Virchows Archiv is moving towards the next century. We have a new cover and, more importantly, a new association with the European Society of Pathology, for beginning with January 1999 Virchows Archiv is the official journal of the European Society of Pathology. This initiative strengthens the impact and visibility of pathology in Europe. In addition to publishing significant scientific papers related to surgical and experimental pathology the Journal will also contain a Newsletter for the European Society of Pathology, which will distribute all relevant information in pathology among the members of the Society, who will be able to obtain the Journal at a special subscription rate. We are delighted to announce our cooperation with the European Society of Pathology and look forward to moving together into the next century.
