ㄷ[리을] L l [liul], n. 1. a letter of the Korean alphabet, 4th in the usual order, typically pronounced as an alveolar flap [r] or flapped lateral, but as an alveolar lateral [l] when preceded by itself, final, or followed by a consonant. ﴿ This sound does not occur at the beginning of native Korean words, with a few unusual exceptions. Most words beginning with l- are of foreign (usually English) origin. ﴿ In words of Chinese origin, initial /l/ is replaced by /n/ (here written ly, spelled ㄴ- in N. Korea, ㄴ- in S. Korea) at the beginning of a word and also (usually spelled ㄴ- in S. Korea too) after a consonant other than itself within a word. (When replaced by /n/, a basic

/l/ is subject to the same alternations as a basic /n/, e. g. lye, nye → /ye/; li, ni → /i/.) ﴿ The sound /l/ is sometimes a replacement for a basic n after /l/. ﴿ A syllable-final l sound is sometimes a reduction of -lk, -lm, -lp, -lph, or -lth. ﴿ A verb ending which begins with k, t, c, or s automatically doubles these sounds to kk, tt, cc, ss when attached to a base ending in an /l/ which is a reduction from -lk, -lm, -lp, -lph, or -lth. ﴿ Bases which end in /l/ in the dictionary form are L-extending vowel bases (here noted -L-). ﴿ Some bases which end in /t/ in dictionary form are consonant bases with basic form in -l (which changes to t before consonants).

These bases are here noted -T/L-. ¶ In words of Chinese origin the sequences -ls- and -lc- are automatically doubled to -lss- and -lcc-; this alternation (frequent also for -lt-) is usually ignored in Korean spelling, but it is here noted -lqs-, -lqc-, etc. Other doublings after -l- are less automatic. 2. the 4th in an itemized series: D., δ. [delta], iv., IV., 4° (quarto). SYN. 넷, 넷째, 제-사, 정. CF. 리울, 라, 르.

ㄹ lk, Nouns ending in basic -lk reduce to -k except before particles beginning with a vowel and the copula 이다. SEE 답, 침, 삼, 흙, 까답; 가답=가닥, 기슬=기슬, 시웁=시울, 흙=흙. Verbs ending in basic -lk reduce this either to -k- or to -l- except before a suffix beginning with a vowel. The -k- treatment seems to be more common. SEE 었다, 읽다, 갑다, 굶다, 굶다, 낯다, 늙다, 밝다, 불다, 맑다, 옳다.

ㄹ lm, 1. Verb bases which have basic shapes ending in lm reduce this either to -l- or to -m- except before a verb ending beginning with a vowel. The reduced l or m is subject to the same automatic alternations as a basic l or m. SEE 젊다, 짙다, 굶다, 굶다, 밝다, 삶다, 닭다, 옳다. 2. substantives from L-extending vowel bases (like 함 < 할다, 짚 < 잘다) reduce -lm- to -m- except before the copula or a particle beginning with a vowel.

ㄹ lp, 1. Bases which have basic shapes ending in lp reduce this either to -l- or to -p- except before a verb suffix beginning with a vowel. The reduced l or p is subject to the same automatic alternations as a basic l or p. SEE 짹다, 넓다, 밝다, 뽀다, 었다. 2. the noun 여덟 "eight" reduces lp to l except before the copula or a particle beginning with a vowel; CF. ~해.

ㄹ ls, Nouns with a basic shape ending in -ls (품, 울, 똥) reduce this to -l except before the copula and particles beginning with a vowel. The reduced l is subject to the same automatic alternations as a basic l.

ㄹ lth, Verb bases which have basic shapes ending in lth (할다, 홀다) reduce this either to -l- (more common) or to -t- except before a verb suffix beginning with a vowel. The reduced l or t is subject to the same automatic alternations as a basic l or t.

ㄹ lph, Bases which have basic shapes ending in lph (올다, 애-답다) reduce this either to -l- or to -p- except before a verb suffix beginning with a vowel. The reduced l or p is subject to the same automatic alternations as a basic l or p.

ㄹ lh, Bases which have basic shapes ending in lh reduce this to l except before p, t, c, or k. The reduced l is subject to the same automatic alternations as a basic l. When attached to an element beginning with p, t, c, or k the h changes places with the other sound (lh+k → lkh). SEE 앓다, 헐다(=헐-하다), 옳다, 굶다, 굶다, 굶다, 굶다(=그르다), 옳다, 싫다, -ㄹ l', abbr. pcle. = -를 lul. [출다, 닭다, 옳다].
