Avoid heels if you can. And even the most comfortable shoes get irritating if you wear them four days in a row. Bring at least two pairs so you can rotate them.
- Test out your shoes at least a few weeks before the show. You'll want to make sure they are comfortable before you commit to wearing them.
- If possible, step up your walking or running workouts a month or so before the show. Get those feet, legs and lower body in shape.
- If you have a few minutes to spare in your hotel room in between appointments, lay on your back on the bed with your legs straight up the wall. This helps blood drain out of your feet and ankles, making them feel more refreshed.
- Bring whatever means necessary to take care of your feet at night: our staffers swear by Epsom salts, peppermint lotion or oil and fuzzy slippers.

Attending the International Builders' Show is a rite of passage for anyone in the home building industry.

We've even heard putting your feet in a cool tub with a box of Alka Seltzer tablets does the trick.

- When in doubt — rent a Segway scooter.

Hotel Savvy

By now, you should have reserved your hotel room. How do you make the most of your stay?

- If you're going to be there more than two nights, unpack everything as soon as you get there and stick your suitcase in the closet. That way getting ready will be more like your normal daily morning routine and you won't dig around in bags for everything.
- Bring healthy snacks to munch. Not every hotel has a mini-bar and you might not always have time to pick up breakfast on the way.
- Try to get your coffee at your hotel before you head to the convention center.
- Most importantly, eat breakfast. Your days will be long and before you know it, it's dinner and you haven't eaten anything.

Time Management

The show is vast, as is the number of booths, networking events and break out sessions. How do you accomplish it all?

- Visit the IBS Web site (www.buildersshow.com) ahead of time. Use the Show Planner to figure out which sessions you want to sit in on and which booths you want to visit.
- Don't forget to sign up for keynote addresses or other sessions that require registration. The auditoriums fill up fast.
- Map the booths you want to visit so you aren't wasting valuable steps going from one end to the other of the exhibit hall. Stay focused on your goals, or you can become overwhelmed by all the signs, messages and people.
- The show is vast. It takes easily up to 20 minutes to get from the West Hall to the South Hall. Leave time to travel, but know that you inevitably will be late, and someone will be inevitably late to meet you. It just happens, and it's understood.
- If you are with a group, determine a daily meeting spot and meeting time where you can touch base, meet up and swap ideas. Looking for a spot? Try heading to Show Village in the rear parking lot of the West Hall. From 4-6 p.m. every day, Professional Builder hosts a block party where you can eat and drink for free while catching up with your coworkers.

DID YOU KNOW?

According to the folks at the NAHB, the show takes up 1.7 million square feet of convention center space. That's 321 miles! Fortunately, you won't be walking all of them. For more bits of wisdom about the show, see our Fun Facts on page 72.

- Try to scoot out of the convention center before closing time. The cab lines can get long, and the shuttle buses fill up fast.

Tips for Shipping Home

- Save yourself the added airport expense from your heavy suitcase by shipping any and all “goodies” back to your office via FedEx, UPS or DHL. If you ship it on or near the last day of the show, it should get back to the office around the same time you do.
- Perhaps not everyone back home is able to go the show. The next best thing is to bring there is having a piece of the show. Consider bringing them an autograph or freebie from a booth visit.

Take Care of Yourself

We've taken care of the major problem points, but there are a few more things to remember:

- Take care of yourself leading up to and during the show. Nearly anyone who has been to the show has at least one story of themselves or a coworker that fell incredibly ill during the show.
- Find a drug store or grocery store close to your hotel. You never know when you might need to make an emergency trip to Walgreens at 2 a.m. for a pain killer or antihistamine.

When you head from the Convention Center for ambience and food other than hot dogs and pizza, take these pages with you. Some of the many hot spots for delicious eats are a short cab ride from the Builders' Show. Whether you're in the mood for pasta, seafood, steak or sushi, there's a restaurant nearby that's sure to please.

ANTONIO'S RISTORANTE - SAND LAKE

The Fountains Plaza
7559 W. Sand Lake Road, 2nd Floor
Orlando, FL 32819
407/351-2927

CUISINE: Multi-regional Italian
PRICE RANGE: Moderate $15-20
RESERVATIONS: Recommended

Just minutes from International Drive and the Orange County Convention Center, Antonio's in Sand Lake is the third in a family of three Florida Antonio's restaurants (Maitland and Kissimmee have the other two). Entrees include fresh fish, seafood, steak, veal, lamb and pork. Expect excellent customer service in a family friendly, business casual environment. Antonio's offers an extensive wine list with more than 250 selections.

MOON FISH RESTAURANT

7525 W. Sand Lake Road
Orlando, FL 32819
407/363-7262

CUISINE: Asian Fusion, Japanese
PRICE RANGE: Moderate
RESERVATIONS: Recommended

Moon Fish was voted "Best new Restaurant for 2002" by the Restaurant and Hospitality Rating Bureau. Fare includes everything from fish and aged steak cooked over a natural wood-burning pit to sushi, sashimi and "anything legally raw," with Pan-Asian, Cajun, Pacific Rim and a "Floribbean" blend that is part Key West, part Havana and part Jamaica but a bit milder than traditional Caribbean flare.

SEASONS 52

7700 W. Sand Lake Road
Orlando, FL 32819
407/354-5212

CUISINE: American
PRICE RANGE: Moderately expensive
RESERVATIONS: Suggested

From Darden Restaurants — the owners of Red Lobster, Olive Garden and Bahama Breeze — comes a "surprisingly up-market and interesting place, with health-oriented sensible portions and a good wine selection," says Pat Dailey, editor-in-chief of Restaurants & Institutions magazine. The concept behind Seasons 52 is to design the menu each week of the year around what's in season and what the clientele seems to be craving.

TIMPANO ITALIAN CHOPHOUSE AND MARTINI BAR

7488 W. Sand Lake Road
Orlando, FL 32819
407/248-0429

CUISINE: Steak
PRICE RANGE: Moderately expensive
RESERVATIONS: Offers "priority seating" versus reservations

Timpano's is reminiscent of a '50s and '60s supper club in Chicago or New York. The menu runs the gamut — everything from the bone-in steaks and chops you'd expect to whole lobsters and classic pastas to saltimbocca (braised veal and prosciutto in a white-wine sauce) and chicken marsala. There's also live entertainment and a piano bar.

CHRISTINI'S RISTORANTE ITALIANO

7600 Dr. Phillips Blvd.
407/345-8770
Orlando, FL 32819

CUISINE: Northern Italian
PRICE RANGE: Expensive
RESERVATIONS: Recommended

A winner of Restaurants & Institutions magazines' Ivy Awards, the upscale Christini's famous clientele include Jim Belushi, Tiger Woods and Michael Douglass. Try the fettuccine alla Christini (its take on fettuccine Alfredo) and the veal piccata — the steaks are great, too. The multi-course dinner often takes a couple of hours or more, so plan accordingly. The dinner-only restaurant is only minutes away from the Orlando Convention Center and major hotels around the Orlando area. Open for dinner only.

NORMAN'S

Ritz-Carlton Orlando, Grande Lakes
4040 Central Florida Parkway
Orlando, FL 32837
407/393-4333

CUISINE: Mediterranean
Price range: Expensive
RESERVATIONS: Recommended

Norman's features star chef Norman Van Aken's acclaimed "New World Cuisine" — a unique blend of Latin, Caribbean and Floribbean flavors. It's an Orlando version of the famous Miami hot spot. The offerings change frequently, but expect dishes such as mango-glazed barbecue duck stuffed into a green chili-studded pancake and roast pork Havana with mole sauce and Haitian-style golden grits. For your sweet tooth, try the "New World" banana split with macadamia nut-brittle ice cream and rum-flambéed banana. The resort sits within four miles of the Orange County Convention Center.

PRIMO

J.W. Marriott Grande Lakes Resort Orlando
4040 Central Florida Parkway
Orlando, FL 32837
407/393-4444

CUISINE: Contemporary Italian/Mediterranean
PRICE RANGE: Moderately Expensive
RESERVATIONS: Recommended

Can you eat organically healthy food and still keep your chops? Award winning chef Melissa Kelly opened the first Primo restaurant in Rockland, Maine, with great success. She grows many of the ingredients used in her dishes at her restaurant and works with the Florida Organic Growers Association to ensure that the remainder of ingredients used are the freshest that can be found locally. She even raises the pigs used in her recipes — something to keep in mind when you sample the griddled, brine-cured pork chops with homemade sauerkraut or sage-infused mushroom-Madeira pork scalloppini. Kelly was named the James Beard Foundation Best Chef Northeast in 1999. Open for dinner only.

EMERIL'S RESTAURANT ORLANDO

Universal Studios City Walk
6000 Universal Blvd.
Orlando, FL 32819
407/224-2424

CUISINE: Creole
PRICE RANGE: Moderately expensive
RESERVATIONS: Highly recommended

A much sought-after hot spot for New Orleans style cuisine, the Orlando location is celebrity chef-author-restaurateur Emeril Lagasse's fifth incarnation of his self-titled eatery — the original founded in New Orleans, of course. You'll get generous portions of seafood and meat entrees with plenty of kicky sauces to boot. You can dress casually, but call early for a reservation — and cross your fingers. Open for lunch and dinner.

appétit!

Professional Builder
BENCHMARK
The Premier Management Conference for the Housing Industry

>> BY NICK BAJZEK, STAFF WRITER

Orlando's Top Attractions

Got some spare time before, during or after the show? Check out what Orlando has to offer.

No doubt attendees, exhibitors and the roaming reporters of Professional Builder will have their hands full at IBS — after all, the show is gigantic. But if you have spare time between exhibits and bedtime, take an afternoon off to explore Orlando and Central Florida.

Disney or Bust

First and foremost in the Orlando area is Disney World and its complementary parks: Magic Kingdom, Epcot Center, MGM Studios and Animal Kingdom. For those looking for a nightcap, head to Pleasure Island, adjacent to Downtown Disney. The island has a number of diverse nightclubs, Señor Frogs and other eateries.

Universal Appeal

Disney's main competitor in the area is Universal Studios Florida, the largest film and TV studio outside Hollywood and also home to some great rides and shows. The Universal Studios Islands of Adventure has five uniquely themed islands featuring some of Orlando's newest rides. Try Spiderman, the Incredible Hulk Coaster, Dueling Dragons and Popeye & Bluto's Bilge-Rat Barge Ride. The City Walk has multiple restaurants, nightclubs and plenty of shopping, and on Saturday nights in February, March and April, the streets of Universal Studios theme park turn into a Mardi Gras theme celebration.

Roller Coasters to Rock Your World

An hour or so outside the city limits lies Busch Gardens, one of the best spots for roller coaster enthusiasts. The theme park sports some of the best around, such as the SheiKra, one of the largest, fastest coasters in the Southeast U.S.; the Kumba, which features a 110-foot plunge into a diving loop; and the Montu, an Egyptian-themed coaster with a 60-foot vertical loop.

NASCAR, Anyone?

NASCAR fans at the Builders' Show can visit a second home. The Daytona International Speedway in Daytona Beach is the historic home of stock car racing, and the track offers daily tours. Also nearby is Daytona USA, which offers interactive exhibits, motion simulator rides, live pit stop competitions and on the big screen, "NASCAR 3D: The IMAX Experience."

All images courtesy of Orlando/Orange County Convention & Visitors Bureau.

See Shamu

An Orlando mainstay is Sea World, the world's largest marine life theme park. The park has a daily killer whales show featuring Shamu. Don't forget to check out the walk-through glass tunnel to see sharks up close. Rides include the Kraken, a recently built 65 mph roller coaster, and Journey to Atlantis, a water-coaster. Besides Shamu, dolphins, sea lions, walruses and others call Sea World home.

Blast Off

Thirty five miles east of Orlando you'll find Kennedy Space Center, home of America's space program. The center showcases America's space-travel history, and visitors can take a bus ride past the launch pads that NASA uses today. And because the airlines only throw you a bag of peanuts these days, you can also stock up on some freeze-dried, vacuum-sealed astronaut ice-cream.

KNOW KOMA

The durable trim preferred by builders and contractors *who know better.

There is a difference. It is why more builders are asking for KOMA Trim Products. Unlike wood, KOMA is weatherproof, impervious to rot, and resistant to insect damage. Compared to other PVC processes or engineered trim materials KOMA has a harder surface. A surface that holds paint better and survives storage and job-site handling.

Ask your dealer about the full line of KOMA Trim Products or visit us on-line for the dealer nearest you.
